Troy, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Philip J. Riley, a regular Democrat, was shot in the fleshy part of the right leg at the polling place of the third district of the Ninth Ward yesterday morning by Wm. J. Myers, ex-deputy charity commissioner. Dr. Cravott says Mr. Riley is not dangerously injured.

Julius Pfau, a Republican worker in the third district of the First Ward, was stabbed in the back by an Italian at 11.40 o'clock. John Duffy was stabbed by the same knife which inflicted the wounds on Pfau. Two Italians are under arrest. The injured men are not in a serious condition.

Killed by a Blow.

Danville, Ky., Nov. 4.—While in an election discussion yesterday afternoon William Middleton, aged 20, struck Fountain H. Hasty, with a butt of a revolver, crushing his skull. Hasty died.

Forced to Drink.

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—Hyreki Syweryn, a colonist car passenger from Winnipeg to Edmonton, died very suddenly on a train near Broadview. His sixteen-year-old son charged three passengers on the train with having forced whiskey down his throat, causing his death.

New Hungarian Cabinet.

Vienna, Nov. 4.—The new Hungarian Cabinet, formed by Count Stephen Tisza, took the oath yesterday in the presence of Emperor Francis Joseph.

Lynching in Arkansas.

Lake Village, Ark., Nov. 4.—Henry Johnson, a negro, was taken from jail here yesterday by a mob and hanged in the centre of the town.

Muddy Complexion.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid, sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. This great medicine awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels. As a result digestion is improved, bodily pains disappear and the health is benefitted in every way.

Blood Starvation.

Blood that is starved because it has lost the capacity for absorbing oxygen; thin blood which has not been properly nourished; weak blood which has lost the power to repair waste and build new tissue; blood that is lacking in red corpuscles—all show that a reconstructor is urgently needed, and that without delay.

Ferrol is the most powerful regenerator of the blood known to medical science, because it contains the very constituents of rich, healthy blood, in a form so palatable and easily digested that even an infant can take and assimilate it without difficulty.

TO BREAK THE TIES.

John Morley Favors Local Independence, Freedom From Downing Street and Payment of Their Own Expenses.

London, Nov. 4.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Morley, speaking at Nottingham yesterday, said that the A B C of the colonial system were local independence, freedom from Downing street and payment of their own expenses, unless it became necessary to defend them from aggression, and then England would spend the last shot in her locker for their protection. A means of subverting these principles by retaliation was no finality.

The Fiscal Fight in Britain.

London, Nov. 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Berks and Oxford Chamber of Agriculture passed resolutions yesterday in favor of reconsideration of the fiscal policy to bind the colonies close and fight foreign hostile tariffs.

Lord Armstrong, speaking at Newcastle before the Primrose League, deplored the present fiscal system.

Cambridge University Union decided in favor of an inquiry into the fiscal policy by 255 votes to 195.

The Home Secretary, speaking last night at the annual dinner of the Herne Agricultural Association, said that though always desirous of tightening the bonds of union with the colonies he believed that in a country situated on an island unable to grow the whole of the food required for its people, the cost of living to the working classes should not be increased.

The Leeds Chamber of Commerce yesterday passed a resolution to the effect that the time had arrived when it was wise for the country to modify its fiscal policy owing to the change that had taken place in the relative manufacturing powers of the different countries of the world.

The tariff crusade reaches its climax to-night at one of the greatest gatherings of the present generation, held at Bingley Hall, where Mr. Chamberlain speaks. The hall seats eleven thousand people, and is to halls what Hyde Park is to open-air demonstrations. The place is associated with Charles Lamb and was made famous by Gladstone's denunciations of the Turkish atrocities. John Bright's jubilee was celebrated there.

Calf Discharged Gun.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Jas. Mitchell, fifteen years of age, of Kazubazua, Que., lies in the Protestant Hospital with his left arm badly shattered, the result of a most peculiar accident. He was standing in the barnyard at home last evening, leaning on a loaded shotgun, when a young calf playing about kicked the gun, discharging the contents into the left arm.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker Buried.

New York, Nov. 4.—The last rites over the body of Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker were said yesterday at the Salvation Army headquarters, and at Woodlawn Cemetery. Members of the Salvation Army to the number of over 2,000 acted as escort to the Grand Central Station.

Forged Cheques.

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—Several merchants in Brandon have been victimized by forged checks, bearing a local contractor's name. The forgers are supposed to belong to a gang of returning harvesters, and are still at large.

Emperor Will Attend Funeral.

Berlin, Nov. 4.—Emperor William and the Empress will attend the funeral of Prof Mommsen Thursday, at noon, if the Wiesbaden program admits of it.

THE TREATY POWER

British Press Comments Upon Canadian Feeling.

AFTER THE HOT FIT PASSES

"What Would Happen?" Is the Conundrum Propounded by Leeds Mercury Anent Sir Wilfred Laurier's Request re. Treaty-Making by This Country—Daily News on Lord Alverstone.

London, Nov. 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Liverpool Mercury, referring to Canada's disaffection over the Alaska boundary decision, says: "What amount of irritation has been set up cannot be accurately determined, nor is it possible to prophesy whether a sense of annoyance will remain after the hot fit passes away, and will lead to permanent consequences of a serious nature. It cannot be denied, however, that the present indications are not of a reassuring character. All these manifestations of temper which dominate Canada are sufficiently alarming, but they are aggravated by the attitude ascribed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

The Mercury asks: "What would happen if Canada had the power that Laurier asks in regard to treaty making? Presumably Canada would appeal to the mother country, but it is monstrous to suppose that the armaments paid for almost entirely with the money of British taxpayers can be placed at the disposal of any colony which imagines it has a wrong to avenge."

The Daily News, referring to the Alaska boundary decision and the feeling in Canada, says: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier, favorite Premier of the Imperialists, will soon begin to take the place vacated by Paul Kruger. Suppose Laurier's demand for treaty-making power really took place and swept Canada off its feet, would the prospect be so dreadful? It would be, after all, only one more step in the long process, not of separation, but detachment. Canada has distinctly told us that she holds herself free to help us in any Imperial quarrel. We should have to say the same to Canada. If we thought her right we should lend her the arm of the Empire, if not we should just warn her, then hold aloof. What if history should one day repeat itself in another form?"

Paralyzed by a Canard.

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P.)—It is not too much to say Englishmen were paralyzed by the news from Toronto, that the banquet to Mr. Aylesworth was to be without the Union Jack or the National Anthem, and the cabled despatches that at Mr. Aylesworth's own request these were retained caused a great sigh of relief. Mr. Aylesworth is regarded as a patriot.

The Mail says it is not surprised at Mr. Aylesworth's suggestion, and adds: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier might be allowed the almost universal regret of the Empire. The result of the arbitration should be voiced by other than Canadian lips. We congratulate Canada that she has not made small political capital out of the mistake of an individual accident or incident. So long as the spirit which actuated Mr. Aylesworth is abroad there is no fear that any strange outcome will result from the modern virility and sanity of the British Empire."

Edgar Wallace calls Canada's attitude to the Empire "splendid moderation." It was so moderate out west that he wondered whether the farmers were trying to sell him a gold brick.

Gored by a Cow.

Listowel, Nov. 4.—What may turn out to be a fatal accident occurred to Robert Code of Trowbridge, near here, yesterday afternoon. The unfortunate man and a companion were driving in with a cow in a wagon. The animal grew frenzied, broke loose, and, after bunting the other man off the seat, attacked Mr. Code, and knocked him down on the road. He had his shoulder blade and some ribs broken, as well as sustaining several severe internal injuries. What may be the outcome is quite uncertain, and grave fears are entertained.

Conductor Killed.

Windsor, Nov. 4.—James Allan, M. C. R. conductor, whose home was in St. Thomas, met with an accident at 2.30 yesterday afternoon, which proved fatal. The unfortunate man was in the act of climbing on a train at the M.C.R. station to ride out to the yards to take his train east, when he slipped and fell, so that the wheels passed over his left leg, completely amputating it. H died while on the way to Hotel Dieu in a cab. Deceased was about 38 years old, and leaves a wife and family.

Caught in an Elevator.

London, Nov. 4.—Miss Jennie McKenna met with what may prove a fatal accident yesterday morning at the factory of D. S. Perrin & Co. She was caught in the freight elevator in such a way that it is thought she received a fracture of the base of the skull, besides other serious injuries to the neck and head.

The Industrial Exhibition.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—At the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Exhibition Board held yesterday, President McNaught being in the chair, it was recommended by the executive and approved that the date for the Exhibition for 1904 be from Monday, Aug. 29, to Saturday, Sept. 10, inclusive.

Consolation Luncheon.

London, Nov. 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Chamber of Commerce will give a consolation luncheon to Lord Goschen in return for the abandonment of the banquet of the Liverpool Conservative Club.

Killed Near Beaverton.

Beaverton, Nov. 4.—About 8.30 last evening an accident occurred on the G.T.R., about four miles north of here. Fireman Mount was killed and Brakeman Greenbury and the engineer slightly injured. The cause of the accident is supposed to have been a defective coupling. The engine and seven cars of corn were totally wrecked.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

Mr. Burns has organized two healthy camps during the past month—one in Minden, the other in Fort Stuart, North Hastings.

LEGAL NOTES.

Cases in Which Local Parties are Interested.

The Globe in its legal column today has the following item:—

"Burdett vs. Fader.—D. O'Connell (Peterborough) for plaintiff, moved to continue an interim injunction granted by the local judge at Peterborough restraining defendant from disposing of certain shares in the Traders' Screwless Door Knobs Company, so as to defeat the plaintiff's claim against defendant. In this action plaintiff has a verdict against defendant for $700 for libel, but the entry of judgment has been stayed, and an appeal is pending. R. D. Gunn, K.C., for defendant, contended that plaintiff was not a creditor and not entitled to an injunction. Reserved."

In the case of Mrs. Yelland and Mr. W. G. Yelland against Messrs. Irwin, Shepard and Hall, which came up before Mr. Justice MacMahon at the Court House, yesterday, judgment was reserved.

THE T. A. S. BAND HELD CONCERT.

A Very Pleasing Programme Given in T. A. S Hall.

A concert was held in the T.A.S. Hall on Monday night under the auspices of the T. A. S. Band. It was a most successful affair, and the management deserves credit for the splendid programme rendered. The chair was occupied by Mr. Jos. Maher, who announced a very pleasing programme, the opening number of which was an orchestral selection, those comprising the orchestra being Messrs. Angus McPherson, violin; A. P. Broderick, violin; L. Harding, cornet; G. Coughlin, Flute; and G. Scott, trombone.

A coon song by Mr. John Parle was a very popular number. Mr. R. P. Broderick gave a flute solo in a most musicianly manner; Miss Moher's song was greatly appreciated, and the buck-and-wing dancing by Mr. Sam Houlihan was the best ever; Miss L. Bell contributed a recitation and Miss M. Clancy a song. The musical sketch by Messrs. Broderick, Parle, and Harding was a big success, and very acceptably did Miss McCabe and Miss Lewis render a piano duet. A song by Mr. J. Miller was appreciated, and Mr. W. Gregg also contributed an enjoyable vocal selection. Miss Lewis' voice was heard to advantage in her solo, and a mouth organ solo by Mr. J. Moher pronounced him a musician of some ability. The T.A.S. orchestra closed the evening with a well rendered number. Miss Lewis acted as accompanist during the evening.

This was the first entertainment under these auspices, and its excellence was such as to inspire the hope that others will follow.

A Pleasant Evening.

A jolly bus load, numbering 21, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. Cox on Friday night last. The evening was very pleasantly spent in games, music and refreshments. The journey was made without mishap, unless one counts some hairpins and a "rat" reported lost, and the party returned homein the small hours delighted with the outing and the hospitality of the entertainers.—Com.

A Great Singer Coming.

Miss Crawford, the celebrated Scottish contralto, appeared in Toronto Monday evening. Massey Hall was filled to overflowing and the News says the following:—

"Miss Tina Crawford, contralto, who has recently arrived from Scotland, delighted the audience with her various numbers. Her voice is remarkably powerful, yet sweet, and her singing gives evidence of the attainment of perfection through long training."

Miss Crawford appears in Peterborough under the auspices of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild, on Wednesday, December 2nd.

NOTES ON THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Report of Beet Sent to Wallaceburg Satisfactory.

It is interesting to visit the grounds of the sugar company this month, and observe the shipment of the beets to Wallaceburg. One hundred and sixteen wagon loads were delivered yesterday, and some ten cars loaded. Eight or ten cars daily are required, open coal cars being much preferred. A report from Wallaceburg of the first carload shipped has been received, and it is gratifying to learn that the beets from this district are averaging 16.5 per cent. sugar test, which is about 3 per cent. higher than the average this season in Michigan. If the beets test as high next year the company's patrons of this season will receive per ton in 1904, $5.50. On ground well prepared the previous fall, an average crop is 15 tons per acre. This at the above price, would bring the farmer $82.50 per acre. The cost to the farmer would not exceed exceed, it is stated by some persons, $22.50, being a net profit per acre of $60.00.

Mr. J. L. Garvin, B.A., has been appointed superintendent of agencies with the agricultural department, and has already set to work to organise the counties bordering on Peterborough. The indications are that the company will have at least five or six thousand acres under cultivation next year. One agent secured in Durham county in the month of October 140 acres, and another nearly 90 acres in 2 days in the county of Northumberland.

The company is paying a flat rate of $4.00 a ton, f.o.b. at nearest railway station in the counties specified.

Work at the factory has been temporarily stopped and the men induced to enter the fields to lift and top the beets, some forty men now beat work in the company's fields.

Mr. Whitton next offered 10 7-16 cents, calling Percy and Melrose Abbey; both accepted.

At 10 5-16 cents Mr. Cook called Missing Link, Lang and Norwood, Missing Link alone refusing.

Mr. Rollins then followed with the same price, selecting North Smith, Young's Point, North Dummer, Cedardale and South Burleigh, all accepting except Young's Point.

Mr. Whitton obtained the next selection at 10 1-4 cents, calling further Cavanville and Mount Pleasant, both accepting.

At this price also Mr. Whitton called Peterborough, which however refused.

It was then moved, seconded and carried that the Board adjourn for two weeks and then to sell the balance of the season.

During the meeting the following programme for lectures to be delivered under the auspices of the Dairymen's Association, was drawn up:

Afternoon — Hastings, Warsaw, Lakefield and Cavanville.

Evening — Keene, Norwood, Buckhorn and Peterborough.

The exact date for the meetings has not as yet been arranged but it is believed they will begin next month. The following gentlemen were selected to get the hall in each place in readiness for the meetings; Hastings, Mr. John Coughlin; Keene, Mr. J. M. Drummond; Warsaw, Mr. H. Smith; Norwood, Mr. W. Buck; Lakefield, Mr. G. J. Galvin; Buckhorn, Mr. A. E. Kennedy; Cavanville, Mr. S. Ferguson, Peterborough, Mr. E. M. Elliott.

LITTLE PUBLIC INTEREST IN PROTESTANT HOME.

A Report of the Work During the Past Year.

The chronicle of events in the Protestant Home for the past year can be little else than a repetition of the record of previous years. The work of caring for the aged poor of the town and county has gon steadily forward, but the progress has been marked by little of interest to the public. Through the entire year the capacity of the home has been taxed to the utmost. Twenty-six men and women have enjoyed its shelter, this being one of the largest numbers in the history of the institution. The records of the year show there have been seven inmates discharged. Some of these were able to do light work during the summer and will wish to come to the Home again for the winter. There has been one death, that of an old man who had been in the home for some time and whose death was due to the ailments of old age. There has been almost no sickness.

Uneventful though the year has been, now that it has come to a close the board of management finds much to be thankful for. It is most grateful to all those who have contributed to make the old age of the men and women within the Home more happy and comfortable. The ladies that now compose the board regret that their number is so few, and hope greatly that another year may see a change in this regard, and that a larger number of ladies will give the Home their personal attention. The most sincere thanks of everyone connected with the institution are due to the clergymen and physicians of the town, who have invariably responded most generously to all calls upon their time. The officers also thank most heartily the editors of the newspapers for their kindness in giving space to the work and needs of the Home. Thanks are also due Sheriff Hall and Mr. J. W. Bennett, who have acted as auditors.

VERY IMPORTANT!

The Chosen Friends will meet next Thursday Evening in S. O. E. Hall; Members will please attend and receive their policies. 4i

TWO CASES BEFORE THE COUNTY COURT

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from Mayor Roper regarding municipal union and asking that the council take some action, for if anything were to be done before the new year it should be done at once. The council had considered this matter at a special meeting, when action was taken regarding it.

Mrs. O. Newell asked that a sufficient sum be taken off her taxes to pay for the glass which was broken by the young men of the village without the least cause. The matter was not dealt with as the council did not consider itself responsible.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented:—

T. B. Manisee, charity	$10 00
Dr. Amy's quarter year's salary	12 50
Light and Power Co.	12 50
Light and Power Co.	60

On motion of Mr. Gibbs, seconded by Mr. Faint, the accounts were ordered to be paid.

A petition signed by Mr. Frank Adams and a large number of residents and non-residents of the village was read. The petitioners asked that a certain area of land in Ashburnham be drained by the construction of certain waterways, or, in short, that the course of the creek be changed so as to enter the river at Wilson street instead of where it now enters it. After the matter was given some consideration Mr. Gibbs moved, seconded by Mr. Hourigan, that the matter be left over until another meeting.—Carried.

A special meeting will likely be called to consider the matter.

The council then adjourned.

BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSS WATER CONSERVATION.

The Special Meeting Last Night was an Interesting One.

Addresses Given on Chamberlain's Fiscal Policy and the Alaskan Boundary Award—The Preferential Tariff a Benefit to Canada.

The Board of Trade in its meeting held last night in the Council Chamber discussed comprehensively three important subjects, and upon each of them a number of those present expressed their views at some length. The meeting was well attended and considerable interest, not to say enthusiasm was evidenced in the matters under discussion. The first to receive consideration was one of peculiar local interest, viz: "The question of the conservation of the waters forming the Trent Valley Canal system." It is a regrettable fact that at the present time the condition of the Otonabee River is such that it is with difficulty that navigation is carried on. This is due, of course, primarily to the fact that it has been an extraordinarily dry season, and the river which, under normal conditions has been in the past sufficiently high to permit all reasonable navigation, has by reason of the unusually dry summer become lower than for many years, if not lower than it has ever been.

It has been felt that some provision should be made, by which on occasions like this, a conservation of the waters might be made, which would ensure a steady and normal flow of water, the existence of which condition would add very materially to the value of the town's power development, and also prove of great assistance to navigation on the Otonabee River, and the Trent Valley Canal.

On this question two resolutions were presented, both of which were adopted. The first of these resolutions is to the effect that a large and constant flow of water is necessary to the manufacturing interests of Peterborough, and all places on the Trent waters and also to navigation on these waters, and that the Governments be urged to secure such control of the head waters by dams as will give this flow. The second resolution grows out of the first, and recommends that a deputation of delegates from the County Council, Town Council, Board of Trade and manufacturers wait upon the Governments, asking them to complete a system by which these waters may be conserved to secure a constant and larger flow. All were agreed that this question was one which was of the utmost importance to the town and the county, and the resolutions found no opponents.

The second question discussed was a weighty one, that of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's new Fiscal Policy, as relating to Canada, and on it, the meeting was practically a unit. All were in favour of the policy as outlined by the ex-Colonial Secretary. Mr. E. J. Toker introduced a resolution in which the policy was endorsed, as being in the interests of Canada. This resolution also was carried.

The last matter discussed was one on which widely different views were apparently held by those who spoke on it. The subject matter was the Alaskan Boundary, as suggested by the finding of the Commission which has recently decided the location of this boundary. Mr. O. Fessenden gave to the meeting a very lucid and instructive address on the boundary question, explaining the points in dispute between Canada and the United States, and also gave a very clear synopsis of the finding of the question. His address was made additionally interesting by a large map upon which he pointed out the different disputed portions of the Boundary. Mr. Fessenden's address called forth considerable discussion, some of the speakers contending that Canada's rights had been sacrificed, others claiming that the decision was a just one. The subsequent discussion was not only interesting but highly instructive.

* * * * * * *

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the council chamber last night, with Mr. Hughes-Charlton, president, in the chair, and the following members present: Messrs. R. E. Wood, K. Eardley Wilmot, J. H. Burnham, D. W. Dumble, Miles Hamilton, E. G. Patterson, F. B. Yokome, E. J. Toker, O. Fessenden, J. Alex. Oulverwell, T. F. Matthews, F. Campbell, J. W. Garvin, Robert Fair, and a large number of citizens in addition to the members of the Board.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P., wired the secretary that he would be unable to be at the meeting and deliver the address for which he was billed.

Messrs. D. W. Dumble and Hampden Burnham, the delegates to the recent Congress of Boards of Trade of the Empire, held at Montreal, gave reports of the congress. Mr. Dumble spoke of one address given by Mr. Cockshutt, the keynote of which was that the time had come for Canada to branch out as a manufacturing country, and not remain merely an agricultural country, supplying food products to other lands. He advocated Canada taking an independent stand, in so far as her industrial life was concerned, and the idea Canadians should have, was, that to become a nation, building up her own resources for her own people. This sentiment appeared to be the keynote of the addresses as far as the Canadians were concerned. Mr. Dumble said that he felt there would come a feeling of deeper affection between the Dominion and the other parts of the Empire.

Mr. Burnham, following, said that practically nothing had been accomplished by the Congress, the principal cause being that the delegates from the older land were not in harmony with each other on the great questions affecting the Empire, but that he believed that the subsequent trip to a number of the delegates through the country, would result in a great benefit to Canada, as it had been a distinct education to those who took the trip.

TRENT VALLEY WATERWAY.

The president said that one of the most interesting questions the Board would have to consider was that of the conservation of the waters of the Trent Valley system. It was a fact patent to all that the water here was very low, and navigation was being seriously interefered with, as well as the manufacturers finding their power supply affected. He thought it within the province of the Board to take some action in the matter, though what that action should be he was not prepared then to say. He called upon Mr. Blomfield of Lakefield, to address the meeting on the subject.

Mr. Blomfield prefaced his address by giving expression to the pleasure he felt at being present. He said that anyone, whether directly interested or not, could see that the waters were unusually low, and although he recognized the fact that it had been a very dry season which would account in a degree for the unsatisfactory condition of the water supply, he said that in his opinion some other system of controlling the waters than that at present employed, would be necessary. The whole trouble, he said, was in the lakes tributary to Stony Lake, where, although there was sufficient water in the spring, the lumbermen open the dams for the purpose of flooting out their timber, and neglected to close them, the result being that as the waters were not held in reserve, there was a shortage towards the end of the summer and autumn. He thought the control of the water should be under one government, instead of as at present, the responsibility being divided between the Dominion and Provincial Governments. It should be the duty of one man, whose headquarters should be at Peterborough to direct the controling of the water.

The lakes to the north should be raised and the additional water thus obtained might be used in the dry summer seasons. This could be done, he said, without working any injury to the property adjacent to the lakes, whose waters would be raised.

Mr. E. G. Patterson, General Superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company's Works, at the request of the chairman, addressed the meeting on the same question. He said that as representing a manufacturing industry and a user of power, he was deeply interested in the question of the conservation of the waters. He considered the matter sufficiently serious as to engage the attention of all the representative bodies, including the Board of Trade, the Town Council, County Council, etc., and he urged that the matter be dealt with at once. Not only were the interests of navigation seriously affected but if these conditions continued the town might have difficulty even with that water supply. He thought the remedy was in the repairing of the dams in the upper lakes. He had been informed from an official source that this could be accomplished with an expenditure of $100,000. He thought the Governments interested could be induced to spend that amount when the seriousness of the situation was realized.

MR. DUMBLE'S VIEWS.

Mr. D. W. Dumble in speaking on the subject said that the chief cause of the present low water was the fact that it had been an exceptionally dry season. The whole country was dry, and to this circumstance the low water at present prevailing must be attributed. The life of the manufacturing community depended upon the constant and sufficient flow of water. This, he believed, could be maintained by placing dams at a number of lakes in the north, which could be very easily accomplished. All the interests in town were affected, and all should unite to make the necessary representation to the Governments. The old dams were, in many instances almost useless, and these should all be repaired.

Mr. R. E. Wood has a wide knowledge of the northern country and especially of the small lakes which had been spoken of in the preceding discussion. He was of the opinion that two or three small dams placed at advantageous points would be sufficient to control the water and give a uniform flow large enough for all purposes.

Mr. R. B. Hall was the next speaker, and he counselled in the representations that were to be made to the Government at Ottawa, laying emphasis upon the benefit to the waterways for navigation purposes to be derived by controlling the upper waters. The Dominion Government does not recognize a responsibility in preserving waters for purely local advantages, they did, however, have a responsibility in procuring sufficient water for navigation purposes. The existing conditions were due, he said, to the fact that neither Government had absolute control of these waters, and he thought that if the representative bodies would take the matter up and impress the members of both Governments with the necessity of doing something, an arrangement might be made between the Provincial and Dominion Governments by which the control would pass to one or the other. He thought that before a deputation waited on the Government, a survey of the lakes should be made for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent, if any, injury would be wrought to the land bordering on the lakes, should the water be raised, because he knew from past experience, that this question would be one of the first asked by the Government. He remarked that there were 32 dams in the north country under the control of the Ontario Government. There was a sufficiency of water, if it could only be available at the time it was needed. There were times when the flow in the Otonabee amounted to 800,000 cubic feet per minute; this was reduced at times to from 50,000 to 70,000 cubic feet per minute.

Mr. J. Alex. Oulverwell, who was at the meeting, gave a spirited address on the waterways question, saying that he had given considerable time and attention to the matter, and thought in the visit to interview the Government the thing to impress first, last, and all the time was the absolute necessity of completing the Trent Valley Canal. He quoted from expert opinion to show that but little water would be used in operating it and that its operation would not lower the water in the river.

The result of the discussion was the adoption of the following resolutions, the first moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble and seconded by Mr. Robt. Fair, and the second moved by Mr. T. F. Matthews and seconded by Mr. Miles Hamilton:—

That in the manufacturing interests on the Trent waters, and in the interests of navigation, it is urgently demanded that a large and constant flow of water be preserved in the Trent River, (in its upper reaches named the Otonabee), that an intelligent control of the feed waters of the back lakes by the dams would effect this end; and the Ontario and Ottawa Governments, are respectfully, but urgently, requested to secure such control and oversight of the dams on the back waters as will secure a larger and more constant flow of water in the dry season.

That a deputation, consisting of delegates from the County Council, Town Council, Board of Trade, and manufacturers on the Trent Waters wait upon both the Ontario and Dominion Governments to secure their efforts to complete a system which will secure a better preservation and more uniform flow of water in the Trent River.

CHAMBERLAIN'S FISCAL POLICY.

An interesting discussion followed on the new fiscal policy as advocated by Mr. Chamberlain, late Secretary of State for the Colonies. A resolution introduced by Mr. E. J. Toker and seconded by Mr. J. W. Garvin, was unanimously supported by the meeting. Mr. Toker, in introducing his resolution spoke of the events leading up to the announcement by Mr. Chamberlain of his policy of preferential trade for the Colonies. He said that Canada had led the way by granting a preference of 33 1-3 per cent. to British imports. This act on the part of the Canadian Government had been followed by a request on the part of the Canadian Ministers for a similar preference for Colonial goods. This, Mr. Chamberlain, now proposed to give. He said that Canadians were a unit in supporting Mr. Chamberlain.

He regretted, he said, that Mr. Kendry was unable to be present, as he would doubtless have dealt with this question of the preferential tariff. The speaker was of the opinion that the woollen manufacturers had very little ground for complaint at the preference.

The following resolution was then adopted:—

Whereas Canada has voluntarily granted a preferential tariff for British goods and at the last colonial conference asked for reciprocal treatment, offering thereupon to increase the present preference.

Therefore, be it resolved that the opinion of this meeting is that the bonds of the British Empire would be materially strengthened and the union of the various parts of his Majesty's domains greatly consolidated by the adoption of a commercial policy such as was outlined by the Right Hon. Jos. Chamberlain at Glasgow on the 6th of October, with his subsequent exemplifications and explanations and that the Board of Trade of the Town of Peterborough accept and support that policy.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Mr. O. Fessenden gave an address on the Alaskan Boundary Award, which was very much enjoyed, though he necessarily traversed practically the same grounds which had been covered by newspaper accounts. The speaker gave evidence of having a thorough knowledge of the subject, and expressed himself clearly and interestingly. A large map made the address additionally interesting. Mr. Fessenden concluded his address with the remark that we should accept the award without too much grumbling, and above all things refrain from crying out that we have been sacrificed by the Mother Country. No doubt the British Government and the Washington executive were equally anxious to have this trouble removed, and the American Commissioners had given up several thousand square miles of land claimed by their country. He was sorry the Canadian counsel could not agree with the decision of Lord Alverstone, who must have been, if anything, prejudiced in Canada's favour.

A spirited discussion followed, in which Messrs. D. W. Dumble, A. P. Poussette, and E. J. Toker took part. A number of divergent views were expressed.

The meeting adjourned shortly after eleven o'clock.

JILTING OF S. E. SAVACOOL

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

Sarah Elizabeth Savacool was one of the nicest little girls in the world. And yet she'd never had a beau. The other girls in Cypress Hills had beaus by the dozen, but not Sarah Elizabeth Savacool—she belonged to the class that somehow had to do without.

"Never you mind, Sarah Elizabeth," her mother would remark, "you bide your time. Just you wait till Mr. Wright appears." But Mr. Wright for some reason did not turn up. Whether it was that Sarah Elizabeth did not dance well or that she lacked the artificial airs and graces of the girls around her she failed to attract the men. Perhaps the men in Cypress Hills didn't understand the worth of true womanhood.

"I don't know what it is," sighed Sarah Elizabeth as she consulted her mirror in her room, "but they don't take to me, that's all."

It worried her, for she belonged to a marrying family. It came to the point where Sarah Elizabeth dreaded to go to dances or to card parties—she was destined to turn out the one wallflower of the occasion. She was just at the age when this crushing indifference might have soured her young life forever. But at this juncture the unexpected happened.

The Tollivers were giving the largest dance of the season and, of course, Sarah Elizabeth was invited to attend.

"I simply cannot—will not—go," she told herself. "I can't go through a thing like that again." Her mother, however, tried to keep her to the front.

"Now, just you go, Sarah Elizabeth," she said. "I'm going to get Miss Carlos to make you a brand new gown—and just the kind you like. You go—and who knows? Maybe Mr. Wright will be on hand this time."

Sarah Elizabeth went. There was even a certain amount of anticipatory pleasure in getting ready. She went and took her place in an unaccustomed corner and waited. Her heart sank within her, for there were all the girls she knew and all the fellows, the same old ones, and she knew there was no chance for her among them. As she watched them with burning cheeks, the mother of the Tollivers approached. Some one was with her.

"Sarah Elisabeth," said Mrs. Tolliver, "I'm going to introduce to you Mr. John Post, a new arrival in Cypress Hills. Mr. Post, Miss Savacool." The old lady bent down and smoothed a ribbon on Sarah Elisabeth's collar and whispered in her ear: "He's the son of Judge Post, the circuit judge. He's come here to stay, to practice law. That's who he is."

Mr. John Post sat down. He was a clever looking fellow, with a good square jaw. He entered into a spirited conversation with an ease of manner that would have staggered Cypress Hills. Sarah Elisabeth as soon as she realised that for the time being she was no longer a wallflower soon recovered her equilibrium. The more he talked the more she talked.

"You won't like my dancing one bit," she confided to him as he asked her for the first. "None of the fellows do." He laughed aloud.

"It can't be worse than mine," he said. "I guess you'll have to lead me most of the time." Sarah Elisabeth did. No one noticed it, but she had to take the initiative, and they both enjoyed it. It was the most hilarious waltz she had ever danced.

"You're worse than I am," she conceded when they finished.

"I admit it." He glanced at her. "And that's saying a good deal," he retorted gayly. "Under the circumstances," he continued, "do you think it wise for me to dance with any of the other girls?"

He did make the attempt, but most of his time was spent in the conservatory with Sarah Elisabeth Savacool. "It was outrageous," so said the girls who would have rejoiced to be in her place.

John Post escorted Sarah Elisabeth to her home. After that he escorted himself on divers occasions to the same place. There was a charm about Sarah Elisabeth that peculiarly attracted him. There was a charm about him that attracted her.

And on one other eventful evening John Post led Sarah Elisabeth Savacool to the cosy corner underneath the stairs and took her in his arms and kissed her and told her what he thought. And—she returned the compliment. Now in Cypress Hills one does not become engaged, as it were, but there exists what is known as an "understanding." This understanding seemed to exist between John Post and Sarah Elisabeth Savacool. And Sarah Elisabeth believed in John. She believed in his work, in his success, and more than all she believed in his fidelity. Now this was a concession, for in a place where you do not get engaged there's many a slip—you can never know whether he is really yours or somebody else's. Perhaps this lends excitement to the situation.

But for six months John Post justified her belief. And then all of a sudden Sarah Elisabeth noticed a slight change in Him. He was graver, more thoughtful, more silent. She could not make it out. Any astute mind would have seen at once that it meant simply that there was another girl. But not so Sarah Elisabeth. She still believed in John.

One evening he came in rather late. He did not remove his overcoat, and he held his hat still in his hand. He had something on his mind.

"Sarah Elisabeth," he began, looking everywhere but at her face, "do you—do you still think as much of me as ever? I—I want to know." Sarah Elisabeth's breath came in gasps, but she assented.

"I want to be honest," went on John Post. "I want you to know the truth—there's no good of spoiling two lives simply for—for the sake of a sentiment."

He did not look at her. "Yes," gasped Sarah Elisabeth, "I suppose—so."

John Post swallowed hard. "And so," he went on, "I thought I'd come around and tell you—that—that I'd better stop coming here before any talk began about our—about our going together, you know."

Before any talk began! As though it had not been a foregone conclusion that he and she were steady company of the most pronounced kind. Her heart sank as she thought of what the people would say now—now that she was—jilted.

He rose awkwardly and held out his hand. "And so I came to—say goodby. I hope you won't take any offense. I—I mean well. I think you know that, Sarah Elisabeth."

"Yes," she gasped again.

"Goodby, Sarah Elisabeth," he said, holding out his hand.

"Goodby!" she echoed feebly.

And then for the first time he looked full into her face. As he did he started back, for the face was the white face of a girl in whom all hope was dead, a face blanched with despair. He stood looking at her for a second.

Suddenly he tore off his overcoat, threw down his hat and, bounding across the room, caught her in his arms and pressed her to his heart.

"You silly little goose!" he exclaimed as he kissed her. "You dear little girl! Did you really think I meant it?"

"But—but you did mean it," exclaimed Sarah Elisabeth.

"Did I?" he replied, adding considerable enthusiasm to his demonstrations. "You little goose! Why, what day is this?"

Sarah Elisabeth was bewildered, but she answered, "It's—it's Wednesday."

He laughed. "It's more than that—more than that," he said joyously, "for it's April fool day in the bargain." He reached down in his pocket and produced a small, square box. "Now," he exclaimed, "are you convinced that I was only fooling?" It was a diamond ring, and on the inside rim she read, "J. P. to S. E. S., Apr. 1, '02."

Two Small Pairs.

In University place a boy, preceded by a dog, encountered a woman, preceded by a smaller dog. The dogs halted; so did their owners. The animals looked at each other fixedly from a distance of six feet, each with his tail waving over his back and each uttering low growls.

"Call off your dog!" exclaimed the woman as she saw the situation.

"Call off yours!" replied the boy.

"Can't you restrain your dog?" she demanded in a high key.

"He ain't doin' nothin'."

"Yes, he is; he's intimidating my Fido."

"But your Fido is givin' him sass. I ain't goin' to restrain my dog when your dog is sayin' he can lick him with one hand tied behind his back."

"Here, Fido, haven't you more care for your reputation than to face such a low down cur as that? Come here this instant! I shall punish you for this!"

"Here, Shakespeare," said the boy as he gave his dog a light kick, "you let that animal alone. You tackled one like him last fall and you had indigestion for two months. He ain't alive. He's a stuffed lamb with a dog's tail glued on, and the woman works him with a string. Come along, and I'll show you a reg'lar live dog."—New York Press.

Carried It Too Far.

A Chicago millionaire, George T. Cline, had an extraordinary hobby. He was a connoisseur of Irishmen, according to the local papers. Though on himself he would never spend more than 15 or 20 cents a day, he thought nothing of buying Irishmen sumptuous dinners, with champagne, in order to hear them talk in their musical brogue. An Irishman once played Colonel Cline false. He stole a pair of boots from him. Discovering the theft, the millionaire pursued the Irishman, overtaking him as he was about to enter a pawnshop with the boots in his hand. "These are my boots; you have stolen them," said Colonel Cline. "Sure, it was only a joke," said the Irishman. But the inexorable millionaire hailed the thief before a magistrate, and there again the man repeated, "It was only a joke, your honor." "Only a joke, hey?" said the magistrate. "Well, Mr. Cline, how far away from your house had he carried the boots when you overtook him?" "Over a mile, sir," replied the millionaire. "Held for court," said the magistrate. "This is a case of carrying the joke too far."

The Teacher's Pants.

Teacher—Why, Freddy, how did you get those black and blue welts on your arm?

Scholar—Them's your fault, teacher.

Teacher—My fault? What do you mean?

Scholar (sobbing reminiscently)—Why, you told me it was a poor rule that didn't work both ways. So when I went home I took pa's new two foot rule that doubles up on a hinge and bent it back till it worked both ways, and then pa said I'd broken the joints, and he went and got his razor strop.

WHY MOTHERS WORRY

Did you ever hear a mother worry over a plump child? There is no better bank of health for a child to draw from than a good supply of healthy flesh.

Scott's Emulsion not only gives a child weight and plumpness, but it feeds the brain, bones and nerves with strength and active power.

Fewer mothers would worry if they knew more about Scott's Emulsion.

NOT IN THE BIBLE.

Quotations Popularly Attributed to the Good Book.

"There are a number of sentences not in the Bible which everybody thinks are there," said a clergyman. "The chief of these sentences is, 'He tempers the wind to the shorn lamb.' You would search the Bible pretty thoroughly before you would find that sentence in it. Where you would find it would be in Sterne's 'Sentimental Journey.'

"Sterne gets a good deal of praise for the origination of this sentence, but it was originated, as a matter of fact, before he was born. In a collection of French proverbs published in 1596 we find, 'Dieu mesure le vent a la brebis tondue.' That convicts Sterne of plagiarism.

"'In the midst of life we are in death.' Everybody thinks that is in the Bible. It isn't, though. It is in the burial service.

"'That he who runs may read.' This is another sentence supposed, wrongly, to be Biblical. It is not Biblical, though the Bible has something very like it—namely, 'That he may run that readeth.'

"'Prone to sin as the sparks fly upward.' The Bible nowhere contains those words.

"'A nation shall be born in a day.' The nearest thing to that in the Good Book is, 'Shall a nation be born at once?'"

South America In 1000 B. C.

The greater the number of the succeeding phases of civilisation the more even must be the average length of each and thus resemble the general length of human periods. It is to be seen that the two central European periods, those of Hallstadt and of La Tene, together embrace about a thousand years, an average of 500 for each. The cultured periods of Egypt may be even longer.

The development of Peruvian civilisation, accepting on the average five successive periods, would result in a stratification of cultures representing between 2,000 and 3,000 years. About the year 1000 B. C., at the time when Solomon built his temple, the early Americans in Peru reared their mighty structures to the glory of a creator god. Civilisation in America would beyond all doubt have worked itself up to a high plane at some time and might have accomplished alone a peculiar but certainly brilliant development without the intervention of European civilisation.—Professor Max Uhle in Harper's Magazine.

Effect of Rain Upon Animals.

"The effects of a rainy day upon animals of a zoo," said a keeper the other day, "are as interesting to watch as anything I know in connection with a collection of beasts. Now, that big wolf over there just revels in a rainy day and skips about as gay as you please. All the wolves are the same. Rain cheers them up. But the lions are different. They fret and fume and growl and snarl unless you give them an extra allowance of meat or a big pan of warm milk. Then they will sleep, but a rainy day seems to get on the nerves of a lion or any of the cat family. Snakes are kept in just a certain temperature all the time, and you would think that the damp air would never reach them. Perhaps it doesn't, but I have always noticed that all the reptiles are active and cheerful, if a reptile can be said to be cheerful, when it rains."

He Had a Daughter.

"You have a daughter, have you not, sir?" said a minister to an old gentleman with whom he had formed a casual acquaintance as a fellow passenger.

The old gentleman essayed to answer, but the question had strangely affected him.

"I beg your pardon," said the minister, "if I have thoughtlessly awakened in your mind recollections of a painful nature. The world is full of sorrow, sir, and perhaps my question recalls to your memory a fair, beautiful girl whose blossoming young life had withered in its bloom. Am I right, sir?"

"No, not exactly," replied the old gentleman sadly. "I have five unmarried darters, mister, an' the youngest of the lot is twenty-eight years old."

Odd Street Names.

In Clerkenwell, England, there is a street called Pickled Egg walk. It takes its name from Pickled Egg tavern, which formerly stood there and made a specialty of serving pickled eggs. An interesting London thoroughfare is Hanging Sword alley, which is mentioned in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." London has also Pickleherring street. In Leicester is a street called the Holy Bones and another called Gallows Tree Gate. Hull has a street with the extraordinary name, the Land of Green Ginger. Corydon has a street named Pump Fall, and there some years ago lived Peter Pottle, a dealer in furniture. The most daring of farce writers might well have hesitated to invent a combination of name and address so improbable as that which really belonged to Peter Pottle of Pump Fall.

BELL FOUNDING.

It Is an Ancient Art, Its Origin Shrouded in Antiquity.

The art of bell founding is undeniably of great antiquity. The Saxons are known to have used bells in their churches, although probably but small ones, for the Venerable Bede, writing at the end of the seventh century, alludes to them in terms which seem to show that they were not unfamiliar things. The towers of the Saxon period have belfries of considerable dimensions in most cases, and at Crowland abbey, in south Lincolnshire, there was a famous peal of seven bells many years before the Norman conquest.

The monks at that time and for long after were the chief practitioners of the art of bell founding. Their bells were rarely without inscriptions, often in Latin, containing perhaps some obscure joke, the point of which is quite lost. More often they were of a religious nature, sometimes, we fear, not unmixed with a dash of superstition, as when the bell declares that its sound drives away the demons of the air who caused pestilence and famine, lightning and thunderstorms.

As a rule, unfortunately, they put no dates on their bells, a defect which has been in some measure overcome by the researches of many enthusiastic campanologists, but which is likely to keep the early history of bells shrouded in darkness for a long time to come.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Remarkable Statue.

Some years ago a melodrama was being performed in a country theater, the chief actor in which had made himself, from his haughty and overbearing conduct, disliked by all. In the last scene he was supposed to visit the tombs of his ancestors. In the center of the stage upon a marble pedestal stood the statue of his father. A heavy fold of drapery covered the figure. Enter Albert, who thus addressed the statue:

"I am here once again to gaze upon those features which in life so often looked on me with tenderest affection. Father, thy mourning son now comes to pay thee adoration. Let me remove the veil which from the vulgar gaze shields the beloved image of a once dear parent!"

Off went the drapery, and, behold, the father stood upon his head! The effect cannot be described. It was electric. The shouts of laughter which followed the mistake of the super effectually put an end to the scene, which changed to the next as quickly as possible amid the jeers of the audience, the anger of the manager and the uncontrollable rage of the actor.—London Tit-Bits.

Penned a Separation.

Her father had read her the parable of the sheep and the goats at the day of judgment. She made no comment, but that night a sound of weeping came from her room. Her mother went as consoler.

"Why are you crying, dear?"

"About the goats. Oh, I'm so afraid I'm a goat."

"Why, no, dearie. You are a sweet little lamb, and if you should die tonight you would go straight to heaven." With this and like assurance she was finally pacified.

The next night the same performance was repeated, and again her mother inquired the reason.

"It's the goats. I'm afraid about the goats."

"Didn't I tell you, dear, that you were a little lamb?"

"Oh," she sobbed, "I'm not crying about myself, but I'm 'fraid you may be a goat!"

Odd Hair Styles.

Some of the New Hebrides people do their hair up in a bunch on the top of the head and stain it yellow, while the inhabitants of Ombai island pass it all through a tube so as to make a kind of plume. The Marquesas chief's favorite method is to shave all the head except two patches, one over each temple, where he cultivates two horns of hair. No doubt this is to render him more a thing of terror to his enemies than of admiration to his friends. His reason for shaving the rest of the head is to allow more space for tattooing, as if all the available skin of the body were not enough.

Not Yet.

"They're saying you're just like all the other members of the house," remarked the newly elected legislator's close friend. "They say you have your price."

"That's a lie," declared the new member.

"I thought so."

"Yes. I haven't got it yet, but I have hopes."—Philadelphia Catholic Standard and Times.

Breaking a Wishbone.

The divining rod is a feature in all early mythology, especially so among the Hindoos. As the forked branch of a tree it indicated in various parts of Europe, Asia and Africa where treasures were hidden or where water might be readily found. From the forked branch of a tree it was but a step to the forked clavicle of a bird, and this bone was soon invested with the power of securing the gratification of the wishes of those who in breaking it retained the forked part, for it was the fork that was possessed of mystic power.

Two of a Kind.

"Sir," said the shipping clerk, "I should like to attend my mother-in-law's funeral tomorrow."

"You have my sympathy, young man," replied the manager, with a sigh long drawn out. "I have been wanting to do likewise for thirteen years."

For All the Lives.

"Say," began the determined looking man, "I want a good revolver."

"Yes, sir," said the salesman, "a six shooter?"

"Why—er—you'd better make it a nine shooter. I want to use it on a cat next door."

The dead stars probably outnumber the living stars by many. It may be millions to one.

GENTRY, GAMBLER

By.....
LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"Pass," said Dugan laconically, laying down his cards.

"That puts me out," remarked the lean Yankee from the Cross Triangle outfit. The third man, Davies, as he called himself, rapped the table with his knuckles indifferently. He was ahead of the game and could afford to lose the pot.

There remained old man Lorry. To him Gentry looked with surprising insouciance. Having dealt the cards, the gambler was disturbed by no doubts as to Lorry's action. He would raise and promptly. Lorry had cut before the deal, it is true, but Gentry had reversed the cut adroitly, unobtrusively.

Nevertheless, to the gambler's surprise, Lorry was uncommonly slow. He vacillated mentally between caution and cupidity; his weak, red rimmed eyes shone feverishly behind the iron bound glasses, and he chewed nervously upon one end of his ragged, tobacco stained mustache. Finally he slammed his hand upon the table. Gentry arched his brows inquiringly.

"Out?" he asked, motioning toward the discard.

Old man Lorry swore abandonedly. "Naw!" he replied. "See yer twenty an' go yer a hundred better."

From the interior of his shirt he produced a roll of bills which the gambler appraised with amazement. He had not thought to find such rich prey. Lorry, conscious that he was creating a sensation, threw two bills upon the table with an air.

"Steddy, pop," cautioned Healy, proprietor of the saloon.

"Mind yer own business," responded old man Lorry sharply.

"And five hundred better," Gentry remarked softly.

"An' five hundred."

"Again."

Lorry glanced defiantly about the table. Healy had turned his back. As for the rest, startled out of their composure by this abrupt change in the complexion of the game, they watched breathlessly.

"Call yer!" exclaimed the old man, depositing the remainder of his fortune in the pot.

"Aces up an' queens!" he added, with an oath, as Gentry displayed his cards. "Better 'n my kings up an' jacks"— He broke off, staring blankly at the gambler as he calmly raked in his spoils and passed the cards to Dugan. The latter shook his head, with an air of finality.

"Nope," he said. "No more for me."

"None in mine," agreed the lean Yankee briefly, and Davies nodded assent to the judgment of the others.

Lorry shambled dispiritedly toward the bar. "Gimme some 'ski, Billy," he demanded.

Gentry arose and placed a fifty in the bartender's hands. "You can pay for the drinks out of that. I'm going to take a little walk to cool off. See you later, gentlemen." He paused on the threshold, but none answered him, and he passed on out into the infinite silent peace of the mountain night.

He walked a few steps along the apology for a road which formed the main street of the half deserted mining village, then halted suddenly.

"Old fool," he muttered impatiently, comforting himself against the thought of the wrong he had done old man Lorry. "He should have known better. Well, what's his loss is my gain. If I hadn't got it some other fellow would."

Gentry lighted a cigar, stuck his hands in his trousers pockets jauntily and retraced his steps toward Healy's. But he did not stop there. Through its open windows fragments of an argument floated to his ears, punctuated with old man Lorry's voice, bleating that he had been shorn. That was quite true, but the gambler did not wish to discuss the question with him since of necessity it would mean eventual bloodshed. He stepped quickly past the fan of light which the doorway threw across the road and began an ascent of the mountain trail. He would return ere long, when things were quieted, saddle his horse and ride on to the next camp.

The night air was warm and soothing with the balm of the pine scent. The gambler strolled beneath a high, broad arched, brilliant sky, fretted with bright stars. But from these he kept his face. His thoughts were too near to the earth for contemplation of the firmament. As he left the straggling village behind him he entered upon a great sweet solitude whose essence was in the mystery of night upon the mountains. The road wound temptingly on, a forest aisle empty, dusty, now white in the glare of the heavens, now blackly shadowed by massed pines, through whose interstices the starlight fell.

Presently the gambler came upon a little clearing in which, set at a distance back from the road and surrounded by a dilapidated picket fence, was a small cabin, vine clad. Its windows shone dimly with yellow lamplight, this although the hour was past midnight. As he stopped, puffing speculatively upon his cigar, a voice hailed him—a feminine voice, singularly rich in intonation and clear—and at that he made out a slender figure swaying upon the gate of the fence. He tossed away his smoke, removed his slouch hat and approached.

"Good evening," he said courteously.

"Howdy, stranger. Be you from Hammels, down yonder?"

Gentry failed to repress a start. The uncouthness of the words, the strong touch of dialect, was so distinctly out of keeping with what the beauty of the girl's voice had led him to expect. And, now that he could see her, there was positive refinement of feature in the face, wholly charming, upturned to him.

"Yes," he answered her.

The girl regarded him with unconcealed curiosity. "An' what might be yer name, stranger?"

"Mason," he lied without wondering why he should lie, lacking a reason.

"Oh," she sighed, with evident relief. "I didn't know—from yer style, yer know—but what yer might be Gentry."

"Who's Gentry?"

"Aw—a gambler what I heerd had come to town. Pappy went down early tonight to get in the game with him. Say, Mr. Mason, did yer see my pappy down there?"

"I don't know, really. Who"—

"Lorry," she interrupted. "Ole man Lorry they calls him, mostly. Did yer see him around?"

"Come to think of it, I did." He smiled blandly upon her to conceal a rising uneasiness.

"Was he drunk?" she continued frankly.

"N-no. I didn't notice that he was."

"He warn't gamblin' with that hound Gentry, was he?"

"No," said the hound heartily. "Gentry left town today, I hear."

"That's good!" She smiled at the gambler, shading her beautiful eyes with a deep fringe of upcurled lashes. "He'll only come home drunk, then," she added pensively. "I don't mind that. Never had to manage a man, did yer, stranger?"

"Only myself," he laughed.

"Then yer don't know nothin' about it—the trouble, I mean. Pappy's an ole fool. He don't know no more about playin' poker 'n a tenderfoot, an' he thinks he knows it all. He—he"— She hesitated.

"Well?" he encouraged her.

"Aw—nothin', only he made a strike a little while ago. It warn't much of a strike, only a couple of thousand, an' he promised to send me back east—to the home folks, you know—next week."

"And?" said Gentry softly.

"That was the money he took to gamble with." She laughed, a little harshly. "Said he'd send me back in style—with his winnin's. Well, so long's Gentry ain't there I reckon I may get a chance to get some book learnin', after all, if I can keep him home till next week. Goin' already, stranger?"

"Yes; I must hit the trail early tomorrow, Miss Lorry."

"Waal, so long. If yer see the ole man start him along home, will yer? Thanks, an' good night to yer, Mr. Mason."

* * * * * * *

Some distance down the trail the gambler stumbled over the prostrate form of a man. With something of a strong presentiment Gentry turned the body over and lit a match to see the face.

It was old man Lorry, hopelessly intoxicated, sleeping the dead sleep of alcohol.

"There's most of my fifty," remarked the gambler grimly. "It's like throwing good money after bad. I'm a darned fool."

To prove his assertion he took from his wallet the bills of which he had robbed the miner and stuffed them in the latter's pockets. Then he helped him to his feet, meaning to see him home. To his wonder Gentry found that the man, once afoot, was able to walk after a fashion. He lurched along unsteadily, but made progress toward his cabin.

The gambler followed him to the clearing, stepping noiselessly, then turned and went back for his horse and his last glimpse of Healy's.

Bright Benny.

"What a fine boy Benny is getting to be!" remarked Mr. Bloobumper's mother-in-law, who was taking dinner with Bloobumper.

"Yes, indeed," replied Bloobumper proudly, "He's a regular logician too. He'll ask questions and deduct conclusions in a masterly manner. He's inherited his father's brain power," added Bloobumper modestly.

A few moments later the conversation turned upon Mormonism, and Benny, in his search for knowledge, asked, "Papa, what is a Mormon?"

"A Mormon, Benny, is a man who marries more than one wife."

"Then you are a Mormon, ain't you, papa?" asked Benny, anxious to display the deductive powers which his father had commended.

"I a Mormon, Benny! Why, how in the world did you get such an idea in your head as that?"

"Why, I heard you tell Mr. Spratts yesterday that you had married all your wife's family."

"Mrs. Bloobumper," said that gentleman, turning to his wife, "I think Benny had better be sent to bed. He's been up quite late enough."

Revenged.

He was asking the old man for his daughter in marriage. He was talking tremblingly, hesitatingly, as you read in story books. Now came the old man's turn to speak, and as he began his face was white with passion and his voice shook with excitement.

"You want to marry my daughter?" he said. "Ah! Twenty years ago your father crippled me in a business deal, and I swore to be revenged, and now my time has come."

He paused for breath, and the aspirant for the maiden's hand was about to beat a hasty retreat in the face of supposed defeat, when the father broke forth again:

"Yes, sir; I swore to be revenged and I'll now strike the father through the son. Want my daughter, eh? Well, take her, and may she prove as expensive to you as she has to me."

The old man dropped into his chair, worn out with the excitement of his plot, and the young man fainted.

Mess System on Board a Man-of-War.

The messing system on board a big man-of-war is as complex and complete as the table service of a big hotel. The modern war ship, with its five or six hundred persons on board, must be a floating hotel and storehouse in itself. Every vessel of the navy is required by the regulations governing the navy to have a general messing system. The enlisted men on ship are divided into squads of about twenty each, forming a mess. Chief petty officers and officers' servants are not included in this division. Every mess has one or two petty officers at its table, who fare like the men. Every mess has its special mess man, who brings the food from the galley and serves it at the table. It is also the mess man's duty to see that the mess table and mess gear are clean and in order. The messes on board ship are under the direct supervision of the commissary department, which is under the control of the pay officers.—Gunton's Magazine.

When lying down at night I was almost afraid to go to sleep for fear I would never wake up. When I arose in the morning I would feel a little better, but as soon as I started to work my heart would start fluttering, my head would become dizzy, faint weak spells would come over me and it seemed as if black objects were floating before my eyes. I was growing worse every day until I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. When the box was half gone I could feel that they had done me good and by the time it was finished I was in excellent health and would advise all sufferers from heart and nerve troubles to try them."

12 Minutes for Lunch.

That is the average time spent in a large city restaurant by three thousand lunchers. It takes three hours to digest a fresh egg soft boiled. In fact, three hours is about the time required to digest the average twelve minute lunch. The object of the hasty lunch is to let the busy man get back to his office work. But when the brain is active, the stomach is inactive for lack of necessary blood. The natural consequence is indigestion, and indigestion opens the door to many diseases.

Indigestion is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"I had stomach trouble from childhood and suffered with it more or less as I grew up," writes Mr. Willie Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange Co., N. Y. "At the age of 25 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Everything I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine."

MEXICAN HOUSES.

Little Wood Used in Them, and They Are Practically Fireproof.

There is a minimum of wood used for house construction in the cities of Mexico, and there is absolutely nothing to burn except what furnishings the houses may contain. The walls are solidly built of stone and brick or in the less costly structures of adobes, which are thickly plastered inside and out with mortar or stucco. The floors are of brick, stone or tiles, while the roofs are of brick laid in mortar or in some cities of semicylindrical clay tiles. Many roofs are arched with brick laid flat, not on edge, and it is marvelous how slight a curve some of these arches have. Yet they support heavy weights and have lasted through centuries.

Flat roofs are supported by 6 by 6 inch hewn pine joists placed eight inches apart. These joists are often twenty feet in length. The doors are heavy, hanging upon ornamented wrought strap hinges and secured by strong, handmade locks, which have remarkably large complicated keys. Practically the only wood used in construction is for the doors and joists which support the roof. The church roofs are invariably of brick arches, usually several arches in each. There are no such fire traps in Mexico as those mansard roofs of French and American cities or the frail dwellings of China or the universal wooden structures which have made fire insurance so great a burden in the United States and which cause so great and continuous expenditures for fire protection.—Arboriculture.

Speaking and Stopping.

The knowledge of when to sit down is invaluable to public speakers and to their audiences. Perhaps the best plan is to secure a candid friend who will pull you down by your coattails. A man "on his legs" is one with whom time gallops; he has spoken for half an hour, and to him it seems but five minutes. The excitement of the brain suggests new and ever new ideals, and the extemporary talker in the pulpit or after a public dinner flounders in pursuit of these will-o'-the-wisps through swamps and thickets of bad grammar haunted by the anacolouthon and other fearful wild fowl. In the pulpit there is no man to pull the preacher down, and many are his "two words more, my brethren." After public dinners a bored audience begins to talk and laugh, but these symptoms of disapproval are not marked by the self absorbed public speaker. In short, the knowledge of when to sit down is rare and hard to acquire.—Longman's.

Discontent With Work.

That there is much discontent with work among the so called middle classes in America is due in large part to the pampering of children, to the supplying of their natural and artificial wants and to the sentimental idea that "their day of toil will come soon enough." In general, work is not a curse, but a blessing, a positive means of grace. One can hardly begin too early to impress upon children lessons of self help by tasks appropriate to their age and forces and to beget in them scorn of idleness and of dependence on others. To do this is to make them happy through the self respect that comes with the realization of power and thus to approximate Tennyson's goal of man, "Self reverence, self knowledge, self control."—Century.

Two Views of the Bells.

A clergyman on his way to church one Sunday morning pulled up to rebuke an angler. "Don't you hear the bells summoning you to church?" he asked. The fisherman put an inquiring hand to his ear. Encouraged, the clergyman repeated the question. But once again the fisherman asked for a repetition, and then again, and even yet again. Flushing from overmuch bawling, the parson was about to proceed on his way when the fisherman spoke. "Very sorry, guv'nor," he said, "but them bloomin' bells makes such an infernal clatter that I can't hear a word you says."—London Globe.

Durable Whitewash.

A very durable whitewash that will stand nearly as well as paint is made as follows: Slake a bushel of lime with boiling water and thin sufficiently with cold water to make a good whitewash; dissolve a pint of white vitriol (sulphate of zinc) in boiling water, only enough to thoroughly dissolve it; also a quart of fine salt. The bushel of lime will weigh about seventy pounds, and by keeping the above proportions a greater or less amount can be made.

PORT HOPE STILL WANTS THE CANAL.

Letter in Port Hope Guide Dealing With Water and Waterways.

Under the heading of "Peterborough's Consistence," the Port Hope Guide publishes a letter which is reproduced below:

To the Editor of the Guide,

Dear Sir: I understand that a meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade is called for this week to consider the advisability of bringing pressure on on the Dominion Government to build dams on the Trent Valley waters north of Peterborough, so as to increase the flow of water in the Otonabee, and thereby improve navigation in the canal. Now Sir, I have the impression that if our friends in the north were as anxious for the completion of the canal to Lake Ontario as they have professed to be, they would advocate the completion of the canal before asking for the expenditure of a large sum for increasing the flow of water or any such purpose, and if they were perfectly honest they would admit that this scheme is gotten up by some of the large manufacturing concerns to improve the water power, at the expense of the public.

Factories are what we want to develop our towns, but as has often been said, they "want the earth," and I hope the Board of Trade in our sister town will say at their meeting, we are in favour of the completion of the canal to Lake Ontario first, and that the interests of Peterborough will be best served by making the outlet at Port Hope. Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

Yours very truly,
PORT HOPER.

"THE MISSION OF A NATION."

Address by Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A., at Teachers' Convention.

Nations as Well as Individuals Have Missions—A Thoroughly Appreciated Literary Effort.

But is this the whole story of the nation which, above all others, has believed itself to be entrusted with a mission to mankind? Has it all ended in ignominy and defeat? Though in the background figures vague and vast "Of patriarchs and of prophets rise sublime"—is the mission of the Jewish people to the world in its issue an anti-climax, a failure? Is it only, as Longfellow sings, "That thus forever with reverted look, the mystic volume of the world they read, spelling it backwad like a Hebrew book, till life become a legend of the dead?" Is there no more to it than that? I think there is. I think we can see that the Jewish people, though often in ways they could not themselves see, have been what their ancient prophets called their nation, "the servant of Jehovah." A nation, as well as an individual, may be elected of God to service. Take the Jews' service to God and humanity first of all in the department of commerce. Aristotle and the Greeks had an inveterate dislike of any free man soiling his hands with trade. In our own day the practical necessities of life have united with a more rational view of things to break down the aristocratic prejudice against commercial pursuits. But the Middle Ages were largely at the Greek point of view in this matter, and commerce was thrown to the despised Jew, as one might cast a bone to a dog. The Jew was not originally a trader. He was first a wanderer and a warrior, then a cultivator of the soil. Mediaeval prejudices denying him access to all the employments that were considered more desirable, the Jew was forced to be a trader; and his energies turned into this single channel, won success for himself and a broader and more cosmopolitan life for the world. When we remember that "commerce is a mighty force for binding men together—a powerful influence for mutual helpfulness," we are constrained to admit that the Jewish people have been Jehovah's servant and missionary in the realm of commerce.

One need scarcely do more than mention the fact that the Jew has been of the greatest service to mankind on the side of his literary life. It was he who brought together the noblest work of his own people and bound it up in the Old Testament canon to be a priceless possession of our race forever. And the books of the New Testament also, except probably the Gospel of St. Luke and the Acts of the Apostles, were written by Jews. The literary Jew then has been the servant of Jehovah and of mankind.

And then the Jew, without particularly intending it, has been in a special sense the greatest of all missionaries. To him was committed the precious truth of the unity of God. Through centuries of history he was unconsciously preparing the way for the world-wide faith of the Christ. And the first apostles and missionaries of the new faith, when it did appear, were Jews. Indeed how can we forget that He Whom we worship as God incarnate, Himself came of the seed of Abraham, according to the flesh?

We recognize then, that the people, scorned and down-trodden through long centuries, have been and are a people with a mission, a people serving God and man, even in ways they themselves did not understand. And while we recognize this, we do not overlook the fact that God chose them for even more glorious service, of which their own blindness in the day of their greatest visitation made them incapable. What may yet be in store for they who can say? The issue of the Zionist repatriation movement, who can foresee? Yet this much is manifest: That they stand to all time and to all the world as both an inspiration and as a warning. The lesson of their tragic national history is no mere meaningless list of names and dates, but the working out into realization of God's eternal purpose.

OTHER CHOSEN PEOPLES

You will not accuse me of holding the fanciful Anglo-Israel theory if I ask you to turn with me from this brief study of a nation that has had its great chance and has failed in the wondrous mission that might have been its own, though God has used it in other ways for the advancement of His purposes—and consider whether God has any national mission for us as Canadians and as members of a world-wide British empire. I for one, believe he has. Wealth, power, sovereignty in many climes—these have been entrusted to Britain not without a purpose. No great empire has ever risen among men without at least the opportunity of bearing witness to some thought of God. God gave the Greek a vision of ideal beauty, and the work of the Greek in art, in sculpture, in painting and poetry was his witness to the vision that God had given him. God gave the Roman a vision of law and orderly strength, and the Roman's stern march of conquest through vast regions that had known nothing of stable government was the way he bore his witness to the truth God had given him. In our modern world, Germany, France, Russia are witness-bearers to some truth of God, which they struggle more or less articulately to utter. The British Empire too, be sure, is entrusted with a mission—a witness-bearing—to the world. Though what its mission is it is itself only trying as yet to discover. Perhaps it is a re-utterance of some of the strenuous truths the old Roman empire stood for. Perhaps India and South Africa and the islands of the sea have been entrusted to Britain that she may bring order out of chaos and speak out to mankind some of God's thoughts about justice, though tempered now with the mercy that we have learned from the Christ. For this world-mission the British people have been in training all through the centuries. The very mixture of the Aryan races—Saxon and Dane, Celt and Norman and Goth—of which British history is itself the record, is a unique qualification for the work to which our empire has been called. Nor can we undervalue the comparative isolation from the rest of Europe in which the long commingling was accomplished.

"Thank Him who isled us there and roughly set
His Briton in blown seas and storming showers."

The dawning consciousness of a work to be done for the world is the most striking thing in the thought of British men to-day. And in this work it may well be that Canada has been called to a special place and part. Geologically, as you know, there is a sense in which this American continent is the oldest part of the world. And it had its people and high civilisations, as its great ruins show, long ages before what we call its discovery. And yet we call it the New World, and not without reason. No was it by chance that it remained hidden behind the Atlantic mists fifteen hundred years after Christ. North Africa, Asia, Europe had their opportunities; and then, late in history, when the world was getting old and blase, this new continent was thrown open where man might have another chance to work out the problems of his complex existence.

Discovered by an Italian, who had been sent by a Spaniard, the dominant note in the New World to-day is, nevertheless struck by the Anglo-Saxon. We in Canada, and our neighbours to the south, occupy a position unique in history. We inherit the tongue of Shakespeare, the laws of Alfred and Edward, the Bible of King James, the Book of Common Prayer of Edward VI, and Elizabeth, Magna Charta and the Bible of Rights, the Town Meeting and the Witenagemot, trial by our peers, and a log cabin its owner's castle. We hold all these in the invigorating atmosphere of a new land—the stage, perhaps, of greater things even than have been. It is true that advancement, material and otherwise, has been more rapid in the United States than with us though herein may be their greater danger and our comparative safety. Their republican forms are not without their special dangers in corrupted hands. Their popular government is no guarantee of greater freedom for we know that ancient Rome still guarded her republican forms even when she lay prone under the feet of her worst Caesars. "The greatest in the world, sir," is a favourite phrase on the lips of the citizens of the United States. But we remember that Nebuchadnezzar said: "Is not this great Babylon that I have builded?" and even as he spoke a beast's heart was his. When we think of the judiciary elected by popular vote, and of the frequent resort to lynch law, and of the shameless open and even in some cases legally licensed vice of the great cities in our neighbourhood, we are perhaps tempted to fear for its future. Immigration, so long inadequately restricted, has seemed to threaten the United States with becoming not merely an asylum for "the oppressed of all nations," but a poorhouse, penitentiary and lunatic asylum for all nations. Yet we cannot forget the higher hopes and simple faith in God and man with which this great democracy started out, not the sublime daring which threw open its privileges of citizenship to six millions of its own slaves. We are glad that its problems are not ours, and yet we would not despair of that great people, a daughter people of our own empire. For the United States has shown itself to be a sort of universal solvent. Thousands of strangers in blood and speech that land upon its shores seem to suffer a great change and are assimilated to American institutions with wonderful rapidity. And there is always hope for a land that will consent to be ruled by such a man as the present President of the United States.

"A man with heart, head, hand,
One still, strong man in a blatant land
Who can rule and dare not lie."

CANADA'S MISSION

And yet, again I say, let us be glad that we in Canada are still untrammelled by many of the perplexities of our neighbours. We share with them all the chances of achievement that belong to a young people on a new soil. Our undeveloped resources are almost boundless. Our vast prairies may some day sustain untold millions of population, and Canada may yet be the granary of the world. We have the inspiring sense of membership in a great empire, whose roots are deep in the past which holds out freely its rights of citizenship to all who obey its reasonable laws, and which is chosen for a work in the world as surely as was God's ancient Jewish People. We may expect that in this country at least the Jew will learn to write Jew in smaller letters and Canadian with a Capital and that Englishman, Irishman, Scotchman, Frenchman; yes, and even Doukhobor, will learn more and more to sink their sectional peculiarities in the broad sense of a Canadian-British citizenship.

But do not forget that the national character is determined by the character of its individual citizens, and the training of these rests more and more with you, to whose influence our boys and girls, the Canadian people of to-morrow, are confined for five days of every seven.

To an extent altogether beyond measurement the holding of Canada for the Man of Nazareth rests with you. Quit you like men; be strong. I speak unto you, young men, because ye are strong. I speak unto you, young women, because yours is the incalculable influence of pure and noble womanhood. In your hands it is, almost beyond all others, to make sturdy manly men and fair womanly women; of happy homes and good citizens and loyal, loving subjects of the King, yes, and of the King of Kings, as well, so that our land may stand among the nations a Christian land, whose best wealth, whose richest jewels are her children, so that she may

"Lift herself to sunlight
And the fair daylight of time and man,
With the same splendor in her eyes forever."

CUTICURA SOAP

The World's Greatest Skin Soap.

The World's Sweetest Toilet Soap.

Sale Greater Than the World's Product of Other Skin Soaps.

Sold Wherever Civilization Has Penetrated.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Cuticura Soap combines delicate emollient properties derived from Cuticura, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odours. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Thus it combines in one soap at one price the most effective skin and complexion soap, and the purest and sweetest toilet, bath and nursery soap ever compounded.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; India, 10 Octavious Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY.

The Intermediate team with a number of the juniors, held a good practice last evening at the oval. It had been intended to practice at the T.A.S. grounds, but the light there failed, and the players took a run to the oval, where a moonlight practice was held. About 25 men were out and a splendid practice was indulged in. The team is working hard to get into condition for the game on Saturday with the Wellesley boys.

A meeting of the City League executive was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. building, the chief business being the consideration of the protest entered against the Rough Riders by the Britannias. Those present at the meeting were: Messrs. Poole, Bradburn, Wilkie, R. F. McWilliams, Crowley, Kenner and Perks. Mr. Crowley, vice-president, was chairman of the meeting. The case of McPherson was first considered. The Britannias protested him because of their contention that he was beyond the age limit. Mr. McPherson admitted that he was over 20 years of age, and the result was that the protested game was thrown out and ordered to be played over after the scheduled games. McPherson will not be allowed to play in future games.

In Ploff's case, a motion was passed to the effect that he be asked to furnish the vice-president with a letter stating that he arrived in town on September 14th.

A second motion was passed providing that the Rough-Riders-All Saints game scheduled for next Saturday be postponed until Nov. 14th.

* * * *

There will be a double-header in the Rugby football line on Saturday afternoon at Sunlight Park, when two O.R.F.U. championship matches will be played. At 1.30 the Wellesley II will play Harbord Street Collegiate Institute a sudden-death game in the junior semi-finals, and at 3 o'clock the Wellesley I will play the return game with the champion Peterborough intermediate team of last year. The Wellesleys expect to register a double victory. They have two strong teams in training, and will put the best team that has represented them yet against Peterborough. The easterners are confident of winning here, but the local team may furnish a big surprise.—Globe.

SPRINTING.

Before a starter, timekeeper and a referee yesterday afternoon, Mr. D. Belland ran a 100 yds. foot race at the Turf Club's track against time. A side bet of $100 had been made by a supporter of Belland's that he could do the 100 yds. in 10 seconds. He found a ready taker for his wager, and the race yesterday was to decide the winner of the bet. Four heats were run, the time of the first three being slightly over 10 seconds. The fourth heat the time was 10 flat, and the wager won.

This should effectually silence those who say that this sprinter is "N.G." because his record yesterday was all the more remarkable when it is known that it was the first time since Thanksgiving Day that he has been on the track. The time and length of the course are vouched for by reliable persons.

WILLING WORKERS' MISSION BAND'S SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL

Held Last Night in St. Andrew's Sunday School Room.

About two hundred and fifty friends gathered to the annual thank-offering meeting of the Willing Workers' Mission Band of St. Andrew's church last night. The Band had divided themselves into two parts for a contest in obtaining missionary offerings from their friends, and both sides reported last evening. The reds had gained 209 points, representing $10.90 and the blues 167, representing $8.30. The total income amounted to $20, including the offering at the door.

The pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, was chairman of the meeting and congratulated the workers on their great success, and expressed appreciation of what the parents and friends had done.

The following programme was rendered:

Piano duet, Misses Eva McCrae and Agnes Hyde.
Chorus, Younger Members of the Band.
Recitation, Miss Ella Mathieson.
Solo, Miss Mabel Barber.
Reading, Miss Mary Menzies.
Duett, Bobbie and Ernie Langford.
Piano solo, Miss Lillie Barber.
Dialogue, "An Old Song with a New Meaning," by seven girls.
Duet, Norman Laing and Grant Potter.
Solo, Miss Florence Miller.
Recitation, Miss Hazel Pentland.
Solo, Mr. Jas. Gerrard.
Piano Duet, Miss Ethel Tully and Miss Gumpricht.

CHAMBERLAIN MAKES AM ADROIT APPEAL.

Ex-Colonial Secretary's Brilliant Address at Birmingham.

Urges British People to Lose no Time in Binding Closer the Ties of Empire—No Imperial Federation Without a Commercial Tie With the Colonies—The Latter Will do Right.

London, Nov. 5.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Chamberlain achieved a new triumph at Birmingham yesterday. His speech appealed to the English people to lose no time in binding into closer units the Empire, if we were out of sympathy with the colonies and refused their offers, if we could not co-operate in sustaining the Empire, we would lose our opportunity and it might never recur. Then we should never have a bond of commercial union which was at one time the ideal of Lord Rosebery, and with no commercial bond we could never secure Imperial federation for which Lord Rosebery declared he was willing to die.

A large party in the country regarded the colonies as a costly encumbrance. He was not quite sure that the modern leaders of free trade had a share in this antiquated idea now, and instead of an appreciation of Imperial unity all they thought of was the unity of the Radical party as had their brothers. The colonies we reverenced and gloried in those family ties, and no politician should induce us to do anything to cause us to sacrifice them.

"I am not presumptious enough to predict beforehand exactly what all these great states will do in return. I have confidence they will do what is right. Meanwhile some facts are public property. We know a preferential system has been asked for by all the colonies on three separate occasions, and asked for at two conferences at which I presided in London. When I remember how all the colonies responded to British allegiance and sent men, thousands of them, and paid money to these men, I believe we can negotiate without fear of the result, and they will show us the great generosity of their patriotism."

Before Mr. Chamberlain arrived the vast audience kept shouting to Mrs. Chamberlain, "Where's Joe?" The speech was marked throughout by tumultuous enthusiasm, especially at the end, when, with true dramatic instinct he drew from a brown paper parcel two enormous, equal-sized loaves of bread, representing the taxed and the untaxed loaf, and holding them at arm's length, laughingly asked which was which.

The Mail, referring to the speech says: "Chamberlain is already sure of a place in British history beside Palmerston and Pitt. The growing trade of the colonies had been hidden. He showed the dwindling trade of the foreigner. Grapple your friends with hooks of steel. Treat your friends better than those who would strip you of your trade, that is the gist of his policy. The Tariff Reform League has made an appeal for funds, and has signed Chamberlain's name and the Duke of Sutherland's manifesto sets forth that Cobden was supplied with £400,000 to pursue his campaign. The league hopes to find at least 100 sympathisers who will contribute £1,000 in four equal annual sums of £250. Twenty subscribers have already accepted these conditions."

The Post says: "The free fooders are quite willing to give a preference to the United States and Germany, but not to Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Chamberlain's pitiless exposure of their position should be enough."

Under the Preference.

London, Nov. 5.—(C. A. P.)—Home statistics published show that under the Canadian preference, British exports of leather and leather goods have risen from 7 to 14 per cent. The total imports of sole leather jumped from 2 to 25 per cent., boots increased slightly, but the fault is that the British do not study the fashions while the Americans do.

Tarte to go to England.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte will sail for England to-day in the Lake Erie to assist in the Chamberlain campaign.

DANDURAND AND CLERGUE.

He Speaks Hopefully of the Future of the Soo.

London, Nov. 5.—(C.A.P.)—Messrs. Clergue and Dandurand are stopping at the Grand Hotel, London. They were surrounded yesterday by callers. Interviewed by your correspondent, Senator Dandurand said, with a polite smile: "I cannot speak at present."

Mr. Clergue coming forward, remarked: "There is no fear of the future of the Soo. There is plenty of money subscribed. When plans are definitely decided on, Canada shall have the first news."

Before returning to Canada he will visit Germany and France. He laughed at American reports, remarking. "Don't believe the stuff about the power house."

STRIKL IS OVER.

But a Strong Military Guard Will Be Used at Niagara for a Few Days—Strike is Over.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 5.—At 7 o'clock yesterday morning all of the contractors on the river, two small detachments of militia and the entire local police force met near the scene of Tuesday's trouble and prepared to protect all the men who wished to return to work. The mechanics, who had no grievance against the contractors, but who had been driven from their work by the laborers, came back, and, with them, a hundred or more "muckers" or shovel men. The other laborers held out, but made no serious attempt to interfere with those who reported for work. All of the construction plants resumed operations, and there is sufficient force at work to prevent much further loss to the contractors.

A crowd of one hundred Italians stood about and jeered the men who were returning, but they broke and ran when the police started for them. The constables took advantage of the occasion to arrest a couple of men, one of them a young Sicilian, who had led in the stone-throwing on Monday, and who it was thought had gone to Buffalo. The contractors are confident that the men will come back within a few days. In view of the great harm to the works which might result, the militia and police force is being maintained.

The men arrested were brought up before Col. Cruickshank, the police magistrate, at 3 p.m., charged with creating, aiding and abetting a riot on Monday last, and, without being given an opportunity of pleading, they were remanded to the county jail for five days, to stand their trial. They gave their names as follows: Angelo Pretzangelo, Cesidio Rosalio, Angelo Pareto, Agostino Romanico, Santo Cernonara, Donato Digceris, Rosario Sparando, Petro Riccio, Frencesco Petroncello, Carnuno Etico, Vincenzo Scio, Michelle Magnia, Michelle Bullock, Soveno, Bencoss and Vincentnas Cucosta. The last is charged with cutting Joseph Hamilton in the face with a knife Monday evening. They were all taken to the county jail at Welland on the Wabash train yesterday afternoon.

At a meeting of the contractors, it was decided unanimously, for the protection of property and life, to ask for the continuance of the military guard for a few days, although every indication is that the presence of the militia and a strong civil guard, and the front that has been put up under the able management of Col. Cruickshank, Chiefs Maina and Wilcox and Kimmins, with their limited number of men, has broken the back of the rioters' movement inaugurated Monday.

EARTHQUAKE TREMORS.

Several United States Cities Felt a Shock on Wednesday.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 5.—Two distinct earthquake shocks were felt here yesterday. No damage resulted in Memphis or vicinity, but occupants of the principal office buildings made hasty exits to the streets. Reports from surrounding towns tell of earthquake shocks, but no serious damage is reported. The vibrations were felt as far south as Grenada, Miss.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 5.—Considerable excitement was caused in the tall buildings by the shock. Information from various towns in this vicinity say the shock was felt there, but no damage resulted. The shock rocked the telephone exchange building here.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 5.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here shortly after 1 o'clock. It was not sufficient to cause any alarm.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt here shortly after noon yesterday, but no damage was done.

Decatur, Ills., Nov. 5.—A decided earthquake shock was felt here at 12.20 p.m. yesterday.

DASTARDLY HALLOWE'EN WORK.

Horses of Preachers Docked and Close Shaven.

Clinton, Nov. 5.—On Hallowe'en some one entered the stable of Rev. J. Kennedy, Methodist minister at Londesboro, and also that of Rev. J. A. Hamilton, Presbyterian minister at the same place, and mutilated their horses by docking their tails and almost stripping them of their hair. No reason is known for this dastardly trick, except it be that these gentlemen have been active in circulating a petition asking to have local option adopted in the township.

Compromise Effected.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Some time ago the Customs Department announced that railway trains coming in from the United States would have to stop at the boundary and allow the inspectors to examine the baggage. It is understood here that the railways have come to an understanding whereby the inspectors will meet trains some miles over the border and have their work completed by the time the train reaches the port of entry.

Satisfactory to Powers.

Pekin, Nov. 5.—Na-Tung has been appointed President of the Foreign Office, succeeding the aged Wang-Wen-Shaom, who is transferred to the Board of Revenue. The appointment of Na-Tung is considered satisfactory by the Ministers of the powers.

Booth-Tucker Sails.

New York, Nov. 5.—Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army sailed for England yesterday on the White Star Line steamship Cedric, in response to a brief cablegram from General William Booth, the head of the Army.

Cable Cars Collided.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 5.—One person was killed and 19 others injured, four perhaps fatally, in a collision of two cable cars in a fog on the Twelfth street in-line, near the Union Depot, yesterday morning.

German Crown Prince's Latest Feat.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—It was reported here yesterday that the Crown Prince rode his horse down a long flight of steps from the park to the San Souci palace in order to take his place at the head of the regiment.

THE REAL LORD ALVERSTONE.

A Man not of First-Rate Gifts—Nothing in His Record—His Face is his Fortune.

(From the London Saturday Review.)

When Lord Alverstone—the Sir Richard Webster of the House of Commons—was made Lord Chief Justice of England a man not of first-rate gifts was elevated to a first-rate position. A test can be easily applied by thinking of his three immediate predecessors, Sir Alexander Cockburn, Lord Coleridge, and Lord Russell of Killowen. It is not necessary to go further back, because these men are available for comparison in the memories of persons still in practice at the bar. If we take a negative test, let us suppose, for example, that Lord Herschell or Lord Halsbury, instead of being Lord Chancellor, had been the head of the King's Bench Division; or that Lord President Inglis had been the head of the English instead of the Scottish Common Laws Judiciary. When we think of advocates and judges of this class we do not need to trouble with a definition of what is meant by greatness as advocate or judge; we know it when we see it, as Mr. John Morley said of the jingo, without needing more words. Perhaps the misfortune is the greater that this should be the intellectual estimate of the present Lord Chief Justice, for in all outward physical qualities never a judge sat on the bench who was a more typical specimen of the judicial character. When judges are not great it is undoubtedly a compensation that they should be large; and since Lord Thurlow's Olympian head and shaggy eyebrows crowned the judicial robes, the bench has not possessed so absolutely ideal a mask of Themis as the countenance of Lord Alverstone. If we miss some other qualities behind the mask which we would like to know a Lord Chief Justice possesses we gladly admit that we have in Lord Alverstone one who "dresses" the part perfectly. Only we regret that with such advantages the Lord Chief Justice should never have been more than a very good second-class advocate, that he should have not had a vestige of the qualities of an orator, that he should not have been more distinguished as a politician than several of the judges who are his puisnes, and that there are quite a number of these who are known to possess more of the "humanities" than their chief. Think of the silver-tongued Coleridge, or of Cockburn, who made the "Pacifico" speech, or of Cockburn and Russell as cross-examiners; of the literary distinction and scholarship of the two former.

No one at the bar or in the House of Commons can recall any brilliant speech that ever fell from the lips of Sir Richard Webster; none ever listened delightedly to any flight of imagination, or any noble or polished phrase of eloquence, of satire, or of irony at any time when Sir Richard addressed a court or Parliament. That was all beyond the range of the future Lord Chief Justice; and though Sir Richard has long since ceased to be an advocate, we are still waiting, and it is to be feared vainly, for any of those great judicial utterances which attest the possession of great judicial qualities. We count it unfortunate that the occupant of the seat of the Lord Chief Justice should not make it eminent above the seats of the puisnes by virtue of undisputed authority in the higher qualities of the orator, of the scholar, and it may be of the Parliamentarian. A puisne judgeship is the fit reward of a drudging kind of industry, of a memory packed with statutes and case law, of an immense practice based on an automatic proficiency in assimilating stodgy facts, of a political party usefulness which has nothing to distinguish it from that of the scores of lawyers whose ultimate object is an ordinary High Court Judgeship, or, if not lucky, something inferior. But this is not the tradition of the Chief Justiceship, and the man who might have made an admirable puisne judge is not necessarily of the stuff of which the great Chief Justices are fashioned. The note of distinction is not to be found in any stage of Lord Alverstone's career. His long tenure of the Attorney-Generalship, an office in which his predecessors exhibited with more striking effect the abilities which had marked them out previously from the common place type of advocate, came to an end without his having given a sign of capacity of the highest order. Always effective up to a point, capable, by virtue of a tenacious memory for facts, and a bald, dry, mechanical precision of stating them, he had never a moment of inspiration either in Court or Parliament.

A man is what his constitution and his temperament make him, and one cannot reasonably quarrel with that; but our concern is with the effect they have on a Chief Justice; and, put shortly, Lord Alverstone's Chief Justiceship would have been a disappointment if we had not known that we cannot gather grapes from thorns nor figs from thistles. As a nisi prius judge and as a criminal judge he does not fall below expectation. In dealing with facts he has the skill that comes with long familiarity with them. He is competent on the bench of a criminal court, and does not suffer from those defects of nerve and temper or commonsense which have earned for some of our judges an undesirable notoriety. He suffers, indeed, always from over-amiability, and appears too constantly solicitious for that reputation for good fellowship and not putting on "side" which he built up so laboriously and consciously during his passage from the bar to the bench. This relaxes obviously the conduct and dignity of his court; and men gain the upper hand who should be gently but firmly suppressed. To win the 100 yards and be "Dick" Webster is charming, and the "proud humility" of the Chief Justice may cherish it; but the arts of Pump Court should not be transplanted indiscriminately into the King's Bench Division. It was not thus that Cockburn, Coleridge and Russell held themselves towards their bar. But the most serious defect of Lord Alverstone is exhibited when he sits as an appeal Judge in the Divisional Court. Largely the credit is due to him that the Divisional Court has ceased to be a court of casual judges and casual judgments, as it used to be. Yet the profession asking from the court the bread of decisions embodying principles of wide and deep application to the cases which come before it, gets nothing but the stone of laborious distinctions and sterile examination of infinite cases. The Lord Chief Justice knows case law too well. It were better if he knew less of the myriad precedents and more of the science of law. What do we gain from the teeming multitude of cases in the Lord Chief Justice's brain, but one more added to the unmanageable mass for the further puzzlement and despair of the practising barrister? Cockburn, Coleridge and Russell were never suspected of knowing too much law, but they had an instinct for legal principle, and a sense of literary form in their judgments. We suspect that Lord Alverstone has not yet become aware that he is as impossible to be reported as he is to be read.

ENGLISH IGNORANCE REGARDING CANADA.

The London correspondent of the Chicago Daily News tells a story of the ignorance that prevails in high social circles in England with regard to Canada, that, if true, is neither creditable to English society nor gratifying to Canada. Colonel B——, who aided in equipping one of the contingents sent by Canada to South Africa, visited London last year while the season was at its height, and had influential friends who sought to make his stay in London socially pleasant. He received an invitation to a function at the home of a very distinguished Englishman. The lady of the house, in her desire to be cordial, made this little speech:

"O, Colonel, I have been so anxious to meet you. I desired to thank you for the help Canada gave to our arms in South Africa, and the assistance was all the nobler because it was given at the time when your dear President McKinley was assassinated."

Not only do the Americans take away our islands, but they absorb the glory of our gallant contingents and filch away our national existence.

VILLIERS TEA.

A Very Pleasant and Successful Event Occurred Recently.

The tea and entertainment in connection with Villiers' Union Sunday Sunday School, which took place Wednesday, Oct. 28th, proved a very enjoyable occasion to a large number of people. In the early part of the evening tea was served in the Sunday School room, and such was the dimensions of the crowd both numerically and considered from an "absorption" point of view, that it was well towards eight o'clock when there developed some signs of relaxation from the supplies of good things, which came somehow from somewhere while the demand lasted. The ladies are certainly to be commended on the excellence of the repast, and the best tribute to their efforts was the hasty manner in which all responded.

The after tea programme, given in the school, contained much that was highly entertaining, and very instructive. The interior of the school was artistically decorated with evergreens and combined with flowers wrought an effect most pleasing.

The Superintendent, Mr. John Lancaster, was chairman, and in addressing a welcome, referred to Sunday School work in general. The evening contributions consisted of addresses by Rev. D. D. MacDonald and Rev. W. B. Seccombe, which were very instructive; together with duets, recitations and vocal and instrumental solos by others from Keene, Allandale and Villiers.

At the close of the enjoyable evening, the chairman on behalf of the Sunday School, expressed appreciation of the assistance rendered by those who had contributed to the success of the evening. The proceeds amounted to $40.50.

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The public school was closed on the 28th and 29th while the teachers were in Norwood at the teachers' convention.

On October 29th, Mr. Grant Hall, Assistant Superintendent of Rolling Stock, of Montreal, and Mr. R. Preston, Master Mechanic of Toronto, were here noting what improvements are to be made on the C.P.R. plant.

On the same date the Lord's Day Alliance met in the Methodist church on the question of appointing a delegate to attend the annual convention to be held in Toronto in the near future to take up the matter of no work on Sunday. They are trying to stop the railways from running trains on Sundays. But on account of the very poor attendance no delegate was appointed.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Ward Patterson, who has been ill at the home of her father during the past week is much better.

On October 30th Mr. Thos. Bennett, Mr. John Carey and Mr. John Boyland were appointed delegates to represent the engineers and firemen on the committee which is to meet the General Manager, Mr. McMicholl, at Montreal, in regard to a new schedule that is being asked for.

Mr. Walter Shipman, formerly locomotive foreman, C. P. R. of Havelock, has moved to Toronto Junction where he will now reside.

We are very sorry to hear that Mr. H. T. Andrews, one of the leading grocers in town, is going to sell out and try his fortune in the west. Mr. Andrews has been doing business here for a number of years and has made a host of friends, who are all sorry that he is going to leave. Not only will the general public miss him but the football club of which he is a member and a star player will feel his loss.

Messrs. Chas. Carey of Smith's Falls, B. Haig, A. Carey and others, have left for a deer hunt, with the intention of bringing home all the deer in the woods.

Mr. A. Connors is back to town to resume work as engineer, after his rather lengthy trip of about two months and a half to the old country. He says he enjoyed himself immensely.

All members of the Canadian Pacific Railway club will attend a meeting in their club rooms at Toronto Junction on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. The annual election of officers will take place and other important business with a view to the advancement of the club's interest, will be discussed.

On the night of October 31st the most silent hurricane that ever struck these parts visited town, although no one seemed to have heard it. The unmistakable signs were visible in the morning, when wagons were to be seen blown on top of barns, signs shivered all over, chairs on top of telegraph poles, etc. Perhaps the spooks that travel around on Hallowe'en could explain things better than we can.

Mr. Frank Voyer and Mr. Joe Daley, have returned from a two weeks trip to Montreal, Quebec, and other places where they were renewing old acquaintances. It is rumoured that Frank may take a trip east in the near future, but he will not return alone.

Mr. Alex. Rose was called to Toronto suddenly on Monday on account of the death of his father, Mr. Jas. Rose, who died from the effects of a stroke of paralysis.

A very sad accident occurred at the west end of the village this week when a son of Mr. McNicholl, proprietor of the British American Hotel, had his leg broskn above the knee in two places by being trampled upon by a team of bronchos, which he has. The little lad, who is not much more than four years old, was out at the stable when the horses were being let out, and one horse shied at something, running up against the other knocked the little lad down, and the broken leg was the result.

CLYDESDALE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Times are booming in Clydesdale since the snow came.

Mr. Denis O'Brien and Mrs. T. Kelly, who have been visiting friends in Douro for the past two weeks returned home on Tuesday night. Dennie was storm-bound at Kelly's for two days.

We are sorry to hear of Mr. H. Caldwell being very ill, as he is one of the oldest residents of Chandos.

Mr. S. Mahoney was floor manager at Mrs. G. Wilson's dance. There was a big time and Simon was kept busy.

Mr. T. Kelly is erecting a fine new stable and Denis O'Brien has taken the contract of hauling the lumber from his own mill.

Mr. John Mahoney and G. Hynes have finished threshing for the season.

Mr. James Scott was the guest of Mr. Michael Hynes on Sunday last.

Mr. Jos. Long has returned home from the shanty, where he spent some time.

Mr. Michael Long has started hauling shingle bolts to the sawmill.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Jno. Heffernan has recovered from his severe cold and is looking well again.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Happenings of Interest at Lakefield.

The Harvest Home Dinner and Dramatic Entertainment, given under the auspices of St. John's church in the town hall on Thursday evening was a decided success. Large numbers turned out to dinner and the hall was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate those desirous of seeing the entertainment. The programme consisted of songs, instrumental music and two dramatic sketches entitled "The Maniac," and "Who's Who?" Miss Durie and Mr. Sullivan of Toronto, appeared in "The Maniac," and delighted the audience in this very amusing comedy. "Who's Who?" was splendidly acted and brought forth much applause.

Miss Nellie Gordon, who spent the summer in New Jersey visiting with friends, has returned to town.

Mr. Bartlett of Orillia, was in the village on business on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, of Cadillac, Mich., are the guests of Mrs. T. Z. Webster.

Dr. Gibson, J. Baladon, G. Baptie, and W. Baptie have gone for a couple of weeks deer hunting.

Mr. R. C. Strickland went to Burleigh on Monday with the hope of securing a couple of deer.

Mr. Hill, principal of the public school, was in Norwood on Thursday and Friday attending the teachers' convention.

Mr. E. Bravender, of Warners, is spending a few days in the village in connection with the cement industry.

Mr. Carmichael of Toronto, was in the village on Monday.

Quite a number from here drove to Young's Point to attend the tea and concert held there on Friday evening last.

A meeting of the managers of the Presbyterian church was held in the Sunday school room on Monday evening.

Mr. Nathan McIlmoyle had the misfortune to have his cow's leg broken by being struck by the train. The animal had to be killed to relieve its sufferings.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sherin will be pleased to hear that they are back to the village and are both gradually improving in health.

Mr. Johnston of Toronto, is in the village buying lumber.

Messrs. Kline and Preston shipped several carloads of hogs to the Matthews Company on Tuesday.

SOUTH BURLEIGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A good number interested in Sunday School work attended the closing services for Eden Sunday School on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 31st, in the church. The service began with the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee," and the Lord's Prayer, by the children. Then followed a review of the Sunday School lessons for the five months' school had been held, conducted by the Superintendent, Mrs. Chas. Lauder, and the answers were given in a manner that showed the children had profitted by their instruction. When this part of the service was over Miss Millie Read read the following address and Miss Luella Redpath presented Mrs. Lauder with an elegant silver bread plate and fruit spoon:

Dear Superintendent,—As this is the occasion of our closing exercises for another year, through which we have enjoyed so many pleasant and profitable hours under your kindly guidance and instruction in helping us to search the Scriptures for those many beautiful lessons, which we shall remember as coming to us through the deep interest which you taken in our welfare as our Superintendent and teacher.

We, the members and officers of Eden Sunday School, beg you to accept this little token which we offer you as a sincere evidence of our hearty appreciation of your untiring patience with us in trying to build up our little school.

We join together in our prayers to our Heavenly Father that other years may be added to these you have already spent as our Superintendent.

Mrs. Lauder, although completely taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply, and then the children were treated to candies, nuts and pop corn, followed by a liberal tea to all, after which the meeting dispersed with earnest wishes from all present for the future welfare of the school.

The officers for the year were:—

Supt. and teacher of Infant class—Mrs. Lauder.

Bible class—Mr. Jas. Reid.

Sec.-Treas., and Librarian — Miss Jessie Reid.

Number of pupils on roll, 23; average attendance, 15.

Amount of collections, $4.34.

Papers taken — Pleasant Hours, Happy Days, Onward, Sunbeam and Dew Drops.

Number of books in library, 160.

Mrs. Beilby and Miss Sadie Beilby, of Montreal, with Mrs. Calder, of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Darling, of Douro, have been visiting at Mrs. Chas. Lauder's.

Mr. Willard Stone has returned from Deloraine, where he was visiting relatives.

Messrs. Mann and Thompson are building a large barn for the Mount Julian Hotel.

Mr. J. Airriess and Mr. P. Shewn have been appointed auditors for the cheese factory.

Hunting is the order of the day now with our local sportsmen.

Should Be Revised.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The Presse yesterday said that War Minister Andre, as a result of the inquiry which he has made into the Dreyfus affair, has informed the Cabinet that in his opinion the sentence of the Rennes court-martial should be revised. The War Minister is also said to have asked for the views of his colleagues on the subject, but they were unable to come to an agreement.

UNION WITH CANADA

New Party in Newfoundland With That View.

WILL OPPOSE BOND MINISTRY

Likewise the Opposition as Led by Alfred Morine—The Canadian Party Will be Led by Sir William Whiteway, Formerly Premier and Donald Morrison, Formerly Attorney-General.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 5.—A sensation has been created here by the formation by former Premier Sir William Whiteway and former Attorney-General Donald Morrison of a political party which will appeal to the country next year on a policy having in view union with Canada. The new party will also oppose the present Bond Ministry and the regular Opposition led by Alfred Morine.

HEAD CUT COMPLETELY OFF.

Boiler of the J. Israel Tarte Dredge Falls Upon a Sailor.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—An accident which resulted in the death of one man and serious injury to two others, happened on the dredge J. Israel Tarte at Sorel last night, owing, it is said, to lack of water in one of the boilers. The boiler was lifted out of its place and dropped on the upper part of the dredge, about 60 feet from its original position. In its flight it mounted about 15 feet in the air. A sailor employed on the dredge, hearing the explosion, rushed about for a place of safety, but the boiler fell on him, cutting his head completely off, setting fire to his clothes and burning his body to a crisp. His name is Dansereau. The boiler weighed fifteen tons. The fireman was seriously scalded and another man employed on the dredge had an arm and a leg broken and was otherwise injured. Both were taken to the hospital.

KILLED SIX; INJURED SIX.

Explosion in United States Storehouse for Ammunition.

Peekskill, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Six men were killed and six injured in an explosion yesterday on Iona Island, in the Hudson, used by the United States Government for storing explosives. Two of the bodies of the dead men were found, but the others are believed to be in the mass of debris which caught fire and burned furiously. It is supposed that one of the workmen in No. 1 house rammed a shell too hard, causing the first explosion, which was followed at frequent intervals by other explosions of the fixed ammunition.

Indians Gave Up.

Edgemont, S.D., Nov. 5.—The posse which started from here Monday night have captured twenty of the Indians who recently fought to escape arrest. The Indians prepared for a fight, but the Indian policeman with the posse, Charley Blackelk, went to them and after a talk of two hours the Indians mounted their horses and gave up their guns and asked to be taken to Edgemont. There are still two wounded Indians out.

Flagman Blamed for Disaster.

Trenton, N.J., Nov. 5.—The coroner's jury, which investigated the accident at Washington's crossing on Oct. 17, which resulted in the death of 17 men and injuring 40 more yesterday, found a verdict blaming Jacob Saums, flagman of the work train, which was hit, for not having gone back a sufficient distance to properly warn the second train.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Strange Oklahoma Murder.

Stroud, Okla, Nov. 5.—Nine miles southwest of Stroud an unknown man rode up to the house of Mrs. Ames, shot and killed Mrs. Ames and the hired man, Henry Jackson, and seriously wounded Miss Ames, aged 19, shooting her in the shoulder. The murderer escaped. The motive is not known.

Child Killed by Automobile.

New York, Nov. 5.—Margaret Vohn, one-year-old, was killed, and her aunt, Mrs. Chas. Faulkner, and Mrs. Faulkner's daughter, Helen, 2-year-old, were knocked unconscious yesterday by an automobile delivery wagon.

Mother Saw Baby Die.

LeRoy, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The two-year-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith was instantly killed by an Erie train yesterday. The child's life was crushed out just as the mother reached out her hands to drag it from danger.

Kicked to Death.

Manila, Nov. 5.—Yesterday, while playing around a barn adjoining the village, Robert, the nine-year-old son of Jos. McKay, was so badly kicked by a horse that he lived only a few hours. His skull was frightfully smashed.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

MR. AYLESWORTH'S SPEECH.

London Police Officers Coming to Canada to Take Rowe Back.

London, Nov. 5.—(C.A.P.)—J. A. Pease, M. P., Liberal, speaking at Darlington Tuesday night, said he believed that he was one of the few members who had been elected after advocating reciprocity with the colonies, but he would not pledge himself to any particular method till he knew what the colonies were prepared to offer us.

One hundred and twenty South Russian agriculturists sailed Tuesday by the steamer Mount Temple for Canada. They will settle in the neighborhood of Winnipeg.

The provincial newspapers, other than publishing the cable report of Mr. Aylesworth's speech, made no comment, but the cables are headed in the Birmingham Daily Post, "A Patriotic Speech;" in The Liverpool Daily Post, "Noble and Patriotic," and in The Manchester Guardian, "Temperate Counsel."

A correspondent in France writes an interesting note of the Canadian commercial men one meets here in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's plan. He believes that the erection of a British tariff wall will greatly increase Franco-Canadian trade.

The St. James' Gazette says: It is to be hoped that the excess of somewhat loose and foolish talk which has been excited on both sides of the Atlantic by the Alaska award will receive a check from the dignified, temperate speech of Mr. Aylesworth.

City police officers will arrive in Toronto on Monday next, for the purpose of bringing back A. S. Rowe, charged with embezzling funds belonging to the Great Fingall Company.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

New Australian Senators Block Eastern Extension Agreement.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—From advices received yesterday morning by Sir Sandford Fleming, it appears that the Australian Senate has not voted against the ratification of the agreement entered into with the Eastern Extension Company, but have blocked the measure indefinitely. The opponents of the agreement have a majority of 20 in the Senate, and they passed a vote of censure upon the Government by defeating a motion to adjourn.

Sir Edmund Barton, before taking a seat upon the bench, was forced to concede the demand for a conference of representatives of the partners in the Pacific cable. He, however, took the extraordinary course of allowing the Eastern Extension Company to open offices in Melbourne, although the contracts permitting them to do so had not been ratified.

Writing to Sir Sandford Fleming, Hon. W. G. Higgs of the Commonwealth Senate says: "It is my earnest hope that the protesting partners will hold out for a conference, and all the conference will protest against the Eastern Extension agreement. We can, under clause 80 of our Post and Telegraph Act, keep the Eastern Extension out of Victoria and Queensland. If we do so, the Pacific cable is bound to pay. If we do not, I am sure the Eastern will get most of the business."

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Engine Drops Through Bridge Down Deep Canyon.

Nelson, B.C., Nov. 5.—Passengers arriving Wednesday night from the coast give details of the narrow escape of their train from destruction on Sunday night last. Shortly after leaving North Bend the train, which was crowded with passengers, ran into a big log which had rolled down from the mountain. The engineer stopped the train to see if the engine had been injured by the shock. When stopped the engine and tender were out on a high trestle over a canyon a few feet in from the French River. The trainmen had partially got off when the bridge collapsed, taking with it the engine into the Fraser River. If it had not been for the log the train would have gone with the engine. The passengers presented an address and diamond locket to the engineer and fireman for their prompt action.

GRAIN YIELD IN NORTHWEST.

Fifty Million Bushels of Wheat or 16 Bushels an Acre.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 5.—The Northwest Grain Dealers' Association issued the following estimate yesterday of the wheat and grain crop of 1903 for Manitoba and the Northwest Territories:

Wheat, 3,123,663 acres at 16.1 per acre, 50,290,974 bushels.

Oats, 1,101,333 acres at 36.5 per acre, 40,198,654 bushels.

Barley, 381,135 acres at 29.7 per acre, 11,319,709 bushels.

Flax, 64,639 acres at 9 per acre, 581,751 bushels.

Dairy Experts Meet.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The second annual conference of Canadian Dairy Experts is in progress in the new Railway Committee room of the House of Commons. A large number of delegates from the different provinces are present. Among the subjects dealt with yesterday were: "How to Secure Co-operation of Dairy Farmers," Prof. H. H. Dean; "The Trade from the Exporter Standpoint," R. M. Ballantyne; "Preservation and Safe Transportation of Dairy Products," J. A. Ruddick; "The Most Common Defects in Cheese and Butter During 1903," A. W. Woodhead.

PULLED GUN TOWARDS HIM.

A Rosebank Farmer Carried a Gun on His Plough.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—Thomas Garnet, a young Rosebank farmer, was ploughing with a gun on the plough. He pulled the gun towards him, muzzle first, when the trigger caught. The charge entered his heart, causing instant death.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Bereaved.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—The death of the mother of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Madame Addine Ethier Laurier, occurred Tuesday afternoon, at the town of St. Lin, at the advanced age of 81 years. The deceased was the second wife of Sir Wilfrid's father, the marriage occurring when the Premier was seven years of age, but she always looked after his training work with such sollicitude and affection that the relation between them was always of mother and son. Sir Wilfrid left for St. Lin yesterday to be present at the funeral on Friday.

Marine Kills Himself.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 5.—Robert Atkins, aged 27, a marine from the British gunboat Goldfinch, shot himself dead in a hallway on Grafton street yesterday afternoon. Atkins was a wardroom steward on the ship. On Sunday night he stole $100 from two of the officers and came ashore. The police were looking for him, and fearing arrest for desertion and theft, he took his life.

Warrant for Lynchehaun.

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—Assistant United States Attorney LaFollette says a warrant may be sworn out against James Lynchehaun, the released Irish fugitive, in a further effort to have him sent back to Ireland, to serve out his life sentence. Lynchehaun is charged with assault on his landlady in Ireland, and in recent extradition proceedings was released.

Fatal Live Wire.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Alexis Sarazin, aged 30, a lineman in the employ of the Ottawa Electric Light Company, was electrocuted yesterday morning at the corner of O'Connor and Metcalfe streets. He was engaged in joining a couple of wires, when one of the pieces got crossed by a live wire. Sarazin received a current of 3,000 volts, which killed him instantly.

Murderer Commits Suicide.

London, Nov. 5.—An individual shot and mortally wounded two Armenians, close to the headquarters of the Hentchazist Society, at Peckham Rye, yesterday afternoon, and then shot himself dead. He is supposed to have been connected with the Sasgouni.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

Russians Demand on China.

Tokio, Nov. 5.—Reports from Pekin say that Russia now threatens to assume sole charge of the Government of Manchuria, unless China promptly dismisses Yuen, the Taotai of Mukeden, and decapitates the Mandarin who recently punished disorderly Chinese bandits in Russian employ. This causes intense indignation here.

To Open New Mines.

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 5.—Hiram Donkin, formerly general manager of the Dominion Coal Co., who has been in conference with President Jas. Ross for several days, announced last night that the company would make important developments in the near future and open up three mines.

Universal Testimony.

"The building was not able to hold the crowd that wished to hear Mr. Pearse," says a Toronto paper. "Scores and hundred were turned away, the immense edifice being filled," says a London paper. "I have heard him six times and will hear him again," says Mr. R. J. Winch. No man has in years taken the hearts of the people by storm as has Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, who will lecture in the George street church to-morrow night. Tickets 25c. 1d

See That You are on This List.

St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild will the first of the week have a reserved seat subscription list open for their concert on December 2nd. This event will be equal to, if not better than, any yet arranged by the young men, and as the list of strictly first class events in Peterborough this season will be decidedly small, a large number of tickets have already been spoken for. The following will present the programme:—Miss Tina Crawford, Scotland's greatest contralto, as much sought after as Jessie Maclachlan.

Donald McGregor, one of the best baritones that has ever appeared in Peterborough.

Miss Jessie Irving, an exceptionally high class elocutionist, and

A splendid orchestra, making one of the finest programmes to be heard. 1d

CROSSED THE ATLANTIC TO MARRY HER LOVER.

Wedding at St. John's Church—Mr. W. B. Wareham and Miss Edith Lovelace the Contracting Parties.

"I've crossed the wide ocean,
I've sailed the seas over,
I've sailed the seas over for thee."

At St. John's church, at 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the wedding of Miss Edith Lovelace, of London, England, and Mr. William B. Wareham, who is employed at the Cereal Works, and is an Englishman by nationality, was celebrated by Rev. J. C. Davidson.

The bride has been in Canada about a fortnight, having come over expressly for the interesting event solemnized yesterday.

The bride, who was dressed in a gown of blue silk, with a cream hat trimmed with white lilac, and who carried a bouquet of white carnations, was supported by Miss Mary Chilton of town, who, in turn, wore a dress of brown cloth with white and pink trimmings, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was supported by Mr. W. C. Simmons, while Mr. Charles Simmons gave the bride away.

Mr. and Mrs. Wareham, who received numerous costly presents, will reside at 301 Townsend street.

A QUIET WEDDING AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Nuptials of Mr. Fred A. McBain of Cavan and Miss Edith McConnell of Emily Township.

The marriage of Miss Edith McConnell, of Emily Township, to Mr. Fred A. McBain, of Cavan, was performed by Rev. J. C. Davidson at St. John's church at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. E. M. McBain acted as best man while the bride was assisted by her sister Miss Ethel McConnell.

The bride was married in a dress of grey nibiline and white silk, while her going away gown was one of blue serge trimmed with white silk and applique. The bridesmaid, Miss Ethel McConnell, wore a white lawn muslin, trimmed with lace and ribbon.

The happy couple will reside in Cavan township.

A NEW MANAGER.

Mr. J. E. Wilcox, of Hastings, Takes Charge of the Local Mutual Life Office.

The Hastings Star says: "Mr. J. E. Wilcox, who recently disposed of his insurance business here, left Hastings on Monday for Peterborough, where he will take charge of the office of the Mutual Life Assurance Co., of Canada, in that town, having accepted the position of district agent of Peterborough county for that company. Mr. Wilcox has only been in the insurance business for a few years but during that time has proven that he has the ability for a higher position, hence his new office with another company." Mr. Wilcox succeeds Mr. Kelsey Hall, who for some time has been the local manager for the Mutual Life Company.

N. C. O. CLASS.

Held by Sergt.-Major Brittain in Drill Hall Last Night.

There was a fair attendance at the Non-Commissioned Officers' Class held by Sergt.-Major Brittain in the armouries last night, the squad being put through the facings and similar preliminary movements. The class will meet every Wednesday night at 8.15 o'clock sharp. This year there will be about twenty members, most of whom are members of the 57th Regiment, some however, are recruits. At all future drills men will turn out in uniform according to military regulations.

Give-Away Saturday—that's what Gough Bros. call it, because they give away a Watch to every buyer of $8.00 worth of goods or over. You'll be there, of course.

NOTICE.

All those having accounts owing the late W. A. Sanderson, watchmaker and jeweller, will please call and settle their accounts at the store, on or before the 15th day of November, 1903, as after that date the estate will hand them over to their lawyers for collection. 3d101

OPENING DANCE OF THE NEVER LEARN CLUB.

About Forty Couples Present Last Night—Delightful Time Spent.

The first dance of the season of the "Never Learn Club" was held in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, last night, when a large number of persons was present. It is a matter of common observation in town that the "Never Learns" always succeed in having a delightful time at all of their fortnightly "hops," and the opening one was no exception to the general run. It will add a great deal to the name of the Club if all the dances of the coming season are as entirely successful as last night's.

There were about forty couples present who apparently had a truly delightful time from 8.30 to 11.30 o'clock. Miss McCabe presided at the piano in a very capable manner. It can safely be said that the next dance of the "Never Learn Club" will be looked forward to with considerable pleasure by all who were their last night.

THE SINGER COMPANY MAY GO TO OTTAWA.

The Journal Sees a Probability of Securing the Industry.

It appears from the following item, the authority for which is the Ottawa Journal, that the Capital is likely to secure the works of the Singer Manufacturing Company:

"Mr. T. W. McDermott, real estate agent, returned from New York yesterday, where he has been in connection with the proposed location of the Singer Sewing Machine Company in Ottawa East. Mr. McDermott had a conference with the management, and has returned very sanguine as to the chances of Ottawa East for securing the industry. He says that nothing definite will be done for at least two weeks but by that time there will be a meeting of the directors of the company at which the different propositions made to them by Canadian towns and cities will be considered. From what they said to Mr. McDermott he says he believes that the proposition he has made will be among those most favourably considered.

"A representative from Cornwall was in New York a few days before Mr. McDermott, but the latter gentleman says he showed them the many advantages that the Ottawa district held over any of the others and that they were greatly impressed."

REDUCTION IN NUMBER OF C. P. R. EMPLOYEES

Is Confined Entirely to Maintainance of Track.

The Local Staff not Likely to be Affected—Present Traffic is Heavy and not Decreasing.

Reports have been current to the effect that the Canadian Pacific Railway was inaugurating a systematic reduction of its staff, and investigations have been instituted by the Examiner to ascertain if there was any indication of that reduction visible among the local staff of the company. The reports to the effect that business was falling off, would seem to be unfounded, at least as far as this province is concerned, because inquiry gives the information that local traffic is as heavy as it has ever been, and that there are no signs of a shortage of business. In view of this fact, it is hard to see how a reduction in the operating staff would be possible, because the present staff is not too numerous to handle the business.

It is found, however, that there is a curtailment being made in one branch, at least, of the company's operations. This is the maintenance department, and on Tuesday night about forty Italians left Peterborough for the east. These men have been employed on track work between here and Toronto, and were ordered to suspend operations. Of course it has always been the custom of the company to suspend track work to a large extent during the winter months, but the men are not usually called in so early as has been done this year.

While as yet the business of the railway, at least in so far as Ontario is concerned, has held its own, it may be that the company anticipates that the depression in business which is being felt in the United States, will affect Canadian traffic, and a preparation is being made to meet it. The gross business of the C.P.R. however, it is stated, has shown a decrease for the last few weeks over that of last year, and this is accounted for by the fact that the crop of wheat in the west has not been as heavy as that of last year, and that, in addition to this, the Canadian Northern Railway has hauled a considerable portion of the wheat to the head of the lakes, whereas in former years the whole bulk was handled by the C.P.R., so that the entire decrease in business is experienced in the western trade.

So far as the clerical and operating staffs in Peterborough are concerned, no reduction in their number is contemplated.

PROMINENT WARKWORTH MAN PASSED AWAY.

Deplored Death of Mr. Royal Platte Hurlbut at the Age of 79 Years.

The sad death of Mr. Royal Platte Hurlbut, of Warkworth, who has been a resident of that village for 60 years, occurred on Friday, October 30th, at the ripe age of 79 years. The deceased who was well known all over Peterborough county, was for 40 years clerk of Percy township, and for 51 years Division Court Clerk.

His funeral which took place on Sunday afternoon, November 1st, was attended by 115 Masons, in procession, of which order he was for a number of years a faithful member. In his demise Warkworth loses perhaps its most respected and revered citizen, the lack of whose influence will be keenly felt. He leaves a wife and four children.

A HALLOWE'EN PRANK IN LOCAL POLICE COURT.

Cases Before Police Magistrate Dumble —Chased the Girls and got 6 Months.

R. J. Frise has a cow which on Saturday night indulged in what proved to be an expensive Hallowe'en joke, for the animal broke into Mrs. A. B. Spence's garden and in a cowardly fashion began to make shorthorn work of the shrubs, small trees and windows. At the Police Court this morning the owner vouched for the bashfulness of the animal, but was, nevertheless, fined $4.60, to be paid in 10 days.

Daniel Egan was charged with vagrancy. In answer he admitted that he had been leading a retired life for the past week, but added that he had been railroading at Lindsay all summer. Chief Rowzel gave evidence to the following effect:—

"Last night about 9 o'clock, on Simcoe street, I heard a child scream. A woman told me a man was chasing a little girl. I arrested prisoner, who had no money on him and was a stranger. I later arrested Fred Cook, his chum."

In sentencing Mr. Dumble said, "Time is no object to you. You worked all summer with good wages and have nothing left. You will come out of gaol wealthier and cleaner." He got six months in the Central prison.

Fred Cook appeared on the same charge, but was dismissed with a warning to move out of town without delay.

THE HASTINGS BRIDGE HAS NOW BEEN REPAIRED.

Rotten Sleepers Have Been Replaced by Iron Girders From Scotland.

The bridge over the Trent River at Hastings, which has been condemned for some time past, has been thoroughly repaired during the past two weeks, and was again opened for traffic on Saturday last. The wooden sleepers, rendered rotten by both rain and old age, have been replaced by iron girders imported especially from Scotland, while new four inch planking has been laid laid down. The painters are at work, putting on the finishing touches to the structure.

It will be very gratifying to all who use the bridge to any extent to know that it has been so thoroughly repaired, and will stand any amount of heavy traffic for some time to come.

THE C. G. E. ANGLERS' ANNUAL BANQUET.

Izaak Walton's Followers Spent Enjoyable Evening.

Exchange of Reminiscences of Fishing Expeditions—The Club's Past—Interesting Toast List.

For four years the C. G. E. Angling Club has made it a part of its programme for the season to conclude it with a banquet participated in, if possible, by all the members of the club. These events are becoming more and more interesting, and that held last night in Long's Palm Parlours, was described as being the most successful from every point of view, of any hitherto held. Incidents in the meetings of the club during the past season were recalled, and considerable pleasure was extracted from a recital of the enjoyable outing in which the members had gained.

The reputation which fishermen have gained for using extravagant terms in describing sizes and weights of catches of the finny tribe, would appear to be hardly deserved by the members of the C. G. E. Angling Club. Their addresses last night were characterized by a modesty that was hardly to be looked for from an association of this character.

The membership of the club numbers thirty-five, to which number it is limited, and it has become such a popular institution that it is now considered something of an honour, as well as a great source of pleasure, to be a member of it.

The banquet last night was attended by a goodly number of the members, and was a highly successful affair. The Commodore of the Club, Mr. J. A. Sharpe, was toastmaster, while Mr. Patterson occupied the vice-chair, and seated, surrounding the tables, were Anglers Bradburn, Shannon, Shepherd, (secretary,) J. Wilson, Anderson, Trombley, (chef de cuisine), Williams, Brown, B. Scott, Carlyle, Robertson, Bogley, Tovey, Patterson, sr., Patterson, jr., Walker, Breckenridge, Fuller, Gerrard, Panter, G. Scott, McCabe and Munro.

The menu was one of unusual excellence, and was a striking evidence of the culinary abilities of the Long establishment, and that those present fully appreciated the discussion of the tempting viands provided, was made amply evident. The serving was a noteworthy feature; it being given an additional touch by the appearance of the waiters, who were all in full dress.

The desires of the inner man having been fully satisfied, the Commodore proposed the first toast, that to "The King," which was honoured in the usual patriotic manner. "Canada, our Home," was next proposed by Mr. J. G. Gerrard, in a ringing patriotic speech. He referred to the fact that Canada was making rapid strides in all lines, the development of which was calculated to build up the country, and that no other country in the world could boast of as rapid a development relatively. Her industries, which are of a varied nature, are all in a healthy condition, and there is a great future in store for this land. The natural resources were being made to contribute to the wealth of the inhabitants, who were all prosperous and contented. This toast was received by a hearty singing of "The Maple Leaf." Mr. George Tovey, in responding to the toast, said it was a great pleasure to speak in honour of a toast to his adopted home. There were so many points of view from which Canada might be looked at, any one of which might form the subject of an appreciative address, that it was hard to decide upon what line to speak. When looked at from the standpoint of the hunter and fisherman, it was a veritable paradise, and the hunting grounds par excellence. He had enjoyed fully his past associations with the club in the Land of the Maple.

Officiating Ananias Begley favoured the gathering with a humourous monologue. The toast to "The best sport in the world—fishing," was assigned to Angler T. Walker to propose, which he did in a most appropriate speech. It was responded to by Angler C. B. Robertson, who said that the sport represented by the Angling Club was truly the best sport in the world, and the sport enjoyed during the season when fishing might be prosecuted was heightened by the closing of the season banquet. Angler Jos. Panter also spoke in response to this toast, giving a number of humourous reminiscences of fishing expeditions. He paid a high tribute to the culinary abilities of the chef of the Club, Mr. J. Trombley, saying that considerable of the pleasure of the fishing trips was due to the work of Mr. Trombley. He hoped that the pleasant expeditions of the past season would be repeated in the years to come and said that he would be found lined up with his worm can and fishing pole. Angler Gilbert Scott followed with a solo, "Mary of Argyle." The next toast was that to "The Mayflower and his Skipper." The "Skipper," Mr. J. R. Donell, unfortunately was unable to be present, and the secretary read a letter from him expressing his regret at his inability to participate in the banquet. Chef Trombley responded to this toast in the absence of Mr. Donell.

One of the officials of the Club is something of a poet and at this juncture the secretary was called upon to give one of the creations of verse. It is as follows:—

A FISHING STORY.

Now, all you great big fishermen,
Just pay attention, please,
And I'll tell you a funny story
While you're sitting there at ease.

One summer day we took a trip
To that fishing spot, White Lake,
We pitched our tent upon the rocks,
And everything snug did make.

The cook just then he had the pork
And beans, and taters, brown;
He asked us all to take a dish,
To see how they went down.

We all enjoyed that meal so nice,
But Wilson, he was sorry,
The beans began to swell in him,
And a belt he had to borry.

He gave a gasp, just once or twice;
His gills were awful pale;
I think he never ate so much
Without White Label Ale.

Some stories we did tell that night,
While the skeeters were a-holdin'
A meeting on the rosy face
Of our genial friend, Tom Moulden.

We went to bed soon after that
To dream of game and fishes,
And how the cook would fix them up
In choice and tasteful dishes.

But all at once we heard a moan—
The boys they were a-snickering—
A great big ant had perched himself,
And Freddy's nose was tickling.

He gave a mighty leap just then,
And cussed, and raved, and swore;
Then took another little nap—
But the ant it stung him more.

The Brat was frantic now, for sure.
To the woods he ran away;
Poor Brat, it was a dreadful night
When you slept among the hay.

John Brown, he told a story then
Of a fish that was a miner;
And relates with pride the day he caught
A humble little shiner!

Bert Scott is quite a Nimrod, too,
But snakes he hates to touch;
He never dreamt so bad before
The night he ate so much.

Joe Panter's quite a useful man,
The tea he sometimes brews;
He helps the cook to get the wood
To boil the soup and stews.

And Patterson's an expert shot,
He's 'Andy with a gun—
He scours the woods in search of game
And then returns with none.

Another sport we all admire;
His name we call Millard,
A stove pipe smudge he played on us,
Along with Jack Girard.

The Shepherd walked the woods at night,
When the skeeters they were pesky.
The sheep and calves he tried to catch,
But the creatures were too frisky.

In arguments, we have at times,
Munro is quite a talker,
In songs and speech you cannot beat
Our sombre friend Tom Walker.

From Ireland where the Shannon flows,
Come Begley and O'Brien,
And Scotland too—she's proud to own
Her son named Bob MacEwan.

Our Commodore a Sharpe man is,
A son of Erin's sod,
The sunfish, perch, and old shoes too,
Are victims of his rod.

To absent ones our greetings send,
We miss these sporty gents,
'Tis very sad to think of them,
We feel like forty cents.

A visitor we had at camp,
At times he did make merry.
He ate us out of house and home,
And then drank all our sherry.

We broke up camp and sailed away,
With hearts full of misgiving,
We got to Lakefield very wet,
It's a wonder we're a living.

We have to thank our steam boat man,
To him we'll give a cheer.
We'll drink his health for saving us,
To him we'll give a cheer.

So then we took the 'bus to town,
Our mirth was full and plenty,
Arrived at home all tired out,
And with our stomachs empty.

We bid adieu, to all good times,
And the fun we had together,
Next year from White Lake we shall come
We hope in better weather.

"THE BARD."

The toast list was then handed to Angler Patterson, who proposed the toast to "The Commodore of the best Club in the world." To this Commodore Sharpe responded, saying that he considered it no small honour to hold the position of Commodore of the Club. He had enjoyed most pleasant associations with the members of the Club, and hoped to join them again next year. He thought that were it not for the fact that they had the "best chef in the world" their enjoyment on the trips would not be as great. A French chef is regarded as the king of good cooks, but in the Club's case they went one better with a French-Canadian chef.

Following this, Angler Walker gave a solo, the Club joining in the chorus, "Cock Robin," and followed it with an encore, "Red Herring." Angler Shepherd then proposed the toast to "Our Absent Friends." There were many, he said, who had enjoyed pleasant associations with the Club in the past, but who had removed from town, and were necessarily absent from the gathering. They were missed by those present, and it was a pleasure to him to recall to mind the associations of the past. Angler Munro responded to this toast in a neat speech. Angler Panter also spoke in response to the toast. Angler Fuller also spoke briefly on this toast. Angler Munro was called upon for a recitation and responded, giving a Dutch dialect selection to the pleasure of all present.

A presentation made to the member, who during the season had caught the largest fish. This season that honour belonged to Angler John Brown and as a result Secretary Shepherd presented Mr. Brown with a trawling spoon and bait.

Angler J. Wilson proposed the toast to "The Ladies," which was responded to by Anglers Anderson, Bradburn, McCabe and G. Scott, each of whom did credit to themselves and their subject. Angler Tovey gave a reading, the subject of which was "Woman." Secretary Shepherd followed with a solo, rendered in a pleasing manner. The toast to the "Press" was honoured in the usual way, and responded to by the representatives present. The last toast of the evening was that to "Our Host," which Commodore Sharpe proposed. This was the fourth successive year that the Club had gathered at the same place to hold their banquet, and each time they had been pleased with the good things provided by Mr. Long, but he thought that this year he had surpassed even his best efforts of former occasions. Mr. Long responded in a few words. This, with the singing of the National Anthem, brought to a close one of the most pleasant gatherings the Club has ever had.

LAKE FRONT TOWNS STILL AGITATING

For Connection With the C. P. R. and Quote High Freight and Passenger Rates.

The Toronto papers are still publishing despatches from the towns along the lake front, giving reasons for their agitation for C.P.R. connection. A despatch to the Toronto Star speaking of the service given by the G.T.R. says: "The rates charged are in some cases very exorbitant. James McLean, a traveller, says that the rate on sugar from Montreal to Port Hope is more than double the rate from Montreal to Peterborough. This lower rate, he claims, is owing to competition, which is lacking between Montreal and Port Hope. Then the return fare from Peterborough to Toronto, a distance of nearly 90 miles, is only 15c. higher than the fare from Port Hope to Toronto, a distance of only 63 miles.

"Many complaints are made of the mail service between Port Hope and Toronto. A letter posted in the office here at any time after 10 o'clock in the morning will not reach Toronto until 9 o'clock at night, which is too late for delivery, although several trains pass through during the day.

"The town of Peterborough will be strongly opposed to the C.P.R. changing its route so as to connect with these towns.

"The Ontario Electric Railway, which recently received a charter from the Ontario Government, claim that they intend to build an electric line from Brockville to Toronto, and will oppose the scheme."

VISIT TO VICTORIA.

ENGLISHMEN AT HOME IN THE CAPITAL OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Its History Inseparably Linked With the Ancient Hudson's Bay Company—People Well-to-do and Take Life Very Easily as a Rule—Story of the Hudson's Bay Company as It Relates to Its Beginning in Victoria.

Victoria, B.C., is said to be the one place, above all others on the American continent, where an Englishman may feel at home. The oaks and laurels and hollies of Victoria make it seem like a bit of old England dropped down at the door of the Pacific.

The history of the place is inseparably linked with the ancient Hudson's Bay Company, which won this portion of the continent for Britain's red banner in the long ago. While other coast towns are alive with the prospect of their future, Victoria is complacent in the glory of her past. She is proud of her honorable age. Her people hold fast to their old traditions—and that's English.

Their little city is famed for its beauty, for its cleanliness, for its law and order, but its' as old-fashioned as the old-fashioned flowers in the door yards. In an alley there is a blackboard where the citizen writes with a piece of chalk his desire to sell his bull terrier pup, or to regain his lost pocketbook.

The merchants come down to their stores as late as they did 20 years ago, make their little profits and go home again. They have always taken things easy, and they will continue so to do.

People All Well-to-Do.

The trumpet call to arms that is sounding through the west, arousing new commercial forces, finds few recruits in Victoria. The people here are rich, or well-to-do; or, if neither, satisfied. "What's the odds," say they, "we are living well and enjoying ourselves in our own way. Don't bother us with your new-fangled notions about getting on."

That's their way of taking life, and they unquestionably have the right to cut their own cloth. The worst that can be said of them is that they lack ginger. They are good neighbors. They treat the stranger well. The Victorians are all right, except that they are running behind the schedule of the west.

Victoria has every reason to be proud of its association with the Hudson's Bay Company. The history of this old corporation reads like the fanciful tale of some adroit story-teller. It was organized in 1670 under a royal charter granted when Charles II. was King. It was dubbed the "Honorable Company of Merchant Adventures of England." The first sale of 3,000 beaver skins took place in a London coffee house, and Dryden, the poet, was there to write a verse about it.

The first Hudson Bay traders went so far from home that it took seven years for those at the most remote stations to get returns from their shipments. These pioneers in North American commerce endured great hardships and reaped rich rewards. The account of one expedition states that after all their stock in trade was disposed of, they added $20,000 worth of furs to their cargo by trading old clothes, bits of iron and trifles that otherwise would have been thrown away.

How Business Was Done.

The manner of communication embraced every possible means of transportation. Horses, boats, dog trains, and when none of these could be utilized the traders carried the goods upon their backs. All merchandize, either supplies or furs, was made into packages weighing 84 pounds.

That it took a strong man to qualify for service with the Hudson Bay is shown by the fact that when carrying was necessary each man was expected to move eight or ten packages (168 pounds) for a quarter of pieces (168 pounds) for a quarter of a mile without resting. Some of the men performed wonderful feats of strength and endurance while moving the goods. The record was established when one husky burden-bearer carried six pieces (504 pounds) one mile without resting.

The old records give some interesting accounts of how the great business was conducted. The chief factor was responsible for the good conduct of all. He was the exalted functionary and lord paramount. His word was final and his will supreme. He clothed himself in such a halo of dignity that his person was almost held sacred.

His dress consisted of a suit of black or dark blue cloth, white shirt, high collar, frock coat, velvet stock and straps to the bottom of his trousers. He wore a costly black beaver hat. When traveling this fancy piece of headgear was covered by an oiled silk cover, and his ordinary costume was supplemented by a long, flashy cloak with capes. His arrival or departure from a post was signalized by the firing of salutes.

The crew were required to lift him in and out of his boat. In camp his tent was pitched apart from those of his men. He had a separate fire, which the crew had to start before they looked after their own wants. The explanation is offered that all this ceremony was considered necessary because it had a good effect upon the Indians, and added to the dignity of the factor in the eyes of his subordinates.

To get possession of a factor's cast-off beaver hat made an Indian a big man among his people. The effort upon the factor was often as bad as the result upon the Indians was good; he frequently became so conceited as to be intolerable.

Posts on the Coast.

The company's posts on the coast of British Columbia were described as being mostly quadrangular posts, surrounded by tall palisades. Small cannon were mounted on these and kept loaded, ready for any emergency that might arise. The gates were closed to everyone after 9 o'clock at night, and a watch was set.

The movements of the day were regulated by the ringing of the fort bell. Strict discipline was enforced. The laborers' day closed at 6 o'clock, but clerks had to work until 9 in the evening. No irregularities were allowed, and all hands, regardless of their special tenets of religion, had to attend service every Sunday morning in the officers' mess room. The officer in charge read the service, and although he was often a Presbyterian or a Roman Catholic, he had to use the common prayer book of the Church of England.

The history of the operations of this great company shows that no other organization was ever more successful in dealing with the Indians. The red men were not allowed free access to the forts, but were always treated with civility and sometimes with hospitality. A lookout had to be maintained for bad Indians, and sometimes serious trouble could not be averted.

One account tells how some early traders came to grief. As a ship loaded with provisions came to anchor in a harbor it was boarded by Indians and every member of the expedition killed but one. The one member of the crew who succeeded in secreting himself managed to touch off the powder magazine while the Indians were pilaging the cargo, and over 100 of the marauders were blown to pieces. While the lesson was a costly one, it taught the Indians that the whites were dangerous to trifle with, and that the best way to get along was the peaceable way.

Creation of the Company.

Victoria was the creation of the Hudson's Bay Company. It was the outcome of a political necessity. When the Oregon boundary question became so acute and the inrush of American pioneers to the valleys of the Columbia and its tributaries in Washington and Oregon occurred, the Hudson's Bay people saw clearly that they would have to move farther north if they were to remain under the protection of the British flag. Victoria owes her existence to this move.

As a great commercial enterprise the Hudson's Bay Company had but one rival who accomplished more, and that was the East India Company, which won India for the British Empire.

The Hudson's Bay Company is now a gigantic mercantile concern. It has nearly 200 stores in Canada. No place is too large or too small for it to operate in. It has one post over 200 miles north of Dawson, and one that is over 1,000 miles north of Montreal. This last named post is about 200 miles nearer the north pole than the northernmost tip of Newfoundland. The man who runs this store for the company never includes palm leaf fans or straw hats in his orders, and he never has to have "out of season" sales on ear muffs. They are a staple article every day in the year.

The home office of the Hudson's Bay Company is still at No. 1 Lime street, London. The stockholders began drawing dividends in 1671, and the venerable organization still yields its annual profits. Every Englishman is justly proud of its great record.

Great Port for Sealers.

Victoria's more recent claim to attention arose from its being the great port for sealers. The industry was at its best in the early nineties, and the fleet of vessels hailing from Victoria at that time numbered 60. There are now 42 vessels in the fleet, and half of them are at anchor in the harbor here, with nothing to do. They are dead capital to their owners. The Victorians are still very bitter over being barred from the Behring Sea sealing grounds. They still engage in what is called coast sealing, and this method of taking the seal is the most interesting, most humane and most skillful. The season begins in January, when the fur-bearers are returning to their rookeries in the north. They are found anywhere from 10 to 200 miles from the coast. Each schooner will have seven small boats, each manned by three men, two to pull the oars and one hunter. The white hunters use a high-grade shot-gun, and the Indians a spear. The seals live on the surface of the water, except when they are feeding. The hunters try to surprise them when they are asleep. A seal snores like a drunken fat man. It has two postures in the water when asleep, one in a natural position, with only its head showing above the surface, and the other on its side, with its head protected by one flipper.

Smoking in Banks.

In every bank in New York there is a rule against smoking, and it is doubtful if any depositor or visitor ever saw a coil of tobacco smoke sifting through the atmosphere in the big counting houses—that is, no visitor who is excluded from the building promptly when the bank closes. But if the curious could squeeze their way through those closed portals in the afternoon they would be treated to a very different sight.

The rules against smoking in all the big banks of the city apply only during banking hours. After the doors are closed and locked one can transform himself into a human volcano with perfect freedom—and he does. And "he" is legion.

Moths and Butterflies.

Butterflies are active in the day and fold their wings together when they settle. Their antennæ end in clubs. The fore and hind wings never hook together. The chrysalis is angular and not inclosed in a cocoon or silken case.

Moths, on the other hand, are usually active in the dusk or at night and do not fold their wings together on settling. The feelers are very various in shape, but rarely clubbed. The fore and hind wings are generally fastened together during flight by a "hook and eye" arrangement. The chrysalis is not angular and is inclosed in some sort of case or cocoon.

Jewels on an Idol.

The jewels of an Indian idol must be worth stealing if many of those remarkably hideous images possess such valuable head ornaments as one made for the idol Parthasathy, in the Triplicane temple at Madras. The ornament is worth some 50,000 rupees and is made of sovereign gold studded with diamonds, emeralds and rubies, the largest emerald being valued at 1,000 rupees and the biggest ruby and diamond at 500 rupees apiece.

Full.

The doctor was sanguine.

"We're going to pull you through!" quoth he.

"By the leg?" querulously demanded the patient, a sordid man, whose soul, even in that extreme moment, brooded on the matter of expense.

THE WORD MELODRAMA.

It Has Drifted From Its Derivation and Original Significance.

Nowadays "melodrama" is in general use as denoting a purely sensational play, with an all but impossible hero, heroine and villain among the characters represented. Formerly the word kept more closely in its signification to actual derivation. "Melodrama" is compounded of the Greek words melos, a song, and drama, an action, a play, and was applied to two sorts of performances when it first came into use.

It signified a play, generally of the romantic school, in which the dialogue was frequently relieved by music, sometimes of an incidental and sometimes of a purely dramatic character. On the strength of his "Pygmalion" J. J. Rousseau is credited with the invention of this style. Some of the so called English operas of the older school, such as the once famous "Beggar's Opera" and the once popular "No Song, No Supper," are in reality true melodramas.

In the second place "melodrama" was applied to a peculiar kind of theatrical composition in which the actor recited his part in an ordinary speaking voice, while the orchestra played a more or less elaborate accompaniment appropriate to the situation and calculated to bring its salient features into the highest possible relief. The merit of the invention of this description of melodrama belongs to George Benda, who used it with striking effect in his "Ariadne auf Naxos," produced at Gotha in 1774.—London Globe.

The Ordeals of a Doctor.

It is often claimed by outsiders that having a profession dulls a woman's sympathies, but I cannot believe that this is true in the practice of medicine, where one side of the work is so immeasurably sad. I have seen a baby that came after fifteen years of waiting and hoping and was rejoiced over daily and hourly for a wonderful year suddenly struck down and gasp its little life out in a day with pneumonia. These are the times when it hurts to be a doctor, to find that all the knowledge that you possess, all the skill at your command, is as so much chaff before the wind. To have a woman cling to you, begging you to save her baby, is an ordeal to which no human being can grow callous. You must feel as though the brand of Cain were upon you when, with all your efforts, you cannot save the little life. Not years nor experience can lighten hours such as these.—Everybody's Magazine.

Storms of Old England.

In the year 944 in London alone 1,500 houses were blown down; in October, 1091, a great number of churches and 500 houses were destroyed; in 1235 it thundered for fifteen days consecutively. The dreadful night during which Cromwell's spirit passed has formed a theme for poet and partisan. And the great storm that "o'er pale Britannia passed" in November, 1703, the most terrible in British annals, also has its enduring record in poetry. It did damage in London to the amount of £2,000,000; over 8,000 people were drowned in floods in various parts of the country; twelve men-of-war, with over 1,800 men on board, went down in sight of land, and the Eddystone lighthouse, along with Winstanley, its inventor, was swept away.

A Personal Bill of Fare.

A squire of Andover once hired a brother of Patrick, who was in his employ. The terms were made with Pat before his brother's arrival, and the following conversation ensued:

Squire—I'll pay your brother one fifty a day, Patrick.

Patrick (bowing and smiling)—Yis, sor; yis, sor; and will he ate himself or will ye ate him, sor?

The squire thought that Dennis had better eat himself.

His Sobriety.

A gentleman who had grave doubts as to a servant's sobriety one day accused him of intemperance and as a test chalked a line across the floor and commanded him to walk along it.

The fellow looked at the line for a bit, then at his employer, and said: "No jokes, now, sir. Which line do you want me to walk on?"

Not Complaining of That.

"Some people say you have more money than brains," said the blunt person.

"I hope so," answered Senator Sorghum. "Most everybody I run across is trying to trade off brains for money."

The first steamer on the Thames was the Marjory in 1814. The Richmond followed her a year later.

Blind Swimmer's Straight Steering.

It is a standing puzzle that all blind swimmers are able to hold an almost perfectly straight course for very considerable distances, though no more guidance is given to them than some species of call or whistle coming from the winning goal. A blind man, in fact, desiring to go in a straight line possesses the curious power of being able to do so almost exactly. A provincial mayor instituted a series of contests in an open lake between blind men and ordinary ones of about equal skill and strength, and the result was marvelous so far as the straight steering of the blind was concerned.—London Chronicle.

Such Birds Come High.

There used to be in a store on Ninth avenue, New York, a very valuable canary whose owner and teacher, the wife of the German proprietor, refused an offer of $500 for it. Sometimes as one entered the place there came from a corner in the rear a liquid peal of music so sweet and high and clear that it sounded like a piccolo without the metallic shrillness of that instrument. In a small wicker cage a black and yellow canary waltzed round and round, never quiet, and as it danced it sang the air of "Lauterbach" from beginning to end without a false quantity, without missing or changing a note. When the solo was finished the bird whisked up to its perch, trilled an improvisation and then began the melody again, breaking off in the middle, warbling a little in self willed fashion and then finishing the air. It was a beautiful and unique performance.

The Iron Pillar of Delhi.

The famous iron pillar of Delhi is a solid shaft of wrought iron, 16 inches in diameter, and of a length that is variously reported. The total length is from 45 to 60 feet underground and above, including a capital of 3½ feet. The pillar contains about 80 cubic feet of metal, and weighs about seventeen tons. The metal is, of course, charcoal iron, made directly from ore in small billets; but how it was welded up no one can tell as no record exists of any early method of dealing with great masses of wrought iron. An inscription roughly cut or punched upon the column states that Rajah Dhara subdued a people in the Surdhu, named Vahlikos, and obtained with his own arm an undivided sovereignty on the earth for a long period. The date of the inscription has been referred to the third or fourth century after Christ, but on this authorities are at variance.

Another Mystery Solved.

"What do you suppose they made this Scotch whiskey of?"

"Alcohol, smoke and dialect."

During their stay at Versailles, the apartments formerly occupied by Louis XV. were reserved for the King and Queen, those of Mme. De Maintenon for the President and those of Marie Antoinette for Mme. Loubet.

BOTH CURED OF KIDNEY TROUBLE
BY
Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Benjamin Brooks, a well-known farmer of West Cape, P.E.I., tells of how his son was cured of Kidney Disease, and how he was cured of Backache.

The First Sign of Kidney Trouble.

He says: "Our little boy was troubled with kidney disease. We had tried many kinds of kidney pills but they only helped for a time. We got Doan's Kidney Pills and one box effected a perfect cure. About six weeks after this I caught a very bad cold that settled in my kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. I went to the drug store and got a box, took them according to directions and the result was that my back was completely cured. I believe they are the best kidney pill on the market to-day."

There is not a kidney trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Doan's Kidney Pills will not relieve or cure. The price is 50 cts. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 and may be procured at all dealers or from

LADYLOVE

... By ...

MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

As Jack Vanston stepped through the French window into the library at Creaswell he made half a motion to turn back. Ladylove was crying hard, her head buried in her folded arms on the big library table. Aunt Nan sat a little way off, frowning, yet beaming over a letter. She it was who caught sight of Jack and called to him with little excited breaks between her words:

"Don't go away, Mr. Vanston. You must help me make this headstrong child listen to reason."

"If she's badly in need of discipline suppose you let me take her for a walk this morning?" Jack said, pulling a rebellious curl that strayed down over Ladylove's neck. "She told me yesterday she hated me."

Miss Nancy shook her head. "I cannot permit the walk—now." She put such emphasis on the last word Jack could not choose but ask, "Why?"

"Oh, Ja-ck!" Ladylove wailed, sitting up, but keeping her face hidden. "It's because she wants me to marry that fat, pig eyed Sandy Corlew. He—he has written to her—proposing—fancy proposing that way"—

"I at least appreciate dear Sandy's fine deference to your natural guardian," Miss Nancy said, sitting a thought straighter and caressing the letter with two fingers. Then, in answer to the question of Jack's eyes, she went on: "Of course Ladylove will accept. She came here to establish herself"—

"I didn't! It was just because I thought you were lonely and wanted me—and there were so many of us at home one could well be spared," Ladylove broke in, "and I had rather go back to daddy and the pigs and the chickens and the children and have only calico frocks than marry this—this calf."

She was standing at the last word, one little foot stamping hard as she spoke. Jack dared not look straight at her—if he did he knew he should catch her in his arms and comfort her. That would ruin everything. It was clearly a case for diplomacy. He said soothingly to Ladylove, "Hush, naughty girl!" Then to Aunt Nancy: "I agree with you, Miss Cresswall. Sandy Corlew is a fine, solid fellow, who may always be depended on to do the right thing. But please let me see his letter—I'm not asking out of impertinent curiosity," as he saw denial in her face. "Do believe that! I—I have an idea—that—that you may not have understood quite what he meant."

Jack's breath came fast as he said it. He was by turns hot and cold. But desperate cases require desperate audacities. He bent toward Miss Nancy and half forcibly took the letter, read it through twice, folded it, read it again, then stood with it in his hand, the model of one impelled to speak, yet loath to obey the impulse. Miss Nancy, watching him as a bird watches a snake, at last snapped out: "Well, what's the matter? Do you find anything strange or startling in the fact that a gentleman has the courage and decency to say outright he wants to marry my niece?"

"I do not," Jack said; then in a constrained voice: "But—forgive me, Miss Nancy—has he said so? I think not."

"Why, bless and save us! Are you crazy?" Miss Cresswell demanded.

"Not a bit of it!" Jack retorted stoutly. "Only that you have misunderstood. Here is all the first page about how he has admired you all his life and now that he has reached man's estate 'hopes for a closer alliance.' And, then with a manly courage most admirable he sums up, 'My heart is set on marrying the one woman in the world for me—Miss Nancy Walton Cresswell.' Ladylove is Nancy Walton Cresswell on the family register, but whoever heard her called so anywhere else?"

"Oh, you can't mean that! It would be too ridiculous," Miss Cresswell said, but as she said it she turned away her head to hide the blush that spread even to her round white chin. Ladylove sprang at her like a mad thing crying out; 'It's truth, Auntie Nan! It must be true. Sandy means you; nobody else. And you'll take him, and I'll adore my Uncle Sandy. He's only nicely fat after all, and I'm sure a pig's eyes can be kind and funny"—

"Ladylove, you forget yourself!" Jack said, his voice heavy with reproof. Then to Miss Cresswell: "Honestly I cannot doubt that Sandy meant you. That was why I insisted upon seeing the letter. I had heard him say things which made me sure you misunderstood, and I did not want you to make a grave mistake."

"Why, the boy is ten years younger than I am," Miss Cresswell said weakly, stealing a glance at herself in the mantel glass.

"And looks five years older at the very least," Jack said. "That is one advantage of being so—ahem—well, so finely built. At least think it over. Tell him you'll take a week to consider his proposal"—

"You don't think I could be so indelicate as to accept—I mean to say either yes or no—under a fortnight," Miss Cresswell said. "I'll write to Sandy that I must consult my brother and shall possibly give him a definite answer at the end of a fortnight."

With that she clutched the letter and vanished. The door had hardly shut behind her when Jack had Ladylove tight in his arms and was saying to the curls on the top of her head: "Honey girl, would you believe I sat up two full nights concocting that epistle for the good fat witted Sandy? Even at the last I was afraid he'd see through it, although truly it is a document you can read pretty well any way you choose. My heart was in my mouth until Aunty Nan took the bait. Now we two have plain sailing. Before the fortnight is up we can be"—

"What?" Ladylove asked breathlessly, freeing herself and standing in front of him on tiptoe. He caught both her hands and made her a reverence, saying softly: "Happy and married. My governor sailed for home three days back. Just let him get here, and I'll show the gossips I'm no such bad match for you as they have tried to make me out. He meant to stay away another year, but I cabled him how my life's happiness was at stake. Oh, I didn't doubt you, not the least. I knew you'd be equal to love in a cottage. It is our friendly enemies I wanted to confound."

"I'm wondering," Ladylove said in an almost awestruck whisper, "what Aunt Nan's answer will be."

"I hope yes, for Sandy's sake," Jack said. "But one can never tell what is going to happen when one man proposes as another man disposes."

* * * * * * *

The gossips of Creston were duly confounded. Jack married Ladylove, with Aunt Nan's beaming approval, the day before Sandy Corlew's probation ended. Such a piece of news, of course, ran through the country life wildfire. Sandy heard it about sundown and rode straight and hard to Cresswell. He found Miss Cresswell upon the porch there, a figure of graciously mature womanhood, wonderfully enchanting in the softening dusk. In spite of feeling that he had been fooled and played with, Sandy could not speak even gruffly when he asked, "What's all this cock and bull story of Ladylove marrying that artist chap Vanston and going off with him in a coach and four?"

"Oh, it's a real romance, a beautiful one!" Miss Cresswell said, rising and giving him her hand. She did it half shyly, as though fearing it might be detained. It was a very white hand, plump and dimpled as a baby's. Sandy held it between both his own big palms, while the owner of it ran on: "You see it was love at first sight with Jack and Ladylove, but I had to be cool to him because he was strange. Not a soul we knew had ever heard of him. He understood and really acted very well; waited until his father came to speak up for him. Then there was no withstanding them. I had to let them marry offhand"—

"I think you might have at least told me," Sandy said, half resentfully.

Miss Cresswell blushed—blushed unmistakably and said: "There were reasons against it. I—you see, I did not quite know my own mind. Besides it might have seemed to you—well, precipitate"—

"No such thing," Sandy said stoutly. Even through his denseness he began to see how the land lay. He began to see, too, how he could save his vanity from smart. Miss Cresswell was rich and handsome and kind. At the worst she could but refuse him.

"Now I am here, tell me you'll marry me Christmas," he went on masterfully. Miss Cresswell said nothing, only let him take her in his arms.

Five minutes later she whispered softly: "You owe Jack something Sandy—until he read your letter I thought you wanted Ladylove."

"Oh, Jack is a wise guy!" Sandy said, with the accent of conviction.

Could Not Sleep At Night.

Was All Run Down.

Had No Appetite.

FOOD WOULD NOT DIGEST.

Mrs. I. W. Warner, Riverdale, N.S., is glad there is such a remedy as

Burdock Blood Bitters.

IT CURED HER AND WILL CURE YOU.

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unfailing virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B.B.B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

Love is unequally yoked with sickness. Labor is lightened by love, but love cannot lighten pain or relieve it. Many a man looks on at his wife's suffering willing to do anything to aid her and able to do nothing.

Sometimes, however, the husband's attention is directed to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and its remarkable cures of womanly diseases. He may not have much hope of a cure, but he is led to try the medicine, with the result that in almost every case there is a perfect and permanent cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity. It dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run-down "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled.

"In answer to your letter I will say, my wife commenced to complain twenty years ago," writes Lewis A. Miller, ex-Chief-of-Police, of 33 Prospect St., Weissport, Pa. "We have tried the skill of twelve different doctors. She took gallons of medicine during the time she was ill, until I wrote to you and you told us what to do. She has taken eight bottles of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription and six of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She can do her own work now and can walk around again and is quite smart."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

The Man Who Knew It All.

A Sixth avenue groceryman's boy appeared on the curb with a rat trap in his hand. Twenty pedestrians stopped at once and three dogs barked and leaped at the prisoner.

"Get out in the street!" shouted a voice.

"Give that rat a show!" added a second.

"Hold on till I get my dog!" piped a boy.

"Say, bub," interposed a fat man with a cane as he pushed his way into the crowd, "have you had any experience with rats? There's only one way to handle 'em. Let me take the trap."

With bad grace the boy surrendered it, and while some one held the fat man's cane he held the trap high over the street. When the spring door was opened six or seven dogs were waiting, and the rat didn't like the looks of things. He sprang from the door, twisted to the top of the trap and then jumped to the fat man's shoulder.

The crowd noisily fell back. The fat man yelled. The dogs butted in. One dog got the rat and four dogs got the fat man's legs. When that gentleman arose, his silk hat ruined, he demanded his cane. The holder had disappeared.

"Rats!" shouted the crowd.

And the fat man steamed fussily down the avenue.—New York Press.

A Tale of a Hated Dish.

There is a charming story told of the great French painter Corot. Being hospitable he frequently assembled his friends to dinner, and a dish of haddock and potatoes, which everybody hated, invariably followed the soup.

The friends, who thought Corot partial to the dish, always gave it when he dined with them. At last, in reply to the painter's query, they admitted that they detested the dish, but supposed he liked it.

Corot was grinning broadly. "My dear fellow, if you only knew how I hate the sight of it even. But Adele, my cook, simply adores haddock and potatoes. And it is no good—I dare not go against her wishes. It is as much as my place is worth. Not for worlds would my awe of Adele induce me to undeceive her as regards the value I attach to this one particular article of diet."

And for the sake of Adele this little group of great painters had for thirty years been eating a dish they could gone of them bear.

Cutting It Short.

"How long can you stay?" asked a hostess who had received an unexpected visitor coolly.

"No longer than I can help," was the crisp reply. "I have telephoned to have my trunk stay at the depot and to notify me of the first train I can take home. So sorry I can't stay longer."

A FAMILY QUARREL.

Its Result Ending After the Poet Shelley Had Interfered.

In his "Rossetti Papers" William Rossetti says that when Shelley was staying in the villa of the Gisbornes a most droll incident occurred. It appears that his servants, Giuseppe and Annunziata, who were man and wife, quarreled, and Shelley, hearing Giuseppe abusing his wife very savagely and also ill using her, rushed upon him with a pistol, shouting: "I'll shoot you! I'll shoot you!" The startled fellow ran for his very life, Shelley after him, till the servant, coming to a shrubbery of laurels, managed to slip under them, Shelley, in his eagerness, darting past him. The servant in a few minutes found it possible to dodge back into the house unperceived. Shelley, seeing him no more, at last went back to the house, where, to his unutterable surprise, he found Giuseppe and Annunziata sitting together in the most amicable manner, addressing each other as "caro" and "carissima." "But were you not quarreling even now?" exclaimed the perplexed poet. "Quarreling?" gasped Giuseppe in amazement. "No, signor, we never quarreled." "But I have been running after you in order to shoot you." "No, signor, you never ran after me, for I have been sitting here for the last hour or more. You must have fancied all this." And Giuseppe and Annunziata, who had both been considerably frightened, continuing to assure him that they had had no quarrel, and Mary Shelley, whom they had let into the secret, saying the same, Shelley was at last utterly mystified and inclined himself to believe that he must have fancied it.

Excessive Energy.

Energy is a fine thing, but, like steam, it needs a little restraint and careful guiding. If the safety valve doesn't work there's likely to be a breakdown or a blow up now and then. The nervousy, fidgety woman is a dreadful bore. She ruffles up the atmosphere and makes everybody wish she would take a vacation and rest up like sixty. Some of those people who fly around the fastest do the least work, and the proper thing to acquire is balance. Work as hard as you want to, but let up when the moment for letting up arrives. There is a limit to human endurance, and when you go beyond the limit you never get back into the valve of strong endurance and fine vitality. It is the man or the woman who knows how to work and how to rest who gets things done all fine and shipshape and without tearing the roof off its feet. These remarks may be blunt, like a chisel, but they're as true as the fact that the Lord made little apples.

Sales to noon, 215,100.

Messrs. McMillan & Maguire, stock brokers, Hunter street, have received the following stock market despatch:

Chicago,—Logan and Bryan selling December wheat at 77 7-8.

New York, Nov. 5.—Market opened generally heavy and lower and very much under influence of pressure in steel stocks. The traders were bearish and said they found some scattering, realizing elsewhere, which could not be called short selling. Cut in steel billets and general belief that this represented beginning of lower prices in other steel products caused weakness in U.S. Steel issues. Some selling orders in U.S.S. were given out by Shearson, Hammill & Co., this considered significant as Mr. Shearson was formerly comptroller of corporation. Metropolitan sold off on profit taking. Harris, Gates & Co. were again given supporting orders in Steel preferred, while selling by Savin & Wasserman was said to be for H. Weil.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

The rugby game last Saturday made the fact more that ever evident that if athletics in Peterborough are to be maintained as they should be in a town of the size and importance of Peterborough, and possessing as many sporting organizations as this town does, some arrangement whereby grounds better adapted for playing outside games, than the Oval, must be secured. At times when the play was exciting, the spectators crowded on the field, and the progress of the game was frequently retarded because of this fact. No one is to blame for this, particularly. All who were there went to see the game, and when their view was blocked by someone stepping in front of them, they naturally moved to a position from which they could with more facility see the players and the ball.

As far as the grounds themselves, there are none better in Canada, but there is no disguising the fact that they cannot much longer be used for the purpose to which they have been put, because of the facts, first, that there are no means of collecting a gate, without which no game can flourish, and second, because there is no adaquate provision made for spectators to witness the games, and, in the absence of a grandstand they cannot be blamed for encroaching on the space that should be reserved for the players.

The time has come when, if outdoor sports such as lacrosse, rugby, baseball, etc., are to be maintained and made successful proper grounds will have to be secured.

In this, the largest town in Canada, and than which there is no better sporting town, such grounds should prove a paying investment for any individual, club, or company which may establish them. When thirteen hundred persons will stand around the Oval for two hours to witness a lacrosse game, there can be no longer any doubt as to the sport-loving instincts of the Peterborough people, and should be ample proof that were proper, not to say comfortable, means provided whereby games might be witnessed, sports in town would be much more successfully conducted.

It is to be hoped that this matter will be taken up, and that when the season of summer sports opens next year, grounds which will be a credit not only to the town, but to the quality of sport indulged in by the athletic section of it, will have been provided.

RUGBY.

The Toronto News publishing a sketch of each player on the Varsity line-up, speaks of two Peterborough players in the following terms:

Next comes A. W. McPherson, the third half. Macpherson is playing senior this season for the first time, and so far has made a success of it. He hails from Peterborough, where he first played the game, having played on the intermediate champion team of that place for two seasons. Macpherson is a B. A., having graduated from Varsity a few years ago, and is now back at school studying medicine. This player's usefulness to his team comes in his dodging and running. He has plenty of speed, and although he only weighs 160 pounds, when he gets going he is a hard man to stop. Macpherson is only a fair catch, but has steadily improved since the first of the season, and is a willing worker. He punts fairly well, and uses good judgment in his work.

Frank Burnham, one of the scrimmages from Peterborough, where he played with the town team the first year they landed the intermediate O.R.F.U. championship. Burnham is a well-built chap, and a useful man to a team, either at the old or the new game. He played on the 'Varsity team in 1901, when they won the championship. This player will shape up at about 180 pounds when ready for a football game.

The statement is authorized that the Tuckett Company of Hamilton, the well-known tobacco manufacturers, are willing to give a $500 cup each year for competition between the winning teams in the Quebec and Ontario Rugby Football Unions. No strings are attached to the gift, the donors leaving the making of conditions to the two unions interested. There will be no interference with the playing schedule if this cup is to be played for, as is the case with the Minto and Stanley Cups, as the deciding match can always be played at the conclusion of the regular season, as the Dominion championship match has always been played.—Globe.

"Every team in the senior O. R. F. U. will quit from $300 to $500 ahead of the game this season," says Secretary Frank Woodworth. "This is pleasing, for all of them will be anxious to get in the game next season, and others, hearing of their good fortune, will want to go and do likewise."—Telegram.

How about the Intermediates, Mr. Woodworth?

The Rugby Club will practice this evening at 7.15 o'clock, when a large turnout is requested at the T. A. S. grounds.

Practically a new back division will represent the Wellesleys in their intermediate O.R.F.U. game at Sunlight Park on Saturday afternoon against the champion Peterborough team. Three new men will be seen in the black and white. Jack Carey, of St. Michael's College, and Roy Schooley and Bill Johnston, of Osgoode Hall will constitute the half-back line. Gibson and Foreman of the present half division will go up on the forward line. Capt. Percy Suckling sustained an injury to his kicking leg in the last game and will go back to full back. Charlie Matthews will again be found at quarter. With these changes the Wellesleys expect to register a decided victory. The men are all in good condition. They had a hard workout at Sunlight Park last night practising signal plays. A short game was played against the second team in which the seniors exhibited some fast scoring proclivities. They will be out again on Friday night for a light practice.—Globe.

BASKET-BALL.

The Athletics (Blue) met last night after practice and elected Mr. Harold Armstrong captain of the team for this season.

* * * *

The future games in the Basket Ball League promise to be very interesting. On Saturday night two games will be played. At eight o'clock the Athletics (Blue) will play the Arrows, while at nine o'clock the Brownies will meet the Alerts. These teams are all confident of victory and two fast and interesting games may be looked for. The admission fee for the two games will be ten cents in future, and the spectators will then be getting good value for their money. Two games for the price of one admission.

HOCKEY.

There is just now nearing completion at Brockville a magnificent covered skating rink, said to be the largest in Canada, outside of the arena of Montreal. Brockville has always been kept in the background by the absence of a suitable rink, and now that the want has been supplied there is much enthusiasm over hockey prospects, and there is much latent material for development. A meeting to organize a club will be held to-morrow evening, and it promises to be a record-breaker. The club may apply for admission to the eastern series of the O. H. A. with Cornwall and Kingston, or become associated with the proposed new hockey association, embracing Belleville, Kingston, Napanee, Cornwall, Ottawa, Morrisburg and other places.—Toronto Star.

* * * *

Wingham is the latest club to organize, and as usual the report says: "Wingham will have a team in the O.H.A." The Ontario body will be bigger than ever this year. It's the biggest hockey organization in the world, and the largest purely amateur body that the more strenuous sports ever knew.

By the way, why should not hockey be played in quarters instead of halves? It is a fast and streneuous sport, and half an hour of it straight away is enough to make the most wiry player slow up a bit. If it were played in four quarters with five minute rests, wouldn't it be better for the players? This is only a pre-convention suggestion. Think it over.—Telegram

Clarence Gorrie, the goal keeper of last year's Marlboro team, who was talking of going to Pittsburg, has located at Oshawa, where he will play for the new O. H. A. team that will represent that town this winter.—Port Hope Guide.

LACROSSE.

Mr. Frank Sachs, who has probably done more than any other man in England to advance the national game of Canada in the Old Country, writes to the London Sportsman:

"Great Britain vs. Canada. There seems every probability that the second contest under this title will take place in 1904. There will be a change of venue for, while the contest of 1898 was played at Kensington Oval, the second meeting will be in Toronto. It is not to be expected that the English team will be entirely representative, for it will, of course, be an amateur combination, as amateurism is understood by the M.C.C., but as far as it is possible to form a judgment at this early date, the side will be a thoroughly sound one in all departments of the game. Nothing official has yet been done in the way of selecting, but certain soundings have been taken, with results that are very promising. Quite half the season will doubtless go by before anything more definite is done, and it is hoped that the older players will maintain their form and that some brilliant new blood may come to light, even as the northerners, Coop and Leigh, did in 1902-03. It is expected that the team will reach Canada on July 1st, or thereabouts."

"One hears very little of the lacrosse that is played in Australia and New Zealand but the game thrives in those places even if it does not flourish exceedingly. In New Zealand some extra life was put into the game last season by reason of the energies of a veteran Shanesbrook player. But the game there is struggling though the preliminary stages, and the visit of a few Canadian players—not necessarily a team, would give it a much needed fillip. The possibilities of lacrosse are not yet grasped either by players or public. This is not surprising, for it has taken athletic England twenty years to understand them."

When you stop to think that home-made tea biscuit cost but five cents a dozen, is there any reason for buying at the baker's?

Made with Cleveland's Baking Powder they will taste better and will be more wholesome and appetizing than any you can buy.

UNHALLOWED ACT ON HALLOWE'EN.

A Bicycle Stolen From Geo. Edmison's, Smith Township.

Thomas McClellan, a young man belonging to Peterborough, about 19 years of age, and employed with Mr. George Edmison, of the 3rd concession of Smith, has reported to Chief Rossel, the theft of a bicycle from the sheds of Mr. Edmison's farm on Hallowe'en. The machine was a "Quickstep," black frame, and reversible handle bars. The young man had just cleaned and put his wheel in shape for the winter, and not liking to soil his mount, walked into town on Hallowe'en. When he returned to Smith he discovered his loss. If the wheel was not taken and concealed by way of a lark, any person seeing such a bike in use will do a kindness by reporting the matter to the owner or the police.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

Met and Transacted Routine Business Last Night.

The regular meeting of the Separate school board was held last evening, there being present Messrs. Murty, chairman, Henry, Hickey, Clancy, Goselin, Primeau and Kylie.

Rev Father McCol', the superintendent of schools, was also in attendance.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Accounts were received from: The water commissioners, $4.66; A. McDonald, $31.58; F. Cook, $16.54; T. Fitzimmons, $3; G. W. Green, $2.—Referred to the finance committee.

The following accounts were paid since last meeting on order of the property committee: M. McFadden, $46.43; T. Corkery, $9.23. The payments made were confirmed on motion of Messrs. Clancy and Hickey.

Reports of attendance for October were received as follows:

Central school—No. on roll, 222, average attendance, 193.

The Convent—No. on roll, 285; average attendance, 249.

LATEST NEWS FROM THE VILLAGE OF HASTINGS

Scow of Grain Sank in the Trent River

A few days ago Mr. H. M. Fowles, grain merchant of Hastings, got in a big scow laden with grain, which was moored at his elevator. Some men, apparently unaccustomed to such work, were given directions to unload all the bags. They, not thinking of the results, took out all the grain from one end first of all, which resulted in the back and of the scow going underneath the water which flowed in to such an extent as to sink the scow, thus losing all the grain.

Considerable damage was done to the village property genrally on Hallowe'en, and as a result several offenders appeared before the Magistrate.

Mr. Ashworth Anderson, who for the past three years has been at Winnipeg, the teller, accountant of the Union Bank of Canada in that city, is home on three months sick leave. Since his arrival he has been gaining rapidly.

A Choral Society, now consisting of 75 voices, has been organized in the village, and the first practice, conducted by Mr. Richardson, manager of the Union Bank at Norwood, was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday last. The prospects for the future are very bright.

The new goods that come to hand each day from European countries and from the United States have hampered us considerably in attending to our advertising as we would like. If we could let you know of our surplus lines and also of short quantity lots, without advertising, we would be tempted to drop it, as it may seem funny to say we have had too much trade to to attend to it.

We have three extra hands coming on, so that we will be able to attend to the demand in better shape.

FORMER CHANCELLOR IS AN IMPERIALIST.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on the Fiscal Plans.

England Shot Ahead From 1848 to 1872 Because of the Development of Steam and Electricity, of Great Discoveries in Science and the Production of Gold.

Manchester, Nov. 6.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer, addressing a meeting of business men yesterday, rebutted Joseph Chamberlain's claims that British trade was decaying. Nothing could be worse for British industry, Sir Michael added, than an attempt to make imports dearer.

Alluding to Mr. Chamberlain's characterization of the leaders of the Free Food party "Little Englanders," Sir Michael said he was a wilder Imperialist than Mr. Chamberlain. He had preached the doctrine of a permanent union of the Empire, in England and in Canada, 30 to 40 years ago, "when Mr. Chamberlain's politics did not extend beyond Birmingham."

The speaker further said that he refused to accept Mr. Chamberlain's policy, which he believed would injure the United Kingdom and substitute for the existing good-will friction between Great Britain and her colonies. He was not a "Little Englander," but on the contrary he considered the welfare of the Empire as a whole.

Prosperity's Other Causes.

London, Eng., Nov. 6.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's speech in reply to Mr. Chamberlain at Manchester yesterday is noteworthy from a protectionist view, for his admission that the immense prosperity of this country from 1848 to 1872 was due in part to other causes than free trade. He says: "The trade of the country enormously increased, the condition of the working classes enormously improved, and the wealth of the country grew. This course was largely due to steam and electricity, the great discoveries of science, and to the production of gold."

The speaker went on to ask if the preferential proposal were so beneficial even to the colonies as was represented there were rival interests in those great states. Canada was not composed wholly of farmers. Canadian lumbermen would receive no advantage from the tariff.

He said he was a wider Imperialist than Mr. Chamberlain, believing that the interests of 40,000,000 of people were more important than a mistaken policy to 11,000,000 colonials.

The duty he imposed on corn had, contrary to his opinion, increased the price of bread.

The Post says: "We strongly urge Sir Michael to study the reciprocal movement between the United States and Canada before making another speech."

The News says. "We are glad Hicks-Beach had the spirit to resent the intolerable insolence of Mr. Chamberlain's attack. The speech shows he cares for 230,000,000 Indians, who, though not white, are still God's creatures."

The Times says: "The difference between Chamberlain and Hicks-Beach is a difference of the more or less generally effective use of a weapon which both regard as legitimate and necessary. Other free fooders besides him are finding out they have surrendered the fundamental principle and will learn to grudgingly surrender will hardly serve the turn."

Lord Goschen's View.

London, Nov. 6.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Goschen, secretly a member of the Free Food League, has written his constituents, stating his acceptance of Balfour's policy, and his constituents carried a resolution that the time had arrived for reconsidering the fiscal policy with a view of protecting the home market for the produce of the commercial union of the colonies without making life harder for the poorer home consumers.

Mr. G. E. Foster's Views.

London, Nov. 6.—(C.A.P.)—Hon. Geo. E. Foster created enthusiasm at the Tariff Reform meeting at Cardiff Wednesday night. He said that preferential trade had been settled by Canada and all the great colonies of the Empire. Commerce was the blood of the Empire. Preferential treatment would cost tears and sorrows on the part of many that had to lay aside old economic traditions and go back on free trade, but for himself, after a most microscopic examination, he has not been able to find any free trade in England. He had drafted several tariffs for Canada and was able to tell them that if a two shillings' duty was put on wheat, and Canadian wheat came free, the consumer wouldn't know there was a tax until told of it.

No Chamberlain Triumph.

London, Nov. 6.—The Standard says: "The Chorley election returns Balcarres. That is no triumph for the preferential policy. The re-elected Minister explicitly disclaimed food taxation and announced he was no supporter of Chamberlain."

Rural Free Trade.

London, Nov. 6.—(C.A.P.)—London celebrated Guy Fawke's Day chiefly by the burning of effigies of Free Trade.

Canada's Natural Way.

London, Nov. 6.—Edgar Wallace, writing to The Mail, says: "Canada's natural way is independence. If England does not invite her before she passes out of reach or earshot, she will make for nationality."

Russia or Canada?

London, Nov. 6.—The Manchester Courier, in its comment on Chamberlain's speech, asks: "Which is better: to conciliate the Canadian who does five pounds trade per annum with Britain or the Russian who does only so many shillings?"

THE M'BRIDE CABINET.

British Columbia Ministry is Now Full and Complete.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 6.—Premier McBride completed his Cabinet last evening after a long Executive meeting. Mr. McPhillips resigned the position of Attorney-General, being succeeded by Mr. Charles Wilson, who has been President of the Council. Mr. Wilson is succeeded in the latter office by Mr. F. J. Fulton of Yale. Both were sworn in late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wilson will go back for re-election, the bye-election being pulled off in two weeks. Mr. Fulton does not have to be returned. There will also be another shuffle of portfolios. Mr. McBride will leave the Department of Lands and Works, taking that of mines, and combining with it the Provincial Secretaryship, while Mr. Green goes to the Lands and Works.

Big Chicago Strike.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Employes of the Chicago City Railway Company, which operates all the electric and cable lines on the south side of the city, were voting all day yesterday on the advisability of ordering a strike. The demands of the men are for an increase of pay and for the employment of union men. The polls close at 4 o'clock to-day. Opinion is divided as to the result of the vote, but the officers of the union are confident the men will decide to strike.

CHILD BURNED ALIVE

Rescuer Did Not Know It Was in the Soo House on Fire.

VERY SHOCKING OCCURRENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart's House in a Sault Ste. Marie Suburb Destroyed in Their Absence—William McKillop, a Carpenter, Falls to His Death Near Barrie—Railway Collision at Harrisburg.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 6.—A fire occurred in Steelton, a suburb of the Soo, yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. Stewart, the parents having gone out, leaving two children and an infant in the house. The origin of the fire is unknown. When a neighbor noticed the fire and succeeded in entering the house he found the eldest child almost overcome with smoke, rescued it and gave the alarm, in the meantime trying to revive the rescued child. The town fire brigade responded to the call, but the building was doomed before they arrived at the scene. It was not until after the rescued child revived that the neighbors were aware of the fact that one child had been burned alive. The parents, on arrival at their former home, were just in time to see the remains of the babe removed from the smoldering ruins.

Fell to His Death.

Barrie, Nov. 6.—Wm. McKillop, a carpenter, whose home was in Vespra, a short distance out of town, was found lying dead on the sidewalk near the Simcoe Hotel, with his head badly crushed early yesterday morning. Wednesday night he went to the hotel after 11 o'clock and was shown to a room in the third story. It is thought that during the night he looked out of the window, and, losing his balance, fell. He was 45 years of age and unmarried.

A Railway Collision.

Guelph, Nov. 6.—A head-on railway collision, happily without any loss of life or limb, took place at Harrisburg Wednesday afternoon. The train which left Guelph about 3 o'clock was standing at the Harrisburg station. The switch on the main line had not been closed and the consequence was that the train from Hamilton and Buffalo, which passes Harrisburg about 4 o'clock, dashed with great force into the former train. Fortunately no one was hurt, but the engines on both trains were badly smashed.

Isaac Campbell Hurt.

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—Isaac Campbell, K.C., a well-known Winnipeg politician, is in the hospital here suffering from a broken collar bone. He fell from a street car.

Small Boy Killed.

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—A small boy named Stoddard, while on his way to school yesterday morning, was run over and instantly killed in the C.P.R. yards.

Fish Bone Killed Him.

Windsor, Nov. 6.—Rudolphe Berthiaume, aged 55, died Wednesday at his home, 323 Howard avenue, Windsor, from the effects of blood poisoning, caused by accidentally pricking his finger with a fish bone.

Lost Overboard.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 6.—The Hamburg Liner Arcadia brought 502 passengers, Hungarians, Russians and Austrians, for western points, and a small number of Germans for Hespeler, Ont. Three passengers disappeared during the voyage—Czozel Czillag, a Hungarian, bound for Yorkton, Assiniboia, and Anna From, aged 17, and Otto From, aged 15, children of a German laborer, whose family were bound for Hespeler.

"Poor man," she said, stooping over the victim who had just been dragged out from under her automobile, "have you a wife." "No," he groaned, "this is the worst thing that ever happened to me."—Sydney

Mrs. Weisslitz, president of the German Womans' Club of Buffalo, N. Y., after doctoring for two years, was finally cured of her kidney trouble by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless prompt and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave careful study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made sure that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was certain to control that dreaded disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

Read What Mrs. Weisslitz Says.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years my life was simply a burden, I suffered so with female troubles, and pains across my back and loins. The doctor told me that I had kidney troubles and prescribed for me. For three months I took his medicines, but grew steadily worse. My husband then advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought home a bottle. It is the greatest blessing ever brought to our home. Within three months I was a changed woman. My pain had disappeared, my complexion became clear, my eyes bright, and my entire system in good shape."—MRS. PAULA WEISSLITZ, 176 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Proof that Kidney Trouble can be Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel very thankful to you for the good your medicine has done me. I had doctored for years and was steadily growing worse. I had trouble with my kidneys, and two doctors told me I had Bright's disease; also had falling of the womb, and could not walk a block at a time. My back and head ached all the time, and I was so nervous I could not sleep; had hysteria and fainting spells, was tired all the time, had such a pain in my left side that I could hardly stand at times without putting my foot on something.

"I doctored with several good doctors, but they did not help me any. I took, in all, twelve bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of Liver Pills, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and feel like a new woman, can eat and sleep well, do all my own work, and can walk two miles without feeling over tired. The doctors tell me that my kidneys are all right now. I am so happy to be well, and I feel that I owe it all to your medicine."—MRS. OPAL STRONG, Dalton, Mass.

OUR INDUSTRIAL INDEPENDENCE.

Depression in United States Would not be Felt Here.

New Channels of Trade Already Firmly Established—Industrial Conditions in Canadian Manufacturing Centres Continue Most Favorable.

The Toronto Globe with its characteristic enterprise, has collected specific information, based on detailed inquiry as to the industrial situation, from a large number of the chief manufacturing centres, and presents the conclusion therefrom deducted in the following interesting article:—

The fears that a period of financial depression, from whatever cause, is approaching in the United States, have turned the thoughts of many Canadians to the possible effect of such a misfortune on Canadian industrial, commercial and financial conditions. The Globe has collected the opinions of many business men in industrial centres in Canada on this point. All unite in admitting the great amount of business done at present, and the large number of orders to be filled. Many are extending their plants, and the only complaint is the scarcity of labour to carry on their necessary operations. There is nothing in our own country to indicate any misfortune, and the building of the new transcontinental railway and the continued rapid development of the north-west are pointed to as factors that will make for good times for many years to come. Some of the Canadian manufacturers, however, express a dread, which they have already voiced, that Canada would be made a dumping ground for American products at slaughter prices in case depression decreased their home consumption. As an indication of this, one or two centres report the presence of commercial travellers representing United States manufacturers who are paying their first visit to Canada. These Canadians, however, are proceeding on the assumption that the commercial and financial inter-relation between the United States and Canada is still so great that whenever the people of the great republic begin to trim their sails for financial depression Canadian interests should imitate them; and whenever American mill owners begin discharging employees, many Canadian industrial establishments are almost certain to pursue the same policy, believing they must of necessity do so.

OUR INDUSTRIAL INDEPENDENCE.

There was a time when that was very much more true than it is today. If one goes back to the time preceding the McKinley tariff of 1890, one will find that a very large proportion of Canada's exports, especially of the field and forest, was going to the United States, and that, naturally, whenever the demand fell off from that great market, Canadian exports have felt the pinch of hard times, curtailed their purchases, and brought about considerable depression. Since the passage of the McKinley bill, followed as it was after a short period of more liberal fiscal arrangements under Mr. Cleveland by the adoption of the Dingley tariff in 1898, there can be no doubt at all that Canada's industrial, commercial and financial relations with the United States, instead of becoming so intimate that any disaster on the other side must at once have a secondary effect here, have drifted away from those of the United States, until to-day there is no reason in the world why either a commercial or an industrial panic in the United States should affect us very much more severely than a similar panic in France or Germany.

Canadian agriculture, which is the backbone of the country, is in a position of security such as never before. A long-continued depression in the United States would undoubtedly affect the lumbering industry of Canada, but it must be remembered as an offset to this that the home demand for lumber in recent years has been an exceedingly active one, and that in railway construction work alone within the next five years enormous quantities of lumber must be used in Canada.

LESS RELATIVE TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

If one will turn to the statements of exports to the United States from Canada, it will be at once discovered that that market has not nearly the relative importance to us that it had fifteen years ago. The following table shows the gradual decrease of our exports to the United States as compared with our total exports, the amount having fallen, roughly, from 50 per cent. to 33 1-3 per cent. from the days preceding the McKinley tariff to the present, showing that trade currents have found new channels, and are not so susceptible to the depressions which visit the United States:—

	Exports to U. S.	Total Exports.
1895	$38,660,810	$70,121,725
1896	34,234,499	77,795,704
1897	35,369,882	84,980,200
1898	40,707,433	91,253,978
1899	39,618,249	99,272,454
1900	49,436,856	128,483,037
1901	59,666,966	170,643,280
1901	67,963,672	177,431,396
1902	66,607,784	196,019,763
1903	71,783,919	218,953,933

ECONOMIC CHANGES AT HOME.

There are some material economic changes going on in Canada, which make the country vastly more self-contained than it was. For example, take tobacco-growing. A few years ago we had hardly any of it, and were importing largely from the United States. We still have to import certain grades which we cannot raise ourselves, but, speaking generally, we are using a great deal more of home-grown tobacco in Canada, and, therefore, we do not require to send abroad so much of our surplus wealth for that raw material, and the home industry, conducted under natural conditions, is, therefore, more profitable.

Another product respecting which conditions are changing to our economic advantage is coal. A few years ago we were just entering upon the use in the factories and workshops of Ontario of power in large quantities. The development of industry meant the importation of proportionately large quantities of fuel for the production of power, lighting, etc. One single item, requiring large quantities of power, is car haulage in urban transportation. In 1891 there was not an electric railway in Ontario. All the haulage of passengers was done by horses. When electricity came it meant the displacement of these horses by electric power, produced from steam in most cases, which meant the employment of thousands of men in the Pennsylvania mines, to haul the people in the cities of Ontario.

In recent years several power schemes have been inaugurated, not yet brought to completion, which will mean the almost absolute discontinuance, so far as Ontario is concerned, of the importation of American soft coal for power and lighting purposes. Instead of employing miners in Pennsylvania to dig coal with which to produce electricity to operate our street railways and factories, we will have reached a stage of development where we will employ thousands of men in the factories of Toronto, Peterborough, Hamilton, and other cities, where electric appliances are produced. There may be dangers after the equipment of all these water powers of a temporary cessation of activity in electrical manufacturing, but the great fact will remain, that for a time, instead of importing hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of Pennsylvania soft coal to operate our transportation and manufacturing plants, we shall be in a position to dispense with these imports, and provide the facilities necessary by the renewal in our factories of the appliances with which water power may be generated and transmitted to points of use. The ultimate economic effect of this it would probably be difficult to state at the moment in dollars and cents, but it may easily be figured out that, apart from the Niagara powers alone, even in partial operation, there ought to be a saving of nearly one million dollars on soft coal a year.

RAW MATERIALS FROM THE UNITED STATES.

Now, it may be said, that if our exports to the United States fell off very greatly under the stress of an industrial panic there we would not be in a position to pay for the imports we make from that country. That is where our very large credit balance in Great Britain would be of advantage. We are exporting to Great Britain now more than twice as much as we import in return. This means that a very large amount of Canadian credit is available in London for the liquidation of these very balances that we shall owe in the United States for goods imported from that country. That our importations from the United States will continue on a large scale is an undoubted fact. These goods are being brought into Canada because we need them, and because, in many cases, there is no other source from which the articles imported can be drawn. Such things as raw cotton, crude rubber, tobaccos, (not produced in the Dominion), and other articles that are the raw material of great industries, must continue to be brought into Canada for the use of the manufacturers.

FACTORIES MOVING TO CANADA.

In other departments, where the United States competes against Canadian industries, there is no reason to anticipate very seriously the slaughter campaign which his attended previous industrial crises in the United States. Many great American industrial concerns have given hostages for good behaviour to Canada. One of the greatest sources of undue competition in former periods of extreme depression in the agricultural implement trade was the International Harvester Co., the huge amalgamated implement trust, which to-day is building one of the greatest factories in Canada in the city of Hamilton. That it will prefer to operate this factory, and so compete with the Canadian manufacturers on the most advantageous terms, rather than cut profits to a minimum by making shipments across the border, and forcing them in over our tariff wall, seems a reasonable conclusion. The International Harvester Company is not the only great American concern in this position Branch lines in very many industries have now been established in Canada by large American companies, and it is scarcely probable that a cut-throat competition, regardless of the value of the article involved, which was the feature of recent industrial panics, will be repeated.

Newcomers to Canada.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—There has been an immigration into Canada of 121,115 souls during the last ten months up to the end of October. Of these, 47,541 were from the old country, 39,046 from the States, and 34,528 from various countries of Europe. In November alone the movement of settlers into Canada numbered 7,892.

Snow at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—There was a heavy snow storm east of Ottawa yesterday morning. The Montreal trains arriving at noon were covered with snow, the storm being heavy in the district around Alexandria.

SAGOUNI'S MURDERER.

Armenian Delegates to Revolutionary Convention in State of Alarm.

London, Nov. 6.—The police have located the lodging place where Gorgio Yangie, the murderer of the two Armenian delegates to the revolutionary convention here lived, and are satisfied that he was identical with the murderer of Sagatel Sagouni. All the members of the Hentschakist Society are in a state of great alarm. They are satisfied that their enemies, the Alfarists, will appoint a successor to carry on the work of extermination of the Hentschakist leaders.

More to Follow.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Speaking of the recent assassinations in London, Peter Kureghian, editor of Young Armenian, said yesterday:

"There will be more yet; they will never rest until they have removed all of us of the old Hentschakist party. There were six of those fellows, 'terrors,' sailed for New York from London three months ago. There are five more of them scattered over Europe. You will hear from them."

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

A Great Strain.

No one disputes the fact that we are living in a "rapid" age; it is rush, rush, rush, from morning until night, and competition is so fierce that the struggle does not cease until the machine is worn out.

Women, too, even when surrounded by every comfort, become infected by the common spirit, and what with their clubs and many social duties, have no time to give thought to their physical well-being, until they are suddenly brought to a sharp realization of the fact that nothing is so important as attention to correct or rational living.

It may surprise the reader to learn that women are more prone to piles than men, and in most cases because it is difficult to impress upon them the importance of regular movement of the bowels; irregularity means straining at stool, and straining means piles, with the certainty, under the usual methods of treatment, that the sufferer will "have them always with her;" by "usual methods" is meant the application of salves and lotions, or (as a last resort) a surgical operation.

If there is a complaint which entails more distress and suffering upon those afflicted than piles or hemorrhoids, it is not known to the writer; fortunately however these are learning that there is a remedy that effectually cures all forms of piles; it is known as the Pyramid Pile Cure, is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts, and does its work quickly and painlessly; it is sold by druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mrs. L. M. Joliff, Pharisburg, Ohio, says, "I feel it my duty to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. For several months I suffered untold agony from the bleeding piles and was finally advised by a Columbus doctor to get Pyramid Pile Cure at once, which I did, and one box completely cured me. I advise all sufferers to use it." Write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles.

Aims to Cancel Insurance Policy.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York filed an application for the cancellation of two life insurance policies aggregating $250,000, carried on the life of Jas. J. Blair. The company charges that the policies were secured through fraudulent representations and charges that Blair attempted to take his own life on Oct. 15 and Oct. 31, and defraud the company of the amount of the policies.

Poisoned by Mistake.

Stonewall, Nov. 6.—James Little, a pioneer of the district, feeling unwell about a week ago, took what he supposed was his usual remedy for slight indisposition. A mistake was the cause of Mr. Little's death. He drank from a vial containing poison. He survived the fatal error nearly a week, but died Wednesday.

Will Get Well.

Oakville, Nov. 6.—Harry Moore, the young lad who was accidentally shot in the head at Oakville two weeks ago, is recovering. The bullet was removed by the aid of the X-rays and the boy is able to take plenty of nourishment and talk with those in attendance.

Vitriol on Husband.

Belleville, Nov. 6.—A shocking story comes from Deseronto, it being alleged that a married woman of that town, who did not live happily with her husband, had thrown vitriol on his body while he slept, the unfortunate man being frightfully injured.

To Renew the Loan.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—The Canadian Government has decided to renew for ten years a four per cent. loan of $2,850,000 which expired on the 1st of November. This loan had run for twenty years. The interest will be 3½ per cent. for the new decade.

England Importing Steel Bars.

London, Nov. 6.—Tin platers in South Wales belonging to the Newport, Swansea and Llanelly mines, it is announced, have ordered 100,000 tons of steel bars from the United States Steel Corporation. The price is given at $20 a ton.

Takes Out Papers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 6.—James Lynchehaun, the released Irish fugitive, took out his first naturalization papers yesterday, and says he will begin work as soon as he has recovered from an attack of rheumatism.

Ill Health Caused Retirement.

Rome, Nov. 6.—From an official source it is learned that the only reason for the resignation of Premier Zanardelli is the bad and almost desperate condition of his health.

Sir Michael Herbert.

London, Nov. 6.—The estate of Sir Michael Herbert, late British Ambassador to the United States, was sworn to yesterday by his widow at $39,620.

MASSACRED ALL GERMANS.

Bondelswart Have Captured the German Warmbad Fort in South Africa.

London, Nov. 6.—According to The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail, the Bondelzwart tribesmen, who are engaged in a native rebellion in Damaraland, a country of Southwest Africa, forming a part of the German possessions there, hearing that reinforcements were being sent against them, redoubled their efforts and succeeded in capturing Warmbad fort. They burned the fort and the village, massacred all the Germans and took the English families prisoners. A relieving force from the north meanwhile engaged a large body of the natives and heavy fighting ensued, the result of which is not known. The rising, the correspondent adds, is supposed to be due to the execution of a Bondelzwart chief by German officers.

AT THE MAST FOR 48 HOURS.

Captain and Crew of Waterlogged Schooner Reached Safety.

New York, Nov. 6.—After being lashed to the stump of a mast for 48 hours and being deprived of fresh water for three days, Capt. Gabrielsen and nine of the crew of the waterlogged schooner John W. Linnell, have reached New York aboard the Italian ship Gabrielle d'Ail. Notwithstanding their privations, the shipwrecked mariners are not suffering from any serious ill effects.

Big Election Bets.

New York, Nov. 6.—It is estimated that a million dollars changed hands in big bets on the result of the election. Among the heavier winners was Senator P. H. McCarren, who managed the Brooklyn campaign, and took $40,000 from the enemy. Timothy D. Sullivan stood to lose $78,000 had Mayor Low been re-elected. His judgment, however, based upon Monday's estimate of the vote by districts, was backed to the limit of his cash account, it is said, and he won in all $93,000. One bet made by George Considine looked hopeless. He wagered a broker $1,000 to $8,000 that Low would not get 1,500 plurality in King's County. C. F. Murphy won about $11,000.

Women Coming to Canada.

London, Nov. 6.—Large numbers of weavers, mostly young women from southeast Lancashire, are emigrating to Canada. Women agents, acting on behalf of the mill owners in Valleyfield and other manufacturing localities in Canada, have been scouring Lancashire and Yorkshire in search of women weavers willing to emigrate to the Dominion. It is believed passage money in some cases has been advanced.

Sudden Deaths Out West.

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—A man named A. H. Fulmore, a telegraph operator, dropped dead about 12 o'clock in his room Wednesday night. He was about 45 years of age.

John Aphley, an old-timer of Winnipeg, was found dead yesterday morning in an old barn. Aphley had been drinking very heavily lately. He has been in the habit of sleeping in the same old stable for some time.

HUDSON BAY CLAIMS.

Another Dispute With the U. S. is in Sight.

HUDSON BAY: OCEAN ROUTE.

London Paper Says It Will Not Be Too Extravagant a Pretension on the Part of the U. S. to Hold That Canada Can Only Assert Her Jurisdiction Over the Three-Mile Limit from the Coast.

London, Nov. 6.—(C.A.P.)—The Financial Times prints a three-column article headed "Hudson Bay, an Ocean Route."

It says: "In face of the Alaskan Boundary dispute, it is not an extravagant pretension on the part of the United States to hold that Canada can only assert jurisdiction over the three-mile limit." It believes the bay offsets the Atlantic outlets possessed by Americans, and can relieve Canada of her present almost absolute dependence on the United States for the transportation of grain. The lands about possess mineral, timber and fur wealth, and the paper says Low, who commands the expedition, enjoys an enviable repute among the scientists of the world.

ATLAS LOAN CO. WRECK.

Bookkeeping Errors Brought to Light During Mr. Ames' Examination.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—The examination of A. E. Ames in the Atlas Loan liquidation was continued before Judge Hodgins, Master-in-Ordinary, at Osgoode Hall yesterday. The first business of the court hinged on the statements of losses incurred by the Atlas Loan through the A. E. Ames Company, submitted by the liquidator and Mr. Ames, and there was such a discrepancy in the figures that it was finally suggested by the Master that an adjournment be taken in order to give the accountants of both sides an opportunity to come together and try to arrive at a conclusion. It was, therefore, decided that the examination should proceed on Tuesday next, and in the meantime Mr. Ross, representing Ames & Co., and Mr. Herrington, representing the National Trust Company, will examine the conflicting statements.

Mr. Hunter produced two statements of profit and loss on Atlas Loan transactions which were supplied to the liquidator by Ames & Co. Mr. Ames said the statements had been asked for verbally by Mr. White or Mr Smith. The object of these statements was to show whether there had been profit or loss in both foreign and domestic securities.

On examination of the figures Mr. Hunter discovered that a loss of $41,000 on American securities had been rubbed out and a profit of $24,000 inserted. Mr. Ames said the $41,000 was an error by the clerk in preparing the statement, by which profits of $65,000 of the Twin City syndicate had been left out, and was corrected by the insertion of the proper item.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But it Has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; or in other words the kind which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough, and generally too much, the stomach from abuse and overwork does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason that so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs, and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these Tablets contain the natural peptones and diastase, which every weak stomach lacks, and by applying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men and women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic, nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada, as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

NIAGARA STRIKERS QUIET.

Sixty Per Cent of the Strikers Have Returned to Work—20 in Jail—Fire Out of Those Left.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 6.—All was quiet to-day. No attempts have been made by any one to molest the workmen. The guard of militia was withdrawn last evening and sent home. A small guard of special constables is kept on duty. About sixty per cent. of the strikers have returned to work at $1.50 per day. About 150 of the strikers have left the town, and about 20 of the rioters are in jail at Welland. This has taken all the fire out of those left behind on the works.

THE COLOMBIAN REVOLT.

Some Inside Mistery About Help Given by United States People.

New Orleans, Nov. 6.—The intended secession of Panama from the Republic of Colombia has been known for some time to business houses here engaged in Central American trade. The secessionists have been well organized and raised a considerable sum for the contemplated movement. They laid in a stock of 10,000 rifles and $60,000 worth of ammunition.

Several New Orleans houses were asked for contributions and a desire was shown to purchase a steam yacht or other vessel here to be used as a gunboat. The Central Americans in New Orleans are generally friendly to the revolution. The opinion among them and those who know the Isthmus is that the revolution will be a success, as it is almost impossible for Colombia to march an army overland to the Isthmus, the country being wild and fever stricken, and it is without the fleet necessary for a sea attack.

Five hundred men at Panama and 150 at Colon could easily hold the Isthmus against an army of 10,000. All the rich men on the Isthmus are in favor of the revolution and have put up money to assure its success.

MEETING OF MONARCHS.

Their Majesties Lunch Together and Their Diplomats Talk.

Egelsbach, Grand Duchy of Hesse, Nov. 6.—Emperor William arrived here at mid-day yesterday from Wiesbaden and was cordially received at the railroad station by the Czar, the Grand Duke of Hesse and Prince Henry of Prussia. Their Majesties lunched together. While at Castle of Darmstadt, Chancellor von Buelow and Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, had a prolonged talk. One of the subjects discussed was the commercial treaty between Russia and Germany.

Emperors at Tennis.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—In the afternoon Emperor William and the Czar played tennis, and in the evening there was a gala dinner. Emperor William left at 9.50 o'clock, being accompanied to the station by the Czar, Prince Henry of Prussia, and the Grand Duke of Hesse.

A PAYING PROPOSITION.

Bought a Mine for $2,000 That Sold for $676,666.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 6.—A case of get-rich-quick has developed in the Canadian Soo. J. B. Miller, on June 30, purchased a seven-eighths interest in the Shakespeare gold mining property in the Township of Shakespeare at New Westwood, Ont., for two thousand dollars. Two or three days ago the property was sold for $676,666 to Duluth and Brainard, Minn., people who have formed a company capitalized at two million dollars. The original owner was Thos. W. Trotter of the Canadian Soo, who discovered it while prospecting for copper, and got a title to it as a copper location.

EDWARD L. WENTZ.

Long Lost Philadelphia Millionaire Located in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 6.—Congressman Slemp, in Bristol, last night, confirmed the rumor that Edward L. Wentz, the young Philadelphia millionaire, who disappeared is in the hands of abductors in the mountains of southwest Virginia, and that a ransom of $100,000 is asked for his return.

Another Big Coal Strike.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 6.—Governor Peabody and Commissioner of Labor Montgomery have practically given up hope of being able to avert a general strike of coal miners in District 15, which includes Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. Notices have been posted ordering the men to quit work on Nov. 9. They are signed by John Mitchell, national president.

Prof. Mommsen's Funeral.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—The funeral of Prof. Mommsen, the historian, took place yesterday. A great number of scholars, Ambassadors, Cabinet Ministers and foreign delegates were present. The Crown Prince Frederick William represented the Emperor.

Apple Shippers Warned.

London, Nov. 6.—Several large apple shippers are writing to W. L. Griffiths, Lord Strathcona's secretary, warning Canadian fruit men to slacken the export of apples by Dec. 14, as after that date the trade will be slack until early in January.

COLOMBIAN REVOLT.

Was It Instigated by United Statesers for Panama Canal?

IN INTEREST OF "BIG DITCH."

Taken for Granted in Washington That the Independents Will be Recognized by the United States and the Canal Project Go Through—Colon and Panama Taken Without Firing a Shot.

Washington, Nov. 6.—It is said on good authority that the independence of Panama is coincident with the absolute need of the United States Government to get possession of the Panama Canal, and "dig the ditch" across the Isthmus. No one will openly say that the United States is behind the revolt against the Colombian Government, but it is taken for granted here that the independents will be recognized by the United States, and the canal project will go through. A despatch from Colon says significantly: The general opinion is that the Isthmian canal is now assured.

REVOLUTION SUCCESSFUL.

The City of Panama Now in the Hands of the Independents and Now Flag is Floating.

Colon, Nov. 5.—Without the firing of a shot and amid scenes of great enthusiasm, the independence of the Isthmus and the Department of Panama, was declared Tuesday evening. The city of Panama is now in the hands of the revolutionists, and no serious attempt has been made to recapture it. The Colombian gunboat Bogota arrived in the harbor after the declaration of independence and threw a few shells into the city, without doing damage to life or property there. In Colon last night perfect order prevailed, and trains across the Isthmus are running without interruption. In Panama, the flag of the new republic floats over the Government buildings.

The movement for independence has been in progress since the rejection by the Bogota Congress of the Hay-Herran Canal Treaty, but its sudden ripening Tuesday night was due to the news of the unexpected arrival at Colon of the Colombian gunboat Cartagena, with Generals Tovar and Amaya and a number of troops. The movement has been promoted by prominent and wealthy Isthmians and Governor Obaldia of the Department of Panama, who arrived at Panama Tuesday, on computing the troops and citizens in favor of independence, found that they numbered at least 8,500. The advocates of independence, both at Panama and Colon are jubilant.

The presence of the United States gunboat Nashville at Colon is believed to have prevented serious trouble. As the result of a conference here, Col. Torres, commanding the troops at Colon, has sent a representative to Panama, to confer with General Tovar, whose unconditional release is demanded. In reliable quarters it is believed that peaceful results will follow from a proposal just made to Col. Torres that the American troops return aboard the Nashville, if he guarantees to maintain order. This proposal was last night accepted by Col. Torres. The British Consul has suggested that, if requested, a contingent of troops will be sent to Colon from the British cruiser Amphion, now at Panama. It is believed that the Nashville will be hardly sufficient for all emergencies.

Public alarm in Colon is now somewhat abated. The Act of Independence has just been signed at Panama.

Armed Lunatic Held.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Louis Bronstein, a tailor, of Brooklyn, came here Tuesday to see the President, and is being detained at police headquarters pending an official examination into his sanity. When searched, a loaded 38-calibre revolver and several loose cartridges were found upon him.

A Reign of Terror.

London, Nov. 5.—The Times' correspondent at Sofia says that although the insurrection in the Razlog district is at an end, a reign of terror continues. The Bashi-Bazouks are extorting money from those persons unable or unwilling to deliver up weapons, and where money is not forthcoming are beating and torturing.

Nearly Died to Death.

Belleville, Nov. 5.—James Carleton of Hillier, Prince Edward County, County was driving a load of grain when a bag slipped and he got off to fix it. The horses started up and the wheel ran over Mr. Carleton's leg, breaking it and causing him to nearly bled to death before assistance reached him. He may recover.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

On Monday night a door mat was taken from the residence of Rev. Dr. Torrance, presumably by some boys who thought they were playing a Hallowe'en trick. The mat was a new one, consequently Dr. Torrance does not care to lose it. This notice is made in order that the public may know of the loss, and anyone finding themselves in possession of an extra mat may know that one has been taken from the residence of Dr. Torrance.

A Bright Magazine.

The November Canadian Good Housekeeping is an excellent number of a magazine that caters especially to the home tastes of Canadian women. Besides a complete list of articles on domestic, culinary, and health topics, it has an interesting article on "House-keeping in the Transvaal," by Miss Florence Randal; the first installment of a new serial, "Paying Guests;" "Some Boy Stories;" and illustrated articles on "Places for Books" and "Romes for the Aged." The magazine is well printed and beautifully illustrated and bids fair to become a favourite with Canadian readers.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE DEBATED UPON

At the Meeting of St Peter's Debating Society on Wednesday Night.

The Debating Club connected with St. Peter's T.A.S., has opened the season under most auspicious circumstances, and the first debate, that held on Wednesday evening, was a decided success. The attendance was large and those present evidenced a deep interest in the subject under discussion, viz:—"Resolved, that women should have the same voting privileges as men." The affirmative side was taken by Messrs. F. McPherson, W. Donovan and Quinn, those who supported the negative were, Messrs. J. Begley, D. Holland and W. Blastora. All the speakers had evidently prepared themselves for the debate, and brought forward numerous weighty arguments, in support of their opinions. After mature deliberation, the judge, Mr. J. Maher, came to the conclusion that the logic of the affirmative was unanswerable, and unlike Lord Alverstone, who gave Canada's case away after declaring the arguments "unanswerable," the chairman placed the ballot in the fair hands of the ladies.

At the conclusion of the debate the speakers were subjected to criticism by those appointed for that purpose, Rev. John O'Brien and Mr. J. Bryson, while Rev. Dr. O'Brien also spoke. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 18th, when Mr. Bryson will give an address on the benefit of the debating class to the society, which will be given instead of the regular debate. At the regular meeting following that the subject of debate will be:—"Resolved, that strikes are beneficial to the working class."

It is anticipated that considerable profit as well as pleasure will be derived from the meetings of the Debating Club.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. James H. Hendry, Wife of the Manager of the Auburn Woolen Mills.

The Utica Daily Express, Nov. 3rd, says that the death of Mrs. Jas. H. Hendry, a former resident of Utica, and wife of the present manager of the Auburn Woollen Mills, Peterough, occurred at her home in Pittsfield, Mass., on Saturday. She has been in poor health for the past two years. Mrs. Hendry was born in Georgetown, Scotland, on October 5, 1851. She came to this country about 19 years ago and took up her residence in this city. Her husband was formerly employed as a designer in the Globe Woollen Mills. About ten years ago she removed to Pittsfield, where she has since resided. She was married to Mr. Hendry about 28 years ago. He survives, with one son, James; three daughters, Mrs. C. W. Baker, and the Misses Jessie and Susan Hendry, all of Pittsfield, Mass. The remains were brought to Utica for interment.

Mrs. Hendry's death will be much regretted by the many friends she made here during her four or five years' residence in Peterborough.

MRS ELLEN O'HEARN PASSED AWAY FRIDAY.

Widow of the Late Maurice O'Hearn Died After Lingering Illness.

At the age of 85 years Mrs. Ellen O'Hearn, widow of the late Maurice O'Hearn, died yesterday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. D. Hennessy, Ashburnham. The deceased lady had been ailing for some time, although suffering from no particular disease. She gradually became worse until her death occurred.

The late Mrs. O'Hearn, with her husband, was one of the early residents of this county, having come here from the County of Cork, Ireland, 55 years ago. Mr. O'Hearn took up land near Hilliard's Mills. For a number of years, however, the homestead has been on the River Road, Auburn. Mr. O'Hearn died about 20 years ago, since when she has lived with her son, Mr. M. O'Hearn, River Road.

There are three daughters and one son surviving her, the former being: Mrs. D. Hennessy, Ashburnham; Mrs. J. Mangan, Syracuse, N.Y., and Mrs. Jas. Mangan, of Toledo, Ohio.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Maurice O'Hearn, River Road, Auburn, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and the interment in the St. Peter's Cemetery.

WILL A UNION BE BENEFICIAL?

Some of the Reasons for Support and Opposition of Annexation.

On November 28th the vote of the ratepayers on the union of Ashburnham with Peterborough will betaken in both municipalities. This same question has been voted upon before, but never under conditions which make the union so desirable as at the present time. There is a growing feeling being evidenced by the residents of both municipalities affected, that it would be for the benefit of both were the present proposed union to be carried out. There are those in Ashburnham who oppose the union on the ground that the burden of the taxpayer in the village would be added to. There are others, however, and they appear to be in the majority, who believe that the greatest prosperity of the village cannot be attained, while remaining a separate municipality, and that the fullest development can only be reached by joining forces with the town, and both combining to make the town what nature destined it to be, the best manufacturing town in Canada.

There are a number of very desirable sites in Ashburnham for manufacturing establishments, giving, as they would, access to both railways, as well as with water shipping facilities. It is pointed out by the supporters of the union that should the two places unite, manufacturers might be induced to locate on those sites, whereas if the village remains as it is at present, it has not the influence nor the financial ability to attract to it manufacturing industries. Thus it would appear, that it is for the "general advantage" of both municipalities that the union should be effected.

The supporters of the union, urge that now, when the town will have available for industrial purposes, a quantity of cheap electrical energy, is an opportune time to throw out lines to industries seeking advantageous location, and this, they contend, cannot be successfully done unless the village and town unite.

THE WORK OF HOUSE TO HOUSE VISITATION.

A Meeting Held Last Night in Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of the chairmen and secretaries of the different wards in connection with the house to house visitation work, was held in the Y.M.C.A. last evening, and considerable business was done in mapping out districts for the workers. Another meeting of the chairmen and secretaries will be held next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock to complete arrangements before calling together the canvassers.

—The handsome doll donated by Mr. Routley for the Mount St. Joseph Bazaar can be seen in the window of Mr. Pete Simons, tailor, George street. This pretty, if somewhat large toy has attracted the attention of numbers of children throughout the day.

COAL OIL GOES UP.

A despatch from Toronto says the price of coal oil will be advanced two cents per gallon, commencing on Monday. The change was decided upon at a recent meeting of the dealers. The wholesale dealers notified their customers a few days ago of an advance of three cents cents per gallon, and the recent meeting of the dealers was the outcome. The price of coal oil at present in Toronto, is 20, 22 and 25c. per gallon, according to quality.

A DELIGHTFUL CONCERT IN THE FORESTERS' HALL.

An Excellent Programme Appreciated by a Large Audience Last Night.

There was a large and very appreciative audience at the concert given in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, last night, under the auspices of Diamond Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 80, and satisfaction at the excellence of the programme in every respect was manifested in the usual manner.

The chair was taken shortly after 8 o'clock by Mr. W. A. Kindred, who presided in a very capable manner prefacing each number with a few original remarks, occasionally sending the audience in almost convulsions through laughter.

To those who arranged the programme great credit is due, as is also to those who kindly contributed to the evening's enjoyment. The selections, vocal or instrumental, the addresses and other items on the programme were all excellent and many were vociferiously encored. The programme of the evening was as follows:—

Vocal solo .... Mr. R. N. Jolliffe
Instrumental Duet ... Misses Bullen
Chairman's Address.....Mr. W. A. Kindred
Recitation ... ... Mr. J. W. Edwards
Vocal solo ... ... Mr. W. Stocker
Vocal quartette, Rev W. L. Armitage, and Messrs. J. Legg, R. H. Shepherd and J. Browne.
Address ... ...Rev. A. H. Brace
Vocal solo ... ...Mr. A. Prowde
Vocal selection ... All Saints' Quartette
Instrumental solo ... .Miss Porter
Baton swinging ... .Mr. F. Andrews
Vocal solo ... ...Mr. J. W. Edwards
Novelty music and juggling act, ... Mr. W. Dundas, Miss May Bullen, accompaniste.

Although one selection can scarcely, with due justice, be commented upon more than the others, yet as a unique item the last on the programme deserves especial merit. Mr. Dundas showed himself to be an expert at the work, which for some time past he has made his profession.

The evening appropriately closed with refreshments served in the dinning hall, which after the long programme were highly appreciated.

POLICE COURT

Three Cases Before Police Magistrate Dumble This Morning.

At the Police Court this morning E. Singer, who keeps a drygoods store on George street, was charged with selling goods after closing hours and was fined $5 and $3.40 costs.

B. Lastar, for a similar offence, was assessed to a similar amount.

W. J. Stewart was charged with vagrancy and pleaded guilty of begging. He begged for mercy and was allowed to go on promising to turn his back on the town and never appear before the Magistrate again.

AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY LATEST PROPOSITION.

One to be Constructed From Brockville to Toronto.

Agitation for C. P. R. Connection has Resulted in New Proposal—Letter From the Promoters.

According to a letter reproduced in the Campbellford Despatch, signed by A. E. Pond and other gentlemen of Boston, Mass., the towns along the lake front are likely to secure a competitive railway line, even without the C.P.R. The letter referred to states that it is the intention of the writer and other gentlemen associated with him to construct an electric railway extending from Brockville to Toronto, passing through all the towns along the Grand Trunk Railway between these two points.

Should this project go through it is not unlikely that a branch may be built to connect Peterborough with the front. Such a line should prove exceedingly profitable, particularly during the tourist season, when American tourists could reach Port Hope from the southern cities and an electric line running from Port Hope to Peterborough would doubtless increase the number of summer visitors to this section. The letter referred to above is in part as follows:—

"We desire to say here that we are absolutely convinced that an electric line such as is contemplated under the charter will pay handsomely and we give you below a short description of our plans and the reasons why we think such a line will pay.

"It was our intention to commence construction of the line in the spring beginning at Trenton and building to Belleville and then to continue building under the charter as conditions might warrant. Our plans have already been completed to carry on the work in this way until eventually the road would be complete from Toronto to Brockville, where connections can be made with the C.P.R., thus giving you the connection you so much desire. The action of your municipalities makes it incumbent upon us to disclose to you our plans, for we can readily realize that this method of proceedure would not give you the facilities you desire as promptly as you would require and we accordingly suggest this interview to see if we cannot mutually agree upon some plan by which the construction of the entire road might be begun in the early spring and pushed at once to completion. In order to do this we desire the aid of the municipalities through which the road will pass, and we desire that they will each give some financial aid to the enterprise. This will make the deal much easier to complete for if your own people show their faith in the enterprise we can easily finance the same as a whole rather than in sections as our plans are now made, but if your people do not show their confidence in the undertaking, you cannot expect others to do so who are less familiar with the same than you.

"We are convinced that the enterprise will pay from the start and it is our intention to operate the entire line by water power, which will reduce the operating expenses to a minimum and also to transmit enough surplus power to the various towns and cities upon the line of the road to furnish the same with cheap power for manufacturing and lighting purposes. This would give your cities a great advantage over others as it would induce new enterprises requiring power to be started, which would add materially to the prosperity of the country, for it is our plan to furnish this power at such cost that the cost of manufacturing may be greatly reduced. It is our intention to construct a line in the best possible manner so that fast time may be made and if conditions warrant it, as we think they will, to give you a half hourly service, moving the freight as much as possible during the night time. The road will be constructed so far as possible on a private right of way properly fenced and in the cities will run on such streets and at such speed as your municipalities may designate.

"You can easily see of what great advantage this road will be to your people, both as regards the saving of time and money, and when you consider the time now consumed and the high rate charged for local travel we are sure you will give us your hearty support. Should you consider our suggestion of a meeting to be of advantage to you, we will meet your committee at any time and place most convenient for you and submit our proposition more in detail.

"Very respectfully yours,
"A. E. POND, and others."

UNJUST INFERENCE.

In regard to a paragraph which appeared in a Police Court report in the Examiner of Saturday, Oct. 31st, from which the inference might be drawn that Mr. Cornelius Ryan, of Peterborough, had evaded summons in answer to information laid by Mrs. Sarah Hillier, charging him with the assault of her person, Mr. Cornelius Ryan states that the item contained in the paper is unfounded, and calculated to prejudice him in the eyes of the public. Mr. Ryan states that the difficulty between him and Mrs. Hillier occurred on Saturday morning and that it was not until Monday morning that he went out of town, and that he did so in the ordinary pursuit of his business and with no knowledge or expectation of any trouble and that as a matter of fact he was chatting in a friendly conversation with a member of the police force at the G.T.R. station on Monday morning. On his return from Lindsay he ascertained that Mrs. Hillier had laid information against him and that he at once notified the police authorities that he was now in town and was prepared to meet the charge at any time.

St. Luke's Men's Guild

The monthly meeting of the Men's Guild of St. Luke's church will be held on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Mr. F. H. Dobbin will give an address on "Art in the School Room."

Fred Cook Arrested.

Everybody read last night in the Examiner that Fred Cook was arrested as a vagrant and got a warning to leave town forthwith. It was not Fred Cook the sign painter, as he is always too busy attending to his own line of business, painting signs. When you want a sign to sell your goods ring up the long distance 'phone 119 and get the latest touches in business bringers.

MR. ROBT. HARRISON ENTERTAINED FRIENDS

In Honour of His Guest of Mr. A. A. Brown, of Colorado.

Mr. Robert Harrison, Water street, returned home last Friday evening from an interesting and romantic three weeks' trip to Colorado, where he went on a special invitation from the Stony Pass Mining Company, to inspect their much-talked-of gold mines. While on the spot Mr. Harrison was shown every kindness and attention by the officials, especially by the president of the company, Mr. A. A. Brown. Since Mr. Harrison's return home, Mr. Brown, who was on his way to Detroit and New York, stopped off at Peterborough on Wednesday, and has been the guest of Mr. Harrison for the past few days. In order to reciprocate the cordial friendships formed, Mr. Harrison invited a number of business and professional men of the town—whom he thought would be interested in a narrative of his trip to Colorado—to meet at his residence last night, partake of his hospitality, and be introduced to Mr. Brown. Accordingly the following gentlemen sat down to tea at 6.30: Mr. A. A. Brown, President of the Mining Company, Sheriff Hall, Dr. Torrance, Rev. W. L. Armitage, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Halliday, Mr. J. A. Fife, Mr. Robert Fair, Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Mr. W. H. Robertson, Mr. H. O. Fiske and Mr. George E. Elliott. A number of other gentlemen who had been invited, were unable to be present.

After a half hour's delightful enjoyment of an excellent supper, served with admirable taste by the hostess, Mrs. Harrison, the cloth was removed and the table covered with bags, parcels and specimens of crushed and uncrushed ore taken personally from the Stony Pass Mines by Mr. Harrison himself. Then followed an interesting account of his trip to the mines, his unique and varied experiences there and a fuller and more technical talk from Mr. Brown as to the character, wealth and future prospects of the mines. The company spent a very pleasant and instructive evening, and left well impressed with Mr. Brown's gentlemanly candour, and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison's hospitality.

NOVELTY IN CANVAS MANUFACTURED GOODS.

Drinking Fountain Cover Made by Local Firm for Sidney, C. B.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have just completed the manufacture of a drinking fountain cover, ordered by telegraph, from Sydney, C.B., for use in the cemetery there. This is a novelty in the line of canvas manufactured goods, and is but one of the many novelties which this firm makes a specialty of. The covering in question is made of white duck, and is 15 feet in diameter at the base, sloping to six inches at the peak. It has been artistically painted in green tints. Its use is that of covering a drinking fountain during the winter months, prrotecting it from snow and ice. It will be shipped immediately.

MR. NEILL'S COMPANY TO LEAVE OTTAWA.

The Canadian Machine Telephone Co. to Remove to Toronto.

The Mail and Empire has a despatch from Ottawa, referring to the removal from that city of the headquarters of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, of which Mr. Robert Neill, of Peterborough, is one of the moving factors. The despatch from Ottawa says:

"Ottawa, Nov. 4. — Through the stupidity of the civic authorities the city of Ottawa has lost the headquarters of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company. The company asked permission to put in two hundred 'phones for one year in order to test the system. They were to use the poles of the Consumers' Electric Company, and guaranteed to indemnify the city against any loss. The aldermen, however, decided to demand from the company a deposit of $5,000, which the company declined to make, seeing that they were willing to enter into an agreement to protect the city against loss or damage, and that all the expense was to be for only one year's experiment. The company has therefore decided to make Toronto its headquarters, and the work of removing the plant from this city commenced to-day."

Mr. Robert Neill, when seen this morning, and asked as to the truth of the statement contained in the despatch, stated that the company was removing to Toronto, though not for the reason stated in it. He intimated that he would have some interesting information to give to the public in a short time, but that at the present nothing further could be said.

WERE MARRIED IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Pleasing Wedding Ceremony in Which Peterborough Lady Participated.

A very pretty church wedding was celebrated in St. John's church on Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock, when Miss Ellen Jane Armstrong, eldest daughter of Mrs. James Armstrong, 57 Hunter street, was made the bride of Mr. Frank Magee of town, the rector, Rev. J. O. Davidson, being the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by her sister, Lizzie, while Mr. Robert Starr supported the groom. The bride was attired in blue grey trimmed with white applique, silk, and ribbon with picture hat, and the bridesmaid wore blue lady's cloth with white silk and velvet and picture hat. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee, who received numerous costly presents, leave on Saturday for Toronto, where they will reside at 2 Wilkins avenue.

SALISBURY IN FRANCE.

Intercourse of the British Statesman With Dumas the Younger.

Much has been written about the late Lord Salisbury's sojourns at Puy, near Dieppe, where he was the neighbor of the younger Dumas and of Mme. Miolan-Carvalho, the famous vocalist, who was the wife of the former director of the Paris Opera Comique. To-day M. Fleix Duquesnel, an old theatrical manager, who has turned journalist, relates in a very racy manner his meeting with Lord Salisbury at Puy one fine autumn twenty-eight years ago. M. Duquesnel was one day visiting Dumas fils, and as they were talking at the window there came near them a tall, slightly stooping man dressed in a free and easy seaside costume, and carrying a net for shrimp fishing. M. Duquesnel took the stranger to be an ordinary citizen at the seaside. The man stopped to talk to Dumas. "Good day, neighbor," he said, with a slight English accent, "how are you this morning?" "Quite well thanks, and your Excellency?" queried Dumas. His Excellency made a slight grimace, as if he did not like the title, and then replied: "I am as strong as the Pont Neuf; I believe that's the phrase. The air is splendid here, and I am off to catch shrimps." "Much luck," said Dumas; "hope you will catch some of the best." "Well, I am not ambitious about it; I only want to earn my luncheon! Au revoir!" and the stranger, saluting, went his way.

"What do you think of my neighbor?" queried Dumas of Duquesnel. "A curious looking person. He seems to be a type out of Gavarni, a genuine citizen at the seaside. But why, did you call him Excellency?" "I am about to tell you," said Dumas. "Your Gavarni type at the seaside is Robert Cecil, Marquis of Salisbury, peer of England, and Minister of Her Majesty Queen Victoria." "Do you mean that seriously?" "As seriously as possible, my dear fellow." "He's a fine old man," observed Duquesnel. "That's not kind of you," remarked Dumas. "I am eight or nine years older than he is. But he stoops. That, my dear sir, is the weight of England on his shoulders." "He is wrinkled and getting grey," put in Duquesnel. "That comes from the cares of the great Indies." "You look as if you might be his son." Dumas went on to speak of his impression of Lord Salisbury. Their relations, he said, were excellent, those of good neighbors without any other intimacy, marked by occasional visits of politeness and charming cordiality. There was, however, just a little touch of hauteur always on the side of the English peer. Lord Salisbury had his house built at Puy soon after the Villa Dumas has been constructed. He went to see the dramatist first, and said: "In England we do not know one another until we have been introduced. I could not expect Alexandre Dumas to be introduced to me, and he will be so good as to allow me to introduce myself to him. Besides, I am much obliged to you."

"How is that?" asked Dumas.

"Because," said Lord Salisbury, "I am passionately fond of reading your father's books. It is my favorite pastime, and gives my mind repose. I accordingly want to testify to the son my gratitude for the pleasant hours which I owe to the father."

"He had you on your weak side," interposed Duquesnel.

"He is a perfect gentleman," said Dumas, "of admirable courtesy, but always Grand Seigneur, even in apparently negligent moments. Here he lives as a simple citizen; sees nobody, and cares nothing about what passes around him. His home is comfortable without luxurious adjuncts, despite his immense fortune. He loves to talk on literary subjects, never drops a word about politics, read 'Monte Cristo,' and smokes his pipe."—London Daily Telegraph.

From Poorhouse to Parliament.

From the poorhouse to a seat in Parliament is the notable advance of William Crooks, a working cooper in the Woolwich district of London, England. Heretofore, the district has polled over ten thousand votes, always giving the Government a large majority; but at the last election the cooper was elected as a Liberal by a majority of 3,229, in a total vote of fourteen thousand. When Crooks' father died, the mother and children were ordered to the poorhouse at Poplar, England, and, in 1878, young Crooks was a tramp on the road from London to Liverpool, looking for work. He is now chairman of the board of guardians, the same official body that ordered him, as a boy, to the poorhouse. He is also presiding officer at several other public boards and organizations. Among his personal friends is Lord Rosebery. The man defeated by this working cooper in the election is Geoffrey Drage, one of Great Britain's most prominent statesmen, and author of many works on social economy. He was a Derby Conservative member of Parliament from 1895 to 1900. He takes the seat vacated by Lord Charles Beresford.

Kipling's Little Joke.

Some years ago Rudyard Kipling went to stay with Cecil Rhodes, at one of his fruit farms at Paarl, South Africa. One morning Mr. Rhodes went round his farm before breakfast, leaving his guest, who was not so energetic, behind. Time went on, and Mr. Rhodes did not appear. Hunger soon roused Mr. Kipling, and in a short while he was very busy on his own account. As Mr. Rhodes returned he found his trees laden with placards, inscribed in huge black letters with "Famine!" "We are starving!" "Feed us," etc. On reaching the front door he read, "For the Human Race—Breakfast tones the mind, invigorates the body. It has sustained thousands; it will sustain you. See that you get it." "Why die when a little breakfast prolong life?" In the little breakfast room Kipling was found reading his paper, but the expression of innocence on his face was rather overdone.

Having a Hard Time.

"Here I've been running for years," said the hall clock, "and I haven't moved an inch. I wouldn't mind that so much, but every evening about 8:30 the young lady of the family turns me back because she says I'm too fast, and then in the morning the old man comes along and grumbles because I'm too slow."

Fancy Work.

"Does your wife do much fancy work?"

"Fancy work? She won't even let a porous plaster come into the house without crocheting a red border round it and running a yellow ribbon through the holes."

A Pampered Ambition.

"That boy says his only ambition is to make a living without working."

"What are his parents going to do for him?"

"Make a politician out of him."—Detroit Free Press.

ARE YOU AGEING?

Dr. Holmes used to say he was "seventy years young." Some men are old at half that figure.

Age is not in years. It is in the blood. Scott's Emulsion helps to keep you young by keeping your blood young; by supplying it with an abundance of rich, pure, vital nourishment; carrying constant life and renewal to every fibre of your body. It will help you to rob advancing years of half their sting.

YOUTH AND AGE.

Crabbed age and youth
Cannot live together;
Youth is full of pleasure,
Age is full of care;
Youth like summer morn,
Age like winter weather;
Youth is full of sport,
Age's breath is short;
Youth is nimble, age is lame;
Youth is hot and bold,
Age is weak and cold;
Youth is wild and age is tame,
Age, I do abhor thee;
Youth, I do adore thee;
O, my love, my love is young!
Age, I do defy thee,
O sweet shepherd hie thee,
For methinks thou stay'st too long.
—Shakespeare.

Passing of Cap and Gown.

At the present rate it will not be long before an essay may be written upon the passing of the cap and gown in the University of Toronto, says The Globe. Time was when their use was laid down in the regulations, but the atmosphere favoring their retention has become more and more rarified as the years have passed, and as the utilities have superseded the humanities in the scheme of education. The professors still appear in the lecture rooms clad with the traditional badge of the scholar, but the students sit before him dressed in street clothes, and the "robe of an inquiring mind." There are exceptions to this statement, of course, as the senior men in the classic and English courses wear academic dress, and the women students, either because of a greater conservatism or out of an appreciation of the decorative effect of the gown, wear it almost generally in the class-rooms. These exceptions are arguments that the time for the essay has not yet come, but perhaps a stronger argument is the unwritten law that photographs for graduation groups must include a gown, even if it be hired for the occasion. The attitude of the student appears to be that, while he covets the regalia of a degree, and would be sorry to see the gown abolished as an institution, he cannot be bothered with it as a part of his everyday attire within his college halls.

Easily Explained.

"Strange that after reaching the top of the ladder he should fall so suddenly."

"There was a woman at the bottom of it."—Life.

The characteristics of the blusterer are a killing tongue and a quiet sword.

There is no guesswork about the virtues of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It has been before the people too long, and withstood too many a battle brunt from aspiring rivals, to be considered an experiment of unknown value.

Coughs, Colds and Croup.

Children especially are fond of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, because it is sweet and pleasant to the taste, and quickly relieves and cures them when gasping for breath with choked-up air passages, or tearing the linings of the throat and bronchial tubes with a severe and painful cough.

Bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, sore throat, severe chest colds and painful coughs are relieved and cured promptly and thoroughly by this famous preparation. It also frees the asthma sufferer from the dreadful paroxysms which cause him such keen agony and cures asthma, as has been proven in a hundred cases.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine aids expectoration, clears the throat and air passages, soothes and heals the inflamed linings of the bronchial tubes, and cures coughs of every description. But it is far more than a mere cough cure, for its action is far-reaching and it thoroughly removes the cold as well.

BABY ILER.

Mrs. Eugene Iler, King Street, Truro, N.S., states:—"From an infant one of my children was troubled with bronchitis, and the least cold would aggravate the trouble. We could not get anything to help him and were often greatly alarmed. Hearing of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a treatment for bronchitis we used it, and are glad to state that it effected a complete cure. If any of the children take a cold or cough I give this medicine, and have never known it to fail to bring relief.

"I was troubled a great deal from sick headaches caused by indigestion, and was cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have great faith in Dr. Chase's Remedies and can recommend them to others."

Mr. Jno. Pollard, Echo Bay, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled last winter with a very bad cold, which was beginning to settle on my lungs. I was so hoarse that I could scarcely speak, had a nasty hacking cough which I could not get rid of, and felt so sick at times that I did not know what to do. I had tried many things without obtaining relief, when a friend advised me to use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I am happy to say that one bottle of this medicine cured me and I can heartily recommend it to any one suffering from a severe cold."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Is sold by all dealers at the advertised price of 25 cents a bottle, family size, three times as much, 60 cents. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

☞ To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, are on every bottle of his remedies.

FOREST GLORIES.

Gorgeous Picture of Autumn-Tinted Canadian Maples in the Laurentides—Moose Killed Near St. Alexis.

The glow of an autumn sun on Canadian maples in the Laurentides last week made pictures gorgeous beyond anything the painter with either pen or brush might convey to either eye or senses. One could only gaze in wonderment and adore the hand of such magnificent landscapes, with veneration for the creator of it all. Quite a few Montreal gentlemen and ladies who visit Ste. Agathe have talked of the beauties of tree-clad hills, slashed all with the flame-tinted maple, softened by the yellow-tinted birch and the deep green cones of the spruce and balsam shooting between like spears. Having seen our own glorious Mount Royal and the woods of Montreal Island, with journeyings through the Eastern Townships, one might think he had seen all that there could be of autumnal forest beauties. They were fortunate travelers that passed along the Great Northern Railway last Friday and Saturday—perfect days—and saw the fringe of the Laurentides. The railway is splendidly built and the passenger cars very comfortable and clean. After passing New Glasgow, the blaze of glory of the woods was with us all the way, even to St. Paulin Station, where we stopped for a dive into the heart of the great masses of the woods for nineteen miles, says a writer in The Montreal Witness.

Lac a l'Eau Claire, nine miles drive from St. Alexis, was the objective point—the country seat of the Hon. George W. Stephens. St. Alexis was a ten-mile drive from St. Paulin. The way was along the banks of the pretty winding river, and the farmers and their homes, the flocks of cattle and the milk preparations for the creameries were pleasant to see, with in two or three places a sawmill, where the power is good. To see farmers painting their houses means the presence of good times, for paint is a luxury. So, those farmers who were doing this were generally fairly well off—the result of the high price for cheese and their ability to produce it economically and good. In St. Paulin there were storekeepers actually laying water pipes for house service indoors. Generally the farmers were thrifty, and their families well looking. There was no sign of anything but thrift So we drove through the sunny air and the glory of landscape, and the sun went slowly down in a sky the blue of which what could picture?

Winding hither and beyond ran the river, its banks very heavily clad with foliage and suggesting a canoe course of pleasant smoothness mile after mile until of a sudden an uprearing of the hillside showed a fall of more or less torrent-like picturesqueness that might easily have been the original that Jan Ridd describes in "Lorna Doone" as the back door to the Castle of the Doones. A pause to examine and enjoy the wealth of color all around, and then the pony carried us swiftly on a detour of more than a mile. We came through the rear of a farmer's yard. Past byre, barn and home house. Then from the rise we saw Lac a l'Eau Claire. It was delightful. The sunlight upon the home house, boathouse and bathing-house tinged the white paint with mellow light and the yellow sheen of the mirror-like surface of the lake was only dimpled here and there with a fly or trout ripple. The forest fringes of the lake were reflected vividly, and one might easily imagine from the opposite island the lady of the lake and the boat coming to meet us at the silver strand—only the strand was rather of the golden hue. It is safe to say that never in all his life did Sir Walter Scott view a more romantic scene than this. Neither did he hear the cry of the loon—nor the swish and scream of Canadian wild duck. But the sunset left no gloaming, bright as was the setting it gave to the picture, when the shadows were cast by its going down.

Flip went the fly-cast at early morning, the deft hand dotting the lake surface with the life-like fly hooks and feathers. Again and again the cast, and here and there the flies danced and flecked, until suddenly came a leap and the surge of life from the water. A lusty trout was at its battle for life with the angler at the other end of the line. Five minutes and a beauty three and a half pounds in weight was in the landing net.

Soon afterwards the same deft hand had captured a three-pounder. That was enough for the hour.

Exploring the lake, inlets or bays, and examining the island wore away much more time than fishing. Then the log fire in the spacious fireplace, the library and the story followed. The farmers had killed a moose three miles on the railway side of St. Alexis, and considered the feat no small one. They had not heard of these animals having been so far into the cultivated area before, and it was explained that the incident was not to be taken as indicating any increase in the moose family, but merely that one had lost its way and had thus been discovered and shot on sight by the farmer who could get in the first load of buckshot.

Message for Indian Relics.

In Orillia and in Collingwood it is proposed to follow the example of Penetanguishene, and set apart a space in the public library as a museum for the collection of Indian relics. Orillia has begn moved to this step by the fact that Mr. C. W. Hartman of New York, who was in that locality this summer, went about among the people and bought up at small prices a lot of rare Indian relics which he carried off to New York to be presented to a public museum. There are many private collections in Simcoe County.

George Meredith's Wit.

Mr. George Meredith, the eminent novelist, is as alert and witty in his casual talk as he is in his fiction. Not long ago, in conversation with a friend, Mr. Meredith was asked his opinion of a certain obnoxious person who had lately settled in the neighborhood. "He seems to me," replied the author of Diana of the Crossways, "to be one of the least of God's mercies."

A FRESH ARRIVAL.

An Englishman Gives His First Impressions of Canada and Her People—Some Strange Sights in the New Land.

The first thing that strikes an Englishman coming into this country is the lack of that stiffness and conventionality that is so characteristic of the Old Country. Take for instance the ordinary man in the street, who desiring to smoke finds himself matchless. In England this individual approaches a passer-by with such words as "Will you be good enough to oblige me with a light?" "Oh, thanks, very much."

Here it is, "Say, old fellow, who's got all the matches?" It is said in a bluff, cheery sort of way, and is pleasing to hear. It seems the very essence of good will and friendship. This is only one instance, but it is noticeable in a thousand other ways.

Another very evident point is that here there is scarcely any distinction of classes.

In large places of business in the Mother Country the head or heads would be secreted in some almost inaccessible sanctum, and approached only with due reverence by any member of their staff.

Here employer, manager and employes seem to mix in one common brotherhood for their mutual advantage, and there seems very slight distinction between them, save perhaps that of salary. It is scarcely known in the annals of London for an employer to walk down the street with one of his employes.

Again there are several establishments that strike the average Englishman as rather a novelty, such as shoe shine parlors, barber shops, with the operations in full display, and the numerous laundries with such names as "Sing Lung" over the door.

Bicycles, or wheels as they are called here, are found in greater numbers than in any English town. Their approach also is considerably more silent than in the Old Country. The first indication you seem to have of the approach of one of those "machines" is often a smart rap on the shoulder. You turn in indignation, and vow to report him to the next constable for having no bell or light, when lo and behold! the bulwark of the law wheels around the corner on his wheel, similarly without bell or light, and perhaps misses you by a few inches.

There is considerable difference between the electric cars here and in the Old Country. Those in the English towns are more substantially built, and carry passengers inside and out. The number of passengers capable of being carried varies from 50 to 80. The new cars of London, which are run by the underground system, carry 74—88 on top and 86 inside. This number must not be exceeded by a single passenger, or a prosecution will be the result.

It does not seem that the same law is in force in Toronto, nor does there seem to be the same regulation as regards speed. The cars travel about twice the rate here that they do in the Old Country.

It might also be mentioned that it is the rule throughout Great Britain for all traffic to keep to the left side of the road.

To come to perhaps a more interesting comparison. One misses to a great extent on this side of the Atlantic the healthy pink bloom of the average English girl, although this is amply compensated for in many other ways. Canadian girls, as a rule, have fine eyes. Their features are probably, on the whole, more regular and sharply defined than their English sisters, though not quite so expressive. But as regards figures, the young ladies here entirely put British damsels in the shade. They also display considerably more tact in dressing, seeming to know exactly what suits them. They are by no means forward in making a fresh acquaintance, but when once the ice has been broken, they are extremely sociable and entertaining.

The opposite sex are quick to make friends, bluff, hearty and genial. In stature they fall considerably below the average Englishman, though they are not necessarily less sturdy. They indulge in a great variety of headgear, and are generally more picturesque in their dress. They smoke more cigars and less cigarettes, and have a greater tendency than the Englishman to go clean shaven.

Nova Scotia Fisheries a Failure.

The Nova Scotia fisheries have been a failure this year. Both the deep-sea and shore fishermen have had a ruinous season, the catches being smaller than in any season during the past thirty years. A number of vessels belonging to the Lunenburg banking fleet, which have been lying in harbors along the shore waiting in vain for bait, have returned home without netting a line. Others, after a three-months' tug, have returned with 50 to 100 quintals, a mere bagatelle. Among the shore fishermen the Cape Shore fleet has abandoned fishing in disgust. With one exception, they report from 200 to 400 quintals less than last year. In Lunenburg, which is the greatest fishing port in Canada, there is much disappointment over the poor results of the fishing season. One thing that the fishermen have learned is that they cannot trust to luck any more for bait, but will have to aid in the suggestion of the Government and establish bait depots.

TALES OF WINDSOR.

Blighted Napoleon Willow Tree—Windsor Castle Partially the Work of Pressed Laborers—Its Oldest Part.

The workmen now engaged upon improvements at Windsor Castle need to tread warily, for the scene of their labors is replete with historic associations. Nor are these confined to the castle buildings. Of no place may it be truly said that while there are sermons in the stones there are tongues in trees to speak a chapter from history. In the garden adjoining St. George's Chapel is a tree with one of the strangest of stories. Blighted and stunted by lightning, it stands to recall one of the tragedies of history. It is a willow, and grew from a cutting taken from the parent tree, which grew above the grave of Napoleon at St. Helena. For long it flourished in its new position. But on the day of the battle of Sedan, in which the power of Napoleon III. was crushed, a flash of lightning carried away its chief branch. Still in its mutilated state it continued to grow lustily enough until, years later, it was smitten by another lighning stroke. Careful comparison showed that the second disaster synchronized exactly with the death of the Prince Imperial at the hands of the Zulus in Africa.

Windsor Castle, in some form or another, has existed as a royal domain from Norman times. Hardly a reign has passed without additions or alterations. Edward III. built the famous round tower or keep for a fraternity of knights who should meet and carry on the traditions of King Arthur's Round Table Knights. From the battlements of the keep twelve counties may be viewed, and even in these smoky days the King may see the dome and lantern of St. Paul's by taking his stand on the summit of the tower. Edward III. found the labor problem as acute in his day as do some less distinguished employers of modern time, and his works proceeded slowly. But the victor of Poitiers took a short cut to what he wanted. Writs were issued to the sheriffs, mayors and bailiffs of the counties, authorizing them to impress laborers for the work, with imprisonment as the alternative. William of Wykeham was the architect, and his duties could have been little else than a labor of love, for his wage was but a shilling a day. Plague carried off the bulk of the three hundred and sixty men engaged on the work in 1360, so more writs were issued. Edward did not live to see his undertaking completed, but Richard II. continued it, and had Geoffrey Chaucer as his clerk of works, and a zealous master of the labor press gang the father of our national poetry appears to have made.

The ordinary visitor does not see the oldest part of Windsor, the remains of the fortress in which John rested while the negotiations for Magna Charta were in progress. There is a small domain underground. In the older portions of the great wards arched passages thread their way below the basement, through the chalk, and penetrate far beneath the site of the castle ditch at the base of the walls. Their existence may have had something to do with the origin of the eerie stories which attach to the older part of the residence. For, of course, Windsor has its ghosts. Only a couple of years ago an officer seated in the library saw what is described as "the ghost of Queen Elizabeth." Shakespeare adopted his legend of Herne the Hunter from Windsor Forest for his "Merry Wives of Windsor." The ancient ranger was supposed to promenade around an oak, wearing horns upon his head.

Many a page of history is written on the walls of Windsor. Those that lay captive within the boundaries of the castle left their woeful histories carved upon their prison. Their memories were thus better perpetuated than those of some of more illustrious birth. It was only by a chance breaking up of the floor of the St. George's Chapel that the body of Edward IV. was found. In 1813 Sir Henry Halford found, too, and opened, the coffin said to contain the body of Charles I. The remains, he said, were in precisely the condition described by a witness of his imprisonment. But so many are the stories concerning the remains of this unhappy monarch and of Cromwell that even now controversy has reached scarcely any more definite conclusion than had been arrived at a century ago.

The gorgeous tomb which Wolsey built for himself was converted into money after his fall. The exquisite adornments with which artists had bedecked it were sold as defaced brass for £600. George IV. spent a million and a half restoring the castle. As a finishing touch to his work he had a huge bronze equestrian statue of his father erected as the end of the magnificent three-miles-long walk. In time a rather irreverent name became applied to the statue, so that the monarch whose name it is to perpetuate became disassociated from it. This led to a funny little mishap at Queen Victoria's dinner table. A distinguished statesman was asked how he had got to the castle. 'Oh, I got a lift as far as the copper horse, and walked the rest of the way, ma'am,' he replied. 'To the what?' cried Her Majesty in amused amazement. The guest had never heard of the statue by any other name, and had to explain himself as best he could. Whereupon the Queen good-humoredly rebuked him for his irreverence, and gave him the history of the figure.—St. James' Gazette.

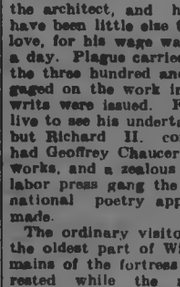
Who come of a consumptive family when they begin to cough and the lungs are painful. But it is a fact beyond disproof that consumption is not and cannot be inherited. The microbe which breeds disease must absolutely be received by the individual before consumption can be developed.



Men and women who have been afflicted with obstinate coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, emaciation and weakness, have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures the cough, heals the lungs, and builds up the body with solid flesh.

Deranged Nerves AND Weak Spells.

Mr. R. H. Sampson's, Sydney, N.S., Advice to all Sufferers from Nerve Trouble is

"GET A BOX OF MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS."

He says: "I have been ailing for about a year from deranged nerves, and very often weak spells would come over me and be so bad that I sometimes thought I would be unable to survive them. I have been treated by doctors and have taken numerous preparations but none of them helped me in the least. I finally got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before taking them I did not feel able to do any work, but now I can work as well as ever, thanks to one box of your pills. They have made a new man of me, and my advice to any person troubled as I was, is to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

RECKLESS ESCAPADES.

"Tommy Atkins" Often Quite Unnecessarily Runs Risks and Jeopardizes His Life After Donning Uniform.

In bygone days soldiering was always synonymous with an adventurous life, and although the old existence has passed away, and the present age knows neither the free lance nor the knight errant, yet the love of adventure remains the same, for the soldier, from the moment he dons the uniform, is for ever running risks and jeopardizing his life, often quite unnecessary.

No doubt it is the careless, reckless life he leads that engenders the feeling, but it is a certain fact that in the inner consciousness of every soldier there lurks a dare-devil, mischief-loving spirit, which every now and then convulses him and impels him to commit some rash act, to burst out in some form of excitement, which will furnish him with some means of risking either his life or his liberty. Especially is this the case where he wriggles under any restraint of his actions. Up to quite recently, every soldier in the British army had to be in barracks at tattoo, unless he was on "pass." It was a very common occurrence for men, after answering their names at tattoo, to "break out of barracks" again in quest of further excitement and pleasure. A glance through the defaulters' book of a company will show you entry after entry of crimes for this "breaking out of barracks." In open camps, such as Aldershot, Colchester, and Shorncliffe, the "breaking out" is practically a misnomer, for it consists in nothing more than walking out of the barracks, the soldier merely risking his liberty if apprehended in town by the police. But in barracks, surrounded by high walls, and also in fortified places, the soldier risks not only his liberty, but also his life in attempting to "break out." Some years ago a fatal instance occurred in the Grand Shaft Barracks, Dover. The only means of exit from this barracks is by gates guarded by sentries. On the northeast and west sides the barracks are protected by strong fortifications and deep entrenchments so that escape that way is practically impossible. On the south side there are no walls, but the barracks are bounded by a cliff which is almost perpendicular, and perfectly inaccessible from the street which runs below.

One night two soldiers made up their minds to "break out of barracks" after tattoo. Being aware that they could not pass the sentries, they determined to try the cliff, and after almost superhuman exertions they had managed to get about half-way down the face of it, when one of them, failing to secure a footing, lost his hold, and was dashed to pieces in the street below. The other, scared by the fate of his companion, remained where he was, poised between heaven and earth, not daring to move either up or down, until at last the shouts of the people below attracted the notice of the guard, and a rescue party with ropes, dragged him to the summit of the cliff again. He spent that night a prisoner in the guard-room, only too thankful to think that he had met with no worse fate.

At Guernsey, in the Channel Islands, two men of a certain regiment, who were confined to barracks as defaulters, determined to have at least one day's liberty in the town. Watching their opportunity, they managed to get out of the barracks at Fort George, and making their way down to the beach and "commandeering" a fisherman's boat, they rowed out to sea. They had no definite object in doing this, being inspired merely with a desire to put as much space as possible between themselves and the barracks for that day. Neither of them had any previous acquaintance with the sea, and when they got some distance out into the swell they were attacked by seasickness, lost their oars, and the boat drifted about, hither and thither, for three days, until they were picked up by a French fishing smack and landed in Dunkirk, almost dead from exposure, starvation and illness. The British Consul sent them back to the regiment, and they spent two months in the military prison, ruminating over the amenities of life. When they came out and related their experiences, their story proved so inspiriting that another party of six men repeated the performance a few days afterwards. But they were never heard of again. A severe storm sprang up the same night, the boat was found floating bottom upwards the next day a few miles out at sea, while a week afterwards one of their forage caps was washed ashore on the adjacent island of Jersey.

British Income and Expenditure.

Statistics of the income and expenditures of the British people were presented recently by Sir Robert Giffen before the members of the British Association. The total income of the British Empire reaches the enormous sum of £3,180,000,000, from a capital of £22,250,000,000. For the United Kingdom the income is £1,750,000,000, from a capital of £15,000,000,000. The only nation that rivals the empire is the United States, with an income of £3,000,000,000. The leading figures as to the expenditure in the United Kingdom are as follows:—Food and drink, £468,000,000, or 34 per cent. of the total; dress, £182,000,000, or 13 per cent.; house, £223,000,000, or 16 per cent.; national services (exclusive of education), £188,000,000, or 13 per cent.; miscellaneous (including £30,000,000 for education, £25,000,000 for church, £80,000,000 for locomotion, etc.), £130,000,000, or 9 per cent., and cost of distribution, £200,000,000, or 15 per cent.

Of Course Not.

A judge of one of the United States circuit courts has a five-year-old niece of whom he is very proud. A few days ago she came to him and said with a very serious air:

"Uncle, there is a question about law I want to ask you."

"Well, dear, what is it?" patiently inquired the judge.

"Uncle, if a man had a peacock and it went into another man's yard and laid an egg, who would the egg belong to?"

The judge smiled indulgently and replied:

"Why, the egg would belong to the man who owned the peacock, but he could be prosecuted for trespassing if he went on the other's property to get it."

The child seemed very much interested in the explanation and then observed innocently:

"Uncle, did it ever occur to you that a peacock couldn't lay an egg?"

Had Exciting Fighting Career.

The London Chronicle says: Sir Francis Howard, the new Inspector-General of Recruiting, is a relative of the Duke of Norfolk, and has had quite an interesting and exciting fighting career. He began in the Jowakai affair, and then went through the heavy Afghan campaign, bringing himself into notice on many occasions. In the war in Upper Burma, fifteen years ago, he was several times mentioned, and given the distinguished service reward, and for his work in Crete later on he got the C.M.G. Colonel Howard was locked up in Ladysmith with Sir George White, and did well in command of the 8th Brigade, getting the K. C. B. after the war, and having many clasps to his medal. In his new post Sir Francis moves on to the rank of Major-General. He is an A.D.C. to the King.

Sample of Scotch Coolness.

H. L. Doherty, the English tennis champion, was complimented one day upon his coolness in play. "Yes, I manage to keep cool," said Mr. Doherty, "but I fancy I should do better if I had Scotch blood in my veins."

The young man then told a story illustrative of Scottish coolness under trying circumstances. "A number of Scots," he said, "were working on a fifteen-storey building. One, up near the roof, lost his foothold and fell. But even in his swift descent through the air he remained quite cool and calm. In fact, as he shot past a friend on the twelfth storey he sang out, 'Eh, Saundy, sic a fall as I shall hae.'"

LETTER WRITING.

Its Decline as an Art Caused by the Modern Newspaper.

The wonderful development of the newspaper may be looked upon as a very potent factor in the decline of letter writing as an art. The letter no longer can be regarded as primarily the carrier of news. The expression of one's opinion about great contemporary events is indeed still left to the letter, but how much of an incentive to friendly correspondence is lost by the fact that every part of the world knows of important happenings almost simultaneously is not to be lightly estimated, says Gunton's Magazine. The stimulus to writing that comes from having "news" to impart is done away with, and it is not always that even the gifted letter writer can afford to lose that incitant. It is only the correspondent par excellence who knows how to attain the perfection of his art by writing delightfully of nothing, if indeed that may be called nothing which affords him a means for the employment of his delicate perceptions. For the saving quality of the genuine letter is in the ability of its author to put himself into it. If he writes about trivial things he does it with a grace of interest that disguises the triviality. He must not make his little fishes talk like whales, but he should, as Goldsmith himself knew how to do, make his letters of perpetual interest because of the aptness of their style to the simplicity of their thought.

The Delights of Nudity.

I cling to that perhaps fanciful theory that no primitive instinct of man is altogether lost. It is modified, amplified, refined; that is all. With all our culture we are barbarians still. Man is a clothed savage. And now and again he delights in doffing the clothing and returning heartily to savagery. How delightful the feel of the briny breeze and the boisterous wave on the bare pelt! Mr. Edward Carpenter rails at the, I think, eleven layers of clothing that intervene between our skins and the airs of heaven. Walt Whitman reveled in his nude sun bath. What a treat, too, sometimes to get away from the multicoursed dinner and to bite downright audibly into simple food in the fresh air and to lap water noisily from the brook! Well, walking perhaps is the primal instinct, ancient as Eden, where the Lord God walked in the garden in the cool of the day. And if my theory is correct walking will persist till in recovered paradise man walks with his Maker again. No mechanical contrivance for locomotion will extirpate the tribe of tourists, of those who walk from love of walking.—Arnold Haultain in Atlantic.

Texas Gets Canadian Instructor.

A bright Canadian, Mr. F. R. Marshall, has been engaged by the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College as associate professor of animal husbandry. Mr. Marshall has had training which peculiarly fits him for this work. He is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, and has a degree of Science in Agriculture from the University of Toronto. After completing a very successful course in Toronto he took post-graduate work in agriculture at the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. For three years he was employed as assistant in the animal husbandry department of that college, and much of the success of the department has been due to his efforts. He had been markedly successful as a judge of live stock and in training the young men in his charge for the competitive tests in stock judging at Chicago and other points. Leaving college work for a more lucrative position, Mr. Marshall was engaged in managing the live stock interests of the immense Brookmont Farm of over 7,000 acres at Odebolt, Iowa. He leaves his work there to go to the college to give special instruction judging horses, cattle and swine.

Pasture and Grain.

In an experiment made by the Cornell experiment station it was found that cows on pasture alone gave more milk than those on the same pasture with a grain ration added, but an equal amount of fat. This lasted only while the pasture was at its best. The Kansas station increased the flow of milk, but not sufficiently to pay for the additional cost of the feed.

Professional.

"Are you blind by nature?" asked the charitably inclined citizen.

"No, sir," candidly replied the beggar. "I'm blind by profession."

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

The Peterborough team will go to Toronto to play their first out-of-town game for the season. Their opponents will be the Wellesleys, the team which they defeated here in the first game of the schedule, by a score of 9-3. Advices from Toronto state that the Wellesleys have strengthened their team considerably since the former game and that the Peterborough will have no easy task in defeating them. The team to represent Peterborough to-morrow will be chosen from the following players: Ford, Crowley, Burnham, Lee, Graham, Noble, Hutchinson, Craig, Dillon, Meagher, Richey, Cameron, Paschal, Morgan. Messrs. Clarry and Kenner will accompany the team. Train leaves C. P. R. 7.10 to-morrow morning. All members requested to be at C. P. R. Depot at 7.00 o'clock sharp.

Dr. W. G. Wood, captain of the Toronto Rugby Club's senior team has been appointed to referee the Wellesley-Peterborough intermediate game at Sunlight Park to-morrow afternoon, which is a guarantee that the game will be handled in a business-like manner. Dr. Wood knows the rules down to the ground, and is one of the best-posted of local Rugby men. The game promises to be one of the hardest and most sternly contested of the season. Peterborough has succeeded in getting Captain Burnham of last year's champions out again and he will play centre half and direct the Easterners again to-morrow. A much improved team will work under him, which will make the Wellesleys' task a difficult one indeed. The locals are practising faithfully, however and are confident of achieving the victory.—Mail and Empire.

GOLF.

At the Lambton Club this morning in the Austin Tournament a match between the East and West was played. Those playing for the East included three ladies from the Peterborough club. The whole team was: Miss Adair, Miss Marler, Miss Greene, Mrs. Macpherson, Mrs. Mussen, Mrs. Smith, Miss Taylor, Mrs. Dennistoun, Mrs Campbell, Miss Dennistoun.

HOCKEY.

Teams with apparently less claim for representation on the O. H. A. executive than Peterborough are clamouring for it. The Galt Reformer has the following referring to that town securing representation: "At a meeting of the Hockey Club executive held last evening, it was decided to send to Toronto in December a candidate for election to the O. H. A. executive. Galt is certainly entitled to representation on this committee. The association has had our support for a number of years, and in view of the fact that the game has always been kept clean, and free from any taint of professionalism, and also for the reason that Galt has been and will continue to be, the centre of hockey enthusiasm for the western portion of the province, we should certainly be represented on the association executive."

* * * *

(Ottawa Citizen.)

Mr. J. A. Washburn, one of the warmest supporters of the Smith's Falls Hockey Club, was in the city yesterday, and in the course of conversation said that that town would have a strong team, such players as Reddy McMillan, formerly of Cornwall; Leader, formerly of Quebec; Dunn, formerly of Winnipeg; W. E. Washburn, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie; Jarvis, Leroy, Saucier, LeSueur and Gilroy being available. A dozen fast and husky intermediates would also furnish good material upon which to draw, and it might be that teams would be entered in the senior and intermediate series of the O. H. A. In any event, Smith's Falls would loom up prominently in the hockey world, and would take a lot of beating.

* * * *

Secretary W. A. Buchanan, of the O. H. A., has issued the following statement from St. Thomas: "The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held in Toronto on Saturday, Dec. 5th. Nominations for president, first and second vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer, and four members of the executive must be in the hands of the secretary seven days before the annual meeting. The secretary is now sending to each club and association a copy of the present rule book, and it is necessary that all amendment to the rules of the constitution should be in the hands of the secretary two weeks prior to the annual meeting. Clubs intending to affiliate with the association for the first time should communicate with the secretary at once in order that the club's application may come before the annual meeting. All communications should be addressed to the secretary, W. A. Buchanan, St. Thomas, Ont.

Cobourg, Nov. 5.—The Cobourg Hockey Club organized last night and elected the following officers: Hon.-pres., O.G. Johns; Hon. Vice.-Pres., A. E. Woods; President, A. R. Dudley; Vice President, Chas. McCallum; Treasurer, A. B. Robertson; Secretary, A. W. Hayden; Manager, H. W. Hargraft. It is the intention to have both junior and intermediate teams join the O.H.A., and with a little new blood added to last year's team the intermediates intend to put up a stiff argument for the championship. —Globe.

* * * *

Sault Ste. Marie will this year place a team in the intermediate series of the O. H. A. Last year a senior team was entered but the Willingtons and St. Georges against which they were called to play were too fast to the Soolies. They expect to have a strong seven this year and will probably make a good showing in the intermediate series. Hogarth, a former Peterborough player, will be on the team.

LOCAL CASE IN TORONTO COURTS.

Matter of Shares in Traders' Screwless Door Knob.

Before Chancellor Boyd, at Toronto, the case of Burdett v. Fader was tried. The Globe's legal column has the following:—

Burdett v. Fader.—Judgment (E.B.H.) on motion by plaintiff to continue an interim injunction granted by the local Judge at Peterborough restraining defendant from disposing of certain shares in the Traders' Screwless Door Knobs Co., so as to defeat plaintiff's claim against defendant. In this action plaintiff has a verdict against defendants for $760 for libel, but the entry of judgment has been stayed, and an appeal is pending. Defendant contended that plaintiff was not a creditor and not entitled to an injunction. Plaintiff obtained the injunction ex parte upon an affadavit alleging that defendant intended to sell his stock to defraud the plaintiff and to leave the country with the proceeds. Held that plaintiff is not yet a creditor, much less a judgment creditor. Plaintiff may or may not yet get judgment in the case, but he proposes to restrain the sale or disposition of the stock by the defendant till the action is finally determined. There is no authority for such a course in an action of tort. If the plaintiff is a creditor before judgment, he can sue on behalf of himself and all creditors to attack a fraudulent transfer. If the plaintiff is a judgment creditor, he can proceed by execution to secure himself upon the debtor's property. But if the obligation is merely progressing, and the status of creditor not established, it is not the course of the court to interfere quia timet, and restrain defendants from dealing with his property until the rights of the litigants are ascertained. See Parker on Frauds on Creditors, p. 211; Holmested & Langton's Jud. Act. p. 30; Newton v. Newton, 11 P.D., 11, 15; Campbell v. Campbell, 20 Gr. 263, 264. Injunction not continued; costs to be disposed of when the action is determined. D. O'Connell, Peterborough, for plaintiff. R. D. Gunn, K.C., for defendant.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

THE LANDSLIDE ON RIVIERE DU LIEVRE.

An Interesting Letter From Mr. Barton Earle.

Tells how Three Farmers Slid Bodily a Distance of 300 Feet Laterally.

Mr. Barton Earle, formerly English master at the Collegiate Institute, sends the Examiner the following interesting description of the land slide of three farms at Poupore into and beyond Riviere du Lievre. To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—At the risk of tiring your readers who have all seen accounts of the recent landslide at Poupore, a place situated on the Riviere du Lievre, a tributary of the Ottawa, I venture to ask space in your paper for a short account of a trip which I made yesterday with an Ottawa friend, to that famous locality.

Leaving Ottawa at 8.15 we arrived at Buckingham by train and stage, a little before 10. Buckingham is a picturesque and flourishing town on the Lievre. It is here that McLaren's Mills are situated. As the method of conveying the lumber from the mills to the Ottawa, a distance of four or five miles, may be new to some of your readers, as it certainly was to me, I will try to describe it. An open, watertight flume is constructed the whole distance, resting on trestles, at varying heights, to suit the inequalities of the ground. Through this a stream of water is flowing swiftly, and conveying the lumber to the piling ground on the Ottawa.

At Buckingham we took the steamer Agnes, and, as yesterday was an ideal Autumn day, we enjoyed the sail of eleven miles up the river between beautiful banks, with mountains of considerable elevation on each side, but a little removed from the river. In some places the land between the mountains and the river was well cultivated, and the trim, whitewashed cottages, and well-kept holdings of the habitants added a charm to the scenery. We passed one of Father Murphy's Gold Cure Institutes. It is kept by a Scotchman named Taylor, and is very pleasantly situated on the bank of the river. The house, which is rather a handsome one, was built, I was told, by Mr. Eddy, of Hull, as a summer resort.

Our Captain, a genial Scotchman, furnished us with a great deal of information about himself and the country through which we passed. His name is Bothwell, and he regards himself as a descendant of a gentleman of that name who figured in the reign of Mary Stuart. His mother's name was Selkirk, and I am not sure that he does not claim descent from the gentleman immortalised by DeFoe. I am not aware that there is authentic evidence of either of these gentlemen having left descendants, but there many things have happened in their lives which are not generally known.

On arriving at our destination we were obliged to go ashore below the usual landing place and walk for some distance over ground rather trying to two hundred pounds of asthmatic humanity. We reached the house of the first sufferer about half past twelve, and, as the journey had been somewhat fatiguing, and a naturally good appetite has been stimulated by the pure air of the country, I must ask the reader's indulgence until after dinner.

Before attempting to describe the scene as it now presents itself, an almost impossible task, permit me to say something of what the place must have looked like before the disaster.

Poupore is not a village, but a small and, before the disaster, thriving settlement between the mountains and river. There are, or rather, were locks here to facilitate navigation. The mountains on the right bank are a considerable distance from the river, and the three farms chiefly affected by the natural disturbance would compare favourably with the best land in Ontario. The soil is fertile and, judging from what is left of it, in an excellent state of cultivation. The land was level, but easily drained, being from 30 to 40 feet higher than the river. The buildings, what are left of them, are unpretentious, but comfortable and well kept. The general appearance would indicate comfort and contentment. The feeling that these people had lost more than the money value of their farms, was strongly impressed upon me as I looked over the scene of desolation. The money loss may be partly, at least, made up; the sentimental loss, never. The three farms, as I have said, are situated on the right bank of the river. The upper one belongs to Mr. Angus McMillan, a thrifty Scotchman who settled on the place when the country was a wilderness. The farm must have been a very pretty one and the old man and his wife must have been greatly attached to it. He loses about eighty acres of his best land, and what is left, of course, is rendered much less valuable. The next farm belongs to a Frenchman named Clement. The farm may be said to be a complete wreck, and Mr. Clement has been suddenly reduced from competency to poverty. I may mention here, that, although all the farms were well stocked, the only animals killed were four cows belonging to Mr. Clement. How the other animals escaped I shall not undertake to say.

The lower farm belongs to a Mr. Baseau. He loses about 50 acres, part of which he had bought just before the calamity. You are aware that the Government sent competent persons to examine and report on the subject. I have not read the report, but I have formed an opinion, with the assistance of my friend and a party of three—a gentleman and two ladies—whom we fell in with on our arrival, and whose very agreeable company we enjoyed during our three or four hours' survey of the scene.

Just here I may say that my age and rather unwieldly bulk were brought home to me during the progress of our investigations in a way not at all agreeable. One of the ladies was unmarried and a most charming companion, and my friend, who is younger and more active than I, in spite of the fact that he had a wife at home, had almost a monopoly of her society.

In order to understand the causes of the disaster which has befallen this beautiful spot it will be necessary to know something of the nature of the soil. The upper part, though not gravelly, appears to me of a percolating character. This extends to depths varying perhaps, from one to two feet. I do not pretend to exactness of detail, as it would take days instead of hours to verify observations and the different stories told by the settlers. Below this there is a depth of several feet of a sort of blue clay. I am not sufficiently conversant with soils to know whether sand is mixed with this clay, but I know that this substance, whatever it may be, though perhaps more impervious to water than the upper layer, is not so impervious as pure clay. As nearly as I could see the blue clay was either almost altogether absent close to the mountain, or at a greater depth than in other places. We could not see what was beneath the clay, but I imagine it is rock. A gentleman whom we met at Buckingham on our return, and who I afterwards learned was an engineer, stated his belief that the underlying rock was full of inequalities which accounts for appearances which I shall mention later. I may say that I do not agree with this. At the place where I conceive the trouble to have originated there is a notch in the mountain, and a small stream was running down to the river. A little up the side of the mountain I noticed a soft shallow basin in which ones feet would sink easily. Now I imagine the trouble to have started here. The abundant rains flowing in rivulets down the mountain sides settled in these basins and in time so completely saturated the clay as to reduce it to the consistency of mortar. This pressed upon by the superincumbent layer, at last broke out as rivers of soft clay, and allowed the surface to gently but quickly settle down. The action would not be the same in all parts, which accounts for the varied appearance of the present surface. In some places the clay would be of uniform consistency over large spaces, and the surface would settle down evenly. I noticed one place in particular where fully an acre had settled 36 feet without a break in the sod. In some places the clay did not yield so readily to the action of the water and the surface after settling is tilted at various angles. In some places the fissures are wide, the upper part having been carried for quite long distances on the river of soft clay. In other places are narrow fissues where the clay has been forced up into pinnacles by the pressure.

To give some conception of the force of this remarkable movement, I will describe as well as I can the course of the main stream. This stream consisted mainly of blue clay, but as you would expect, in some cases, carried with it the surface part. We saw in the bed of the river quite large trees, looking as if they had never been disturbed, at least half a mile from the place where they grew. The stream crossed the river below the dam, completely shutting off the water for 24 hours. It rushed with tremendous force against the opposite bank. Stopped in that direction it divides into two branches, the principal branch going down the stream for nearly a mile depositing immense masses which now look like islets of various sizes. A smaller stream went up the current forcing itself into the lock and sweeping the dam down to the rock.

To describe all the freaks of this monstrous force would take more space than you would be willing to allow. I must, therefore, content myself with mentioning a few of the more interesting.

The most remarkable of all may be seen at Mr. Clement's farm. When Mr. Clement returned on the evening before the catastrophe he was in the Township of Buckingham and at an elevation of 30 or 40 feet above the river. In the morning he was in the Township of Portland and on a level 30 feet lower than his position in the evening. But this is not all. He had with him his house, including his cellar, all his outbuildings, his garden and his well. Yes, Mr. Editor, all these had been moved with little disturbance and without damage about 300 feet laterally and 30 feet downward.

I may say that the well is in excellent condition. Our party drank some of the water and found it perfect. As Mr. Clement's farm is gone, he has no longer any use for the well, which I can recommend most highly. If any of your readers and in need of a first-class well they cannot do better than communicate with Mr. Clement. His present address is Buckingham. That the well is movable has been abundantly proved.

I mentioned that only four animals were killed, but some of the others had very narrow escapes. They were found in all situations, some quietly grazing 30 feet lower down than formerly; some on small mounds with perpendicular sides from 20 to 30 feet high. One pig, invisible but very much alive, made his whereabouts known by the sweet tones of his voice.

There is one thing more which you have, no doubt, thought of. The rush of all this matter into the bed of the river caused a wave, which, had it happened at another hour, might have been disastrous. Saw logs were thrown up the banks to a considerable height; trees were torn out by the roots, and had the little steamer been on one of its trips almost certain death would have been the fate of the vessel and all on board.

We started for home about half past four, some of the party taking souvenirs of the visit. The young lady whom I have mentioned carried off what looked like a small ox-bow. I think she intends to use it in breaking in her future husband. Would that I were once more young! How gladly would I submit to the yoke.

Yours truly,
BARTON EARLE.

SUMMARY OF A SUCCESSFUL OUTCOME.

Of Industrial, Commercial, Agricultural and General Activities —The Whole Line Advances—Every Interest Thriving.

In yesterday's issue of the Examiner was republished from the Globe an admirably and, without doubt, justifiably optimistic article setting forth the industrial independence of Canada, and indicating incidentally, if not specifically the healthy character of our national manufacturing interests. A summarised reference was made to the industrial situation in Peterborough, but it may be found interesting and encouraging to advert to it more in detail, and also deal with the local conditions of commercial and general thrift which happily characterise every department of industrial, commercial and agricultural activity in the town and district. It is pleasant to know that such a consideration will reveal the fact that at the present time, and in the very recent past, there never existed a more gratifying condition of prosperity, and the indications are that the cloud of industrial and commercial depression that seems to be lowering darkly upon the United States and obscuring to a greater or less degree the sunshine of prosperity, does not, in the Canadian sky, even show the proverbial dimensions of "a man's hand."

EXCEPTIONAL CONDITIONS

It is true that in some lines of industry the pinch may come, but to a country so largely dependent for its prosperity as this country is, upon the success of the tillers of the soil and the exploiters of animal products, it seems likely that, so long as the farming industry, in its widest meaning, is favoured with good harvests of grain and animal products, the hand of depression cannot fall very heavily. This is more likely to be the case when what might be called accidental conditions lend their aid to extend the period of prosperity beyond the limits natural under normal and unexceptional conditions. The expenditure of something like a hundred millions in the construction of a transcontinental railway will inject into the arteries of the national body a current that will materially assist in maintaining the flow at a point necessary to sound commercial health. Besides there is hardly a country in the world with the pro rata capacity for productive trade that Canada possesses. The total trade of this country is about $80 per head, in contrast with about $30 per head for the United States. In the matter of development of our immense resources we are only in the initial stage, in much the same position as a farmer who is reaping abundant crops from a virgin soil. These conditions conjoined with the quiet but splendidly of our population and a fairly favourable co-operation of Nature, will tend to the maintenance of a fairly equable level of national prosperity, affected, there is reason to hope, only incidentally and partially by depressed conditions in our immediate or more remote vicinity.

EFFECTIVE ENERGY AND ENTERPRISE

Peterborough is largely dependent upon the prosperity of the farming community tributary to it, and we have in operation or projected industries whose successful operation will help the farmer.

The Cereal Company will afford a continually improving and excellent market for one of our most prolific coarse grains.

The Matthews Company will continue to furnish a profitable demand for one of the best paying of farming industries, one that has a double reward, for while it helps to fill the farmers' pockets it does so with the least impairment of the fertility of the soil of the farm.

Then, the successful operation of a beet sugar factory will give the farmer a new money-making crop, which experience and more favourable conditions of the labour market may render more certainly successful.

THE FARMERS' PROSPERITY.

In dealing with the prosperity of the town and district, the farmer may well be considered first; and never perhaps, in recent years, have the agriculturists of this vicinity had a more prosperous year. The crops, as well as prices, have been good, and the farmer is in clover. The banks say that he has met his obligations splendidly, and that in scores of cases the farmer, instead of being a borrowerer, has become a depositor. The mortgage ledger of the Toronto Loan and Savings Company has never been in so good a condition; arrearages have been brought up; mortgages, that have haunted many a farmer day and night for years, have been discharged, and general betterment is evident in every township.

OUR MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS MEN.

Therefore, it is not surprising that our merchants have had a prosperous year. The trade of the past twelve months has in almost every case been larger than that of the previous year, and a comparison of the trade of the month just closed shows that the trade of October, 1903, has been better than the same month of last year, by a percentage of from thirty to sixty. The books of the banks confirm this. Managers report that merchants have met their obligations with gratifying promptitude, and on Thursday last — the 4th of the month, being a day to try business men's souls bills — payments by merchants, business men—and farmers—were splendidly made, in some cases the slate being practically cleaned. While the prosperity of the farmer has largely contributed, the abundance of employment for labour ,at high wages, has also been an important factor in producsuch results.

The Customs returns afford another proof of our commercial activity. During the fiscal year closed June 30th, 1903, the customs collections in Peterborough, which show at the same time the importations of our merchants and the consumptive capacity of the people, are in round figures $68,000 greater than last year —$218,000 as against $147,000, an increase of over 46.4 per cent.

OUR MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS MEN.

Employment has been plentiful, not only in the general sphere, but also in our industrial establishments, which have almost, without exception ,flourished amain. Though it is impracticable to seek to be admitted very deeply into the confidence of our industrial establishments, enough is to be learned to inform us that they have had a prosperous year, and hope for a continuance, as evidenced by numerous additions to productive capacity, and preparations for more extensive and more vigorous operations.

The American Cereal Company, though necessarily hampered by the incompleteness of the source of power or supply ,is meeting with a steady and growing demand for its products. Its trade is largely export, but while the demand in this direction steadily anticipates output, the satisfactory condition of this country generally is shown by the fact that it is with no little difficulty that the demands of the home market for "Quaker" Oats is met.

The Canadian General Electric Company, seems to be also in the swim of prosperity, a condition which, considering the increasing activity in the development of electrical energy, is reasonably assured of permanency. At any rate immense additions are being made to the building equipment, and the regular sound of the closing whistle at ten o'clock p.m., shows that whatever night work in addition to that of the day may mean in the way of demand for the products of the works, its employment is still necessary.

While the William Hamilton Works have largely shared in the prevailing prosperity, the fact of a large new boiler shop of permanent solidity, is being erected, and large additions made to the moulding shop, shows that

ACTIVE OPERATIONS ARE ANTICIPATED.

The lumbering industry has been, and still is, in a flourishing condition. The Dickson Company's new mills ,of large capacity, have been, and still are, running day and night, though it is possible that failure to secure sufficient men to man their lumber camps, so as to ensure as large a cut as desirable, may lead to the transference of the night shift to the lumber woods. There is no diminution of orders for lumber, such as have made necessary the operation of the mills to their full capacity. The Point St. Charles mills have also been very busy and the addition of large planing mills and a box-making plant to their equipment, shows that the large cut that will be made on the limits this winter will be required to meet the demands for further operations.

The Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company closed the year with

of not a machine or implement of the large output of the year left unsold, and that the repetition of such a record is not regarded as impossible, is shown by the fact of re-organisation of staff, the installment of new and additional machinery, and general preparations for a vigorous manufacturing campaign.

The Matthews Company have no reason whatever to complain of the successful outcome of the season's operations. Here also important additions to capacity—previously noted in these columns — forecast large operations in the future and the confidence thus expressed in the successful outcome of continued application of vigorous productive enterprise, is emphasized by the fact they have purchased an establishment in Brantford, similar, and almost equal in capacity and importance, to their Peterborough establishment, both of which are to be extensively operated.

The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company is also in having a prosperous year. The works have been operated to their full capacity and last year's output exceeded that of any year in the history of the Company. The Works have not only been in constant operation, but overtime work has rather been the rule than the exception. It has been found necessary to even cut out the Saturday half holiday, which was sometimes arranged for. The employees have had constant employment and the rate of wages has never been higher. The demand for the products of the Works has been brisk and steady, and altogether an active and prosperous year has been enjoyed.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons can add another chapter to the year's history of our industrial activity. They have been exceedingly busy, and the business of the expired ten months of the present year is double that of the whole twelve months of the preceding year. Their extensive new factory, representing largely increased facilities, has been, and is being, taxed to its capacity. And the outlook for continued good business is excellent. A representative of the house, who is at present in the West, is operating on territory covered by another agent only six weeks ago, and the amount of business he is

How Peruna Saves Lives

MRS. COL. E. J. GRESHAM, Treasurer Daughters of the Confederacy, and President Herndon Village Improvement Society, writes the following letter from Herndon, Fairfax county, Va.:

Herndon, Va.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"I cannot speak too highly of the value of Peruna. I believe that I owe my life to its wonderful merits. I suffered with catarrh of the head and lungs in its worst form, until the doctors fairly gave me up, and I despaired of ever getting well again.

"I noticed your advertisement and the splendid testimonials given by people who had been cured by Peruna, and determined to try a bottle. I felt but little better, but used a second and a third bottle and kept on improving slowly.

"It took six bottles to cure me, but they were worth a king's ransom to me. I talk Peruna to all my friends and am a true believer in its worth."
—Mrs. Col. E. J. Gresham.

Thousands of women owe their lives to Peruna. Tens of thousands owe their health to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands are praising Peruna in every state in the Union. We have on file a great multitude of letters, with written permission for use in public print, which can never be used for want of space.

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for a book written especially for women, instructively illustrated, entitled "Health and Beauty." Sent free to women.

ONTARIO'S "OPPOSITION."

Writing of the political situation in Ontario, the Ottawa Journal(Independent,) says:

The defeat of Dr. Hart in Muskoka is no more significant of Ontario's mistrust in the Government than the defeat of Miscampbell in Sault Ste. Marie, is an epitome of Ontario's lack of confidence in the Opposition.

The Opposition of Ontario has shown no more eagerness to defend municipal rights, no more willingness to oppose subsidy hunters, than has the present ministry. And beyond a futile objectless opposition to almost every step the Government takes, the Conservatives have done nothing, proposed nothing, initiated nothing.

Canada's habit is to expect considerably less than before promised when an Opposition becomes a Government, and when nothing is promised or no definite course or policy adopted, that opposition is likely to remain in opposition.

THE AMERICAN MOVEMENT FOR RECIPROCITY.

Now that the Alaskan boundary question is out of the way, the agitation in the United States in favour of reciprocity with Canada is being pushed with renewed vigor. Almost every day brings its report of a representative individual or a representative body in the republic declaring in favour of closer trade relations with the Dominion. It looks, in fact, as if a formal tender of reciprocity by the Washington Government may be expected in the near future.

That such an offer would meet with a prompt and favourable response from the people of this country goes without saying. To maintain the contrary would, indeed, be to assert that what Carlyle, in a moment when the digestive organs got the better of the mental faculties, said of the people of England might be said in all seriousness of the people of Canada.

The live stock sold in Toronto since the beginning of the present calendar year would, if the Buffalo level of prices had prevailed in this city, have yielded the farmers of Ontario very nearly one million dollars more than it has yielded; and, under free trade between the two countries, the higher level would have prevailed. With the line of Customs houses abolished the fruit-growers of Niagara district would find in Buffalo a market equal to that of Montreal and Winnipeg rolled into one; and to send peaches to Winnipeg costs $300 per car, and to Montreal about $60 per car, while Buffalo can be reached for a mere fraction of these sums. Under free trade the fruit-growers of Essex would find in Detroit, within sight of their own doors, a purchasing population equal to the purchasing population of the whole North-west. With Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston open to our lambs and poultry, farmers in Western Ontario would secure as much profit in producing lambs as they now find in producing bacon, and in Eastern Ontario a poultry industry would revive that would be second only to the cheese industry as a money maker.

Profit would not be confined to selling. There would be advantage in buying as well. To many farmers the saving in the purchase price of implements and other articles would, under free trade, amount to a sum almost equal to the profit caused by the opening of a new market to sell in.

If the Alaskan boundry settlement prepares the way for free trade between the two countries, we can afford to view with equanimity the loss of the strategic advantage due to the placing of those two nameless islands off Fort Simpson under American sovereignty. Free Trade between Canada and the States would bring more profit to the farmers of Ontario in one year than the whole Yukon territory will bring to Canada in ten years.—Globe.

CRIME IN THE DOMINION.

(Hamilton Times.)

The criminal statistics of 1902 show an increase of convictions for the year of 346, although in Ontario there is a decrease of 100. Of the crime of the Dominion about 75 per cent, was in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario. British Columbia shows the largest percentage of convictions. There has been a large increase in the number of convictions of boys under 16 years of age; something to be greatly regretted, unless by our prison reformatory system these youths can be saved from worse things. Fewer women were convicted. By countries the statements of the convicts show the record to be: Canada, 68 per cent.; England, 9; Ireland, 7; Scotland, 2; United States, nearly 8. Of these convicts 10.10 per cent were classed as non-drinkers, 29.86 per cent. were classed as drunkards; 60.14 per cent. came in as moderate drinkers. Out of every million married men only 1,290 figured as criminals, while 2,050 single men fell. More than one-half the convictions were for theft. More people were convicted of infraction of the laws relative to the sale of liquors than ever before. The number was 2,356 as against 2,230 in 1901. There were 15,342 summary convictions for drunkenness, or 1,954 over the average for the period 1894-1900.

It would not be well to build too much on the convicts' statements as to their religion, but this table gives the percentage of each denomination in the total population of Canada according to the census of 1901, and the percentage of convicted criminals describing themselves of the different denominations.

	Pop P.C.	Crim P.C.
Anglicans	12.9	16.2
Methodists	17.7	19.2
Presbyterians	15.63	7.6
Baptists	5.9	3.9
Roman Catholics	41.6	37.7

The figures as to the education of the convicts go to show that fewer of them are unable to read and write than formerly. This is but natural in a country where attendance at school is compulsory. The comparison with former periods is interesting.

	Total convictions.	Educated and partially so
1887-1890	16,152	11,707
1891-1894	17,902	13,336
1895-1898	22,184	17,304
1899-1902	22,770	18,550

Eleven criminals were executed in 1902, one was sentenced to life imprisonment, and 116 to five years or longer in Penitentiary.

HONORS FOR CANADA

Members of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal and Others.

THOSE WHO ARE MENTIONED.

King's Birthday, Nov. 9, May Witness Conferring of Honors Upon Canadians —Among Those Mentioned Are Hon. George A. Cox and Hon. George Drummond for K. C. M. G.— Precedent in Behring Sea.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—(Globe Special.—If precedent be followed the Canadian jurist on the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal and the Canadian agent and counsel may receive honors on the King's birthday, Nov. 9. That is, supposing they are willing to accept honors from His Majesty. In 1893, after the Behring Sea arbitration Sir John Thompson was made a member of the Imperial Privy Council and the two English counsel, Russell and Webster, were created G.C.M.G.'s. Sir C. H. Tupper, the Canadian agent, had a K.C.M.G. conferred upon him. Mr. Christopher Robinson was offered a K.C.M.G., but declined the honor. The late Dr. George Dawson, director of the Geological Survey, became a C.M.G. It is therefore not unlikely that the Canadian commissioners on the recent tribunal may be offered honors of some sort from the King. It is also said to be likely that the following honors may be bestowed: K. C.M.G., Hon. George A. Cox, Toronto, and Hon. George Drummond, Montreal; C.B., Mr. Montague Allan; C.M.G., Col. Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia; Mr. Philippe Herbert, the French-Canadian artist. The insignia of the Imperial Service Order may also be conferred upon other members of the Civil Service, including Lieut.-Col. Harry Smith, Sergeant-at-Arms.

BOUNCE FOR THE FUTURE.

North America to be Ruled by Yankees Before 1940 is Prophesied.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—"Before 1940 the Continent of North America and the Republic of the United States will be one and the same thing."

This prophecy was made Thursday by Prof. Francis W. Shepardson of the University of Chicago in a lecture to his class in American history.

"Before 1910," said Prof Shepardson, "Panama will belong to the United States. And if we get Panama we shall get Guatemala, and then Nicaragua, and Costa Rica, and the other little states. And if we get them we shall get the West Indies. It is not improbable that we shall take in Mexico. Then would Henry Clay's dream be realized.

"Let me just make this prophecy, and you watch to see if it is not fulfilled. Before 1940 North America and the United States will be the same thing. Canada will come to us through voluntary secession from Great Britain."

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

DEMANDS OF I. C. R. MEN.

Conductors Get Everything Asked, but Trainmen Had to Compromise.

Moncton, N. B., Nov. 7.—A satisfactory basis of settlement was reached yesterday in the case of the increase of pay asked for by the I. C. R. conductors and trainmen. Hon. W. S. Fielding granted practically everything the conductors asked for Thursday night, but there was a hitch over the trainmen's schedule. A compromise was offered the trainmen of fifty cents per day, as the amount asked for all round. It was granted to the conductors, but the offer of forty cents was made to the trainmen. The Quebec men held out for the full amount asked, but finally yielded and accepted ten cents per day less than the schedule allowed.

The increase will give the passenger conductors $3.25 per day.

A CONSULTATION BOARD.

Premier Balfour Appoints a Committee to Advise on It.

London, Nov. 7.—It was officially announced yesterday that Premier Balfour, with King Edward's approval, has, after consultation with the Secretary of War, appointed a committee to advise concerning the creation of a board for the administrative business of the War Office, and consequent changes involved. The committeemen named are Viscount Esher, Admiral Sir John A. Fisher and Col. Sir George S. Clarke.

Many Nets Destroyed.

Brockville, Nov. 7.—Chas. J. Altman, until recently a partner in the Union Hat Works Co., was arrested Thursday night on the charge preferred by the Hat Works Co., of maliciously destroying about three thousand dollars' worth of hats. He was brought before the Magistrate yesterday morning and was remanded for a week. Bail was placed at $2,000, but was not forthcoming.

Immigrants to Canada.

London, Nov. 7.—During the month of October the emigration to Canada through English ports was as follows: English, 2,971; Irish, 149; Scotch, 762; foreigners, 2,122. The totals for ten months are: English, 45,794; Irish, 2,495; Scotch, 10,139; foreigners, 34,644. The total number to Australia and New Zealand for October was 1,657; to South Africa 7,411.

TYRANNY IN THE HOUSE.

The Vice-Sovereign Housekeeper Makes Life Miserable for All Who Are of Her Family.

There are mothers and mothers, but the mother who makes misery in the house is the one who is an immaculate housekeeper. Her house is spotless and dustless; no one can enter the door until his feet are scrubbed; when in the house he has an uncomfortable feeling that perhaps he may drop a speck of dust on the chair or floor and when he leaves he imagines that woman has grasped a broom and swept out his dust after him.

A woman who recently came under my observation was just this sort. Her two exceedingly lively boys beam almost irrepressible. They must stay outdoors, and if they want a drink or a cookie she takes it to them rather than let them come in and get dirt on the floor. If they get dirt on the steps she scolds; if they litter up the yard she remonstrates; if they quarrel she storms; if they remain quiet she is equally dissatisfied. Her nerves are worn threadbare by overworking herself, and the slightest noise makes her explode. Her parlour is shut up so that the boys can't go in and clutter it up.

When it rains and they must stay indoors she is nearly distracted with the noise they make. "Oh Joe, can't you sit still five minutes?" she calls out in her high-pitched voice. "If you will stop talking an hour I'll give you a dollar." "Jimmy, stop kicking that chair. Did you hear me?" I don't see why you can't behave."

That mother is never known to talk to her boys as if they were human beings; it is nothing but scold, scold. She never interests herself in their play or tries to direct them from bad actions to something better. When they are particularly bad in her estimation, on goes the stick amid vociferous scolding until her own passion is expended.

Sunday is the day of all days to be dreaded by those boys. They must not go on the dirt and get their Sunday clothes soiled, they mustn't play ball, they mustn't run, yet nothing is done by the parents to amuse them and keep them quiet.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

BIRD SHOT FOR VARSITY BOYS.

Cornell Students Wounded by Man Whom They Annoyed.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 7.—John C. Tracy of Hudson, N. Y., a sophomore in Cornell University and a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity, was filled full of bird shot late Thursday night by Delacy M. King, who lives next door to the Phi Gamma Lodge. His condition is precarious.

Tracy and some other members of the fraternity were engaged in removing some boards from King's yard, which had been formerly used in a line fence. The fence had blown down and the boys wanted it rebuilt, but King had taken the boards and piled them up in his yard. Tracy was shot as he was picking up a board.

King is a recluse, who while living a quarter of a mile from the heart of Ithaca, has been in the city but once in twenty years.

Nine Dead in Mine.

Butte City, Montana, Nov. 7.—A Virginia City special to The Miner says a fire in the Kearsage mine, six miles from Virginia City, yesterday, killed nine men. The damage to surface buildings is slight. The dead include Superintendent R. B. Turner, of Butte, one of the best known mining men in the Northwest. Stationary Engineer George Allen and seven miners also were killed. Four bodies have been recovered up to last night.

THE PANAMA REPUBLIC.

Recognized by the United States It May Now Be Expected an Envoy Is Established.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The decision to recognize the de facto Government of Panama was arrived at after a protracted session of the Cabinet yesterday, at which every member was present, except Secretary Root and Secretary Wilson. No other subject was considered.

Secretary of State Hay made a statement, in which he says: The action of the President was not only in the strictest accordance with the principles of justice and equity, and in line with all the best precedents of public policy, but it was the only course he could have taken in compliance with treaty rights and obligations.

Under the personal instructions which he will receive to-day from President Roosevelt, United States Consul-General Gudger leaves here Sunday for Colon to assume command of the American Consulate there. He will go on the U. S. SS. Mayflower. On his arrival at Colon Mr. Gudger will make himself known at once to the "de facto Government," and will do business directly with the Republic of Panama.

THE FIRST BABY.

What joy there is in the home when the first baby comes, and yet to the young and inexperienced mother who has to care for it, there is no other period of her life so trying. In the little ills that are certain to come the inexperienced mother scarcely knows what to do. To the young mothers—to all mothers—Baby's Own Tablets are a real blessing. They promptly cure such troubles as constipation, colic, sour stomach, diarrhoea and simple fevers. They break up colds, destroy worms, allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth and prevent more serious ills. These tablets are sold under a guarantee to contain no opiate, nor any other of the harmful drugs always found in the so-called soothing medicines. They are good for all children from the new born babe to the well grown child. If you do not find the tablets at your medicine dealers send 25 cents to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and a box will be mailed you post paid.

HELD FOR $100,000.

Edward L. Wentz Who Disappeared on Oct. 14 Last.

CAPTIVE IN CUMBERLAND MTS

Strange Man Brought a Letter to His Father, Dr. John S. Wentz, a Philadelphia Millionaire, Which Told That His Son Was Alive and That He Would Be Freed Upon $100,000 Being Paid.

Bristol, Tenn., Nov. 7.—Edward L. Wentz, the young Philadelphia millionaire, who mysteriously disappeared Oct. 14, is alive and a captive in the Cumberland Mountains. A strange well-dressed man appeared last Friday and inquired for the Wentz office, to which he was directed, and there had a talk with Dr. John S. Wentz, the father of the missing man, D. B. Wentz, and the chief detective under whose directions the great search was being carried on in the mountains of Southwest Virginia and Eastern Kentucky. The strange man told them that E. L. Wentz was still alive, and that for $100,000 he would be delivered to his family.

Dr. Wentz informed him that if he would bring back a letter from his son or some evidence that his son was still alive he would then consider the proposition. The man said he would do so, and that night left on a Louisville and Nashville train for Tisserville, Va., from which place he went into Stony Mountains.

The stranger has just returned to Big Stone Gap, bringing a letter from young Wentz, who, in his own handwriting, assures his family that he is alive, is being held captive and asks that they at once pay the ransom and effect his release.

J. S. Wentz left here Thursday night for Philadelphia. When the negotiations are to be completed and Edward L. Wentz returned to his family cannot now be told, but it is known that he is still alive, and that negotiations for his release are being made.

WORSE THAN IN WAR TIME.

Violent Language Against United States in Spanish Senate.

Madrid, Nov. 7.—In the Senate yesterday, Senor Gilrobl, Carlist, interpellated the Government regarding its recommendation to Spanish manufacturers, that they participate in the St. Louis Exposition, and on the proposal to send a cruiser to represent Spain. The Senator used the most violent language against the United States, causing the Premier to protest against the terms employed, which, he said, would not be justified in time of war.

MICHAEL MALONEY KILLED.

Shot Through the Head Twenty-five Miles North of Marmora.

Marmora, Nov. 7.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday afternoon to one of a deer-hunting party, 25 miles north of this village, in the Township of Lake. A young man by the name of Michael Maloney was shot through the head. Dr. MacKechnie of this place was sent for in haste. Just how the accident happened is not at the present time known, but it is supposed he was struck by a stray bullet.

Wrecks Down by Rea.

Truro, N. S., Nov. 7.—The C.P.R. express coming by Belmont station Thursday night ran into the rear-end of a freight train which was standing out on the main line from the siding. The driver of the express, Harry Dryden of Moncton, jumped and had his leg broken. A freight car was derailed, but little damage was done. An engine of a St. John freight was ditched at Oxford Junction yesterday morning by spreading rails.

Witnesses Threatened With Death.

London, Nov. 7.—The murderer of the two Armenians is said to be a prominent Alfarist, who formerly resided at Providence, R. I. In consequence of threats of death to the Armenians who have been summoned to testify at the inquest, the Coroner's Court will be closed to everyone but the witnesses and officials.

Burglars at Madoc.

Belleville, Nov. 7.—A daring burglary occurred yesterday morning in the Village of Madoc. Safe crackers blew open two safes, one in the G. T.R. station and the other in Thompson & Dafoe's hardware store, but in neither case got anything for their pains.

PACIFIC CABLE SAVED.

Eastern Extension Company Blocked by Commonwealth Senate.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—The agreement between the Government of Australia and the Eastern Extension Company, so obnoxious to Canada, New Zealand and the home Government, as partners in the Pacific cable having been blocked in the Senate of the Commonwealth on Sept. 8 and following days has, it was learned by direct cable yesterday morning, been abandoned by the Government. Thus the honor of Australia has been redeemed by Senators W. G. Higgs of Queensland, Staniforth Smith of Western Australia, Simon Fraser of Victoria and 17 other honorable Senators.

WILL START PULP MILLS.

Just So Soon as Enough Men Can Be Got in the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 7.—The pulp mills here will be started as soon as enough men can be secured to operate it. This, it is expected, will be about Wednesday next. Many of the former employes are out of town, and are being telegraphed for. This arrangement was made by J. S. Fackenthal yesterday, but he cannot say when any of the other mills will be re-opened.

The Rosemount Released.

Detroit, Nov. 7.—The Rosemount was released Thursday at the Grosse Pointe Cut, and, accompanied by the lighter Nowaman, made her way down to the river. The marine ambulance had taken off 12,000 bushel of wheat, and this was all put back by 9 o'clock, when the Canadian steamer continued on her trip to Montreal. She was uninjured. Near the same place that the Rosemount ran aground by the parting of her wheel chains, the steamer Venus of the Gilchrist fleet struck bottom last night. She is hard aground.

Students Killed by Explosion.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 7.—While students of the Agricultural College at the Ohio University were witnessing the harvesting of a field of corn for ensilage purposes by a machine, operated by an old traction engine yesterday, the boiler blew up, and pieces of iron tore through the crowd of students. Charles Pepper, the engineer, was killed, and John Deigarm, assistant engineer, fatally injured.

Mrs. Laurier Buried.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—A special train left the city yesterday morning, carrying a large party of prominent people, including Dominion and provincial Ministers, Senators, members of Parliament, of the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly, who went to St. Lin, Que., to pay their last respects to Mrs. Carolus Laurier, stepmother of Sir Wilfrid, who was buried yesterday morning.

London, Nov. 6.—Live cattle steady at 10c to 11¾c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 9½c to 11c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 10½c per lb. Sheep steady, 10½c to 12c per lb. Lambs 13c, dressed weight.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Cattle Market were 26 cars, consisting of 248 cattle, 888 sheep, 401 hogs and 8 calves.

The quality of fat cattle offered was not good.

Trade was slow in all the different classes of cattle, with the exception of milch cows.

No exporters were offered and none were wanted.

Prices for butchers' cattle were, if anything, lower than on Thursday. Drovers were complaining of the market being no good. The fact is there has been too many unfinished rough cattle coming forward, and too few of the finished classes.

The demand for feeders and stockers is not nearly as great as it has been for some time, and prices have declined accordingly.

Milch cows and springers are in great demand, in fact, greater than the supply, and prices are firm for all of good quality.

Calves, of which there was a light run, sold at unchanged prices.

Deliveries of sheep and lambs was not large, and prices were unchanged, but market slow and dull, especially for lambs. It was hard to sell buck lambs at any price, while ewes and wethers of good quality sold readily.

Deliveries of hogs were not large, and Mr. Harris reports market easy at unchanged quotations, with a prospect of lower prices at an early date.

Toronto Junction Live Stock Market.

The receipts at the Union Stock Yards at Toronto Junction were two carloads, consisting of 43 cattle and 40 sheep.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 650 head; quiet; prices unchanged. Veals, receipts, 250 head; 50c higher; $5.50 to $6. Hogs, receipts, 3700 head; active; 5c to 10c higher; heavy, $5.40 to $5.45; mixed, $5.30 to $5.40; yorkers, $5.15 to $5.20; pigs, $5 to $5.15; roughs, $4.50 to $4.75; stags, $3.50 to $4; dairies and grassers, $4.75 to $5.10. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 2000 head; active; sheep steady; lambs 10c higher; lambs, $4.50 to $5.50; yearlings and wethers, $3.75 to $4; ewes, $3.25 to $3.35; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $3.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Nov. 6.—Beeves—Receipts, 2627; steers steady to a shade lower; bulls and cows slow; native steers, $3.20 to $5.15; oxen and stags, $3.10 to $3.50; bulls, $2.65 to $3.90; export do., $4 to $4.20; cows, $1.10 to $3.25. Exports to-morrow, 1077 cattle, 180 sheep and 6930 quarters of beef. Calves, receipts, 122; feeling firm; veals, $4 to $5; buttermilks, $2.80 to $2.50; westerns, $3. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 1895; sheep slow and barely steady; lambs steady to 10c higher; sheep, $2 to $3.50; lambs, $5 to $5.65; one deck, $5.75; Canadian lambs, $5 to $5.37½. Hogs, receipts, 3051; market 15c higher; Pennsylvania and State hogs, $5.20 to $5.50.

2,500 Sheep in a Flock.

Renfrew, Nov. 7.—What was probably the largest drove of sheep that ever passed up Main street was that on Tuesday morning, when Messrs. Scott & Jamieson drove 2,500 to the C.A.R. station yards. It was a half hour of noise. Thirteen carloads were sent to Boston and neighboring points.

Wires in Alaska.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Gen. A. W. Greely, chief signal officer U.S.A., in his annual report says 1,470 miles of military telegraph and cable lines have been laid during the year in Alaska.

Muddy Complexion.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid, sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. This great medicine awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels. As a result digestion is improved, bodily pains disappear and the health is benefitted in every way.

A Book and Six Bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative On Trial to the Sick.

The cost is absolutely nothing to you if my restorative fails. I simply ask you to learn by actual trial what this remedy can and will do. I want people to know what I know about this prescription. There can be no safer, no more certain way to convince the sick than to say "Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month on trial. And that is just what I will do if you write me. I know absolutely that it will help you if you use it. I know you will willingly bear the cost—$5.50—if it succeeds. I know this, because for five years I have made this offer everywhere.

Thousands have written for my book—have accepted my offer—and only one out of each 40 has said, "it did not help me." Just think of it. My past records show that 39 were helped where 40 tried the Restorative. I am proud of that record. I failed with one in forty—but there was no expense to that sick one.

I cannot cure cancer. No medicine can. There must be some failures. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will do the utmost that medicine can. It is my greatest achievement after thirty years in hospitals and at bedsides. I have found, at last a way to cure even obstinate deep-seated diseases.

I treat—with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—the INSIDE NERVES. Here lies the secret to my success. It is my discovery. My Restorative is the only prescription that reaches these nerves. Without this inside nerve treatment, I could not offer "a month's treatment at my risk." No other known remedy would stand the test.

In thousands of homes it is now constantly kept as a safeguard. Off days will come to us all, but a few doses will set things right again.

How to Secure Trial Treatment.

Send no money. Simply ask for the book you need. A postal will do, or sign the coupon. Then I will arrange with a druggist near you, so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative to make the test. Send me no money. You go to the druggist, remember. Use the Restorative a full month—then decide. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50; if it fails I will have the druggist bill the cost to me. Could anything be more fair?

To delay means to forget. Write now while you have it in mind. This is important.

CHARGED THE RIOTERS.

Many of the Lyons Police Injured By Stones Thrown by the Mob—Several Arrests Made.

Lyons, France, Nov. 7.—A meeting Thursday in the Bourse De Travail, to protest against the present system of employment agencies and the alleged brutality of the police in Paris, was followed by a rather serious riot. After the meeting the demonstrators paraded the city until they came up with a force of mounted guards. Some persons fired a revolver and the rioting commenced. Paving stones and lumps of coal, stolen from a nearby factory, were hurled at the guards and police. This was followed by more shooting. Many of the police were injured, and one sergeant had his skull fractured. Finally the police, with drawn sabres, charged the rioters, wounding several of them, and dispersing the mob. Several arrests were made.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease. 36

TWO FISHERS DROWNED.

Double Accident Near the Mink Island Fishing Station.

North Bay, Nov. 7.—Word has been received of a double drowning accident between Mink Island fishing station and Limestone Islands. The victims were both young men, one being Thos. McDevitt of Parry Sound and the other John Walton of Collingwood. The young men went out in a small sloop called a shoal boat, to lift some nets. Not returning, search was made, which resulted in finding the boat, oars and nets. Parties are still dragging for the bodies. It is supposed the boat was overloaded and was swamped, and that the boys, who were good swimmers, attempted to swim to the nearest land and were drowned.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

Cleveland for President.

New York, Nov. 6.—The Press says that Cleveland Democrats control in New York State and he will be pushed for president. The state will send a solid delegation to the party's next national convention.

By-law No.——

A By-law to Provide for the Construction of Sewers in the Village of Ashburnham according to the plans therefor prepared by W. Chipman, Esquire, and adopted by the council of said village and to purchase land required therefor and to raise the sum of $18,000 to be applied for the said purpose.

And whereas in order thereto it will be necessary to issue debentures of said village for the said sum of $18,000 and interest as hereinafter provided (which is the debt to be created by this by-law) the proceeds of the said debentures to be applied to the purpose aforesaid.

And whereas it is desirable to issue the said debentures at one time and to make the principal of the said debt repayable by yearly sums during the period of thirty years, being the currency of the said debentures, said yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amounts payable in each year for principal and interest in respect of the said debt shall be equal to the amount so payable in each of the other 29 years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required by the Municipal Act to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $967.80.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said village according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof is $463,874.

And whereas the amount of the existing debenture debt of said village is $18,-500, and no part of either principal or interest thereof is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the Village of Ashburnham enacts as follows:

1. The sum of $18,000 shall be expended by the said village in constructing a system of sewers and acquiring such lands as may be necessary for such purpose according to the plans therefor prepared by W. Chipman, Esq., and adopted by the council of the said village and for the purpose of raising said sum debentures of said village shall be issued within two years after the passing of this by-law.

2. The said debentures shall be 30 in number and shall be each for the sum of $967.80, being the amount of the several annual instalments including principal and interest, and shall be payable one in each year on the 21st day of December in each year for 30 years, the first of such debentures being payable on the 21st day of December, 1904.

3. Each of said debentures shall be signed by the Reeve and Treasurer of the said village and sealed with the corporate seal of the village.

4. During the currency of said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the ratable property in the said village the sum of $967.80, for the purpose of paying the amount due in each of the said years for principal and interest in respect of said debt.

5. The by-law shall take effect on the 21st day of December 1903.

6. The votes of the duly qualified electors of the said municipality shall be taken upon this by-law, on Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1903, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day and at the places and before the deputy returning officers following namely:

South ward—At the council chamber, Mark street, before John T. Wright, hereby appointed such deputy.

North ward—At the town hall building before T. Q. Quartermaine, hereby appointed such deputy.

7. The 26th day of November, 1903, at 2 p. m., and the said council chamber are hereby appointed the time and place respectively for the appointment of persons to attend the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk of said municipal council, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of this by-law respectively and the 27th day of November, 1903 at 12 o'clock noon and the said council chamber are hereby appointed the time when and the place where the said clerk shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

NOTICE

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed by-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the council of the municipality (in the event of the assent of the Electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication in the Peterborough Examiner newspaper, the date of which first publication was Saturday, the 31st day of October, 1903, and that the votes of the electors of the said municipality will be taken thereon on the day and at the hours and places therein fixed.

JOHN WOOD, Clerk.

RESOLUTION

Of the Municipal Council of the

VILLAGE of ASHBURNHAM

RESOLVED:

1. That the annexation of the village of Ashburnham to the adjacent Town of Peterborough, upon such terms as shall be agreed upon by the councils of the said village and said town respectively, is expedient.

2. That the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said village shall be taken on this Resolution on Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1903, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the places and before the deputy returning officers, following, namely:

South ward—At the council chamber, Mark street, before John T. Wright, hereby appointed deputy returning officer.

North ward—At the town hall building before T. Q. Quartermaine, hereby appointed deputy returning officer.

3. On Wednesday, the 25th day of November, 1903, the reeve of the said village of Ashburnham shall attend at the said council chamber at eight o'clock in the evening to appoint persons to attend at the polling places aforesaid, and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the approval of this resolution by the electors.

4. The clerk of the council of said village will attend at the said council chamber on Friday, the 27th day of November, 1903, at twelve o'clock noon, to sum up the number of votes for and against this resolution.

Dated October 27th, 1903.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE AND LOCAL INDUSTRY.

Claim an Infraction of Act Respecting Sunday Labour.

American Cereal Company Claims the Work was one of Necessity—Was Undertaken to Protect Coffer-dam, Which Would Have Been Destroyed.

Mr. Robert Harrison, secretary of the Peterborough Lord's Day Alliance Branch, returned last night from Toronto, where he had been attending a meeting of the Ontario Alliance. Mr. Harrison had been instructed by the local branch to advise the Ontario body of an alleged infringement of the Lord's Day Act by the American Cereal Company, at their works here. It was stated that the works were in operation on Sunday, October 18th. The result of Mr. Harrison's visit was that the Ontario Alliance has requested the Attorney-General to proceed against the Cereal Company.

Mr. A. P. McDonald, manager of American Cereal Company here, when asked as to this matter, made the statement that on the occasion referred to, the mills were in operation. He further stated that the company took the position that the work done was a work of necessity. The circumstances surrounding it are these: On the Saturday preceding, Mr. O'Toole had just completed putting in the framework for a coffer dam, but up to that time had not been able to get it loaded sufficiently to withstand the extra rush of water which always goes over the dam when the works are not running. He accordingly explained the situation to Mr. McDonald, stating that should the mills not run on Sunday, his cofferdam would be washed away. The manager therefore conferred with the men at the mills, and asked them to return on Sunday and operate the mills in order that the work of the contractor might not be destroyed. This, the men readily consented to do, in view of the circumstances, and Mr. McDonald states that the company will defend its action, as being necessary.

He further said that no work was ever done on Sunday except that which was absolutely necessary, but that in a mill the size of the American Cereal Company's, there were always repairs which could not be made when the mill was in operation, and running, as they do, for 24 hours a day, the only opportunity was on Sunday, consequently there were few Sundays when some work was not done, and this the company intends to continue doing, believing that it is in the interests of those employed in the mills, as well as the town generally that the works should be in continuous operation twenty-four hours a day for six days in the week, and, in order to do this some repair work is necessary on Sundays.

MARK GUY PEARSE ON "OLD FOLKS AT HOME."

Gave a Delightful Lecture at George Street Church.

Eloquent English Divine Tells of the Simple Characteristics of Cornwall's "Old Folks."

Those who went to George street church last night expecting to hear a deep logical lecture, were disappointed, but those who went with the expectation of hearing something of the simple homely life, lead by the fathers and grandfathers of the present generation in Canada; told as only Mark Guy Pearse can tell it, were given one of the greatest treats of their lives.

After having spoken for an hour, he sat down, but, in response to the call for "more," and "go on," which came from all sides of the church, every seat of which was filled, he consented to continue his talk, for such it was, and for thirty minutes longer the audience sat listening to the words of the greatest Methodist preacher in the world.

His triumph last night was but a repetition of the manner in which he has been received wherever he has been since he came to Canada on this lecturing tour, and the reasons for his enthusiastic receptions are not hard to find. The dominant characteristic in Mr. Pearse is his sympathy, and to this characteristic, added to his insight into human nature, is due his wonderful success as a preacher and as a lecturer.

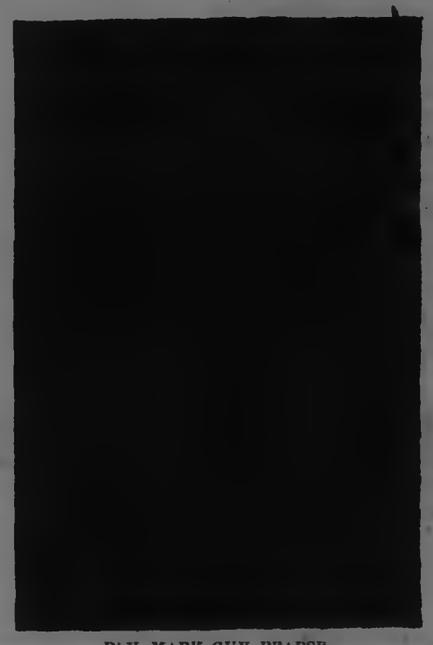
Canada has evidently impressed Mr. Pearse very favourably. In the course of his lecture, and as an illustration of the contrast between the free life of Canadians and the contracted existence of Londoners, he said, "I have seen more sunshine in the six weeks I have been in Canada, than I would see in England in two years." The prayers first, turned his childhood's thoughts towards the ministry, came first, and those who heard him last night, walked with that little band of boys and girls along the quiet English lanes, passed the fields of daffodils and buttercups, past the three wee cottages that nestled in the little village, and upstairs into the quaint room where "Old Rosie" lay, joined in "The Rock of Ages" hymn, felt the bitter pangs that assailed his breast when he learned that she must go to the workhouse, and rejoiced with him when in the morning they told him that she had passed peacefully away during the night to her eternal home, and would never need to wear toe "workhouse blue."

When he told of the night spent in the fishing smack with the fishermen, and of the conversation with the men who live the simple, trustful lives, one could understand the characteristics of a race, specimens of which he was describing.

Throughout the ninety minutes during which Mr. Pearse was speaking, the audience was in entire sympathy with him, and not the slightest sign of weariness was manifested.

At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble and seconded by Rev. J. Bustow.

The Ladies' Aid, under whose auspices the lecture was given, are to be congratulated on the success of the evening, and are also to be complimented for their enterprise in securing such an eminent and eloquent speaker.



REV. MARK GUY PEARSE.

object of Mr. Pearse's trip to Canada is to raise money for the work of the London Missions, now conducted by the widow of Hugh Price-Hughes, who, in his lifetime was a co-worker with Mr. Pearse in preaching and practising the gospel to the poor of London. To this work Mr. Pearse has given his time without remuneration for sixteen years, and during that period he has gathered material to introduce in his lectures pictures of life's darker side, which are entirely unknown to those who have never seen the squalor and wretchedness of the poorer districts of London.

But his lecture was not a sad one, it was bright and entertaining, and helpful. He has a keen sense of humour, an evidence of which was shown when in speaking of the changed conditions of the country life in Southern England, he said that while a few years ago, a mother would be broken hearted should her daughter marry a "foreigner," by which term she meant one who lived outside the parish in which she resided, to-day they were not particular where the husband came from, if they only come.

Under the tender touches of his master hand, "The Old Folks at Home," developed, after the prefatory passages, into a description of several personages who had come into his life, to whom he gave more than a local habitation and a name, clothing them in very flesh and blood, while his auditors followed with an absorption that hung on every word and gesture. "Old Rosie," the aged saint of God, whose distance away. Turning around he spied two wolves coming helter skelter along his track. He saw that the front one was the largest, and waiting for a moment or two to get his opportunity he levelled at the point of the shoulder, and pulled the trigger. The rifle made a vicious crack and the fatal lead hit the mark sidling through to the heart. The wolf gave a yelp and a spring into the air, and fell to the ground like a hundred of brick. The mate disappeared on the crack of the rifle as if the ground had opened and swallowed it. Barclay never saw a glimpse of it. On reaching the wolf he found that it was one of the largest he had ever seen. It must have weighed considerably over a hundred pounds, and as it was no use trying to carry the carcase, he took out his jack-knife and skinned it right there. The skin measures from tip to tip just six feat and is in prime condition. It will be worth $2.50, and the bounty is $15 so that Barclay hit a prize package with his little gun."

AN ASHBURNHAM RATEPAYER ON TAXES.

Says a Union of two Municipalities Would be an Advantage.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I read in your columns yesterday an article dealing with the proposed union of Peterborough and Ashburnham and saw in it a statement to the effect that some of the residents of the latter municipality are afraid that if the union is effected their taxes will be increased.

Now, Mr. Editor, I should like to point out a fact which has evidently escaped the notice of those who expressed themselves as you have indicated above. The rate of taxation in Ashburnham for this year is slightly lower than that of Peterborough, but anyone who has given the matter study, must see that under present conditions the taxes of the village must increase very materially in the very near future. It is a fact that the only safe sidewalk in the village is that from the corner of Lake street to the bridge; for two or three years no new walks have been laid and it has now reached the stage when new walks are an absolute necessity. A sewer system also is something which the public health demands, and which will have to be provided. If these improvements and others as badly needed, are provided the taxes will then have reached a point, considerably higher than those which the residents of Peterborough now have to pay. I contend that our taxes as residents of Ashburnham must increase in any case, and that it would be of the greatest advantage to the village to unite with the town. Ashburnham has not advanced any in forty years, and will not advance in the next forty years if it remains a separate corporation.

Yours truly,
ASHBURNHAM RATEPAYER.

The above letter on a question of paramount importance to the two municipalities at the present time, has been received from a correspondent, and the Examiner gladly reproduces it. The letter is a little lengthy, but this fault is overlooked in consideration of the timely importance of the communication. Contributions dealing with this question in a short and concise manner are solicited, and this paper will be glad to publish them.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

ATHLETIC SPORTS naturally do not appeal directly to the middle-aged and staid members of our community, though there are scores of our citizens, now steady business men, who were in former years active participants in games and who still delight to "shoulder their crutch and show how fields were won." Athletic and allied sports have a considerable national and even international importance. Take curling for instance. That game has been the means, through the medium of the visit of the Scottish curlers, of strengthening the bonds between Canada and the Mother Land. Besides it has more than a sentimental value. The Scottish curlers, mostly substantial business men at home, by their visit to Canada got new, enlarged and more correct ideas of Canada, of the enterprise of its people, of its capacity for yielding profitable field for investment of capital and of unlimited chances to Old Country people to establish prosperous homes and became free hold citizens, the latter something practically beyond possibility in their own country. Now lacrosse promises to be a factor not only in giving Englanders a closer view and better idea of Canada and its possibilities. Our national game has taken root in England, and it is directly associated with Canada, its place of origin. An English team proposes coming to Canada the next season in addition to that which visited us last year. The Canadian game is also taking ground in New Zealand. Here also it will be associated with Canada, and thus imperial unity will be promoted by the creation of a larger mutual knowledge of widely separted units of our world-wide Empire.

WITH SUCH INFLUENCES associated with our national sports, it becomes more than sport to encourage sports; it becomes, in a sense, a matter of business. Peterborough has creditably upheld its reputation as an enterprising sporting town, winning championships and incidentally advertising the town and at the same time winning success by honourable methods and clean sports, conjoined with genial hospitality to visiting organizations. Creditable as the town's sporting record has been, it would have been much more so, especially in later years, had properly equipped and convenient grounds been available. Nicholls Oval is, per se, an unsurpassable athletic field, but it furnishes no means of "collecting a gate"—furnishing the sinews of war—a necessity where teams have to travel to outside places to win championships and advertise the town. The want of a properly equipped athletic field is apparent to everybody, and when calm consideration is given to the important part which participation and success in athletic sports, especially of a competitive character, play in promoting the material advancement of the town, the most sedate business men will see that it is a public duty to help and encourage athletic sports.

IT IS ONLY a superficial view of the matter that leads any person to say that too much attention is given to sport by our young men, and too much space by the newspapers. The Examiner, for its part, takes the ground that healthy sports should be encouraged, because they have a direct beneficial effect upon both the physical and moral improvement of our young men. The necessary exercise develops the muscular system, improves the health and makes men robust in physique. To be successful in sports, young men must be temperate, or even better, totally abstinent, and must practice regular and correct living. To promote such results is the duty of a newspaper, and the Examiner will need to make no excuse if in an early issue — say, Monday, or latest, Tuesday — it gives special space and prominence to a local form of sport.

WHILE the Board of Trade may find its metier in discussing lofty questions, like preferential tariffs and boundary awards, still it is not, as some may think, beneath its dignity, nor beyond its duty, to interest itself in the matter of procuring suitable general athletic grounds, for sports and games. It is true that the operation of the street car line may help solve the difficulty. The Driving Park track inclosed a splendid green for athletic purposes, and the Turf Club, the present lessees, are inclined to be favourable to having it used for such purposes. Then the Riverside Park, with some improvements could be converted into excellent grounds, and while the expanse of green might not be as extensive as at the oval, or the Driving Park, yet its central location, and ease of access would compensate for whatever disadvantages, as respects size, there may be.

• • •

HOWEVER, these are only suggestions. What seems to be needed in Peterborough is a more comprehensive and general organization than the clubs themselves, which would constitute a central body, including and generally directing the work of the several sporting organizations. Might it not be a good idea to have organized a Peterborough Amateur Athletic or Sporting Association on broad lines. Such an association might include all classes of sports, be exclusively devoted to none, but have a general oversight of sports, to procure and manage grounds in the interest of each of the individual sporting organizations. Such a body, if it were composed of the most enterprising of our younger business men, would, as a general organization, have naturally a weighty influence, and while it would not direct nor control the individual clubs which would be affiliated with it, it could in a genral way, promote sporting interests in a manner more effective than could be done by any single organization, acting independently. The individual liberty of management of the several clubs could be guaranteed, while the broader and more general interests could be effectively looked after by the central organization.

SERIES OF TALKS FOR YOUNG MEN.

First of the Season Will be Held Tomorrow Afternoon.

To-morrow the first of the fall series of talks for young men at the Y.M.C.A., will be given by a prominent business man. The subject will be "A Business Man's Reason why."

A strong committee organized last Sunday, has charge of these meetings. No pains will be spared to make them of interest to young men. The hour will be from 4 to 5, with a fifteen minute song service. If you're a young man, it's for you.

THE BAND CONCERT WAS A COMPLETE SUCCESS

Delightful Entertainment at the Opera House Last Night—Large Audience.

That the popularity of the 57th Regimental band concerts is as strong as ever was evidenced last night in the large audience which assembled in the opera house to hear one of these entertainments. The programme from the beginning to the closing number was accorded ringing applause from the delighted audience, who thoroughly appreciated the excellent and artistic manner in which the new numbers were rendered. It was at once noticeable that considerable time and instruction had been spent in order to make the concert a success, which latter fact was aided by a good attendance of the bandsmen. The feature of the evening's programme was a new selection entitled "The Skeletons' Dance," the music realistically emphasizing the name. The rattling of bones and the groans of the spirits mingled with the weird whistling of the stormy wind were all translated in a manner which showed that the band, as a musical organization, is one of credit both to the militia service and the town of Peterborough. Many of the selections were encored by the audience to which the band with characteristic willingness responded. It cannot too strongly be emphasized that these concerts are a extreme pleasure to all who have the fortune of being able to hear them. The band easily manages to keep up to concert pitch both in the quality of its work and the place it holds in the public opinion.

Concentrated Energy

As every one knows, energy is derived from the food consumed, digested and absorbed into the system.

It does not follow, however, that the amount of energy generated is in proportion to the amount of food consumed, but it certainly does depend on the amount of suitable food properly digested and actually absorbed.

If the food is concentrated and easily assimilated the amount of energy produced will be proportionately large. It is just because Ferrol is a highly concentrated food almost ready for instant absorption that such marvellous results in the way of increase of weight and renewed energy have followed its use.

Ferrol is pleasant to take, easy to digest, and contains more real nourishment in a dessertspoonful than is usually derived from an ordinary meal.

ABOUT THE MOOSE.

Upper Ottawa and Lake Kippewa Good Region for the Big Fellows.

The range of the moose in North America is of enormous extent, from Nova Scotia in the extreme East, throughout Canada and certain of the Northern United States, to the limits of tree growth in the west and north of Alaska. Throughout this vast extent of territory but two species are recognized, the common moose, Alces Americanus, and the Alaskan moose, Alces gigas, , of the Kenai peninsula; but it is probable that further exploration will bring to light another species near the headwaters of the Laird River and the Cassiar Mountains of British Columbia; and still another further north in the neighborhood of Colville River.

The upper Ottawa and Lake Kippewa region has been a grand moose country in recent years, so far as the size of the antlers is concerned, but the moose are now rapidly pushing further north. Twenty-five years ago they first appeared, coming from the south, probably from the Muskoka Lake country, into which they may have migrated in turn from the Adirondacks. The northern movement has been going on steadily within the personal knowledge of the writer. Ten years ago the moose were practically all south and east of Lake Kippewa, now they are nearly all north of that lake, and extend nearly, if not quite, to the shores of James Bay. How far to the west of that they have spread we do not know; but it is probable that they are re-occupying the range lying between the shores of Lake Superior and James Bay, which was long abandoned. Northwest of Lake Superior, throughout Manitoba and far to the north, is a region heavily wooded and studded with lakes, constituting a practically untouched moose country.

In the Ottawa district moose calling, while practiced, is not apt to be successful, and in the western mountains it is practically unknown, although a substitute is found by making any unusual noise, such as produced by rapping a tree twice with an axe in imitation of the double cough or short call of the bull, or by beating alders with a stick to imitate the antlers threshing in the bushes. These contrivances sometimes attract the attention of a bull who is close at hand, and bring him out into the open. Calling in Maine, however, will always be a popular but unsportsmanlike means of hunting the moose; unsportsmanlike because everything depends on the guide and nothing on the hunter, the only skill required of the hunter being the ability to sit still on a very wet log or on very cold ground. Whatever shooting is done is at close range and in the dusk.—Madison Grant, in Field and Stream for October.

He Was the Right Man.

A new postoffice had just been opened in a small country town in Canada. For want of a more likely applicant, a farmer's son, ignorant, yet ambitious, was appointed postmaster.

Shortly after the countryman's installation a commercial traveler appeared at the wicket, received a letter, opened it and produced therefrom a money order, which he immediately presented for payment. The postmaster took the order, read it and re-read it, suspiciously scrutinizing the traveler from time to time over the sheet.

At length he ventured: "Are you the fellow this thing talks about?"

"I am," replied the traveler.

"Well, have ye got anybody to identify ye?"

"No; but I don't see that it is necessary," replied the knight of the road. "You saw me take the order from the letter. It would hardly be for anybody else."

"I don't just know about that, boss. I wan't somebody to identify you. Don't take me for no jay. You may bet I know just a little about this 'biz'"

The commercial traveler argued the point for a while, but to no purpose. He must be identified. But how? He had never been within thirty miles of the place before. He was about retiring in disgust, and had already reached the door, when a brilliant idea flashed through his brain.

Quick as thought he was back at the wicket, where the rustic stood eying him suspiciously.

He tore open his coat and produced his pocketbook. From this he took a photo.

"There," he said, shoving it over to the postmaster, "there is my photograph."

The rustic took the card and carefully compared the features. A beaten look came into his face. At length he vouchsafed:

"Hanged if ye ain't the right man, after all, mister," And the order was cashed.—London Telegraph.

Munyon's Witness

CEA. BARBEAU TELLS HOW HE WAS CURED.

"I had the first twinges of Rheumatism last fall. I first noticed it in my knee, and finally it went all through my body, and my knees were swollen up like bladders, and red, as if filled with blood. I secured two vials of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and the swelling soon went down in my feet, so much so that my wife could put on my shoes for me. I take a dose of pills once in a while simply as a preventive. The pains have all gone and have not returned since I first started taking them."—Mr. George Barbeau, 13 Nicholas street, Ottawa.

THE WAY OF IT.

Wouldst live? Then suffer much!
Drink deep the draft of pain.
He has not lived or he has lived in vain
Who knows not sorrow, hath not felt the touch
Of pity for another, weary strife,
False guided hopes and love.
These things are life.

Wouldst hope? Look not behind
But step upon the past to higher things
And seek the sunshine. Upon fortune's wings
You may yet soar, and fortune can be kind.
Why not? All life is change.
To all who truly hope
Naught is too strange.

Wouldst dream? Look in the west!
Drink in the glories of the dying day
Where cloudy headlands dot the glowing bay,
Where lie the heavenly "Islands of the Blest!"
There love is true, and things are as they seem,
And all is good and fair;
'Tis sweet to dream!

Wouldst rest? Keep conscience clear
Do well thy work nor heed the hurrying throng
That tempts aside or bars the way. Be strong;
Keep faith; go bravely on without a fear
In conscious virtue. They alone know rest
Who labor long and well
And do their best.

CURED OF ASTHMA.

The Remarkable Experience of a Nova Scotia Man.

He had Suffered for Years and Often had to sit Night After Night at an Open Window Gasping for Breath.

Mr. Thomas Johnson is well known in the vicinity of Hemford, N.S. He has taught school in Lunenburg county for more than thirteen years, and his reputation as a teacher is deservedly high. It is known that Mr. Johnson has been a severe sufferer from asthma, and as he has found a cure for the trouble, a reporter thought the facts of his case would prove interesting to similar sufferers. "One evening," said Mr. Johnson, "while lighting my pipe I inhaled the sulphur from the match. The fumes appeared to penetrate every portion of my lungs, and nearly strangled me. It was more than an hour before I recovered from the effects of this mishap, and I believe that that was the starting point of the trouble that has made my life so frequently miserable since. At all events a few days later I had my first attack of asthma. Following this the attacks became more and more frequent, sometimes continuing for a week or more at a time. When these attacks came on I dare not lie down, and many a long, cold winter night I have passed at an open window gasping for breath. I was treated by two of the best doctors in the county, but derived no benefit. Then I began trying the remedies usually advertised as a cure for this trouble, but with no better results. I was continually growing worse and life was becoming a burden. About a year ago my wife was using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and was deriving so much benefit from them that one day she said to me, 'Why don't you try these pills, they might do you good, and they certainly can't do you harm.' To please my wife I began taking the pills, but only occasionally at first, but inside of a few weeks I felt that I was improving in many ways. Then I began to use the pills in earnest, and soon found that breathing was becoming easier, the spasms came less frequently, and I could go about out of doors without danger of bringing the trouble on as was formerly the case. I took twelve boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in all, and after the improvement began every box added to it until all signs of the trouble had disappeared, and I have not since had any recurrence of it. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved me from a life of misery, and I am glad to make this public acknowledgment."

The above strong evidence proves that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not an ordinary medicine and that they cure when other medicines fail. Every pill makes new, rich, red blood, and thus enables the system to resist the inroads of disease and works a cure. Only the genuine pills can do this, however, and the purchaser should see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

The Privilege of Voting.

Parliament has decided that the compulsory voting system is not adapted to Canada's wants, although some eminent gentlemen are in favor of the plan. It would be a pretty difficult job to compel men to vote, and to preserve the secrecy of the ballot; in fact, it would be impossible. The politicians who believe that a man can be compelled to have an opinion on a question which he has not considered, are making a very serious error in believing that a man can be driven to the polls and compelled to register his vote. After all the compulsion there will be nothing to prevent his depositing a blank ballot. And then it may be asked, how about the man who has no opinion as to the respective parties? There are such men. They never vote, because they take no interest in politics Usually they are convinced that all politicians are crooked, wherein they err. But they do not care anything about political affairs, and they refuse to participate in them. How can they be compelled to vote? They cannot be so compelled. Finally, the right to vote carries with it the right to abstain from voting.—Day by Day, in Toronto News.

PEARY, POLE SEEKER

ARCTIC EXPLORER WHO WILL AGAIN TRY TO REACH THE POLE.

Plans of His Coming Expedition to the North—Will Establish Headquarters at Grantland—The Snow Baby—Matthew Hansen's Pluck—Only Men of Tried Experience to Be Taken.

Commander Robert E. Peary, U.S.N., who has announced his intention of making another attempt to reach the North Pole, has already made six trips to the frozen north and has spent over twelve years altogether in the Arctic regions. Explorer Peary will start on his seventh polar expedition next summer, having been granted three years' leave of absence by the United States Navy Department for that purpose.

When Mr. Peary returned from his last trip to the north it was decided that his wife should accompany him if he decided to make another trial. The recent birth of a son has upset that plan, and Mrs. Peary will remain at home. She, however, continues to believe that the discovery of the North Pole should be made by her husband, who has already spent many of the best years of his life in the undertaking. Therefore she is willing that he should again brave the perils of the north.

It was during the expedition of 1898 that Marie Ahnighito Peary, "the snow baby," was born. Her father and mother were living in Anniversary Lodge, north of Greenland, in 77 degrees 40 minutes north latitude, when the little one came into existence. This was on Sept. 12, 1898. The baby's first six months were spent in the lamplight, but later, when the long night of the Arctic winter was over, she lived constantly in the uninterrupted sunshine and grew with great rapidity.

The snow baby was the wonder of the Eskimos, who traveled long distances to see her. They could not believe that she was not made of snow until they had touched her. A little suit of furs were made for her by an Eskimo woman named Ahnighite, so when the baby was christened she, too, was called Ahnighite.

Early next July Commander Peary expects to start for the north with a swift ship and a first-class crew. His plan is to establish winter quarters on the north shore of Grantland, where only 420 nautical miles will stretch between him and the pole.

"I have already demonstrated," said Commander Peary recently, "that I can travel more than twice that distance over the Arctic ice. But the trouble has been previously that I did not have a ship that could take me there in time. That is all I need now. The rest of the problem has been worked out in practice.

"If I can get the right kind of a ship—and if I get the money I know where I can get the ship—I can sail on July 1 and get to Cape Sabine by the end of the month. I can stay there until September, gathering walrus meat, native helpers, dogs and whatever else I need. I can winter on the shore of Grantland and have everything ready to start for the Pole at the first return of Arctic daylight in February. That would give me 100 to 110 days to reach the Pole and get back. All I ask is a ship that will take me the 350 miles that lie between Cape Sabine and Grantland. I know I can reach the Pole from that point."

Commander Peary is tall and strongly made, with a long face and a square, determined chin. A reddish mustache shades his firm mouth. He is forty-seven years old, yet walks with the spring of youth notwithstanding that he is minus seven toes that were frozen off during one of his journeys.

In his final attempt to reach the Pole the explorer will take with him only men of tried experience in Arctic work. Eskimos will form the principal members of his sled dash. One man has already been selected, Matthew Hansen, who has been with Peary on all his expeditions. Hansen is a mulatto, born in Maryland. He has shown wonderful grit under most trying conditions and endurance equal to that of Peary himself. On the last expedition, when all the others quit, Hansen kept on the march, and when Peary's feet were frozen almost solid Hansen cared for him and took him into camp. Funds for the coming expedition to the amount of $150,000 are expected from the Peary Arctic club of New York.

Geronimo and His Daughter.

Geronimo, the famous old Apache war chief, now a prisoner at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, has a daughter who is a pupil at the Mascalero Indian school, in New Mexico. Her name is Lenna Geronimo. She is 13 years old, and she is quite a handsome girl of the Indian type. To her one-time blood-thirsty father the girl is the apple of his eye.

(Liquozone was formerly known in Canada as Fowley's Liquified Ozone.)

Let us Pay

For a 50c. Bottle of Liquozone, to Show You What it is.

If you suffer from a germ trouble, let us buy a bottle of Liquozone and give it to you to try. It is liquid oxygen—the best thing in the world for you. And is germ disease it does what all medical skill cannot do without it.

We had faith enough in it to pay $100,000 for the simple right to make it. We know its results so well that we will gladly pay for your test. Won't you, if you need it—in simple fairness to yourself—have faith enough to send us this coupon?

Just Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Paull, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in simple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Oxygen is life to an animal—the very source of vitality. We would die in three minutes without it. In this liquid form its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. But germs are vegetables, and this excess of oxygen is deadly to vegetable matter.

We Offer $1,000

on every bottle of Liquozone for a germ that it cannot kill. And there is no other way to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any germ-killing drug is a poison to you, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine never destroys inside germs.

We spend 14 days in making each bottle of Liquozone, yet we offer you the first bottle free. And we supply it to physicians and hospitals everywhere at almost cost. In this fair way we are trying to introduce this product to everyone who needs it. If you will be as fair with yourself, we will gladly show you how any germ disease can be cured.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

BRITISH BIG GUNS.

IMPROVEMENTS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE IN THEIR MANUFACTURE.

Most Important Improvements in Gun Making Have Originated in the Armstrong Works—Eighty and One Hundred-Ton Weapons Now Out of Date—Two Years to Make a Turret Gun.

"If you want to win your battles go and work your blooming guns," says Rudyard Kipling, with his usual forceful directness. In naval warfare it is the guns that matter, and in land war they may be of far greater moment than loot and horse, as we saw over and over again in the Boer war. The Germans took Sedan with artillery almost alone, the Boers held Ladysmith by superior guns, and would have taken it if the sailors had not come up in time with better guns than the British Army possesses. In the making of guns the British Navy and the Army spend millions, for a big gun may cost $50,000, and be capable of only a few score shots before it becomes useless from wear. Army guns are comparitively small, consisting mostly of weapons which fire a shell weighing twelve or fifteen pounds. In South Africa the army borrowed from the navy guns with a bore of 4.7 inches, which fire a shell weighing 45 lbs. six times a minute. These are, properly speaking, naval guns, though for the future they will be included in the armoury of the army as well.

A Great Science.

In the perfection and invention of cannon as much science has been applied in the last thirty years as in any other branch of industry. Some of the most important improvements in gun-making have originated at the Armstrong Works at Elswick-on-the-Tyne. Sheffield has improved the manufacture of steel expressly for the purpose of turning out better guns, and Woolwich Arsenal has kept twelve thousand men busy forming the guns and the projectiles they use. To make a gun for the turret of a battleship requires two years, so you see it would never do to wait until the emergency arose before completing the full equipment of deadly weapons, seeing that victory rests not with him who "hath his quarrel just," but rather with the one who "gets his blow in first." Some years ago artillerists favored great size in guns, but it has been found that bulk and weight involve disadvantages which are not compensated for by the addition of striking force, and so the British experts of to-day draw the line at a gun weighing 46 tons and having a muzzle twelve inches wide. The tremendous weapons of 111 tons which are to be seen on the warships Benbow, or Sans-pareil, are out of date. They have a muzzle of 16½ inches, and fire a shell weighing 1,800 pounds. Then there was the eighty-ton gun, which fired a shell nearly as large. These have gone out of fashion, as have the 13.5 inch guns, which weighed sixty-seven tons, and were made in large numbers for warships. To give some idea of the cost of guns it may be said that the hundred-ton gun called the Woolwich Infant, of which we used to hear so much, meant an expenditure of $100,000 for the cannon itself, nearly $20,000 for the fittings, and a single shot cost $175.

Some Great Guns.

The largest gun now made at Woolwich is a twelve-inch weapon which weighs forty-six tons. This is the gun used for the turrets of battleships. So easily can it be handled with hydraulic gear and served by electric appliances that it can be fired once every minute. The opening and closing of the breech is all done by hand, and with a single motion, in the turning of a wheel. This in itself is one of the most important inventions in securing rapid fire. The second largest gun has a bore of ten inches, and weighs twenty-nine tons. Then there are the 9.2 inch guns for cruisors' chasers. These are sometimes called quick-firers, though they are not what we generally mean by that term. The Elswick firm make an eight-inch quick-firer which can throw four shells in sixty-four seconds. The British naval 6-inch gun which is the second weapon on battleships, is a trifle smarter, for it can be fired once every fifteen seconds, throwing a projectile of 100 pounds. This is commonly regarded as the largest of the quick-firing guns. An important element in securing rapid discharge is that the powder is enclosed in a brass case, which avoids the danger of portions of the silk bag remaining in the gun and causing an explosion when the next charge is inserted, as has frequently happened with the old muzzle-loaders. By having a brass case there is no need of sponging to clear away the burning particles, and time is saved. The smaller quick-firing guns employed on a battleship are chiefly intended to repel attacks by torpedo craft. They are mounted along the side and in the fighting-tops on the masts. They do not differ in essentials from army guns, and the description must be allowed to apply to both. The twelve-pounder weighs six cwts., and can send a shrapnel shell carrying 160 small bullets for a distance of 8,000 yards, though it is not often used at that extreme range. For this gun, as for the six-pounder and the three-pounder, the explosive charge and the projectile are made up together in a brass case, which saves an infinite amount of time in loading. Another interesting weapon, which might have been fired in South Africa if the Boers had held Pretoria, is the Howitzer, which has been improved of late for siege work. Woolwich turns out a beautiful howitzer to throw a fifty-pound shell high in the air and drop it in a town or confined space, scattering 350 bullets as it bursts near the ground.

Process of Making.

At Elswick one may see these guns in the making and passing through all the processes, or one may witness the first rough part of construction in the steel works at Sheffield, and the finishing at the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich. When muzzle-loaders were the fashion not so long ago, it was the practice to make the barrel of steel and strengthen it by shrinking over it hoops of wrought iron. The coils or hoops were made of the exact diameter required, expanded by heat, pulled over the barrel, and irremovably fixed by the contraction in cooling. Improvement in the manufacture now permits the whole gun to be made of the finest steel that can be produced. The barrel is cast of steel smelted in open-hearth furnaces and run into a great ladle, then moulded into an ignot twelve feet long and two feet thick. As the top and bottom portions are considered defective they are cut off, and the core is cut out for the same reason. The mass of steel is heated to a high degree, and put under a hydraulic press exerting a force of 5,000 tons to be forged. This is a most important stage of the work, for it binds and forms the particles of metal in such a way as to enormously increase the strength of the piece. Some of the larger guns are forged hollow, then the huge, rough mass of steel is placed on a machine and roughly turned, and the bore freshly made or widened. To harden the gun, it is heated to almost a whiteness and plunged suddenly into a bath of oil. After being heated once more the gun is placed in warm sand to slowly cool, and this is called annealing. While all these processes are being carried forward small pieces are cut from the mass to be tried for strength and quality. If all is satisfactory, and the barrel is quite straight, the bore is cut to near the actual size intended, and the outside of the barrel turned to a moderate degree of smoothness, after which it is covered with wire. This is found to be infinitely superior in strength-giving quality to the old method of hoops, and practically all British guns are now wire-wound. The wire is of fine steel, formed by rolling out a bar of metal while hot and annealing it, and then drawing it through holes in a very hard steel skate. The wire in its finished form is a quarter of an inch wide and very thin. To cover a twelve inch gun 102 miles of wire are used. It is coiled on a drum, and the cannon itself is revolved slowly to wind the wire on to the barrel, while strong brakes keep the wire tight. The pressure thus exerted is enormous and would effect the barrel in some cases if a second barrel were not shrunk over the first. It is made as near the proper size, and forced on to the inner barrel by hydraulic power. When the wire-winding is complete the barrel is exactly measured, and hoops of steel formed of the precise diameter heated and shrunk on to the barrel, as already described. They are kept heated with a multitude of gas jets, and when dropped over the barrel the lower end is slowly cooled with water, which gradually rises on the portion under the gas. In this way the danger of the hoop bursting in the middle by the contraction is avoided. One of the most interesting parts of the work to one of mechanical taste is the rifling of the barrel.

The gun, now almost complete, is placed on a cradle, which travels forward and backward, on which is a long iron rod with a cutting instrument at the end and a beam at the side to guide the motion of the gun. The cutting instrument goes in and out, cutting as it comes out, while a spout of water pours from its head to prevent heating by friction. The model bar at the side moves the gun in such a way that shallow grooves are cut in the metal in the spiral form, which you can see if you look down the muzzle of a rifle. These grooves are intended to give the shell a revolving motion as it issues from the gun, and this is achived by putting a band of copper on the end of the shell, which is easily cut by the steel grooves, with the result that the projectile is whirling as it rushes forth. The spiral flight gives truer direction, and takes much better marksmanship. Other and larger hoops are shrunk on the breach part for strength in the region where the explosion occurs; then the mechanism of the breech is fixed, and the gun is complete. A formidable yet graceful weapon is the modern big gun. Orientals lavish decoration on their artillery; we are content if they are strong and true.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH.

Faces a Serious Crisis in Disaffected Hungary.

Emperor Francis Joseph, the venerable ruler of Austria-Hungary, whose recent refusal of the demands of his Hungarian subjects has caused a profound sensation, is facing a crisis of the gravest import and one that threatens war between the throne and the Hungarian diet.

The Hungarian army demands the use of the Magyar language in Hungarian regiments and the introduction of Hungarian colors and emblems. Hungarian officers must serve only Hungarian regiments and Hungarian troops must be garrisoned exclusively in Hungary.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH.

At present German is the official language of the Hungarian army, and Czech privates have been punished for answering to their names in that tongue. Significant of the extreme bitterness of feeling that prevails is the reported utterance of Archduke Franz Ferdinand that "Hungary will have to be reoccupied."

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

THE FIRSTBORN.

Why is it that the firstborn child is so often the healthiest of a family of children? The reason seems to suggest itself. As child follows child the mother has less and less vitality; often not enough for herself and none, therefore, for her child.

Expectant mothers who use Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription find that it keeps them in vigorous health. They eat well, sleep well and are not nervous. When baby comes its advent is practically painless, and the mother is made happy by the birth of a healthy child. If you would be a healthy mother of healthy children use "Favorite Prescription."

"I will be very glad to say a few words for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. F. S. Douglas, of Mansonville, Brome Co., Quebec. "During the first four months, when I looked forward to becoming a mother, I suffered very much from nausea and vomiting, and I felt so terribly sick I could scarcely eat or drink anything. I hated all kinds of food. At this time I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he told me to get his 'Favorite Prescription' and a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I got a bottle of each, and when I had taken them a few days, I felt much better, and when I had taken hardly three parts of each bottle I felt well and could eat as well as any one, and could do my work without any trouble (I could not do anything before). I feel very thankful to Dr. Pierce for his medicine, and I tell all who tell me they are sick, to get these medicines, or write to Dr. Pierce."

Those who suffer from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ONTARIO BIRTH RATE.

Much Higher Than in 1901, While Death Rate Is Lower.

The Ontario Health Department has issued a report showing the births, marriages and deaths for last year. The birth rate shows an increase and the death rate a material decrease.

Last year there were 47,796 births, as compared with 46,061 in 1901, or an increase of 1,785. The number of marriages in 1902 was 18,072, an increase of 37 over the preceding year. The number of deaths during the year was 27,864, while in 1901 the figures totalled 29,606, showing the substantial decrease of 1,744.

The rate per thousand of births was 21.1 in 1901; 21.7 in 1902; marriages, in 1901 8.2, in 1902 8.2; deaths, in 1901 13.6, in 1902 12.6.

In the cities the number of births last year was 10,641; marriages, 5,879; deaths, 7,571. The figures for 1901 were 10,047, 5,468, and 8,097, respectively. This makes the rate per thousand of the population as follows: 1901, births 21.6, marriages 12.1, deaths 16.6; 1902, births 22.2, marriages 12.2, deaths, 15.8.

Food Was Torture—How Iron-ox Tablets Cured R. J. Fowler, of Orillia.

February 19, 1903.

It is with gratitude that I can testify to the curative properties of Iron-ox. I was so badly troubled with dyspepsia that whatever I ate caused me so much torture that eating became a dread to me. I was induced to try Iron-ox. I was completely cured and have not had a return of the trouble since. I can safely recommend your medicine to any suffering from dyspepsia or indigestion.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Names used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I am no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious disease, all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially. I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease." 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured. M. A. CONLEY.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

New York, Nov. 7th.—The market today continued dull and professional, the tone was very heavy till after bank statement came out, when stocks became a little more active, closing with a slight gain from opening. The bank statement, while better than expected, made a very bad showing.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co.:—

It is rumored that a bear drive will be made at the Metropolitan for the purpose of bringing about a sharp decline on that stock. On the curb next dividend on A.P. is offered at 70 cents, dividend on A. C. P. at 35c and U. S. S. at 25c. Even money offered that U.S.S prfd. will sell at 40 next year and 1-4 per cent is bid to put 1,000 shares of the preferred at 39.—Town Topics.

Chas. Head & Co. say,—Sentiment continues bearish and while the railroad list shows evidence of support and the liquidation is confined to the industrials for the present, we believe the trend of values will continue downward, with occasional rallies on the short side.

M. & M.—The general expectation among professionals is that a still lower range of prices for the whole list is quite likely and stocks can be bought to better advantage next week.

New York, Nov. 7th.—We look for an irregular market to-day and traders will wait for the appearance of the bank statement before taking a definite stand on either side of the market, and notwithstanding the known heavy loss in cash during the week, the opinion prevails that the statement will not be as bad as during the week. The opinion prevails that the statement will not be as bad as expected, with the surplus reserves down to a low point with call money at 6 per cent. and with sentiment decidedly bearish there is no inducement to buy stocks at the present time, and we hear of something unfavourable to be displayed within a few days. We expect a steady market in the early trading with some selling to follow, and with renewed weakness in steel stocks. There are bear points in Penna, NYC, AT, RI. but we do not look for any active selling of these stocks to-day. The London early market was dull and steady with prices at about parity with our closing of yesterday.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

The intermediate team, accompanied by Mr. E. S. Clarry, president, and a number of supporters, left for Toronto this morning on the 7.10 C. P. R. train, to play the Wellesleys. Hal Burnham was to meet the team in Toronto and will play in his old position at centre half. With the experience gained from former games and the assistance of Burnham, the Peterboroughs hope to repeat their victory over the Wellesleys, which will put them in good shape to once more bring a championship to Peterborough.

• • • •

It will be a battle of the giants this afternoon when Queens and 'Varsity meet at Kingston. The Queens team has only been defeated once on their own grounds by Varsity in 20 years, and they have no intention of allowing that record to be broken to-day if they can prevent it.

BABY'S FUTURE

Something for Mothers to Think About

Lives of Suffering and Sorrow Averted

And Happiness and Prosperity Assured by

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills When All Else Fails.

Every child born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, schip and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering, but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence, it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest and most effective treatment available, viz., The Cuticura Treatment.

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent, to cool the blood in the severer cases, are all that can be desired for the speedy relief and permanent cure of skin tortured infants and children, and the comfort of worn-out parents.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands, for annoying irritations and weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the Form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

THIS IS PETERBOROUGH'S MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR.

developing in this district is exceedingly large. He is now at Winnipeg and is entering upon new ground west of the Praire Capital, and it is expected that a very satisfactory line of orders will be forthcoming.

PROSPECTS OF PERMANENCY.

By the way, this suggests a consideration which taken in connection with circumstances already mentioned, warrant the hope that Canada's industrial prosperity has the element of permanency. The Great West is just on the edge of great development, whose realisation will create increased demands upon the industrial productivity of Eastern Canada. As often stated, every new settler creates new demands upon a wide range of industries for the supply of household and farm equipment. Besides the farmers now established are becoming more prosperous and able to purchase more, a condition which will continue to improve.

Very satisfactory reports come from the milling industry. Our flouring mills have had a prosperous year. Demand has been good, at good prices, but a little drawback has been the scarcity of the supply of local wheat; farmers, it seems, having held on to their grain in the hope of the goal of "dollar wheat" being reached.

The Auburn Woollen Mills Company is the only industry which does not seem to have shared the general prosperity, but the causes which are claimed to have affected this industry adversely have no connection with the prosperity of the country at large.

Taken altogether, the industrial, commercial and general record of Peterborough is a most gratifying one, and the outlook for the future is still encouraging, though sentimental, if not actual, sympathy with depressed conditions over the border, may have somewhat of an adverse effect. We see no present serious signs of industrial or commercial depression, but we can have both, if we wish. If we, as a people, talk depression, and permit our energy and enterprise to be affected by such a course, it will come certainly enough; but if we put on a bold front, and have a practical confidence in our magnificent natural resources, and direct our best efforts to their development, the era of depression, if not absolutely forestalled, will be robbed of much of its gloom.

FORMER PREMIER ON PROTECTION EVILS.

Lord Rosebury Speaks to a Big Crowd at Leicester.

"Put a Drag on and Walk Warily"—Reference to the Attitude of the Toronto Globe and Several Canadian Manufacturers—Tariff Reformers' Sensational Trick—Public Opinion Praises Chamberlain.

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Rosebery's address to 5,000 people at Leicester on Saturday was chiefly remarkable for the considerations which have been left out of fiscal discussions. After comparing the evils of protection to Geni of the Arabian Nights, who liberated from the bottle, swells to the size of the earth, the speaker said, England did not want fiscal reform, but commercial repose to bind the wounds of Empire. Mr. Chamberlain has declared for agitation, then a general election, then a disturbing commission of experts.

While the Chamberlain system rested on an offer by the colonies, the colonies had made no preferential offers. Canada had made an offer, but it had not reference to commerce. Her offer was only to relieve Britain of the responsibility of making treaties on her behalf.

The Toronto Globe, the ministerial organ, treated the preference as a matter concerning the interests of Great Britain alone.

Among manufacturers, P. W. Ellis wanted the tariff against England raised. W. R. Brock, M.P., supported him, and wanted Canadian woollens protected against the ruinous competition of England.

The shilli-shallying duty on wheat, which would probably be exceeded would not materially stimulate the production of wheat in Canada, and the enormous immigration of the American farmers into Canada would hardly bind Canada more closely to England.

It behoved the country to put a drag on and walk warily.

Outside the meeting the Tariff Reform League created a sensation with a huge poster giving this quotation from Rosebery's speech at Leeds in 1888. "The people of this country will in a not to distant time have to make up their minds to what footing they wish the colonies to occupy in respect to them, or whether they desire the colonies to leave them altogether. I believe it is absolutely impossible for you to maintain in the long run your present loose and indefensible relations with the colonies and preserve them as parts of the Empire. You cannot obtain the boon of a peaceful Empire circling the globe, with a bond of commercial unity and peace, without some sacrifice on your part."

The Reform League's comment ran: "It is all very well to denounce Chamberlain's plan, but why does the ex-Premier not give the alternate situation on the pressing Imperial problem."

Eighty commercial travelers, after listening to Lord Rosebery's speech Saturday, declared they were not converted by his arguments and forwarded a resolution to Mr. Chamberlain, endorsing his policy.

The Express comments on Lord Rosebery's cry on behalf of commercial repose, and says: "We listen to the song beginning 'The Voice of the Sluggard,'" and says every newspaper in Canada endorses Mr. Chamberlain except the organ of Mr. Goldwin Smith.

The Times, referring to Lord Rosebery's speech, says: "It summons all the rank and file of the Little Englanders and pro-Boers, to stand shoulder to shoulder, in the defence of our commerce and Empire. In regard to walking warily the paper declares the Liberals walked "so warily that they did nothing but talk until the Great War revealed the treasures of colonial loyalty."

Public Opinion's Opinion.

London, Nov. 9.—Public Opinion says that Chamberlain's ascendancy in the political world is one of the most remarkable phenomena ever witnessed by the British people. Five out of six articles in the monthly reviews dealing with Imperial questions accept Chamberlain as the embodiment of all that is virile, resourceful and far-sighted in the British race to-day. In places of public amusement no entertainer is allowed to make fun of him. The cartoon of Chamberlain, drawn by Max Beerbohm, was forced to be withdrawn, because it was offensive to the public. Caesar never enjoyed such a triumph.

Shades in Balfour's Cabinet.

The News hopes that when Parliament meets attention will be drawn to the state of anarchy among the Ministers. The following demi-shades appear: Balfour, retaliationist, public food protectionist; Lord Chancellor, food protectionist; Attorney-General Finlay, free trader, but ready for retaliation; Lord Lyttleton, retaliator and anti-food protectionist; Balcarres, the same.

A Good Augury.

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P.)—The Financial Times, referring to the full text of the Montreal Congress, says: "The ready eloquence of the Canadian delegates imparted to the discussion a breadth and freedom which was refreshing to the hot-house air of the English fiscal controversy. If Canadians had a little outgrown the old deference to the Motherland they have developed in its place a feeling of Imperial patriotism, full of good augury for the future of the Empire."

Its Only Guarantee.

London, Nov. 9.—Under the auspices of the United Empire Trade League, S. H. Vincent, M.P., Saturday lectured on the British Empire and possibility of its trade on a preferential basis. Canada had 350,000,000 acres of the finest wheat land available. The colonies were practically the only guarantee the United Kingdom had for its continued existence as a great power.

THE KING—GOD BLESS HIM

(BORN NOV. 9. 1841—CROWNED AUG. 6. 1901)

This is the 62nd birthday of His Gracious Majesty, King Edward VII. In honour of the day, the flags about town are flaunting congratulations in the bright summery weather of November -- veritable King's weather. The King seems to be following in the footsteps of his sainted mother in the wisdom and benignity of his rule, and his birthday has this year brought us "king's weather," but his birthdays never have taken, and never will take, the same strong, but gentle, grasp upon the heart strings of his Canadian subjects, as did the natal anniversaries of his august and well-beloved mother.

GERMANY WITH RUSSIA.

Newest Line-Up Raises Grave Issues in Far Eastern Crisis.

London, Nov. 9.—Only yesterday Europe learns on parctically official authority of the agreement for German co-operation with Russia in the Far East, an event of the first importance. This virtual alliance was not made, as the official version has it, at the meetings of the Czar and the Kaiser at Wiesbaden. It was agreed to during the summer, and has been known in inner diplomatic circles since early in September.

To Great Britain this event is of tremendous concern. It comes with no surprise. Germany's return to the Bismarckian policy of friendliness with Russia has been understood by King Edward and his Ministers since soon after the former's accession to the throne. There has been, of course, no open hostility, but the Kaiser's antagonism has been clearly perceived and the British policy has been shaped accordingly.

Russia's Explanation.

London, Nov. 9.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Tien Tsin cables that the Russian Government explains that the re-occupation of Mukden was made necessary because Japan was menacing the Province of Shin King.

Four Children Killed.

Lancaster, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Four children were instantly killed by an explosion of nitro-glycerine at Buck's Run, in Hocking County, yesterday. The children were playing with a can which had contained nitro-glycerine and are supposed to have struck it with a stone.

G.T.R. Agent Killed.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Nov. 9.—Mr. Wm. Nichols, Grand Trunk agent here for the past twenty years, was run over and instantly killed by a ballast train at the Yamaska bridge early Saturday morning. It is supposed his foot caught between the rails.

A SPECIMEN CASE.

Hamilton Times.

The United States Steel Trust has been selling rails to foreigners at $18 a ton, at which price Mr. Schwab in his letter to Mr. Frick said it had a net profit of $6 per ton, or 33 1-3 per cent. The price to the United States "protected" buyer has been $28 a ton. It has been enjoying a flush period, at one time having over a year's output ordered ahead. But it is now catching up on orders, and a period of contraction in railway building, makes it probable that something will have to be done to push sales. Does the trust propose to drop some part of its excessive profits so as to give the "protected" people cheap rails and induce such a demand as shall enable it to keep its men employed? Not it. It proposes to keep up the figures, reduce its staff, and probably cut wages. The Trust doesn't care a fig for the United States workingman or for the United States consumer; it is after the last dollar that the tariff will permit it to squeeze out of them. It is sending rails to Corea at $20 a ton in the effort to build up a foreign trade. The New York Journal of Commerce says:

"But how is it to get this trade? Not at $28 a ton or anything like it. It is said to have already secured a contract for 5,000 tons to be sent to Corea at $20 a ton in Pittsburg. No doubt they can be supplied for Corea or any other part of the world at a good profit over the actual cost of manufacture at that price. If necessary, they could be sold even lower, and the actual cost can be considerably reduced by a readjustment of the ore and pig iron figures. But is this export trade to be built up at $20 a ton, or lower, while American railroads continue to pay $28, and draw the means of doing so out of the industries and trade of the United States? It can be done, if the Government continues to be a special partner in the business and keeps out foreign competition by the $7 a ton duty. If rails can be made and sold to foreign countries for $20 a ton, it is obvious that the duty is quite unnecessary for the protection of the industry, and the domestic market can be supplied at the same price with a legitimate profit."

And the Steel Trust is but one of the many combinations that are using the United States tariff to bleed the consumer. The situation is instructive to Canadians.

GRAIN SHIPMENT FROM HALIFAX.

Monetary Times.

Many years ago the citizens of Halifax entertained hopes that their city should become a great grain shipping port during the winter months when St. Lawrence navigation was closed. These hopes apparently were also shared by the Intercolonial Railway authorities, who erected a mammoth grain elevator and several piers at deep water in that harbour for the speedy loading of grain cargoes aboard ocean steamers. But the grain did not come, the shorter distance to other points and the influences of American routes proving too powerful obstacles to be overcome. The original elevator was destroyed by fire, and a new one was erected at large expense, which has since stood idle, a towering monument to deferred hope. But conditions now have evidently changed, and there is a prospect that considerable Manitoba grain will be shipped at the port of Halifax during the next three or four months. A gang of men has been at work putting the elevator in condition for use, and the Allan and other ocean steamers expect to carry a goodly quantity of grain from that port during this winter. One of the things which has made it possible to carry grain to Halifax without loss is the reversal of traffic conditions on the I.C.R. For the first time in its history the westbound freight traffic on this railway exceeds the eastbound, and thus it is feasible to find return freight for the cars which bring the grain east instead of sending them back empty, which would have been necessary in former years.

HIGH HATS OFF IN CHURCH IN TORONTO.

Rev. C. O. Johnston Subdues Millinery Display in Church.

Obstruction to the Outlook of Worshippers Diminished.

Rev. C. O. Johnston of Toronto, seems to be succeeding in persuading the ladies of his congregation to doff the big hat in church and thus cease to pose as visual obstructionists and distractors of the spirit of worship. The effects of his crusade against the high hat could not be accurately guaged last Sunday as there was an unusually large number of children and young people present at Wesley church, due to the fact that the Sunday school anniversary services were being conducted. Four hundred children and young ladies were present with uncovered heads at the afternoon service, and Mr. Johnston stated last night that he had not heard of any serious after-effects, even though there were no mirrors on hand to assist the ladies in adjusting their headgear before leaving the church.

Mr. Johnston states that the matter is not a personal one with him, for so far as he was concerned he would not object if the ladies had their heads in bushel baskets. He said he was acting solely in the interests of the men and women who objected to sitting in church behind hats which reached from shoulder to shoulder of the wearer. In asking the ladies to remove their hats, he was following his desire to use every means by which good results could be achieved. It was time that ministers and Christians generally should cease making the church a social gathering place or a concert hall. The church should be a place where all could get a "touch of brotherhood," as Rev. Mark Guy Pearse had expressed it, and if any people were being kept away from church by the high hat it was time the matter was remedied. Mr. Johnston said he believed that the ladies of his own congregation, and of other churches, were quite willing to do whatever was reasonable in the matter of removing their hats.

Blame All Around.

Stratford, Nov. 9.—"We, your jury empanelled to enquire into the death of John Aikens of Windsor, find that he came to his death by injuries sustained as a result of a collision on the evening of Oct. 31, between extra 707 and 870, coupled, and freight cars loaded with stone, standing on the main line of the G.T.R., near the quarry siding at St. Mary's, and further find that there was not sufficient precaution taken by the crew of 870 and 707 to have the train under proper control, nor by the quarry train in protecting their own cars beyond the limits specified in their orders. We censure the G.T.R. for allowing cars to be left on the main line at this port." Such was the verdict of the corner's jury Friday night.

Arrest at Orangeville.

Orangeville, Nov. 9.—On Friday evening, Oct. 28, a couple of men entered the home of William Rennicks, at Elba, and attempted to assault Mrs. Rennicks; her cries alarmed the intruders, who sought safety in flight. On the following afternoon the residence of William Dale, an Amaranth farmer, was burglarized. Friday night High Constable Marshall drove out to East Luther and arrested one, Frank Tolman, who confessed. He said that subsequent to the burglary his companion, Harry Shafer, skipped out. Tolman says that he and Shafer came from Hamilton.

Troops for Coal Strike

Denver, Col., Nov. 9.—Orders have been issued by Adjutant-General Bell to every organization of the Colorado National Guard not now in Cripple Creek to be in readiness to take the field. It is presumed the troops are to be held in readiness to proceed to coal camps where miners will go on strike to-day.

The strike in the Southern Colorado coal fields practically began yesterday, and not less than 2,000 men are out.

McGregor Drowned.

Oakville, Nov. 9.—The body of Donald McGregor, ex-manager of the Bank of Commerce, Galt, was found on the lake shore Saturday afternoon by Oswald Thornton, who was out shooting. It was found not very far away from where the clothing was found two weeks ago. This explodes the theory that Mr. McGregor had gone away quietly and had left the clothing and note as a blind. The remains were buried yesterday.

Lumber Fell on Him.

Tilbury, Nov. 9.—W. Hornick, aged about 48 years, a well-off farmer residing about four miles from here, was taking home from Tilbury a load of lumber Saturday evening, and in turning into his residence across a deep ditch one wheel went off the bridge, throwing him out. The lumber fell on him, and when found immediately after life was extinct.

Winnipeg's Growth.

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—Reports compiled show that 1,287 buildings, costing $5,603,600, is Winnipeg's record to date this year.

Brandon's building record amounts to $1,000,000, of which $250,000 was spent in railway improvements.

Rumors About Peter I.

London, Nov. 9.—Discredited rumors of the forthcoming abdication of King Peter and of unsuccessful attempts to insure his life, have been in circulation for some days. An authoritative denial of them was received from Belgrade last night.

THE LIST OF HONORS

In Honor of King's Birthday Contains No Knighthoods.

NO COMPANIONS OF THE BATH

Col. Pinault and Louis P. Hebert Are Made C.M.G.—Seven Civil Servants Become Companions of the Imperial Service Order—Eight Canal Employes Receive Medal of the Order—The Official List.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—The list of birthday honors was officially announced from Rideau Hall Saturday night. There are no Knighthoods and no Companions of the Bath. Col Pinault and Mr. Hebert, the sculptor, are made C.M.G., while seven civil servants become Companions of the Imperial Service Order, and eight employes on the Government canals receive the medal of the order. The following is the official list:

The King has been graciously pleased to approve the following honors on the occasion of His Majesty's birthday:

To be Companions of the most distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George:

Col. Louis Felix Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia and Defence.

Monsieur Louis Philippe Hebert, sculptor.

To be Companions of the Imperial Service Order:

Robert Bell, M.D., LL.D., Acting Director Geological Survey, Ottawa.

Edwin Gilpin, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, Nova Scotia.

John George Hodgins, historiographer of the Government of Ontario.

David Ewart, chief architect, Public Works Department, Ottawa.

Lieut.-Col. Henry Robert Smith, Sergeant-at-Arms, House of Commons, Ottawa.

Lieut.-Col. Acheson Gosford Irvine warden Manitoba Penitentiary.

John Urich Gregory, agent Department of Marine and Fisheries, Quebec.

To receive Imperial Service medal:

Henry Hare, lockman, Welland Canal.

Michael McCarthy, lock master, Welland Canal.

Adolphe Grenier, lockman, Beauharnois Canal.

Luc Secours, lockman, Beauharnois Canal.

Israel Anger, lockman, Beauharnois Canal.

James Carroll, foreman, Rideau Canal.

Robert Sargent, lockman, Rideau Canal.

John McGowen, inspector-general of the constabulary, in Newfoundland, has been mad a companion of the Imperial service order.

An Uninteresting List.

London, Nov. 9.—King Edward's birthday honor list is extremely uninteresting, no new peers or Privy Councillors have been created, but there is a long list of promotions, decorations and knighthoods for services rendered in the various public departments.

Vice-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford has been promoted from Commander of the Bath to Knight Commander of the Bath.

August Manns, musical director of the Crystal Palace, has been made a Knight.

The Pope's Reception.

Rome, Nov. 9.—Pope Pius X. yesterday afternoon held another of the receptions, inaugurated by him this autumn, that the people of Rome might have his blessing. It is believed that there were about 20,000 persons in the court of San Damaso, and many were turned away, while Raphael's loggia around the court was full of overflowing. The appearance of the Pope was made amidst great pomp.

2-Years' Strike Ended.

London, Nov. 9.—The strike in the state quarries at Port Penryhn, North Wales, which has been maintained for the last three years, entailing great expense and suffering upon the families of the workmen, collapsed Sunday night, the men voting to return to work without having obtained a single concession.

Hon. Mr. Masson Dead.

Montreal, Nov. 9.—Hon. Senator R. Masson, whose seat in the Dominion Senate was declared vacant this last session, owing to long absence, died here yesterday afternoon, aged 68 years. He had been ill for a long time.

Discharged From Custody.

Berlin, Nov. 9.—Saturday John Frank of New Hamburg, was discharged from custody. He had been charged with setting fire to a straw stack. No evidence was presented to connect him with the fire.

Kaiser Operated On.

Berlin, Nov. 9.—Emperor William Saturday underwent an operation for the removal of the polypus from his larynx. The operation was perfomed by Prof. Moritz Schmidt, and was entirely successful.

Sir Henry Leaves for London.

Madrid, Nov. 9.—Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, the newly appointed British Ambassador to Washington, Saturday presented his letters of recall to King Alfonso and left for London.

John McTaggart Dead.

Chatham, Nov. 9.—John McTaggart, who was accidentally shot in the abdomen at Wallaceburg, died yesterday morning at the Public General Hospital.

Took 20,600 barrels of Apples.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 9.—The Furness Liner Gulf of Venice, which sailed for London yesterday, took 20,600 barrels of apples.

To Save National Honor.

Panama, Nov. 9.—A cablegram has been received here from Gen. Reyes, containing the information that he has been appointed by the Government of Colombia as peace commissioner, with the duty of making arrangements with the Government of of the Republic of Panama to the end that the national honor may be saved.

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

Hon. Mr. Scott, With Mrs. Scott, Recipient of Many Presents.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Surrounded by his family, Hon. R. W. Scott and Mrs. Scott, celebrated yesterday the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The celebration was confined exclusively to a dinner, at which children and grandchildren were present. During the afternoon a large number called to extend congratulations, including Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier and Mons. Sbarretti, Papal delegate. On Saturday at noon Mr. Scott was presented with an address and gold fruit dish by the staff of the department of Secretary of State. Among the other gifts received were a gold medal of Pope Leo XIII. from Mgr. Sbarretti, and a fruit service from Dr. Dawson, King's Printer; gold watches from the family, pair rosaries mounted in gold from Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Davies, gold spoon to Mrs. Scott, gold seal to Mr. Scott, from Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Davies, and a great many sent floral offerings.

FRUSTRATED BY A GUARD.

Miscreants Who Attempted to Dynamite Head Gates of Soo Waterpower Canal.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 9.—What is believed to have been an attempt to destroy the head gates of the water power canal in the American Soo was frustrated by the watchfulness of the man on guard Saturday morning. About midnight he heard some men about, and when he went to investigate they ran. The watchman fired a couple of shots at them in their flight, but neither took effect. The town police were notified, and in the search that followed three sticks of dynamite were found, presumably left by the men. Saturday morning three more sticks of dynamite were discovered about the gates. The destruction of the head gates would be a terrible catastrophe, as the water would be allowed to rush through the canal in great force, and as the canal is built through the town a large amount of damage would surely have been the result.

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG

Prevents Many People From Trying a Good Medicine.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, bydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ but they, cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh, and appetite, and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

CRAZY WOMAN'S ACT

Fanny McGarvey Smashed Her Uncle's Skull With a Hatchet.

PATRICK UPTON WILL DIE.

Victim's Brains Beaten Out—The Young Woman Had Been His Housekeeper—Affair Takes Place While the Family Were Sitting Quietly Around the Fire At Her Home in Strathroy.

London, Nov. 9.—Laboring under the hallucination that her uncle Patrick Upton, 40 years of age, was being followed by Anarchists, who were about to take him to Kingston and torture him, Fanny McGarvey, aged 38, Saturday night brained the unfortunate man with a hatchet in the home of her father in Strathroy. Upton cannot recover.

Patrick Upton lived on his farm about seven miles from Strathroy and near the Village of Adelaide, and Fanny McGarvey, his niece, had been his housekeeper for about nineteen years. Upton, who was well-known throughout Middlesex County, was a powerful fellow, weighing probably 250 pounds. He was very fond of horses, and his farm was mortgaged, it is said. He himself laid all his misfortunes to the fact that several times he had been burned out. Anyway his niece brooded over the mortgage, which was not paid off, till her mind became diseased, and the hallucination took possession of her that Anarchists were about to destroy her uncle.

A couple of weeks ago she left her uncle's place and went to live with her father, John McGarvey, who runs a blacksmith shop in Strathroy. Saturday night, Upton, who had been living alone, went to her father's home and had supper with her and the family. After tea she put on a jacket and walked into the back shed, where she concealed a hatchet under her coat. Coming back into the room she drove the hatchet into her uncle's skull. Upton fell like a log, and she dealt him two more blows, when she was overpowered by her brothers. Upton was terribly injured and cannot recover.

According to those who witnessed the deed say she did not utter a word, taking the unfortunate man unawares, and remaining cool after the crime. She was immediately placed under arrest, and taken to London jail. Dr. MacArthur, the jail physician, who examined her yesterday, says that she is undoubtedly insane.

"I could not bear to see my poor uncle tortured," she said. "He was so good to me. I hope he's dead so the Anarchists won't get him."

Relatives state that the woman's mind has been diseased for two years and that her uncle was told that she would yet kill him, she having once before attempted his life with both an axe and a revolver. He would not consent to put her in the asylum, however, and was doctoring her himself, he believing he was a quack physician.

Her brothers, William, Walter and Ganard, reside with their father in Strathroy, and a sister, Mrs. William Evans, lives in London, south. Another brother, Frank, lives in Petrolia. The McGarvey family, who made money in oil in Australia, and who at one time belonged to London, are cousins of the unfortunate woman.

Robbed and Murdered.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 9.—A Chinese storekeeper at Stevenson, a fishing town at the mouth of the Fraser River, was found in bed, with his throat cut from ear to ear. Robbery was evidently the motive of the crime, as his trunk supposed to contain $500 to $600, had been ransacked, and a gold watch and chain were missing. The police are investigating.

"Gun's no Good, Like You."

Monongahela, Pa., Nov. 9.—Enraged over a name applied to him, Earl Flory, a 18-year-old boy, shot and killed James Murphy, aged 12, and severely wounded John Johnson, aged 11 years. The three boys were boon companions, and Saturday were out hunting. Flory had the only gun, and a dispute arose as to whose turn it was to use the weapon. Flory settled the question by taking it himself, whereupon Murphy said: "Your old gun is no good. It's like you." Flory fired at him point blank, killing Murphy and wounding Johnson.

Blew Chum's Head Off.

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 9.—Peter Clark, the 11-year-old son of Thomas F. Clark, was shot and killed by Walter E. Bassett, 11 years old, late Saturday afternoon. The Bassett boy was arrested on the charge of murder. The boys had quarrelled and young Bassett ran into the house and got his father's shotgun, which he loaded in sight of his victim, and then blew off the top of the Clark boy's head. The boys had been chums. Young Bassett fled, but was later captured and confessed.

Played "Highwayman."

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—Edward W. Tyrrell, aged 21, a clerk for the Home Messenger Service, is under arrest on a charge of murder, and Albert Wood, 14 years of age, a messenger for the same concern, died Saturday night, at St. Mary's Hospital, as the result of the boys at the office playing "highwaymen" with revolvers. Wood pulled a revolver first and Tyrrell followed suit. Tyrrell shot Wood under the right eye. He did not know the gun was loaded.

G. T. R. Telegraphers.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—The G.T.R. telegraphers want an increase of 20 per cent in wages, extra pay for Sunday, and a settlement as to hours. Six hundred men are involved in the [illegible] that will continue here [illegible]. An amicable settlement [illegible] ected.

Hon. Chas. Brodrick Dead.

London, Nov. 9.—Hon. Charles Brodrick, who recently resigned the position of warden of Merton College, Oxford, which he had had since 1881, is dead.

Mr. Guthrie Ill Is.

Guelph, Nov. 9.—Hugh Guthrie, M. P., was the unanimous choice of the Liberal convention held here Saturday.

A GOOD PREFERENCE.

Mr. Wm. Peterson Illustrates Value of Canada's Preference.

RECORD OF HON. G. E. FOSTER

Mr. Hawkin, in The London, Declares the Conservatives of Canada Recommended Him to Chamberlain Because of His Unreasons—Lord Goschen Propounding Problems for Mr. Chamberlain.

London, Nov. 7.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Goschen, propounding fiscal dilemmas for Mr. Chamberlain, asks how an inter-Imperial exchange of corn could be guaranteed if Canada found a better market in America than in England. An 80 per cent. tax on tinplates did not keep them out of the States, and a 5 per cent. tax on corn could not keep out American products and give rise to the cultivation of more corn in Canada. Trusts, by which many Americans become millionaires at the cost of the community, are the children of protection, but he was not opposed to retaliation, so long as a corresponding disadvantage to the country taking such a step was not apparent. The leading idea of Lord Goschen's speech was an appeal to his opponents to show their hand.

Statesman Canada Had No Use For.

Mr. Hawkin, writing to The Leader, attacks Mr. Chamberlain for importing Hon. George E. Foster, a statesman Canada had no use for. The Conservatives of Canada recommended him because of his unsuccess. Mr. Hawkin says he began his Parliamentary career as an advocate of the temperance cause, and when returned to Parliament told the deluded temperance folk that he advocated their cause in a moment of weakness.

Hon. Mr. Foster, speaking at Tunbridge Thursday, was enthusiastically cheered when he remarked that Canada had given England the preference, treating her better than foreign countries do. Let England give the colonies a preference and treat them better than she treats foreigners. Canada certainly would be able to provide the surplus supplies of all food required.

Griffiths Pencawen, M.P., following said he was an ardent tariff reformer, and favored protection to the English against the foreigner. In America, the average wage was 69 shillings, and in England only 36.

Omitted India.

Mr. Chamberlain, writing Sir M. M. Bhownagre, M.P., as to the position of India in regard to the proposed fiscal reforms, says he omitted India because he had no opportunity of acquainting himself with Indian opinion. He thought India would greatly benefit by preferential arrangements as to tea, indigo and wheat, but as she has not joined the self-governing colonies in asking for a preference it was not necessary to deal with the matter at present.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, speaking at Meigle, Scotland, called on the Government to give a definite statement as to its attitude on the question whether it was for or against Chamberlain. He declared Mr. Chamberlain's word was not security enough that the cost of living would not be increased by the food tax.

Not Seceding.

The London secretary of the Free Food League denies the secession of members, and states that the meeting of Nov. 24 will be presided over by the Duke of Devonshire, supported by Sir Michael Hick-Beach and Lord Goschen.

Birmingham is stirred over the occasion of the meeting of Winston Churchill and Lord Cecil on Wednesday, and a hostile demonstration is expected.

It is rumored that the Canadian Commissioners on the Alaskan case will receive honors on the King's birthday.

Value of Canadian Preference.

The value of the Canadian preference to England was eloquently attested by the launching of the steamship Lady Strathcona at Newcastle yesterday. The new vessel will link Newcastle and Montreal, running in connection with the Canadian lake steamers.

William Peterson of the great shipping firm said that his ships had carried 40,000 tons of German rails for Canadian railways, and these were admitted free. Later German manufacturers said they could not supply more than 10,000 tons, owing to the preferential advantages given to England. The order was then placed in England and part carried this season, and part next. He considered Chamberlain the greatest man who ever tried to solve the problem of British shipping.

Renshaw a Li Hung Chang.

London, Nov. 7.—(C.A.P.)—Sir C. B. Renshaw, M.P., speaking at Houston yesterday, said that no force could compel him to vote for a corn tax to favor well-off colonies, which are paying less to the national expenditure than the British. Once Li Hung Chang visited the House of Commons, laughed during the proceedings. He never realized before, he said, that Chamberlain had only one eye.

Cow Killed Him.

Listowel, Nov. 7.—Robert Code of Trowbridge, who was injured on Monday evening, while bringing a cow to town, died Thursday morning. The animal knocked him out of the wagon and fell on him, crushing him badly.

Troubled With Insomnia.

London, Nov. 7.—Keir Hardie, who was recently operated on for appendicitis, is progressing as favorably as possible, but is troubled with insomnia.

Muddy Complexion.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid, sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. This great medicine awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels. A WHITE ELEPHANT.

Auckland's Empty House—Was Built for Admiral Fanshaw, But He Refused to Live in It.

Auckland, New Zealand, has something of a white elephant in its "Admiralty House," and is distinctly disappointed at the attitude adopted by those it was erected to serve. The house was built by the Auckland Harbor Board for the admiral on the Australian Station, but Admiral Fanshawe declines to live in it; the place for the admiral when visiting Auckland being in his opinion on his ship. The Auckland Harbor Board now find themselves with a huge house on their hands, which was costly to build, and which is unsuitable for a boarding-house, hospital, or private residence. Ostensibly the house was built to meet the wishes of local tradesmen, who, in common with those of all seaport towns in Australasia, regard the visitation of the Australian squadron less from a tactical than a pecuniary point of view. Another reason given for the building of the house is the hope that it would form a social centre when the Governor is residing at the capital—Wellington. No one but a caretaker has ever lived in the house, which is most elegantly furnished.

ADMIRALTY HOUSE, AUCKLAND.

The Chance of Life.

Taking a million as a basis of calculation, statistics show that at the end of seventy years there will still survive 312,000 out of 1,000,000 persons. At the expiration of eighty years there will be 107,000 survivors of the original million. When it comes to ninety years of existence, there is a terrible thinning of the ranks. Only 8,841 out of the 1,000,000, or one in 115, will live to that age. At ninety-seven, but 244, or one in 410, will be alive. At ninety-eight, half of these nearly will have dropped out, leaving only 119 souls alive out of the original 1,000,000. One's chances to reach ninety-eight, according to these tables, is about one in 840.

Of the original 1,000,000, only 54 will live to see ninety-nine years, or about one person out of 18,500. The century mark will be reached by only 23 out of the 1,000,000; or, in other words, out of a group of 43,500 people born at the same time, only one will fill out century span of existence.

Only one in 3,000,000 persons will reach the age of 104 years; just one in 5,000,000 can be expected to see 105 birthdays; and as to living to be 106 years old, these tables place that contingency as out of the range of practical calculations. Possibly one human being out of 10,000,000 who shall have seen the light for the first time in 1903 will be alive in 2009.

The Maker of a City.

Big cities, like big oaks, usually grow from small beginnings; hamlets become villages, villages grow into towns, towns evolute into cities. Years, sometimes centuries, are necessary for the completion of these processes. But the Russian Minister of Finance, M. de Witte, has performed something new under the sun. He has taken a bare tract of land, where neither shack nor shanty stood, and builded a modern city. It is as yet a city without other inhabitants than the workmen who are putting the finishing touches to their labors.

M. de Witte's magic city, is Dalny, in Manchuria. It is a little to the east of Port Arthur, on the Liao-tung peninsula. The Trans-Siberian Railway needed a terminus. M. de Witte selected the spot where Dalny now stands and said, "Build me a city." Dalny will flourish for it will be the point at which trains from St. Petersburg, Moscow and other parts of Russia will discharge their cargoes of freight and passengers and re-load from the ships of Japan, China, England and the rest of the world.

M. SERGIUS DE WITTE.

The original estimate of $15,000,000 for the building of Dalny has long been exceeded. The cost of the municipal buildings, schools, hospitals, docks, electric tramways and lighting plants, parks, paved streets and all the other appurtenances of a modern city necessitated large additional expenditures over the original appropriation. And all this before a single lot of land was offered for sale to the public.

The Fortnightly Club.

Professor Baker of Toronto University, will deliver the first lecture of the season under the auspices of this club on Thursday evening next in the Y.M.C.A. hall at 8 o'clock. Subject, "The Beginnings of Astronomy." Prof. Baker is a very entertaining and scholarly lecturer. Mrs. Bardley Wilmot has kindly consented to sing. This lecture will be free.

Missionary Address.

Miss M. McKinney will deliver an address in the Murray street Baptist church lecture room on Wednesday afternoon at 3.45 o'clock, on Zenana life in India. From all that I can learn of Miss McKinney and of the address she gives, I can say that it will be a treat, and will be both interesting and informing. The ladies of all the churches in town are cordially invited.—Rev. J. Bastow.

Non-Com's Class.

Attention is drawn to the Non-Com's Class, under the direction of Sergt.-Major Brittain, which will meet in the drill shed on every Wednesday evening at 8.15 o'clock. Next Wednesday more advanced practical and theoretical work will be begun for which a large attendance of the class is asked. Military regulations require that all men attempting to obtain a Non-Commissioned Officer's rank turn out in uniform, consequently all those who have them will appear clad in military garb, great coats to be worn if cold.

HAVELOCK MINISTER AT ST. JOHN'S YESTERDAY.

Excellent Sermons by Rev. W. R. Tandy of that Village—The Singing.

Both services at St. John's church yesterday were conducted by Rev. W. R. Tandy, of Havelock, who preached excellent and thoughtful sermons on both occasions. In the morning there was a large congregation, who heard with pleasure Miss Nellie Davies sing "Come unto Me." Miss Davies as a soloist is excellent, and the manner in which she sang yesterday showed her to have a voice of extreme sweetness.

Rev. Mr. Tandy preached from 1st Peter, chap. 2, verse 5:

"Ye also as lively stones are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ."

The speaker began by pointing out that in the above text St. Peter gives the briefest form of the Christian belief, continuing by outlining the long and tedious process of the realization of that faith, incidentally mentioning periods when all hope seemed extinct, followed by more successful years, when instead of dying out the belief took a firmer footing. He said that we were all living, individual stones of the temple of God, each with a value attached and all bearing a relation to the corner stone of that temple, in other words, to Jesus Christ. The latter part of his sermon was devoted to the second half of his text, "to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ," which he pointed out to be a command to us to be dutiful to our Maker, and to worship Him in a God-fearing manner.

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Mr. Tandy dealt very effectively with the relation of the laity to the clergy in the church, pointing out that under the old dispensation there were three orders of priesthood — High Priest, Priest, and Levite—so under the new there were also three corresponding orders—Bishop, Priest and Deacon. The preacher also emphasized the idea of a priesthood of the people, which, he said, was not generally recognised. Popularly too much favour was given to the idea that the clergy was the only priesthood. He showed that every member of the church was a unit of a priesthood recognized by the New Testament. He concluded by stating his belief that it was not consistent that a properly conducted service was, of necessity, to be conducted by a clergyman alone.

At the evening service a large congregation filled the church plunged in semi-darkness. The music was excellently rendered by the choir, to the accompaniment of orchestra and organ. At the offertory the anthem given was Pergolesi's "Glory to God in the Highest," Miss Ruth Dawson taking the soprano solo excellently, her work in this regard showing gratifying improvement.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

The Rev. J. G. Potter preached both morning and evening. At the evening service the choir rendered quite effectively the anthem "Bow Down Thine Ear O, Lord, and Hear Me," Miss Miller taking the solo parts with a rich, clear voice. After the sermon Miss Miller and Mr. A. Froude sang, in a very pleasing manner, "Tarry with me O, My Saviour."

The Young Men's Guild will meet on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

The Mission Band will meet at the Manse on Tuesday night at 7.45.

On Wednesday night Mr. Potter will begin a series of Prayer Studies from the Mountains of the Bible. Prayer service will begin at 8 o'clock.

PETERBOROUGH 18 TO WELLESLEYS 11

The Story of Another Victory for the Local Team.

Rugby Game in Toronto Saturday—the Visitors Played Superb—a Chance for the Championship.

It was with genuine feelings of satisfaction that the people of Peterborough learned of the success of their Rugby team on Saturday, against the Wellesleys, of Toronto. It was truly a grand victory, and there has been additional enthusiasm awakened in Rugby circles as a result, and the locals will continue their efforts with greater determination than ever to laud the Ontario championship once again. The game in Toronto on Saturday was the third that the Peterboroughs have figured in this year, and they showed greatly improved form. They went to the Provincial Capital determined to win, and they did, by a score of 15—11. The game was played on Sunlight Park, and there was a fair sized crowd on hand to witness the event. Not a few of those who were present were ex-Peterborough people, who did excellent work in cheering the boys on to victory. It was an ideal day for Rugby, and the work of the Peterborough team throughout was such as reminded one of the championship days of a few years ago, when Peterborough so pluckily tackled the Irishmen, put London out of business, and showed the Frenchmen from Westmount a thing or two about the game.

Hal. Burnham was on the team, wearing that same old "smile that never comes off." When the remainder of the team saw Hal putting on his uniform, it was as good as a week's hard training to them. The fact of his being on the team inspired the boys, and his services on the half back line materially strengthened them. It was Burnham's first appearance in uniform this year, but he played his old time game. He kicked splendidly, and backed the line like a young broncho. Captain Crowley was in great form and was heartily applauded for his brilliant plays throughout, while Hurtubise, as "snapper back," excelled himself. The remainder of the team gave excellent support and played with great dash throughout. Of the game, the Toronto Globe says:

"The game was very clean and absolutely free from rough play. Harry Foreman of the Wellesleys, was hurt accidentally and had to retire. Peterborough won the toss, and kicked east with a fair wind. Burnham kicked into touch in goal for the first point. On the kick out Peterborough secured the ball and two offsides gave them twenty yards and on the third down they went over a try, which Burnham failed to convert. The Wellesleys forced the play for several minutes but the ball was steadily returned towards their goal, and on a kick by Burnham behind the line Suckling failed to relieve, and a Peterborough man fell on the ball for another try, which Lee easily converted.

"The Wellesleys took a decided brace at this time, and worked the ball yard by yard into the visitors' quarter, and on a pass Dooley ran 25 yards for a touch down, which was not converted. This ended the scoring for the half.

"Wellesley forced the play in the second half, and quickly scored a rouge by a long kick by Carey, which was quickly followed by a touch in goal. Dooley and Carey made several nice runs around the end. Johnson kicked over the line, and Lee fumbled and Marsh fell on the ball for his first try this season. The Wellesleys had shot their bolt and Peterborough took a hand in the scoring and quickly added four points by long kicks on the dead ball line.

"Dr. Wood gave entire satisfaction as referee. Not a complaint was heard regarding his decisions. The teams and officials were:

"Wellesleys — (11) — Back, Suckling; half backs, Johnstone, Carey, Dooley; snap-back, Harris; quarter, Matthews; wings, Marsh, Matthews, Painter, Foreman, Cook, Miller, May.

"Peterborough (15) — Back, Ford; half backs, Lee, Burnham, Crowley; snap-back, Noble; quarter, Graham; wings, Rickey, Dillon, Craig, Hurtubise, Meagher, Cameron.

"Referee — Dr. W. G. Wood; umpire — R. Murphy.

Peterborough has an excellent chance of winning the championship and the boys will accordingly get down to hard practice and be in even better condition for their game on Saturday of next week against the Victorias who defeated the locals by one point here on Oct. 31st. There seems every reason to believe that the locals will win the return game as the Wellesleys were a much stronger team on Saturday than the Victorias were a week previous in Peterborough. The Wellesleys were strengthened by the addition of Dooley and Carey of St. Michaels, who practically played the entire game for their team. The Peterborough team can look for the hearty support of the citizens. Should they win the championship this year they will become permanent owners of the handsome cup which they have captured for the past two seasons. The Peterborough team put up at the Grand Union when in Toronto, and their time-honoured custom of dining in banquet style at dinner was carried out. The hotel management had neatly arranged the tables and the boys and many of their supporters from the city sat around and told each other how it was done. President Clarry occupied the chair and to his right and left sat Captain Crowley and Secretary Graham. The changes in the personnel of the team during the past few years was quite noticeable, but there were many new and promising athletes to take their places. McWilliams, Revell, McPherson, Norman Bell, Andy Scott, Fred Smith, Jack McDonald and others, who have done service for Peterborough on the gridiron, were conspicuous by their absence, but they were not forgotten, as the older fellows grew reminiscent and talked of bygone victories. They felt some satisfaction at least in the fact that the mantle they so ably bore had fallen on worthy shoulders and that although Ottawa has succeeded from the Ontario Union, the Londoners sunk into oblivian and other teams fallen by the wayside, and that the Peterborough team though greatly changed in its personnel, has maintained its winning record, and is once more after the Ontario Provincial championship.

BOY DOING CHORES BURNED TO A CRISP.

Son of Mr. Isaac Fallis Burned by Lantern Exploding.

A most harrowing story comes from the Township of Manvers, telling of the horrible death of a little boy of six years. The boy, whose name is John Newton Fallis, is the son of Mr. Isaac Fallis, who lives about two miles south of Manvers station, of the C.P.R. It appears that last night about nine o'clock the boy, accompanied by his sister, Maria, aged nine, went to the barn with a lantern to attend to some "chores," when the lantern exploded, resulting in the complete destruction of the barn and the burning to a crisp of the body of the boy, and his sister was also severely burned, but may recover. Dr. Grey was notified, but upon hearing the above facts, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Thomas Smyth Occurred Yesterday.

The death of Thomas Smyth occurred at his late residence, Cavan, yesterday, after an illness induced by a paralytic stroke. This was the third stroke from which the deceased had suffered.

The late Mr. Smyth was 68 years of age, and during his long residence in the township, in which he won the respect and esteem of those with whom he became associated.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, from his late residence, lot 23, in the 8th concession of Cavan, at 2 o'clock, and the interment will be at Fraserville.

DIED SUDDENLY AT FRASERVILLE.

Mrs J. W. Clarke Died on Saturday Night.

The death of Mrs. J. W. Clarke occurred very suddenly at her home in Fraserville, on Saturday night. She retired to bed about eight o'clock in her usual health, and at nine o'clock, when her daughter returned home, after spending the evening at the home of Mr F. Clarke, she found her mother dead in bed. Dr. Grey was notified, and at once proceeded to Fraserville, where, after learning the facts, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Her death was due to a paralytic stroke. She leaves a husband and several children. The funeral took place this afternoon to the English church burying ground on the 4th line of Cavan.

FOURTH SATURDAY SOCIAL.

Mr. J. Jeffries Gave Interesting Address on "A Trip Through London."

An interested audience listened to the graphic description of Mr. J. Jeffries on "A Trip through London" at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night. Views of many of the historic places were shown with the aid of a magic lantern. Mr. Williamson expressed the thanks of the audience to Mr. Jeffries for his entertaining talk.

A PIPE LAYER NEARLY SMOTHERED TO DEATH.

Almost Fatal Catastrophe To-day—Nearly Buried While Laying a Sewer.

While at work on a sewer construction on Aylmer street near the Dublin street crossing, Frank Desautel, a pipe layer, living at 5 Crescent street, almost came to his death by the bank of the sewer caving in upon him. From what is learned it appears that Desautel was standing up at the time of the accident which occurred through the earth being loosened by a natural spring. Had, it is said, Desautel been stooping down in the action of laying a pipe into position, there is no hesitation in saying that he would have been smothered to death; as it was, however, his legs only were buried up to knees. The position was a terrible one. His feet firmly clasped in the heavy clay and his body flattened prone against the wall of the sewer and the prospects of being totally covered was far from a pleasant situation. With natural momentary instinct he frantically clutched the edge of the ground above and after a desperate struggle succeeded in wrenching both legs from the pile of earth.

Mr. Desautel was unhurt only having suffered momentary fright.

A DISTINGUISHED LADY MISSIONARY.

Miss McKinney to Address a Meeting in Murray Street Church.

The attention of all interested in missions is called to the important union meeting to be held in Murray street church on Wednesday afternoon next, at 3.45, to be addressed by Miss McKinney, for some years connected with the Zenana work in India, so successfully carried on by the London Missionary Society. Miss McKinney comes very highly and warmly recommended by the Hon. S. H. Blake, as a forceful and telling speaker.

It is Miss McKinney's desire to meet and speak to all the churches.

The meeting is entirely a union one, the meeting having been arranged for by the Ministerial Association. During her stay in town, Miss McKinney will be the guest of the Rev. Dr. Torrance, and will address prayer meeting in St. Pauls on Wednesday night.

"A BUSINESS MAN'S REASON."

Helpful Talk at the Y. M. C. A. Yesterday.

There was a good attendance and marked interest at the young men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. The speaker was Mr. J. O. Shook, who gave a clear, plain talk on reasons for faith, defining and illustrating first the meaning of the term. Mr. Lee presided, and Mr. Jas. Browne sang "Where is My Wandering Boy?" in an impressive manner. A prominent lawyer will speak next Sunday.

THE SOCIAL WORLD.

Interesting Personal Items Gathered by Reporters.

Mrs. J. R. Stratton will not receive this week, having gone to Toronto for a few days.

Mr. M. L. Henry is suffering from a slight attack of tonsilitis, but expects to be around again in a few days.

Miss May McLean, of Paris, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Manning, corner Water and Inverlea streets.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt's German class will meet on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, at the residence of Col. J. Z. Rogers, Ashburnham.

The many friends of Miss Mary White, (Kindergartener,) will be pleased to know that she has secured a position on the Ottawa school staff. Miss White leaves on Monday to assume her new duties.

Miss Eva McCrae left Saturday morning for Toronto where she will spend a few days before returning to her home in Brantford, with her sister Miss Maud, of Victoria University.

IN THE INTEREST OF ORGANIZED LABOUR.

Excellent Address of Secretary of Trades and Labour Congress.

The Platform of the Labour Party Eloquently Expounded.

Mr. Draper, of Ottawa, secretary of the Trades and Labour Congress, addressed a meeting of the Labour Union Organizations on Saturday evening in the S.O.E. Hall. The chair was occupied by the president Mr. John McCann, who in introducing the speaker regretted exceedingly that the attendance was not larger.

The lecturer is a young man of good address, and is a convincing speaker. His remarks, and he spoke for upwards of an hour, were along the lines of moderation and conciliation. The platform of the labour party, as enunciated by Mr. Draper, is one that could be subscribed to by any moderate, fair-minded politician, whether he be a Liberal or a Conservative, as, for instance, abolition of child labour in factories and mills. Compulsory education of children, settlement of strikes, when these unfortunate events occur, by arbitration, and the union favoured prohibiting the graduates of the slums of Italy, Poland or other foreign nations from being brought here to work side by side with honst Canadain workmen on equal footing.

The address was very interesting and at its conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker, and the wish expressed that the people of Peterborough might in the near future have the pleasure of listening to him again.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

BASKET-BALL.

The second evening's games in the Y.M.C.A. League Saturday, resulted in wins for the Arrows and Alerts. The first game was between the Athletics (Blue) and Arrows, and was won by the latter by the score of 18—16. In the first half of the game it was all Arrows' and they scored six baskets before the Athletics got one. It was during this period that the game was practically won. The score at half time was 10—6 in favour of the Arrows. The teams lined up as follows:

Athletics (Blue.)	Arrows.
Forwards.
Walkie	Richardson
Whitcroft	Fitzpatrick
Centre.
H. Armstrong	Hodgson
Backs.
J. Sheridan	Galley
Ross Cameron	Gillespie

At the second half the backs of the Athletic team changed positions with the forwards.

The second game between the Alerts and Brownies was won by the former, the score being 29—23. The score at half time stood 9 all, but during the latter period the Brownies apparently fell to pieces, and the Alerts scored 18 in this half, at one time the score stood 25—19 in the Brownies' favour. The teams were as follows:—

Brownies.	Alerts.
Forwards.
G. Miller	Geo Morgan
N. Miller	Canniffe
Centre.
Ferguson	Geo Hall
Backs.
Boucher	Rowson
Hall	Repton

The officials were: 1st game, Harold Dunsford and N M'Ilor. 2nd game, H. Dunsford and W. Campbell.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM THE HUNTING PARTIES.

Fifteen Deer Have Been Shot by the Eagle Lake Club.

Captain J. J. Cottingham, of the Eagle Lake Hunt Club, has sent word that up to the time of writing 15 deer had fallen before the deadly aim of the members of the Club, of these 14 were fine bucks. Mr. W. H. Hill and Mr. D. Walker also returned from Lake Katcheoum, where they report that luck has been against the party and few deer have been shot. They expect better luck this week, however, as the new runways have been discovered.

RECIPROCITY DISCUSSED.

Farmers of West Elgin Think It Would Be All Right.

St. Thomas, Nov. 9.—At the West Elgin branch of the Farmers' Association the question of a reciprocity treaty with the United States was discussed and met with general approval from the farmers present. It was thought to be of far greater importance to the people of Canada than the Alaska boundary question, which only concerned a few traders and the professional gold-hunters of all nations. The wealth of Canada was mostly produced from the farms, and any treaty that would give access to the United States markets on a fair basis would be of general benefit to this country.

WILL GO TO SUPREME COURT.

New Brunswick and P.E.I. Sore Over Loss of Members.

Montreal, Nov. 9.—The Attorney-General of New Brunswick, who arrived here yesterday from Ottawa, says the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Governments will apply to the Privy Council for leave to appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in the case of the lessened representation in the House of Commons, as decided by the last census. He also says the case of New Brunswick, Quebec and Prince Edward Island in the several matters in dispute with the Federal power is about ready to be submitted to the Supreme Court.

May be the Condor.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 9.—H. M. S. Grafton leaves for Barkley Sound today to investigate the wreck found by fishermen off Amphitrite Point. The wreck lies in 25 fathoms of water and a heavy surf rolls in from the Pacific, but efforts will be made to discover the identity of the wreck. It may be the lost warship Condor, which left here on Dec. 8, 1901, and was never heard of.

TRAINED FOR FIGHT

LEADERS OF THE OPPOSING FORCES IN MACEDONIA.

How Boris Sarafoff Came by His Hatred of the Turk—Something of a Fanatic and Desperado. He Is a Romantic Figure—Rise of Edhem Pasha, Once a Slave, to Command of the Sultan's Army.

The uprising of the Macedonians against Turkish rule and its disastrous results to the Christians have drawn the attention of the civilized world to the unhappy section of Europe ruled by the Sultan and awakened interest in the opposing forces in that blood drenched land.

Boris Sarafoff, chief of the Macedonian revolutionary league, has been variously described as an unprincipled ruffian and a patriot with the highest motives. He is but a little over thirty years of age, but his power in Bulgaria and Macedonia is so great that he has set the whole Balkan peninsula aflame. He has something of the fanatic and something of the desperado about him, but withal is one of the most romantic figures in Europe.

His parents were Bulgarian Christians, and his ancestors, who had lived in the little Turkish village in which he was born for more than 200 years, had always been leaders in uprisings against the tyranny of the Turks. While still an infant he was taught to hate the oppressors of his people, and as a boy he began to train himself for his self imposed task of heading a rebellion which in his youthful enthusiasm he believed would be the means of overthrowing Turkish power and of driving the Turk out of Europe.

He studied at the military academy at Sofia and before accepting a commission in the Bulgarian army served six months in the ranks in order to become familiar with the life and duties of a common soldier. He was an officer for a couple of years and then threw himself exclusively into the advancement of the Macedonian cause. Sarafoff organized the Macedonian league, which has figured so largely in all the Balkan troubles of the last few years and which is responsible for the recent outbreak. This league is a union of many local communities under the direction of an executive at Sofia, Bulgaria.

Each district committee has a staff of voluntary secret agents, and to these agents is entrusted the task of securing the sinews of war. By various methods the Macedonians have secured arms and equipments for a force said to number 15,000 men. They have collected large stores of provisions in the mountains and claim to be prepared for a prolonged campaign.

But the Macedonians have a terrible foe to reckon with in Edhem Pasha, commander of the Turkish troops in the revolting province. Edhem Pasha has an interesting history. He is not only of Greek origin, but also of Christian parentage, though now he is an enthusiastic and fanatical Mohammedan and a loyal subject of the Sultan. The rise of MARSHAL EDHEM PASHA.

Edhem Pasha in the service of the Sultan has been remarkable. He was purchased as a slave in his boyhood and sent by his master to the School of Mines in Paris. Returning to Constantinople, he was placed on the general staff and rapidly rose to power. In 1877 he became Grand Vizier and later was minister to Austria.

He fought with brilliancy at Plevna in the Russian war and drove the Greeks out of Thessaly during the Greco-Turkish war. This is the man with whom Sarafoff and his Macedonians must reckon. He is a veteran of many campaigns and is skilled in mountain warfare. Pitted against his Musulman hordes the little Christian army of Sarafoff seems destined to defeat if not extinction.

Soo Canal Traffic.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 7.—The tonnage which passed through Sault Ste. Marie canals during October, according to the traffic statement, was 3,623,304 tons. This is a slight increase over September and a decrease from the same month last year of 142,326 tons. The present year will not lead last year's much, as the increase to date is only 438,572 tons. The number of vessels that passed is 2,260. There were 17,468,763 bushels of grain carried down, nearly two-thirds of which was wheat.

HOW THE KING TRAVELS.

Increase in State and Dignity Since He Came to the Throne.

When King Edward ascended the British throne he made many changes in his personal habits, but none of them were more marked than the increase of state and dignity in his manner of traveling. As Prince of Wales he was democratic in the extreme, going from place to place in ordinary trains, in which he would, as a rule, have a compartment reserved. At times he would go so far as to order a special car attached, but this was the utmost luxury he ever allowed himself. Ever since he has occupied the throne, however, he has sought greater privacy, and all his railway journeys have been made on special trains, which carry no travelers except the royal party. Perhaps, too, he has had the matter of safety in view, for, of course, the person of a monarch is of no small value to the State; and though the British railways are always careful of their passengers, extra precautions are naturally taken to move the royal train with an absolute minimum of risk.

There is no doubt that King Edward enjoys the magnificent position he holds, but there is also no doubt that he often finds it a burdensome one. Many small details of his private life which escaped notice while he was a prince have found their way into print since he has stood in the fierce light that beats about a throne.

Hence it is a welcome respite to be free, for a time, from the relentless pencil of the reporter and the merciless camera of the photographer. When he travels, the attentions of newspaper men are not invited. Whenever possible, the announcement of his departure is not made until he has actually started. If public notice must be given in advance, the time schedule is likely to be left more or less indefinite.

The British monarch does not travel on passes. He pays his way like ordinary mortals, though on a slightly different plan. The treasurer of the royal household settles with the railway companies, the bill including a regular first-class fare for each member of the King's party, and an additional charge of one shilling for every mile traveled by the train. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful whether the companies gain or lose by the transaction. In most lines of business, royal patronage is eagerly sought as an advertisement, but this the railways scarcely need. On the other hand, the King's special trains interfere seriously with regular traffic, besides throwing a heavy responsibility upon every official and employe who is concerned in taking them to their destination.

Each of the leading British railways has a train which it reserves for the King's use. Many of these trains are very magnificent.

Both Were Imaginary.

A passenger entered a railway carriage in Australia in which was seated a particularly aggressive commercial traveler, and placed in the rack opposite a small wooden box pierced with holes. In the conversation which followed, the commercial traveler gave several hints that he would like to know what was in the box, without avail. At last his curiosity got the better of him.

"I say old man," he asked, "what have you in that box?"

"A mongoose," was the reply.

A series of diplomatic remarks followed, aimed at getting the reason for carrying a mongoose; but, as no explanation was offered, the commercial traveler had to say plump out:

"What are you going to do with that mongoose?"

The answer he got was: "I'm going to see a friend who has been drinking very heavily of late—so heavily, in fact, that he has developed delirium tremens. You may be aware that people so suffering are inclined to see snakes; and you may also be aware that there is nothing on earth so deadly to snakes as a mongoose." He sat back, evidently satisfied that he had given a full and complete explanation.

"But—but, I say," said the commercial traveler, "those snakes are imaginary."

"So is my mongoose," returned the person interrogated.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY LINE.

Lord Alverstone, Who Is President of the Joint Commission—Personnel of the Tribunal in London.

Lord Alverstone, who has been chosen president of the commission jointly appointed by Great Britain and the United States to consider the Alaskan boundary dispute, has been Lord Chief Justice of England since 1900, when he succeeded Lord Russell.

Prior to his elevation to the peerage Lord Alverstone was Sir Richard Everard Webster, Baronet and Queen's Counsel. The latter rank in the higher branch of the law he attained at the age of thirty-six, which is said to be the record for this distinction. When Lord Salisbury formed his first administration in 1885 Lord Alverstone was appointed Attorney-General, holding that office, when his party was in power, until made Lord Chief Justice.

The Alaskan boundary commission consists of Secretary of War Elihu Root, Senator Lodge and Senator Turner for the United States and Lord Alverstone, Professor Sir Louis Jette, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, and A. B. Aylesworth of Canada for Great Britain.

The members of the commission sit as judges, the case been argued by agents of the respective governments. Ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster is the United States agent, and Clifford Sifton, Canadian Minister of the Interior, acts for his Government.

It has been arranged that three of the counsel for each government shall make arguments, the British opening and being followed alternately by Americans and British, the former securing the advantage of delivering the closing argument. The oral arguments will be finished on Oct. 9. The commission holds its sessions in the Foreign Office, London.

Dismissed for Hazing

TIMING EXPOSURES.

A Week in Which Photographers Become Remarkably Accurate.

The photographer was about to take a picture of a young woman. "It's so dark here," he said, "that I guess I'll give you about thirty seconds," and, drawing out the slide and removing the cap, he began to count in a measured and mechanical tone, "one, two, three, four, five," and so on. When the exposure was finished the sitter said: "You gave more than thirty seconds to that plate. You counted very slow—I'm sure it took you a full minute to count thirty."

The photographer handed his watch to the young woman. He said: "I'll count thirty again. Time me." And he made the count exactly as before and he was just twenty-nine seconds making it. "One second off—not so bad. Near my old record, in fact," said the photographer. "Ten years ago, when I made more pictures than I do today, I could by counting make exposures up to five minutes without being more than a second off. Usually I'd be a second under; but, over or under, it was only by one second that I'd be out of the way. But," he added, "this gift is not remarkable. Nearly every photographer has it. Nearly every one of us can guess spaces of time running from a half a second to five or six minutes with what is for all practical purposes perfect accuracy."

"PEACE OVER AFRICA."

A New Poem by Edwin Markham on the Boer War.

At a meeting held to celebrate the anniversary of the declaration at The Hague for an international court of peace recently held in New York Edwin Markham read an original poem for the occasion. It was as follows:

"Peace Over Africa."

O bugles, ripple and shine,
Ripple and rapture down the wavering line!
Praise, praise, praise,
For the last of the desperate days!
Shake out the lyrical notes
From your cavernous silvern throats;
Burst into joy mad carols once again
To herald the housing men.
O bugles, tell it to the opening sky
And go the roads of men with joyous cry!
Peace on the wreathed and wreathless head;
Peace over England, over Africa;
Peace on the living, quiet on the dead;
Peace on the souls hurled downward from the day,
Hurled down with hated breath,
To join the old democracy of death.

The challenge of the bugle and the glum
Rejoinder of the drum,
The neigh of startled stallions,
The hurried rhythm of the hot battalions,
The blown wild scent of crushed geranium,
The parley of the howitzers, the shrill
Grim colloquy of hill with hill—
These had their fateful hour. But now, even now,
A bird sings on a cannon-broken bough—
Sings all the afternoon,
And when the dark falls on the shot-torn walls
Frail wings will come to wander in the moon—
Wander in long delight
Through Africa's star-filled delicious night.

War's bitter root, and yet so fair a flower!
Sing and be glad, O England, in this hour!
But not as one who has no grief to bear,
No memories, no burden, no despair.
Be glad, but not as one who has no grief;
The victor's laured wears a wintry leaf.
The clarions revel and the joy bells rave,
But what is all the glory and the gain
To those wet eyes behind the misty pane,
Whose Africa is crumpled to one grave,
A lone grave at the mercy of the rain?
Not all our odes nor all our orisons
Can sweeten these intolerable tears,
These silences that fall between the cheers.
In all the joy a memory cries and dwells,
A heart break, heroical farewells.
Let there be no more battles; field and flood
Are sick of bright-eyed blood.
Lay the sad swords asleep;
They have their fearful memories to keep.
These swords that in the dark battle burned—
Burned upward with insufferable light—
And in their sleep will be a kinglier might
Than ever flowered upon the front of fight.
And fold the flags; they weary of the day,
Worn by their wild climb in the winds wild way—
Quiet the dauntless flags,
Grown strangely old upon the smoky crags.
Look where they startle and leap!
Look where they hollow and heap!
Tremulous, undulant banners, flared and thinned,
Living and dying momentarily in the wind!
And war's imperious bugles, let them rest—
Bugles that cried through whirlwind their behest—
Wild bugles that held council in the sky—
They are aweary of the curdling cry
That tells men how to die,
And cannons worn out with their work of hell,
That brief, abrupt persuasion of the shell—
Let the shrewd spider lock them one by one,
With slimy cables glancing in the sun,
And let the throstle in their empty throats
Build his safe nest and spill his rippling notes.

BOERS FOR MEXICO

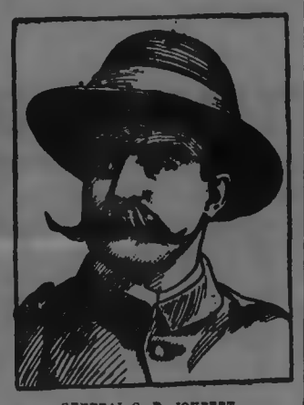
MANY OF THEM WILL SETTLE IN TAMAULIPAS STATE.

A Large Tract of Land Already Purchased—Wholesale Colonization Planned by General Joubert—Will Pay Mexico No Taxes for Years, But They Will Pay $3.50 an Acre for Their Land.

Some of Oom Paul's people will start on another "trek" when 800 Boer families are brought from South Africa by January to settle on a large tract of land in the state of Tamaulipas, of which Cuidad Victoria, is the capital. Negotiations have been closed for the purchase of 100,000 acres, which are to be used in providing homes for the self exiled Boers. The land lies about a hundred miles from the Texas border and was selected from a tract of 1,000,000 acres, on the balance of which the former citizens of the Transvaal republic have an option. If the Boers prove successful in the new country it is probable that more land will be purchased and many more families transported within the next year.

The idea of colonizing the Boers in Mexico was conceived by General C. D. Joubert, a nephew of the famous General Joubert of the Boer army, General De Wet and other Boer officers. Former United States Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina, who represents a gold mining company, arranged for the sale of the land bought from his company by General Joubert, Captain W. S. O'Donnell and the committees now in Holland. The price agreed upon is $3.50 per acre, and the Boers will have twelve years in which to pay it. The Mexican Government has agreed to exempt them from taxation for the next fifteen years. All household goods, agricultural implements, etc., of the settlers will be allowed to enter without payment of duty, bounties will be given for all special crops and everything done to encourage immigration.

The first settlers will be furnished with 3,000 cattle and 1,000 horses,



GENERAL C. D. JOUBERT.

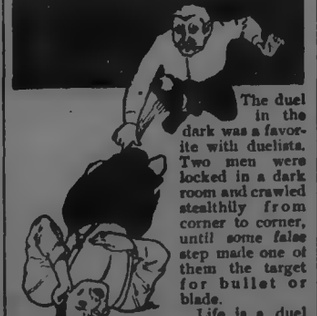
they to select them from the vast numbers in the possession of the mining company. The Mexican Government is delighted with the coming of the Boers. When General Joubert and Senator Butler called on President Diaz and explained to him what they had done and proposed to do and had secured his indorsement the president, after listening for a time, interjected a characteristic remark. He said, "We have a great country full of nuts, but no teeth to crack them."

General Joubert is very democratic and has a massive frame. His height is about 5 feet 10 inches, and he weighs about 180 pounds. Apparently he is about forty years of age, and his expression is one of great determination. General Joubert's father was one of the first Boer officers captured by the British. The general had five brothers in the army. These brothers were neither killed nor maimed. General Joubert was taken prisoner three months before the surrender of the Boer forces. He expresses himself as having great hopes for a permanent settlement of his people in Mexico.

If things turn out as General Joubert expects 1,000 families, he says, will be in Mexico within a year. These are not the usual class of immigrants, but are people of some means in search of homes in a new country and capable of any amount of hard work and application in the development of their holdings.

Tamaulipas, formerly New Santander, the future home of the Boers, is bounded on the north by Texas, from which it is separated by the Rio Grande River. On the northwest it is bounded by Cohahuila, on the west by Nuevo Leon and San Luis Potosi and Vera Cruz and on the east by the gulf of Mexico. Its area is 32,128 square miles. The coast is low and fringed with lagoons and separated from the sea by belts of sand. Tamaulipas is said to be the richest state in Mexico, and two splendid rivers flow through it. The climate is temperate and healthful. The soil, which is free from malaria, is generally fertile. Most of the grains, fruits and woods of the temperate and torrid zones are included in the vegetable products. Cattle, horses, mules, sheep and goats are reared. A considerable trade both in them and in other articles is carried on. Iron, silver and salt are the chief mineral products. The population in 1900 was 218,948.

When the colony is established the Boers will recognize the sovereignty of the Mexican Government. It was originally their intention to locate in the western part of the United States, but owing to the high price of land and the fact that the Boer officers could not get exactly what was wanted they moved on to Mexico.



The duel in the dark was a favorite with duelists. Two men were locked in a dark room and crawled stealthily from corner to corner, until some false step made one of them the target for bullet or blade.

Life is a duel in the dark with disease. One false step, one mistake, and the attack comes swift and sudden. The mistake which commonly opens the way for an attack by disease is neglect of the symptoms of stomach trouble. When eating is followed by undue fullness, belchings, sour or bitter risings, etc., disease is attacking the stomach.

The best way to frustrate such an attack is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and makes the body strong and healthy.

"I was suffering very much with my head and stomach," writes Mrs. W. C. Gill, of Weldon, Shelby Co., Ala., "head was so dizzy when I would raise up in bed would fall right back. Could eat but very little, in fact scarcely anything, there seemed to be a heavy weight in my stomach so I could not rest; I had to belch very often and would vomit up nearly everything I ate. I was in a bad condition. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and five of his 'Favorite Prescription' and am now well and hearty. I feel like a new woman and give Dr. Pierce's medicines credit for it all. I had taken medicine from physicians without any benefit as I could see."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TWO BOXES OF

MILBURN'S HEART and NERVE PILLS

Cured Mrs. Edmond Brown, Iswood, Ont., when she had almost given up hope of ever getting well again.

She writes: "I was so run down that I was not able to do my work, was short of breath, had a sour stomach every night and could scarcely eat. My heart palpitated, I had faint and dizzy spells and felt weak and nervous all the time. My husband got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills but I told him it was no use, that I had given up hope of ever being cured. He however persuaded me to take them and before I had used half the box I began to feel better. Two boxes made a new woman of me and I have been well and have been able to do my work ever since."

Rescued by a Britisher.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 7.—Dismasted and almost a wreck, the American barge Abbey Palmer, owned in San Francisco, and 22 days out from Honolulu and in ballast, was towed to port yesterday morning by the British steamer Vermont, loaded with a cargo from Portland for South Africa, which picked her up 140 miles southwest of Cape Flattery. She was drifting helplessly before the winds.

To Call at Halifax.

Portland, Me., Nov. 7.—The Dominion Line passenger steamships in the service between Liverpool and this port will call at Halifax this winter on the westward voyages. This probably will mean that the greater number of passengers will be landed at Halifax. The ships will not call at Halifax on the eastward passage. The passenger steamships will be Canada, Dominion, Cambroman and Vancouver.

Stanley's Early Years.

Sir Henry M. Stanley possess the distinction of having commenced his career in a workhouse, a fact which has not prevented him from rising to dizzy heights of fame. Of Welsh origin, the great explorer cannot have all pleasant memories of his native land, although he can still speak the language. He left the workhouse for a butcher's shop, which he found little to his taste, and ran away to America. In New Orleans he saw an announcement in the shop of a Henry Mortlake Stanley that a boy was wanted. The lad obtained the situation and remained with his employer, who adopted him, until his death. In this way he came by his present name, having formerly borne that of John Rowlands. He is a man of iron, easily discouraged indeed, but quick to regain courage; full of dogged will, which is his strength, and a splendid leader. Extremely abstemious in all his habits, he has ever had a passion for tea, and as for tobacco, he himself says, "I have always found it a solace and an aid to concentration."

An Unfortunate Quotation.

The minister of a church in Aberdeenshire had just returned from a long holiday trip, on which he had been accompanied by his wife. At a prayer meeting a day or two afterwards one of the elders of the church was offering up a prayer, and, naturally, the minister's return was one of the subjects upon which he touched. In the expression of his sentiments, however, the worthy elder fairly "put his foot in it," and provoked an irrepressible titter of amusement from his audience by referring to the event in the following remarkable passage: "Oh, Lord, we thank Thee for bringing our pastor safe home from his holidays, and his dear wife, too, oh, Lord, for 'Thou preservest man and beast,'" What the minister's wife thought of the elder's well intentioned but unfortunate. Scriptural quotation is not upon record.

A Warning to Cigarette Lovers.

"What was the colonel saying to that young Featherly?"

"He was telling him that the Macedonians had sworn to put dynamite in all the Turkish cigarettes."

SEEN BY ENGLISH EYES.

Democracy by the Hands Plays Havoc with Discipline.

An English visitor to Toronto on Thanksgiving Day, who witnessed the sham battle, writes The Toronto Telegram, as follows:

It is a well known fact that in an English regiment the officer that has the best vernacular to cast against his men is the most popular. Contrast this, for instance, with a scene in Thanksgiving Day's fight.

Scene—An outpost. A lieutenant and half company in charge. Lieutenant orders a private to go up a hill and report the movements of another outpost. Private flops leisurely across his rifle, taking it easy.

"Hang it! I've been up there twice already and am about fagged out. Send Joe."

Had these words been spoken to an English officer, he simply at first wouldn't have believed his ears. The air would then have gone blue, and court-martial resulted.

Yet another instance. Colonel rides up to give orders to an outpost. After vainly waiting for some time for somebody to open a gate for him a private leisurely slouches up and familiarly accosts him with the words, "Now! Colonel, what is it?" A salute seemed as far from his mind as just previously the supposed object of his firing had been. Colonel gives orders and vanishes without further remark.

Another scene and thick of the fight. Word is brought that the enemy are at close quarters and orders are given to commence firing. After finishing their apples or sandwiches the men put on a pipe or cigar and start to blaze away. Officer meantime is engaged giving strategic particulars of the fight and the reason of the firing to a swarm of urchins, whose unaffected thirst for knowledge he does not like to quench with harsh words. The scene is further enlivened at this point by an exciting chase of one of these youngsters by one of the firing party, whose bayonet he had appropriated to play stick-knife.

It should be stated that these incidents are not given in any way to detract from the general efficiency of the troops. This seeming lack of discipline is more the outcome of an eminently democratic community. To attempt to enforce strict discipline would probably cause personal estrangement.

But the merits and demerits of the case are particularly brought out in real warfare. It is then that quickness to obey orders, and to the exact letter counts for so much. The safety of a column, nay, even of the whole army, may depend upon it.

Moreover in the heat and flurry of an engagement, men who are accustomed to look for and obey the orders to their superior officers are much less apt to lose their nerve, and consequyuently their personal safety is more assured. Thus it often happens that the strictest officer is the most popular on active service.

There is no reason why personal considerations should come into this case at all. There are numerous instances of close, personal friends being in volunteer regiments in England in the capacities of officer and private. When in uniform the private salutes and address his friend as "Sir," and mufti being resumed they go on as before.

Should Canada's sons be called upon to assist the Mother Country in any struggle, it ought to be every individual man's duty to take care that there should be no possible grounds of casting the slur upon them that they lacked in discipline, as was more than once the case during the evidence before the recent war commission.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

A Few Simple Exercises For Developing Grace of Body—Good Ones for the Back and Legs.

The present ideal of beauty is the tall, graceful athletic girl. We cannot all be tall, at least not in this incarnation, but every girl and woman may become graceful. It is even claimed by physiculturists that a habitually maintained erect carriage and a steady "stretching up" of the body will in course of time add something to the height. Well, it may be so, but this much, at any rate, is certain—such a position, accompanied by habitual deep breathing, will surely prevent the unsightly slumping down of the body and the thickening about the waist that too often accompany the approach of middle age.

First determine that you will stand well. To know when you do this, test your position. Put your heels together and stand with your back against a wall, perfectly straight. One celebrated physical trainer says the whole back of the body, full length, from heels to head, should touch the wall when we stand correctly; that the properly carried human spine should be perfectly straight, without any of the hollowing which the fashionable corset attempts to accentuate. He declares that only by holding the spine perpendicular can the spinal cord be free from uneven pressure and thus send full stimulus to the great nerve trunks. At any rate, the more nearly you can make the back of your legs through their whole length, also your backbone through its whole length, touch that wall the better you stand.

Now for the front of the body. Stand upon one side of a room and approach with a long, free step to the opposite wall. Of course your toes will touch the opposite wall first as you come to it. But new notice concerning the rest of the body. Does your chest or your stomach touch first? If your stomach, then that is all wrong. In the properly developed person the chest stands out forward beyond the stomach and when you walk up to a wall will touch first every time.

The full, round, deep chest is one of the leading marks of beauty in a woman. If you find you have it not, then develop it by holding your chest up and by training yourself to habitual deep breathing. The shoulders themselves have not much to do with elevating the chest. Just draw your lungs upward, and the flabby, spongy muscles around and above the waist will follow.

The deep breathing habit itself will draw your chest upward. Stand erect and hold yourself up. The very breathing itself lifts the chest, as you will notice. It is a good plan to take physical exercises standing in front of a mirror, so you can note the effect.

The erect carriage and constntly elevated chest give a carriage so noble that the woman who habituates herself to this attitude will be noticed and admired in a crowd wherever she passes. Strnagers will involuntarily conclude she is "somebody." Pity indeed that the correct carriage is so rare among the sex that a woman who possesses it is instantly singled out wherever she goes.

There are some plain exercises that greatly strengthen and limber the muscles of the back, hips and legs and prevents the body from becoming unwieldy and hippopotamus-like. Here is one: Wearing very little clothing, and that entirely loose and unhampering, lie upon the floor flat upon the back, arms at the sides; then, without using hands or arms any more than if you had none, rise from the floor, first to a sitting posture, then upon your feet, straight up. Maybe you cannot do it at first, but practice will soon give power. Think what you would have to do if you were armless and act accordingly in this exercise. Another excellent practice is while lying upon the back on the floor to raise the legs in the air, first one, then the other, at right angles, gradually bringing your feet over toward your head. By and by you will actually be able to touch the floor above your head with your toes while you lie upon the back.

The exercises indicated in the illustration are for strengthening and making nimble the legs and back. They explain themselves, and there is nothing better for the purpose for which they are intended.

H. ASSELSTINE, E. SHORTELL.

PERHAPS there is no town in Canada where the game of rugby has had such a remarkable history as in Peterborough. Certain it is that no town can produce a record to equal that of this town. Since the team entered the Ontario Rugby Football Union four years ago, three Provincial and two Dominion Championships have been won by it, and, when the difficulties under which the team, particularly in its early history, worked, the success has been truly phenomenal. This success has been achieved because the team has been composed of men of indominatable will power, men who were undaunted by obstacles which many would have considered insurmountable.

The game has taken a firm hold upon the public, and since the introduction this year of the Burnside rules, whose adoption and effective advocacy, by the way, originated with the Peterborough club, the interest has been deepened, and as soon as the fine points of the game become familiar to the spectators, an increased support maybe looked for.

The Examiner presents to-day, some facts regarding the history of the game here, and sketches of the different men who are identified actively with the team of 1903. In devoting this amount of space to a series of articles dealing with the game of Rugby, it is thought that no apology is needed, as sport is becoming to be recognized more and more as a factor in national development, and the country in which a love for pure sport is most strongly manifested is the country which in the race for commercial and industrial supremacy is most likely to meet with the highest success, and what has been said with reference to a country, applies equally well to a town, and this consideration, apart from the pleasure derived from playing and witnessing the games, to which the youth of the country is devoting well spent time, is sufficient to endeavour to induce a deeper sympathy with sporting organizations, and a more general support of the games. Besides, the fact that the Peterborough team by winning in Toronto on Saturday a game over a team in every way superior to the team which defeated the town fifteen here the Saturday previous put themselves in an advanced place in the keen running for the Provincial and Dominion Championships, is an added ground of excuse, if such were needed, for giving a little special prominence in the Examiner to Rugby in Peterborough.

Of the men who have been actively associated with Rugby in the early days in Peterborough, many have since attained success in business and professional pursuits, but are still sympathetic supporters of the game.

PROGRESS OF RUGBY IN CANADA'S BEST TOWN.

Brief History of the Game Here and Those Who Supported it.

There have been two periods previous to its revival in 1899, when the game of Rugby was played with varying degrees of success. For some years during the early eighties a flourishing Rugby team was conducted, among the players in, and supporters of which, were Messrs. R. B. Rogers, Miles Hamilton and G. W. Hatton, who are still in town, and ardent enthusiasts in the game still, and many others who have since then left the town, and are supporting it in other places. During these early days the games were played on the old P.A.A.A. grounds, Ashburnham, and those who remember the occasions, still tell with unabated interest of the great times when the old Rugby team of Peterborough upheld the honour of the team in the field of sport, and, according to the stories told, succeeded well.

The game was played for some years, when, for various reasons, it gradually became superseded by other forms of sport, and it was not until nine years ago when it was revived, and was played in a somewhat half-hearted way. It soon died out, however, and the rejuvenation in September, 1899, was practically the birth. In the month mentioned Mr. R. F. McWilliams, who had just returned from university, and had commenced a law practice in town, was instrumental in effecting the organization of a Rugby Club, the officers of which were: President, Mr. R. B. Rogers; Captain and Manager, Mr. R. F. McWilliams; and Mr. A. J. McClellan, Secretary-Treasurer.

Mr. Rogers, although a most enthusiastic supporter of the game and the newly-organized club, was unable to give the club the assistance he would gladly have given it had he been able, but he was then caged in work on the Trent Valley Canal out of town, consequently the work of piloting the new club through the difficulties confronting it, fell to a large extent upon the shoulders of Mr. McWilliams, who was thoroughly conversant with the game, and to whose management the club owed much of the credit which came to it by reason of the phenomenal success achieved during the first and subsequent seasons. Of the players on the team the first year there were only three of experienced ability, in addition to the manager: these were Messrs. Victor McWilliams, Assistant Captain; Hal. Burnham, and Rev. Mr. Bushell, the latter living in Norwood, but coming to Peterborough to participate in the games. Mr. Bruce Rickey had a slight knowledge of the game prior to this, but the other members of the team, including the present captain of the Intermediate team, Mr. W. Crowley, acquired their first knowledge of the game.

The newly-organized team started out to win, and the manager insisted on entering it in the Intermediate series of the Ontario Rugby Union, and also insisted that, having once entered, they must stay in it to the end. The success attending the team was certainly remarkable. They drew a bye in the first round, and were ordered to play a sudden death game in Ottawa. This, with a new team, and little or no financial resources, and an expense of $150, was a most formidable undertaking. The management, however, determined that they were not going to be beaten, and the team themselves contributed half of the expense of the trip, and enough good sports were found in town to make up the mount necessary to enable the team to make the trip. They went to Ottawa, and after one of the hardest games ever played, won by the score of 9—6. This win brought the team into the finals for the Ontario championship. This game they succeeded in having played in town, the opposing team being Hamilton. In that city there were senior and intermediate teams, the former of which was weak, considered as a senior team, but contained a few strong players, and from it the intermediates were reinforced. They brought a strong team to Peterborough, and after another hard and clean game, Peterborough landed their first championship by a score of 4—2. They were then called to play off with Westmount, the winners of the Quebec Union, for the Dominion Intermediate championship. The game was ordered to be played at Toronto on the Saturday following the game here with Hamilton, but by some bungling of the officials the Westmount team had not been advised until too late, to come prepared for the game, which was awarded to Peterborough, together with the championship. The officials here, however, showed a very commendable spirit of sportsmanlike conduct, which is only characteristic of Peterborough's relations to manly sports, and refused to accept the championship by default, and offered the Westmounts the opportunity of playing the game on the following week here, and further offering to give the visitors the entire gate receipts. The Westmount team appreciated this action on the part of the team here and accepted the proposition. The game was played and Peterborough was successful, the score being 4—1, which gave the home team the honour of having won two championships in the first year of its existence. This game was the greatest ever played in Peterborough, the first half ending 0-0. Just before time was called in second half, the home team got a touch down, the visitors having previously secured a point. The adverse conditions under which the club worked this year, the first year of its existence, made the honour all the more deserved. Outside of the regular scheduled games the team had a notable game, that with the famous Irish team. This team was largely composed of men who played in the International matches, representing Ireland. The English rules, with which, of course Peterborough was not familiar, were used in this game, and, although the home team made a very good showing, they were defeated. The visitors, declared, however, that the game played by the Peterboroughs was superior to that encountered anywhere during their trip.

In another way the team that year made a record. They entertained the visiting Irish team in the rink, and held their first dance, the social event which has in succeeding years been looked upon as being one of the most enjoyable events in the whole year. Those who assisted the members of the club this year in their dance, as patronesses were:—Mesdames J. R. Stratton, J. B. McWilliams, R. M. Dennistoun, C. R. McAllister, R. B. Rogers, P. Campbell, R. S. Davidson and G. W. Hatton.

In spite of the financial difficulties with which the club had to contend they finished the season almost even, and to meet the small deficit existing a very successful athletic entertainment was given in the Opera House, to which the members of the Y.M.C.A. largely contributed.

In the second year of its existence, the club was in a much stronger position, for in addition to the men who had been on the team during the former year, and those who had taken an active part in its management, such good men as Dr. Scott, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, A. W. MacPherson, Revell and Fred Smith became identified with the club, and, although this was the only year that Peterborough did not win a championship, the town was represented by the strongest team it has ever had. The officers of the Club for 1900 were: H. R. H. Konner, President; E. S. Clarry, grettable incident in the history of Rugby in town. Through the fault of the Ontario Union, no officials had been appointed, and Peterborough had either to refuse to play or accept such officials as could be picked up in London. They chose the latter, thinking that they would be accorded the same sportsmanlike treatment which they had given the other teams. But, in this, they were disappointed. The secretary-treasurer; R. F. McWilliams, captain; J. M. McLeod, assistant captain.

During the early part of this season the team had a walk-over, defeating the St. Marys, of Toronto, and in home and home games with the Torontos were victorious with a net score of 100—0.

In the finals Peterborough was pitted against the London team, and in that city occurred the most regrettable result of this game was that a bitterness was engendered between the two teams that still exists. Peterborough lost the game by a score of 9—6, but so glaringly bad was the work of the officials, and so "dirty" was the conduct of the London players that the Union ordered the game played over again. By this time, however, London had drawn from the ranks of old players many of whom were living in the city, and in the second match defeated Peterborough by a better team, and landed the championship. Although the team failed to win the championship, they had the satisfaction of knowing that they were at least second best. That fall the team repeated the successful dance of the first year, their dance being recognized as being the great social event of the early season. At the conclusion of this season the captain, Mr. R. F. McWilliams retired from the game, and Mr. Hal. Burnham was elected to succeed him. The recruits in the game this year were Eugene Hurtubise, Meagher and Brundette.

TWO CHAMPIONSHIPS IN 1901.

The officers of the club in the year 1901, were H. R. H. Kenner, president; E. S. Clarry, secretary treasurer; A. W. MacPherson, manager; Hal. Burnham, captain.

After defeating Toronto in the first round, Peterborough went to Ottawa the next week and were defeated by the score of 1—0. The return match was played in Peterborough, and for it both teams were strengthened, Ottawa playing no less than five senior men. After a hard game Peterborough was victorious by a score of 7—4, winning the round by 2 points. The team was again drawn in the finals for home and home games with London, and for the third time journeyed to the western town to play for the championship. London gained a slight lead in the first game, but before the return match was played the team had been expelled from the union for playing professionals, and the championship was awarded to Peterborough.

This year it was the turn of the Ontario winners to go to Montreal to play the winners of the Quebec Union for the Dominion championship, and the Peterboroughs went to Montreal, meeting the Quebec City team on a ground covered with snow, and in a game in which Capt. Burnham particularly distinguished himself, won the championship of the Dominion for the second time.

Another dance ended the season, at the conclusion of which Mr. A. W. MacPherson was selected to succeed Mr. Burnham in the captaincy.

THE SEASON OF 1902.

At the beginning of this season, Mr. Burnham was elected to the office of president, with Mr. E. S. Clarry again secretary-treasurer, the captain of the team being Mr. MacPherson, elected at the end of the preceding season.

Six teams were entered in the Intermediate Series: London, Toronto, Argonauts comprising the western section and Ottawa, Port Hope and Peterborough making the eastern section. After the schedule was drawn up, Port Hope defaulted, leaving Peterborough only one home game, that with Ottawa. The Ottawa team was picked by the wise ones to win, but on Thanksgiving Day, they went down to inglorious defeat on the Nicholls oval by the score of 28—0. Two weeks later the team went to the capital, and in spite of the efforts of the Rough Riders, the score stood a tie, 4—4.

London was the winners of the western section, and at last the home team had the satisfaction of meeting their old time rivals here. The result of the game was the source of the greatest satisfaction to the Peterborough players, the score being 12—0 in their favour. This win gave the team the Ontario championship for the third time in four years. Peterborough again journeyed to Montreal to play the winners of the Quebec Union for the Dominion championship, but were defeated by a score of 8—0. Their record, however, was a very creditable one, and one of which the team has every reason to feel proud, winning in the four years two Dominion championships, in addition to the three Provincial championships, a record of which very few clubs can boast.

DIFFICULTIES HAD TO BE CONTENDED WITH IN 1903.

Early Prospects Were Far From Bright but Chances now are Good.

The outlook for rugby in Peterborough this season at first was not very encouraging. There were many who had taken an interest in the game for some years who really thought that for this year at least the Town of Peterborough would not be represented in the O.R.F.U. There were various reasons to account for this pessimistic spirit. Not the least, was of course the fact that Mr. McPherson, last year's captain, had announced his intention of leaving town. It is not necessary here to enlarge upon McPherson's strength to the local aggregation. He was not only captain of the team, but to many he was half the team itself. This announcement of Capt. McPherson's departure was followed by a similar proclamation by Mr. Hal. Burnham also of the half-back line. To Mr. Burnham Peterborough rugbyists owe a great deal. He was one year captain of the team and was last year's president of the Club. Other players felt disposed to retire from the arena and leave the mantles they had so ably borne to rest upon the shoulders of the

MR. W. CROWLEY,
Captain.

rising generation, which is in evidence in the City League. The officers of the club saw no players in sight and having no funds ahead of them become discouraged, and at a meeting of the club held in the Oriental Hotel, in September, the Club was formally disbanded. The resolution formally disbanding the Club, read as follows:—

"Moved by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, seconded by Wm. Crowley, that, owing to lack of interest in the Peterborough Rugby Club on the part of the people of the town, the Peterborough Rugby Club be and is hereby formally disbanded and that the thanks of the meeting be tendered to the few gentlemen who have so far offered financial assistance."

The announcement came like a thunder bolt out of the clear sky, and the people of the town began to think deeply. Peterborough to have no rugby team in the O.R.F.U. after winning three Provincial and two Canadian championships inside of four years! The thought of it was enough to send a cold chill down the backs of all the old enthusiasts, and a number of citizens of the town came forward and offered to lend their assistance. The result was that at a meeting of the old club and citizens generally, held in the council chamber, the old club was reorganized and fresh interest aroused. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—R. A. Morrow.
President—E. S. Clarry.
1st Vice-President—Fred Clarke.
2nd Vice-President—Wm. Crowley.
Secretary-Treasurer—C. G. Graham
Captain—Wm. Crowley.
Executive Committee — Messrs. J. M. Brooks, A. A. Hollingshead, Art Noble, A. S. Paschal.

There are many who yet believe that the formality of disbanding the club and immediately reorganising, was a trick that was played to arouse fresh interest in the game in Peterborough. Whether it was or not, need not here be answered, but the fact remains that Rugby has received a fresh start in Peterborough this year, and while the championship of the O.R.F.U. Intermediate series may not come to Peterborough this season, the boys may console themselves in the fact that they have done splendidly in the past, and have a record of which they may well be proud.

Captain Crowley has worked hard to place a winning team on the field. The first game was played on Thanksgiving Day on the Nicholls Oval, when the Wellesleys were defeated by a score of 9—6. On Saturday last, after a tight struggle, the Victorias, of Toronto proved their right to that name by winning from the locals by a score of three to two.

The team is by no means out of the running, however, because on Saturday the local team journeyed to Toronto and defeated, by the score of 15—11, the Wellesleys, a vastly superior team to that of the Victorias, which defeated the home team a week ago, so that the players, as a result of Saturday's game, are feeling decidedly encouraged.

But the Intermediate Series of the O.R.F.U. is not as it used to be. For some years Peterborough and London were old rivals and a match between the men from the Forest City and Peterborough evoked great interest. Peterborough has seen teams come and go in this series, and has seen them fall by the wayside. In Rugby circles, London is heard of no more. Ottawa has identified itself with the Quebec Union, and it remains for Peterborough to win the championship this year to become the proud possessors of the handsome tropay that is given each year to the championship team.

SKETCHES OF PLAYERS ON THE TEAM OF 1903

Men who are Helping to Bring Another Championship.

The players comprising the team of 1903, together with the president, Mr. E. S. Clarry, are all working industriously for the success of the team, and a few facts relating to their association with it are given below:

PRESIDENT E. S. CLARRY.

Mr. E. S. Clarry, President of the Peterborough Rugby Club, has been prominently identified with the management of various athletic organizations in Peterborough during the past five years. Before coming to Peterborough Mr. Clarry was a resident of Millbrook and took an active interest in the hockey and lacrosse clubs of the village. For over four years and up until quite recently Mr. Clarry was connected with the editorial staff of the Examiner, during which time he became prominent in the athletic fraternity of the town. He was for three years Secretary-Treasurer of the Peterborough Rugby Club, where he encountered plenty of hard work as is known to those in touch with rugby matters in Peterborough, as the expense of maintaining a club has to be met by soliciting financial support from the public. However, the club was landed safely through each year and this season Mr. Clarry was shown recognition for his services by being elected to the more prominent though less onerous position of President. He takes a deep interest in the affairs of the club and his executive ability is of great value to his associates. Mr. Clarry is well known throughout the Midland district in hockey circles as the Secretary-Treasurer of the Trent Valley Hockey League, an organization of which he was the founder. He has been Secretary-Treasurer of the League, in fact, continuously since its organization four years ago. He has, too, served on the Committee of Management of the Granite Curling Club, and the Peterborough Baseball and other organizations.

Last May Mr. Clarry severed his connection with the Examiner to enter the stock-broking business in which he has been very successful. He is popular not only with the younger element, but with the business men of the town whose confidence and respect he largely enjoyes.

SECRETARY "CHRIS" GRAHAM.

Perhaps no member of the Peterborough Rugby team has been actively associated with as many different kinds of sport as the popular Secretary Mr. Chris Graham. Hardly any branch of sport in Peterborough has been conducted, without Mr. Graham having some part in it. He is the son Mr. G. N. Graham, the genial proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, a rendezvous for the sporting element of the town. The present secretary has been identified with baseball, as th manager of the Auburn team in the City League of 1903, and after the close of the season's scheduled games, played with the Excelsiors. He was a member of the baseball team which in 1900 won the Midland championship. He is also an enthusiastic supporter and player of Hockey, and has played on the senior team for the last five years. As a lacrosse player he also has given good service to the teams on which he has figured. Last year he was a member of the team which won the city championship, and also played on the Athletics.

At the beginning of the rugby season, he was elected by acclamation to the office of Secretary-Treasurer of the Rugby Club, and, although he requested to be allowed to withdraw from the office, such a proposition was not even considered. He has done the club valiant service, both in the office of secretary and in his place on the team, where he has been playing quarter back. He is a good tackler, and knows the game thoroughly. He has been playing rugby for some years, and was on the team that won the Dominion Intermediate championship in 1901.

CAPTAIN W. CROWLEY.

Another all round sport is the present Captain of the team, who has lived in town since boyhood, and has been identified actively with a variety of different games. This season he played on the T.A.S. Lacrosse team in Junior C.L.A., and was one of the most valuable members of the team. He is also an effective hockey player, and last season was captain of the team which won the championship of the Trent Valley Hockey League, and played cover point on the team. He is also a sprinter of considerable ability, which qualifications make his services in the different games in which he participates, very valuable. He is a good leader, and the players with whom he is very popular, work well under him. He is a member of St. Peter's T.A.S., in which organization he has taken an active interest. In 1902 he won the all round championship for sports given by the above society. He plays half back on the rugby team, from which position he directs most effectively the work of the players. He is good in all points of the game, but his running is an important factor in his value to the team. He is also a good dodger. He learned the game in 1899, when the present club was organized, and has been a member of every team since its institution, assisting to win the five championships that have come to the town.

THE BACK DIVISION.

Gordon Lee, who plays either full or half back, has been a member of the team for two years, and is now one of its most valuable men. At Montreal last year, when the team played the winners of the Quebec Union for the Dominion championship he distinguished himself by his great work. This year he has been playing an especially good game, being the best punter on the team. He is also a good tackler, and on occasions takes a sprint which makes the best of them go some. He also played Association football, and was a member of this year's champions of the Midland League. As a basket-ball player he also shines, and is one of the prominent athletes of the Y.M.C.A. He has been practicing all his life.

"Ernie" Ford is a new comer to town, but since his arrival he has demonstrated his ability to play good Rugby. He hails from Belleville, where he was a member of the hockey team last year. He learned Rugby with the Varsity team, and played last season with S.P.S. team. He knows the game from the ground up, and is a good tackler and runner. He is also one of the best punters on the team. He is captain of the All Saints' team in the City League, and is bringing that team up to a high state of efficiency.

Hal. Burnham is one of the fathers of the game in Peterborough, and one of the best players in the business. It was a severe blow to Rugby in this town when Mr. Burnham, for business reasons, found it to his advantage to remove from Peterborough, but his assistance in the two games which the team has to play in Toronto, will be available, and it is expected that with his aid the team will yet pull out of the season, champions. He has played on the team every year since the game was revived here in 1899, and was the President of the club last year. He plays half-back and has won many games by his kicking. He is one of the heaviest men on the team, and uses his weight to good advantage. During his residence here he has been associated with all allied sports; is an enthusiastic cricketer and lawn tennis player, and is interested in all games. Mr. Burnham is now residing in St. Catharines, where he has a position with the Warne Electric Company.

George Morgan has been playing full and half-back this year. He is a new man on the team, but has proven himself a very valuable player. He also plays the Association branch of the game, and was a member of the champion team of the Midland League this year. Last winter he played on the "Owls" Hockey team, and is also a most enthusiastic basketball player.

ON THE WINGS.

Bruce Rickey, playing outside wing this year. He too, has played on the team every year since 1899, and before that had been on the champion Argonauts. He is a hard worker and knows the game well. He has also been associated with various sports, being a member of the Athletic Lacrosse team of 1903. Last year he played on the Y.M.C.A. team in the City League. He figures prominently in hockey circles too, and was a member of Peterborough II. and a few years ago played with the C.G.E. team.

Ed. Dillon, who plays inside wing, is one of the strongest men on the team. He is a hard worker and a good ball getter. He played the game first in 1901, and has been a member of the team every year since then. He also plays lacrosse, and was captain of the Athletics this year, although by an accident to his hand which he met with in a game at Belleville, he was unable to play in more than one championship game. He is an enthusiastic rugbyist, and has given the team good service. Mr. Dillon also plays basketball in which game he gives a good account of himself.

Another man who learned the game in 1901 was Eugene Hurtubise. He played scrimmage on last year's team proving himself a valuable man, as he has also been this year. He is playing snap, and his fine bucking is one of his strong points. He is a heavy man and in addition to his rugby playing abilities is an amateur wrestler of considerable note.

Another good wing man is Arthur Noble, who has been on the team two years. He is a splendid runner and tackler and a good ball getter. He has figured on two championship teams. Mr. Noble plays the Association game, and this year helped the Y.M.C.A. team to win the Midland championship. Basketball, too, is a game in which he takes considerable interest, and which he plays well. For three years Mr. Noble saw service in the Philippines with the American army.

W. Meagher has been in the game three years. His running and ball-getting are his strong points. He has made some brilliant plays this year, particularly in the locals' first game with the Wellesleys, when by a fine dribble he took the ball to the opponents' end, which practically won the game. Mr. Meagher plays lacrosse and hockey. During the past season he played on the T.A.S. lacrosse team, in the junior C.L.A. series. He is also a good man on the baseball diamond.

Bertram Cameron is a young player, but he has already won a place on the team, and by his tackling and line bucking has demonstrated his ability to play with the best company. Mr. Cameron is also a good hockey player, and last season was a member of the Colts' team.

Ross Craig is another young player so young that he is an unprotested member of the Rough Riders in the City League. He is a pretty stiff proposition for an opponent to come up against, is a hard worker and a good runner.

Thomas Thornton played last year on the scrimmage, where he put up a great game. He is one of the most enthusiastic Rugbyists in town, and was of great assistance to the team in the games in which he played. He is a hard worker, runs well and is a good punter.

Another of the scrimmage players of 1901-1902, is John Deannard, in which game his weight made him a valuable man. He is a good ball-getter and tackler.

A very valuable acquisition to last year's team, was H. Asselstine, who came here from Kingston, where he played with the Granites of that city. He also played ont he Toronto Argonauts team. He was only available for one game this year, having gone to Buffalo to reside before the game with the Victorias. He is a good tackler, and his punting is also a strong feature. While in Kingston he managed the Shamrock baseball team of that city.

E. Shortell is in the game this year for the first time. He was a valuable member of the Association team which won the Midland League championship this year, and is also identified with other forms of sport.

BALFOUR ON ALASKA REGRETS DECISION.

Premier Says the Two Small Islands Are of No Value.

Gain to the United States or the Loss to Canada is Nothing Compared with the Final Removal of This Subject of Dispute Between the Two Great Countries—World-Wide Issues.

London, Nov. 10.—(C. A. P.)—Premier Balfour's speech at the Guildhall banquet is interesting to Canadians from the Premier's suggestion that Canada ought not to weight the terms of the Alaskan settlement so much as the blessing of the getting rid of the boundary question by a final treaty.

Austen Chamberlain received an ovation.

Sir Charles Dilke presided last night at a dinner at the National Liberal Club in honor of Berridge, the candidate Lyttleton defeated at Leamington. The chairman declared Berridge had driven the Colonial Secretary to disavow Chamberlain's policy. He reiterated the colonies did not want a preference. The Englishmen said the Irish were slow, but the Americans said the same of England's machinery, and technical education was needed, not fiscal reform.

The Premier's Speech.

London, Nov. 10.—Premier Balfour, in his speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet yesterday, referring to the far eastern situation, said there was every reason to feel sanguine that it would not have a serious outcome. He based this assurance on the passionate desire of the Czar to promote general peace, and the fact that Japan, as the ally of Great Britain, would be certain to display moderation, discretion and judgment in its demands as well as firmness in enforcing them.

Mr. Balfour said that the Macedonian question raised issues more difficult and more complicated than even those of the far east, because it touched the almost perennial difficulty of the problem of the Government of its European subjects by the Sublime Porte, but he was convinced that the question must be ultimately settled by the concert of Europe.

Referring to Alaska, the Premier said: "The danger arising from the uncertain and disputed frontiers in the case between the British Empire and the United States has been decided for all time. I regret that the decision has not been favorable to the claims of this country, but the two small islands, the loss of which to Canada has aroused such great feeling, are really valueless from a strategic and military point of view. We regret the exact tenor of the decision, but, however, the balance of advantage went, the gain to the United States or the loss to Canada is nothing compared with the final removal of this subject of dispute between the two great countries. The decision must be loyally accepted, for the removal of so serious a controversy is an inestimable boon.

"I read only a few hours ago the telegraphic summary of Mr. Aylesworth's speech. I cannot pretend to judge the speech by the telegraphic summary, but I may guess the expressed terms and the eloquent sentiments dealt with which seemed to me just."

Mr. Balfour spoke of the Franco-Britain treaty as one to promote international peace.

United States Ambassador Choate, responding to the toast of "The Foreign Ministers," speaking of the Alaska Boundary question, said it was "a happy ending to the only matter of controversy that threatened at any time to create mischief and distrust between these two great English-speaking peoples."

Lord Chief Justice Alverstone referred briefly to the Alaskan Boundary question, saying he declined to justify or to explain his conduct, because such a course would be a death blow to the confidence reposed in the British bench.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Sir Marcus Samuel and Sir James Thomson Ritchie also spoke.

Balfour Loves Colonies.

London, Nov. 10.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Balfour, speaking at Glasgow yesterday, said free trade within the Empire was a noble ideal. He asked what liberty of negotiation meant. Power of making treaties was inherent in the Crown, subject to the advice of his Ministers. He was suspicious that something more than freedom of negotiations was required. He loved the colonies for their own sake, and because he was a Scotchman and was willing to make sacrifices for the Empire's maintenance if sacrifices were necessary.

Canada Can Grow It.

London, Nov. 10.—(C.A.P.)—Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at Loughborough, said: "Let them see how Canada is able to-day to grow wheat and send it to the Motherland. If any one said Cobden brought down wheat for 70 shillings a quarter to 20 shillings, Canada had something to do with it. Canada was developing her wheat fields with amazing rapidity, and in 10 years would be growing quite as much as England could eat."

Sir Charles Interviewed.

London, Nov. 10.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Charles Dilke, interviewed for his views on the treaty-making powers asked by Canada, replied: "I always have been favorable to such power. It will not lead to separation, but will prevent it. When Australia took strong ground re a High Court I defended her action, and I sympathize with Canada's movement, but would rather not go into details just now."

American Federation of Labor.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Five hundred delegates of the American Federation of Labor met here yesterday in a ten days' session. Samuel Gompers, the president, delivered a strong report of the year's progress. Referring in his report to the labor movement in Canada, Mr. Gompers said: The trade union movement in Canada is keeping pace with the movement in the United States.

Want Hanna to Lead.

Washington, Nov. 10.—A conference of significance and importance was held yesterday between President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna of Ohio, when the President formally requested Senator Hanna to retain the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee and to conduct the campaign of next year. No definite conclusion was reached.

Death's Field Day.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The annual hill-climbing test for automobiles was held near Gallion Sunday and now three men are dead, while several others were seriously injured by collisions. The contest was hardly commenced when a dense fog shrouded the course.

Epidemic in Persons.

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Two inmates dead; three more dying; twenty fully developed cases and twenty more suspected cases is the record of the epidemic of diphtheria at the New York State Reformatory here.

Minister of Finance Suicided.

Naples, Nov. 10.—Minister of Finance Rosano committed suicide by shooting during the night. Socialists attacked his past record.

SUSPECT AT COMBER.

Man Arrested in Connection With Glory Whalen Murder.

CONSTABLE DOBSON'S FAITH.

Comber's Policeman Informs the Windsor Police That His Captive, a One-Legged Negro, Is in His Opinion the Murderer of the Unfortunate School Girl—If This Be True Dobson Will Get $1,000.

Windsor, Nov. 10.—Constable Dobson of Comber came to the police station here with a colored prisoner named McKee yesterday. The charge preferred against him was vagrancy, but this is only prior to a more serious charge, that of murder being laid.

On Sunday morning the prisoner, McKee, came to the farm of John McQueen, near Comber. His actions were rather suspicious. The colored man shrunk and glanced around as if he expected a blow at any minute. This action may have been caused by the fact that he had a wooden leg. At any rate McQueen gave him something to eat, and during his meal conversed with him.

It evolved from this conversation that McKee had been in Collingwood at the time of the murder of Glory Whalen, with a colored friend, and shortly after the murder went to Sarnia. McQueen thought that there was something in the darkey's story that would bear investigation and despatched one of his boys for Constable Dobson. Dobson arrived in a short time, as he lives only a short distance away from the farm. McKee gave up without much trouble and the charge of vagrancy was placed against him.

Chief Wills on hearing the story of Mr. McQueen over the 'phone thinks that in all probability that the right man has been caught at last. Efforts are being made to find McKee's companion when he was in Collingwood. McQueen is a lucky man if McKee proves to be the murderer of Glory Whalen, as there is a reward of $1,000 for his capture.

McKee is in the Sandwich jail for six months on the vagrancy charge, and this will keep him in custody until the Collingwood authorities have been heard from.

Boer Colony Fails

Austin, Tex., Nov. 10.—The efforts of ex-Senators Pettigrew and Marion Butler to establish a colony of Boers in Mexico have failed. As the representatives of a syndicate of American capitalists they purchased 800,000 acres between Tampico and the mouth of the Rio Grande. This land was purchased with the view of settling Boer families thereon.

Gen. Lategan, Capt. O'Donnell and M. M. Ventor, who represent the Boers seeking new homes in Mexico, have just visited the Pettigrew-Butler property and say that it is unfavorable for colonization purposes. A Boer colony of fifty families is being established near Santa Rosalia, State of Chihuahua, Mexico.

Costs Exceeds Legacy.

London, Nov. 10.—C.A.P.)—Two free churches of Tarbert, Scotland, now appealing to the Toronto courts regarding a legacy of five hundred dollars, are much concerned over the fact that the costs in the case considerably exceed the amount of the legacy and wish they had never spoken.

Miss Alice Bailey, of Atlanta, Ga., escaped the surgeon's knife, by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my gratitude for the restored health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought into my life.

"I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation.

"I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure that I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an emergency, and so I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds and was in excellent health, and am now.

A SLANDER REFUTED.

Hamilton Times.

He is a very resourceless Tory editor who when cornered in an argument on the trade question cannot get over all difficulties by a sneer at Cobden. From the Mail down to the Spectator the Canadian Tory press makes hatred of the memory of the man to whom Great Britain and the world owes so much the staple of their economic stock-in-trade. Recently Mr. Chamberlain so far forgot himself as to make some very unjust reflections on the memory of the great economist, and among the defenders against these slanders Mr. Goldwin Smith wishes to be counted. Mr. Smith says:—

Cobden, Mr. Chamberlain says, regarded the colonies as encumbrances to be got rid of. Cobden did nothing of the kind. He never spoke or thought of the colonies with coldness or disrespect, whatever he might think or say about the system of perpetual dependence. It was Disraeli, the leader of Mr. Chamberlain's present party, who, while he affected the highest regard for the colonies in public, in his confidential correspondence called them "millstones round the neck of England." Cobden looked upon them as destined to become free nations, bound to their Mother Country by the natural ties of affection and mutual support. The ideal which he formed for them was higher than that formed for them by those who would consign them to perpetual dependence, with vassal-like subjection to the Colonial Office. It was from Cobden's circle as it happened, that the suggestion emanated for the first time of giving the colonies their proper place in the Queen's speech.

Instead of treating the colonies harshly or speaking of them as encumbrances Cobden was their defender and friend, the British statesman who first recognised their coming greatness and their right to rule themselves. What an outrage that he should now be spoken of as their enemy. Of another slander Mr. Smith says:—

That Cobden was wanting in regard for the working classes is another fiction. Himself a farmer's son, though he was never a demagogue, he was always a man of the people, always striving to bring plenty into their homes, and an ardent advocate of popular education. He steadfastly refused office and honours. When he uplifted the banner of free trade tens of thousands of workingmen in England were out of work, and with their families in want of bread, as they may be again if protection succeeds in once more rivetting its yoke. With the adoption of his policy came employment in abundance, and plenty of bread. Under that policy in fifty years the wealth of England has enormously increased, in spite of the growing rivalry, which no policy could avert, of other great industrial nations, and notwithstanding enormous expenditure on armaments, with two reckless and ruinous wars. When protection has done so much for the people as Cobden's policy has done, it may trample on the grave of Cobden.

Is there no way short of falsifying history and slandering her great dead benefactor's memory that protectionists can coax Britain to again put on the yoke of protection? Surely such a cause is not one to evoke enthusiasm.

HAPPY CANADA!

Hamilton Times.

Sir Robert Giffen's figures show that we are the richest people in the world. The eminent statistician estimates that were Canada's wealth divided, each inhabitant would have $240. Britain per head can only show $210, while the United States wealth averages but $175 an individual. Britain's wealth is placed at $75,000,000,000. He estimates the wealth of Canada at $1,350,000,000, and the Australian colonies are rated at $1,050,000,000. India is put down for $3,000,000,000, which is certainly a small amount for a population of 300,000,000, but the average income over there is not more than $25 a year for a family of five persons. The South African colonies are rated at $500,000,000, making the aggregate wealth of the British empire $81,190,000,000.

We always were proud of this great young country, and these figures are eloquent justification of that feeling, and they speak more than appears on the surface. In both Britain and the United States there are vast fortunes hoarded by the few which go to increase the apparent general average. In Canada the millionaires are few; Canada's wealth is divided more evenly than that of most other nations. Comfort is more general; want is almost unknown. Happy Canada!

INDIAN RIVER NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The football match, which has been so often reported to be about to take place between Indian River and Norwood High School Teams was at last played in Indian River on Saturday last. The contesting teams lined up as follows:

Indian River — Goal, Wm. Breckinridge; backs, Maurice O'Brien; F. Dalton; half backs, Arthur Fife, Wm. O'Leary, Bat Leahy; forwards, A. Devlin, Jos. O'Leary, Roger Devlin, Leo Sullivan, Jas. Duff.

Norwood High School — Goal, Jas. O'Reilly; backs, Ormond Weir, S. A. Morrison; half backs, Wm. Foster, Bruce Scott, Jos. Heenan; forwards, Thos. Miller, Bruce McFee, Fred Doherty, Mr. Best, Wm. Huston.

At the close of the game, which resulted in a score of 2—1 in favour of Norwood, a speech was delivered by Mr. William O'Leary, which was highly appreciated by all.

Our ever-observant weather prophet remarked recently that cold weather was coming, as he saw crows crows going south.

Miss Mabel Shortridge was visiting friends in Norwood on Saturday and Sunday last.

The Indian River Baptist church is to be without a settled pastor this winter, according to the reports now being circulated. The pulpit will be supplied by students from McMaster University, Messrs. Pirie, Pierce and H. R. Noble, having charge of Indian River and Warsaw appointments.

The anniversary services held in Bethel Methodist church last Sunday was attended by persons from all over the country. Indian River was well represented, as the services were held at three o'clock p.m. instead of seven, as formerly, in order to attend Bethel.

Miss Annie Duff is sewing in Peterborough. She returns home every Saturday evening with Miss Lily Duff.

DWYRE'S CORNERS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Wilfrid Quinlan is now plowing after putting in a faithful summer's work drawing milk. He only missed one trip in the whole six months.

Mr. Jas. McDonald passed through here last week on his way to Indian River.

Miss Bridget Quinlan spent Sunday as the guest of Mrs. John Lynch, Peterborough.

Mr. Patrick Allen was renewing old acquaintances in Peterborough on Sunday.

Mr. E. J. Lynch, agent for the Deering Machinery Co., of Chicago, was in town last week on business.

Mr. Valentine Cavanagh was the guest of Mr. Michael Herr on Sunday.

It is whispered around that we are going to have a senior football team next season along with the junior team, and no doubt if the proposal goes ahead things will be made interesting for all comers.

Mr. Jas. Herr, of the north, captured a large night owl in his hen house one night last week. The owl was feasting heartily on one of his chickens. Those who had the pleasure of seeing it state that there is no question but that it was a big one.

Miss Edna Knapp is spending a few days with friends in Havelock.

Mr. Herb Stewart, of the Traders' Bank, Lakefield, and Mr. Chas. Tanner, also of Lakefield, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. T. Elphick and Mr. Joe Wright, of Campbellford, spent Sunday at their former home here.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Mr. C. Parker, who was conducting Bi-Centenary services at Campbellford, Rev. Mr. Wm. Johnson, of Havelock, chairman of Campbellford District, occupied the Methodist pulpit in the morning and Rev. Mr. McKenna Young, of Blairton in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Randow, are the guests of Miss M. P. Williams, Peterborough street.

On Sunday afternoon about twenty-five members of the Masonic Lodge drove over to Warkworth to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Vanburg, formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Callander attended the funeral of the late Mr. Vanburg at Warkworth, Sunday.

Mr. Geo. Elphick, who has been in Delorane, Man., since last May, returned on Friday. Mr. Elphick also took a trip to the coast.

Mr. Andrew Torrance, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with Mrs. W. Dafoe, his mother-in-law.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Elliott of Toronto, spent Sunday here with their daughter, Mrs. Dr. McWilliams.

A very successful social was held on Friday evening by the Y.P.S.C.E. in the basement of the church. A good programme was given by several of the members, after which games were played and refreshments served.

Messrs. R. McCamus, A. Shearer and M. Weir, jr., went on a party to Gooderham to hunt deer. James Henderson has gone north to Burleigh for the same purpose.

The Presbyterian choir and others from the village assisted in the programme at the tea given by the Villiers Sunday school on Wednesday evening in aid of the library fund.

Miss Jean Campbell was unable to return to school in Peterborough this week as usual, owing to a very severe cold.

MURDER TRIAL BEGUN.

Two Neighbors Quarrelled Last July and One is Dead.

Winnipeg, Nov. 10.—The trial of Lucas Kyruk for the murder of Paul Wojeichowski at Broken Head in July last was opened yesterday morning at the assizes. Kyruk and Wojeichowski were neighbors and had lived agreeably until last spring, when some trouble arose over damage caused by a fire started by Kyruk. Wojeichowski entered action against Kyruk for damages, and this caused more hard feeling. On Sunday, July 5, Kyruk, after going to confession at church, went over to the house of a neighbor, Dymas, where the Galicians were accustomed to meet on Sunday to hear news. There he met Wojeichowski and the two men had a quarrel. Kyruk left for home and Wojeichowski followed soon after. The two men evidently met when near Wojeichowski's house and continued the quarrel, which ended in a fight. Wojeichowski's wife and daughters heard a scream and the eldest girl running in the direction of the call, found her father lying on the ground, with his face covered with blood, almost dead. She heard a noise in the bushes nearby, as if someone was running away. Neighbors were speedily called and the wounded man carried to his house in a sheet. He was dead when they reached the house. Kyruk was last seen at the house of another neighbor, Yachno, where he borrowed a dollar and went away. He was arrested in Altona the next day. He was evidently trying to escape. Only two or three witnesses were examined. The case will evidently take some time, as the evidence will all have to be taken through an interpreter.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

A Great Strain.

No one disputes the fact that we are living in a "rapid" age; it is rush, rush, rush, from morning until night, and competition is so fierce that the struggle does not cease until the machine is worn out.

Women, too, even when surrounded by every comfort, become infected by the common spirit, and what with their clubs and many social duties, have no time to give thought to their physical well-being, until they are suddenly brought to a sharp realisation of the fact that nothing is so important as attention to correct or rational living.

It may surprise the reader to learn that women are more prone to piles than men, and in most cases because it is difficult to impress upon them the importance of regular movement of the bowels; irregularity means straining at stool, and straining means piles, with the certainty, under the usual methods of treatment, that the sufferer will "have them always with her;" by "usual methods" is meant the application of salves and lotions, or (as a last resort) a surgical operation.

If there is a complaint which entails more distress and suffering upon those afflicted than piles or homorrhoids, it is not known to the writer; fortunately however these are learning that there is a remedy that effectually cures all forms of piles; it is known as the Pyramid Pile Cure, is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts, and does its work quickly and painlessly; it is sold by druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mrs. L. M. Joliff, Pharisburg, Ohio, says, "I feel it my duty to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. For several months I suffered untold agony from the bleeding piles and was finally advised by a Columbus doctor to get Pyramid Pile Cure at once, which I did, and one box completely cured me. I advise all sufferers to use it." Write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles.

For the New Observatory.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—W. F. King, Dominion astronomer, has not returned with Mr. Sifton. He remained in England to look over the observatories there, with a view to securing information which will no doubt be of assistance to him in equipping the new Dominion Observatory at Ottawa.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

Party Remains United.

London, Nov. 10.—When questioned as to the reports that he would probably resign the leadership of the Irish party, John Redmond yesterday telegraphed to the Associated Press as follows from Dublin:

"The report is quite untrue. The party remains united. (Signed.) Redmond."

LORD ROWTON DEAD

Lord Beaconsfield's Secretary Passes Away.

EMINENT AS MAN OF LETTERS

Montagu Corry Was Sixty-Five Years of Age When He Died—Private Secretary to Disraeli for Many Years—Relationship Between Extremely Intimate and Affectionate—Founded Rowton House.

London, Nov. 10.—Montagu William Lowry-Corry, first Baron Rowton, is dead. He was born in 1838.

Lord Rowton, better known as Montagu Corry, was born on Oct. 8, 1838, and was the second son of the marriage between the Right Hon. Henry Thomas Lowry-Corry, M.P., a son of the second Earl of Belmore, and Harriet, daughter of the sixth Earl of Shaftesbury. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he graduated as B.A., and became a barrister of Lincoln's Inn in 1863.

In 1866 he became private secretary to the Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli on his accession to the Premiership, and held that office till the defeat of the Conservative Government over the Irish Church question in 1868. At the general election of 1874, Mr. Disraeli returned to office, and Mr. Corry resumed his post of private secretray. He enjoyed the unbroken confidence of his chief and the relationship between them was of an exceptionally intimate and affectionate character. Mr. Corry acted as secretary to the British Mission for the Berlin Congress of 1878, of which Lord Beaconsfield and the late Marquis of Salisbury were the principal members—the present Prime Minister also accompanying the party as private secretary to his uncle, Lord Salisbury.

Mr. Corry was created a peer in 1880, under the title of Baron Rowton, and became, on the Earl of Beaconsfield's death, his literary executor. Expectation ran high for the first few years over the biography of the great statesman, which it was understood had been left to Lord Rowton to accomplish, but these were destined to disappointment, nor is it known whether any or what progress has been made with the task.

Lord Rowton did not play any active part in public affairs, but devoted himself largely to social reform and philanthropic endeavor among the London poor. He was the founder of what are known as the "Rowton Houses," vast hostelries or workingmen's clubs, now scattered over London, which provide cheap and comfortable accommodation for some of the thousands who eke out a more or less precarious existence in the many curious way a city like London affords.

For a sum ranging from 12 to 25 cents a night, each inmate is provided with a small private room or cubicle simply but sufficiently furnished and has the use of reading-rooms, recreation rooms, baths, etc. Meals are also furnished at similarly cheap charges. These houses accommodate from 800 to 1,500 inmates, are always full with permanent or temporary boarders, and have proved a notable boon to the respectable poor. They are not only self-supporting, but return a fair interest on the capital invested. Lord Rowton was also prominent in other ways as a social worker.

He was made a C.B. (Civil Division) in 1873, a K.C.V.C. in 1897 and a Privy Councillor in 1900. Lord Rowton was unmarried, and the peerage therefore becomes extinct. His seat was Rowton Castle, Shrewsbury, and his town residence at 17 Berkeley Square.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing if it Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway, if it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

30 DEATHS DAILY FROM HUNGER.

Governor of Verde Islands Asks to Be Recalled.

Lisbon, Nov. 10.—The dreadful news that daily from twenty-five to thirty men, women and children die of hunger in the Cape Verde Islands is now officially confirmed. On one day last week fifty persons died the most horrible of deaths, and Government officials and newspaper men stationed in the islands ask frantically to be released, as they cannot stand the awful sights.

It looks now as if the whole population was to die, for the Governor-General wires that the survivors are reduced to skeletons and totally unfit for work, while all industry has ceased and domestic animals die for want of care.

Another Burned to Death.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 10.—News has just reached Binghamton that Mrs. Catherine Wundel, 74 years old, was burned to death Sunday at her home in Brookdale, a small Pennsylvania hamlet, several miles from this city. She lived with her son, James Travis. He went to the barn, and, on returning, found the room full of smoke, and could dimly distinguish a blaze in the corner. He quenched the flames, when he discovered that it was his mother's clothing and body that was burning. She was sitting on the floor, dead, with her back against a couch.

Found With Money on Him.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 10.—Guilmette was joyously attired and indifferent to the troubles of the world, when arrested Sunday evening in the village of St. Magdeline, St. Hyacinthe County, by Detectives Trudel and Laberge. He had $750 in his pockets, the residue of a box of money which had been purloined in a bold manner from City Paymaster Charles Berreault last Friday. Guilmette appeared before Judge Lafontaine yesterday morning and pleaded not guilty of the theft. He was remanded until Friday for enquete.

Found Missing Girls' Skeletons.

Portage la Prairie, Man., Nov. 10.—Another mystery is cleared up in the finding of the bodies of the two unfortunate little Davidson girls, who disappeared during the summer of 1902, on the banks of the Assiniboine, about two miles west of town. The remains were identified by means of some clothing, which they wore, but little remained of the bodies, save skeletons.

Dr. MacLeod Injured.

Fredericton, N.B., Nov. 10.—Rev. Dr. MacLeod, editor of Religious Intelligence, fainted in the bathroom of his residence, falling heavily, his head striking against the marble basin and sustained a cut some inches long and also an injury to his spine, which has partially paralyzed his entire side and leg, rendering him quite helpless.

Canada May Tender.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—The Dominion Government has just received from the Imperial War Office copies of forms of tender for the supply of bread, forage, groceries and meat to the troops in South Africa. Tenders must be received at Pretoria by January 19, 1904.

Sir Wilfrid's Plans.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier returned to Ottawa Sunday. The Prime Minister will remain here until Thursday, when he leaves for Montreal and Quebec, returning to the capital again on the following Monday.

No American Cardinal.

Rome, Nov. 10.—The first secret consistory of the new Pontificate was held yesterday. No American cardinal was appointed.

Butter and Cheese.

London, Nov. 9.—Canadian butter maintains its value and the demand has further improved. The imports averaged about 850 tons daily during October. New butter from Australia and New Zealand is selling at 106 shillings per cwt. for choicest quality winter-made. New Zealand butter fetches 104 shillings per cwt. For choicest brands of Canadian cheese there is a fair demand at a shilling per cwt. reduction in price.

A Wonderful Book.

As a work for family reference there was probably never compiled a more useful book than Dr. Chase's Receipt Book. Besides containing the symptoms of disease, their cause and cure and the great prescriptions gathered together during a half century of medical practice, this book is replete with receipts for cooking, and has a complete department devoted to the care of farm stock, bees, domestic animals, etc. For full particulars write Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Spain Becoming Americanized.

Looks for Hard Times.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 10.—The C. P.R. has laid off between 1,500 and 1,800 men in the western division during the past few days. They are chiefly trackmen. About 200 men have been laid off at Winnipeg. The latter are comprised chiefly of machinists and fitters. The reason assigned by the company is that they have no work for the men. "We are looking forward to hard times, and are reducing our staff because we have no work for the men," said Mr. Leonard.

For a Bad Cold.

Subscriptions may be left at the Examiner office for the treasurer of the fund, Miss Barlee.

CASE OF SCARLET FEVER REPORTED YESTERDAY.

Meeting of the Board of Health at 3 o'clock Yesterday Afternoon.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held at two o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Committee Room, with the following in attendance:—Mr. Robert Neill, chairman; and Messrs. W. Eyre, A. Parker, Geo. Schneider, Drs. Burnham, McNulty, Bingham, M.H.O., and Chief Rossel, Sanitary Inspector.

The Town Engineer, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, reported re the plumbing at 543 George street.

Dr. Pigeon entered, stating that at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon he had been called to 103 Albert street, where he had found a child of five years of age suffering from scarlet fever. He explained the circumstances, stating that there was a family of five children, two of whom were at home, the three remaining attending school daily. The children attending school had continually been in contact with the stricken child, and were possibly carrying infection to the remainder of the scholars.

The chairman, after thanking Dr. Pigeon for his prompt report, stated that the matter would immediately be dealt with, which was done, Dr. Bingham being requested to isolate the house.

During the general discussion, it was moved and seconded that Chief Rossel be instructed to institute proceedings against those owners of wells who have not complied with the order to close wells by Nov. 5th, that others who have been ordered to close their wells, and have not done so, be notified that if not filled up, or application made for town water made by Nov. 14th, proceedings will be instituted. — Carried.

A communication was read from Mr. E. Flaherty stating that for two years he had been attempting to get in city water but the commissioners had so far failed to accommodate him.

The secretary was told to inform him to file a formal application for city water.

The secretary was instructed to ask the Nicholls Hospital for a statement of terms upon which they will take infectious diseases, and that when received, it and the letter from St. Joseph's Hospital, be forwarded to the town council.

The Board then adjourned until Monday next.

"THE HABITANT" WRITER TO LECTURE HERE.

Drummond to be Heard Here About 27th of November.

The Young Men's Guild of the George street church, announce that arrangements have been made with Dr. Drummond to lecture under the above auspices in the church about the 27th of November. The young men are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in securing the services of this very popular lecturer, who has never been heard in Peterborough. The author of "Johnny Corteau," "The Habitant," and many other choice pieces of French-Canadian dialect, gave his lecture in Lindsay last year under the auspices of the Collegiate Institute Lecture Course, and so well were they pleased with his entertainment that he is being secured again, and it is on the occasion of his visit to Lindsay that he will come to Peterborough.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Michael Walsh Passes Away After Long Illness.

The death of Mr. Michael Walsh occurred on Sunday afternoon, after an illness of a lengthy duration. The late Mr. Walsh had been a sufferer from rheumatism for a number of years, and this disease was the cause of his death. The deceased, who has been a resident of Peterborough for a number of years was well known. He was unmarried. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place this morning from the residence of his nephew, Mr. Michael O'Brien, 76 Gilmour street to Douro Roman Catholic Cemetery.

ALLANY CLUB'S DELIGHTFUL "SMOKER" HELD LAST NIGHT

An Excellent Musical Programme Rendered by the Orchestra.

In their comfortable rooms in the Opera House Block, the Albany Club last night gave a delightful "smoker," which was attended in all by about 125 persons, among the guests and company present being in the neighbourhood of sixty of Peterborough's most influential, professional, financial and business men. The guests were entertained in a most cordial manner, being made heartily welcome by all members of the Club, and as a social reunion the event was a splendid success every way creditable to the hospitality of the Club. A feature of the evening's programme was the musical section, the Club's orchestra and individual vocalists acquitting themselves in a manner which was a pleasure to the audience and a credit to themselves. The musical programme was as follows:

March, "Kelo Club" ... ... Orchestra.
Overture, "Italian in Algiers" ... ... Orchestra.
Vocal Solo, "The Death of Nelson," ... ...Mr. G. K. Martin.
Cornet Solo, "The Plains of Peace" ... ... Mr. R. Gliddon.
Vocal Solo, "Mary of Argyle," ... ...Mr. Burns, of Whitby.
Cake Walk, "Kinky Kinks," Orchestra.
Vocal Solo, The Drinking Song from "Robin Hood." ... Mr. W. Stocker.
Vocal Solo, "Scotland's Hills and Knolls." Mr. Balfour of Toronto.
Serenade, "Magnolia," ... ... Orchestra.
Vocal Solo, "We're a' John Tamson's Bairn's" ... ... Mr. Burns.
Waltz, "Vision" ... ... Orchestra.
Vocal solo, "Three Jolly Britons" .... Mr. Balfour.
Two Step, "Topsey Turvey" ...Orchestra.

The composition of the orchestra which, under the direction of Mr. Gliddon, presented the programme in a most excellent and artistic manner, was as follows:—Violins—W. E. Loch, C. Seymour, B. Boomer and W. Cunningham; flutes—John Butcher and H. Edmison; clarionets — L. Halley and W. Hodgson; bassoons—E. Wand and J. Crowe; pianist, Mr. Geo. Schneider; tympani, Mr. R. Beach; cornet, Mr. R. Gliddon.

During the rendition of the programme games of different descriptions were indulged in, everyone apparently having a delightful time.

It is greatly to the credit of the Albany Club that the King's Birthday was honoured in such a patriotic manner.

A DISTINGUISHED LADY MISSIONARY.

Miss McKinney to Address a Meeting in Murray Street Church.

The attention of all interested in missions is called to the important union meeting to be held in Murray street church on Wednesday afternoon next, at 3.45, to be addressed by Miss McKinney, for some years connected with the Zenana work in India, so successfully carried on by the London Missionary Society. Miss McKinney comes very highly and warmly recommended by the Hon. S. H. Blake, as a forceful and telling speaker.

It is Miss McKinney's desire to meet and speak to all the churches. The meeting is entirely a union one, the meeting having been arranged for by the Ministerial Association. During her stay in town, Miss McKinney will be the guest of the Rev. Dr. Torrance, and will address prayer meeting in St. Paul's on Wednesday night.

THE PROSPERITY OF WESTERN CANADA.

Mr. R. J. Waller has Just Returned from Manitoba and Tells of Great Prosperity.

Mr. R. J. Waller, the Charlotte street grocer, returned last night from Souris, Manitoba, where he had been since the last of July attending to the management of his large wheat farm of 320 acres. Mr. Waller states that the results of this year's operations have been most satisfactory, in fact the net profits will be greater than that of any previous year. While the yield of wheat was not as large the prices obtained were considerably higher. Before Mr. Waller left for home his wheat had all been threshed out and two thirds of it shipped, and all the fall ploughing accomplished, 230 acres being ready for wheat next year. The whole western country, according to Mr. Waller, is very prosperous, in every town and village signs of a boom being noticed. The direct cause of this prosperity, of course, is the excellent crops which the farmers have had for some years, and the result is that settlers are coming in on every train.

Mr. Waller says that the weather since the heavy snow storm which occurred during the harvest, has been ideal. The storm referred to did some injury to the crops, which were then all cut, but the injury was not nearly as serious as it would have been had it rained instead of snowed.

The district of which Souris is the centre, is well settled, and the price of land is high, for instance $25 and $30 per acre being asked. Mr. Waller will remain in town attending to his grocery business during the winter.

INJURED IN FALL FROM A CARRIAGE.

Mrs. Wm. Fair Hurt at Millbrook Yesterday.

Mr. Robt. Fair received the unwelcome news this morning of an accident which befell his mother, Mrs. William Fair, at Millbrook yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Fair, accompanied by her daughter, had been out calling, and as the former was alighting from her carriage at the residence of Captain Winslow, she fell in some manner, and in the fall fractured one of her legs near the hip. This injury, for one at Mrs. Fair's age, 70 years, is very serious, and the injured lady suffered great pain as a result of her fall. She is feeling somewhat better to-day, however, and, it is hoped that her recovery will be rapid.

DEPUTY MINISTER VISITED LIFT LOCK.

Mr. Collingwood Schreiber Inspected Public Works.

Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals arrived in town last night for the purpose of inspecting the progress of the work on the Lift Lock and the locks dam. He visited these works to-day in company with the Superintending Engineer, Mr. R. B. Rogers, and expressed himself as being highly pleased with the work already done. Mr. Schreiber left on the 11.35 train for the east.

THROUGH SUNNY ITALY.

A Delightful Evening in the T. A. S. Rooms.

The lecture room of the T.A.S. was crowded to its fullest capacity last night when Rev. Dr. O'Brien took his hearers on a trip through Northern Italy. Mr. R. M. Roy manipulated the lantern and the steropticon views thrown on the canvas were beautiful ones, and included many excellent views of scenes in this favoured land. The large gathering was taken on a trip through Florence, Venice, Turin and Pisa, and many other celebrated centres, and in each city visited, the beautiful churches and historical piles were shown and described in a charming manner by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, who spent several years in Italy. The little Italian village in which the present Pope, Pius X, was born, as well as the humble home of his parents and several members of the Sarto family were also thrown on the canvas and minutely described. Several of the cardinals who figured in the recent conclave were produced, and a short, but interesting history of their careers given. The reverend doctor's lecture was a treat of the highest order.

Mr. Roy very generously showed several views of hunting and fishing parties in this district, all of which were described as only Mr. Roy can describe them.

The musical portion of the evening's programme consisted of a selection by the T.A.S. orchestra, and pleasing vocal numbers by Misses Loretto Clancy, Molly Young and Mr. James Browne. The accompanists were Misses M. McCabe, M. Doherty and K. Burley.

The next entertainment in two weeks' time promises to be an intellectual treat. Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan, of Lindsay, will lecture on the "Poetry of the Habitant," made famous by the productions of Dr. Drummond, and will incidentally deal with the characteristics, and many excellent traits of the habitant.

"ART IN THE SCHOOL ROOM," TO-NIGHT

At the Meeting of St. Luke's Men's Guild.

The meeting of St. Luke's Men's Guild to-night gives promise of being one of especial interest, and to it all men are invited. The principal feature of the meeting will be a talk by Mr. F. H. Dobbin on "Art in the School Room." This talk, which will be illustrated, is very amusing, as well as instructive. The meeting, which will be held in the school room, will commence at eight o'clock.

THE HUNTERS.

Ketchum Lake Party Having Excellent Sport.

Two members of the Lake Ketchecum hunting party arrived in town yesterday, and reported that there was a quantity of deer in the woods, and that good sport was being had. Several deer had been "bagged" by the party, the members of which were having a delightful time. The weather had been somewhat warm, which kept the deer away from the water, at this time of the year usually warmer than the atmosphere.

The party will arrive home on Friday evening next.

A HANDSOME MONUMENT

Erected by Coughlin Monumental Co., Over Grave of Late Mr. H. B. McHarrie.

The Coughlin Monumental Company of Peterborough, have just erected in the Little Lake Cemetery a handsome memorial cross—of Celtic cross design—made of Canadian granite, over the grave of the late Mr. H. B. McHarrie, whose recent death is still painfully fresh in the memory of Peterborough citizens. McHarrie, it will be remembered, was the manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce. The cross, which is very beautiful, was designed, cut, polished and executed, by Coughlin Bros, in the new premises on Hunter street, and reflects credit on the ability of the firm.

A STABBING AFFRAY ON NEW RAILWAY.

Cross Creek's Camp on Line of L. B. and P. Railway Scene of the Attack.

Last night's issue of the Lindsay Post has the following report of an occurrence near that town:—

Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock a serious stabbing affray occurred at Cross Creeks camp, on the line of the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon & Pontypool Railway, about five miles south of this town. The assailant was Charles Bradshaw, head cook, and his victim was a fellow employee named Thos. Mullin.

It appears that Bradshaw and Mullin came to town yesterday forenoon with a farmer named Henry, of that locality. Late in the afternoon they proceeded back to camp in a livery rig, and on arrival they engaged in a game of cards. At the conclusion of the game a difficulty arose between the two men on the subject of paying for the livery rig. Mullin claiming that Bradshaw was trying to evade paying his share. He finally struck the latter with his fist. Bradshaw then indulged in some recriminations, whereupon Mullin caught hold of him and pushed him against a barrel close by. As soon as he had been released Bradshaw grabbed a long-bladed butcher knife off a shelf close by and struck at Mullin a number of times, cutting his clothing in several places, and at last succeeded in plunging the blade into his victim behind the shoulder.

Farmer Henry, who happened to be still at the camp, at once assisted the wounded man to his wagon and drove to town where the copious flow of blood was stopped.

Mullin was then conveyed to the Ross Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Collison, the L. B. & P. Company's physician. He is now resting easily, and it is not thought that dangerous consequences are likely to follow.

This morning Chief Nevison and Constable John Short drove out to the camp and arrested Bradshaw. He will appear this evening before County Magistrate Deacon, and will be remanded in order that witnesses may be summoned.

Bradshaw is a Barnardo Home boy, his home being in Sunderland, England. He came here from Sault Ste. Marie, and is about 22 years of age.

LETTER ON UNION OF MUNICIPALITIES.

Ald. McWilliams Writes Explaining the Condition of the Town.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear sir,—There seems to be singularly little discussion of the proposed union of Peterborough and Ashburnham upon which the people are required to vote on the 26th inst., and therefore many misunderstandings of the reasons which led the joint committee of the town and village councils to recommend the union. As a member of the joint committee I would like to point out what we found to be the position of the two municipalities after looking carefully into details, which will, I am satisfied, convince almost everybody of the wisdom of the proposed union.

Briefly, we found that both the town and village were in such excellent condition financially that the ordinary municipality would be glad of the chance to unite with either. There are few towns or cities in Canada which can rival Peterborough in financial standing and the principal portion of the debt has been accumulated in the last ten years by the building of sewers and pavements which are gradually paying for themselves. There is saleable property belonging to the town more than enough to meet all the balance of the debt. The tax rate too, has been, until recently, abnormally low and the increases to the present figure, which is still much below the average, has been caused by the payment of interest on those improvements and a liberal expenditure on roads, both good purposes.

In respect of debt and tax rate Ashburnham is still in a more favourable position, but as against that is the lack of permanent pavements and sewers which the village must soon provide and which will bring the rate and debt fully up to the level of the town. Prior to the negotiations for the union the village had begun plans for a sewer system and has since adopted a plan for an outfall sewer which will meet all present needs at a cost to which no townsman can reasonably object and which our council has rightly agreed to construct.

In short, if the union is desirable on other grounds there is little reason for objection from either side on financial grounds. Those in the village who claim that their taxes will be unduly raised can argue the point with those in the town who say that the village needs so many improvements that it will be a very expensive addition.

Is then the union desirable on other grounds? I submit that it is and primarily for two reasons.

In the first place if the experience of all other growing places is of any value the union is bound to come in time and if so the sooner the better for as the places grow there are bound to be more and more differences of methods which it will be increasingly difficult to harmonize and deal justly with all. For example: The proposed plan for the sewer system in the village is based on a radically different method of contribution between the municipality and the individual ratepayer than that in vogue in town. If these two systems are allowed to grow up it will be no easy matter when the union does come, so that the city would treat all localities alike. There is at present a virtual union for the purposes of the collegiate institute, fire protection, waterworks and bridges and it would seem to be the wisest course to gain the strength which proverbially lies in union in all matters as well as those just mentioned.

The other main reason is that of rating amongst business men of all kinds outside of the town. There can be no doubt that if the two places were united and especially created a city there would be a great improvement in the prestige we would have in the country and still more with the American and English manufacturers whom we are all so anxious to attract. In all government returns, in all newspaper reports, in the minds of all people who have never been here we are classed with "towns" like Port Hope, Whitby and Bowmanville and a class below Belleville instead of, as we ought to be and would be, with Brantford and Kingston. It is time we woke up and impressed upon ourselves and upon everybody else that we have a city which will take second place to none, which has the capabilities of becoming one of the first manufacturing centres of the Dominion and we will never accomplish that while we hide our light under the bushel of country methods.

I feel certain that if the matter is but considered the great majority will support the union, but those who have progressive ideas must remember to show their public spirit by turning out to vote.

Yours faithfully,
R. F. McWILLIAMS.

OF INTEREST TO MAGISTRATES.

Requirements of Section 550 of the Criminal Code.

The following letter has been sent by the Attorney-General's Department to the various Magistrates and Crown Attorneys throughout the province:

Sir, — By section 550 of the Criminal Code, it is provided that "the trials of young persons, apparently under the age of 16, shall take place without publicity, and separately and apart, from the trials of other accused persons." As you will understand, this provision is intended, as far as possible, to protect young persons who presumably are not as yet hardened from unnecessary exposure before the public. There is reason to believe that the above enactment has not been obeyed in all cases, and I am to impress on you that the desire of the Attorney-General is that the enactment shall be scrupulously carried out. The object we must all have in view is, where possible, to save and reclaim young persons, and it has been considered by those most competent to give an opinion that this is one effective means.

Yours truly,
J. R. CARTWRIGHT,
Deputy Attorney-General.

A COMING MAN'S BIRTHDAY.

Master Gerald Conroy, of Ashburnham, Celebrates.

A juvenile correspondent supplies the following:

"The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Conroy, Brown street, Ashburnham, presented a pretty scene on Friday last, when their son, Master Gerald celebrated the turning of the ninth mile stone of his young life. about twenty-five little people assembled at his home and a most enjoyable time was spent. After supper had been given ample justice the merry little trippers retired to the drawing room, where most of the time was spent in singing and playing games. When the hands of the clock pointed towards nine the jolly party broke up, and were taken to their respective homes thoroughly pleased with the evening spent with their kind little host."

MAN WANTED TO CUT HIS WIFE'S HEART OUT.

A Case at the Court House This Morning Before County Police Magistrate Edmison.

At the Court House this morning before County Police Magistrate Edmison, James Langdo, of Ashburnham, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, with hard labour, for assaulting his wife.

The evidence showed that on the night of October 30th, accused came home feeling somewaht the better for "whiskey straight," and immediately showed his hilarity in a somewhat coarse way, by casting the most obnoxious expressions at his better half. Having concluded his oration it was shown that he had picked up a knife, which he brandished over his head, like a Bulgarian rebel, and threatened to cut his wife's heart out. However, he contented himself with threats, but Mrs. Langdo was not contented to let such gruesome playfulness pass unrecognized, and accordingly laid information which resulted in Jim spending thirty really busy days.

A Bulletin Respecting the Inspection and Sale of Seeds.

A copy of Bulletin No. 15, entitled "Bill No. 200, Reprinted as Amended: An Act Respecting the Inspection and Sale of Seeds, with Explanations and Comments," has been received. This pamphlet is issued for general distribution for the purpose of serving as a notice to the interested public, and also to provide means for closer study of the Bill in its relations to the operations of seed producers, seed merchants and seed consumers. The bill as amended by the committee of the whole during the recent session of Parliament, provides that seeds of cereals, grasses, clovers or foliage plants which contain the seeds of certain noxious weeds named in the bill, will not be permitted for sale. It further provides for uniform methods of grading, according to fixed standards of purity and vitality, the timothy, alsike and red clover seeds offered for sale in Canada. A copy of he pamphlet may be had free on application to the Seed Division Branch of the Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, Ottawa. Letters addressed as above do not require postage.

BOWSER'S BALD HEAD.

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

MR. BOWSER had been reading and smoking for half an hour when he laid the paper down and remarked in what he thought was a careless way:

"I'm thinking some of trying a little experiment tonight."

"Don't do it," promptly replied Mrs. Bowser. "The water pipes, electric bells, gas meter and gas fixtures are all right, and I hope you won't disturb things."

"No one thought of disturbing things. When I disturb things it's to better them. My handy way of fixing things saved us $500 last year."

"But there's nothing to fix now."

"Well, that's all right. I was thinking of the Persian who was in the office this afternoon. He happened to notice my bald head and suggested a remedy."

"And of course you bought it and have been done for again. He probably heard what an easy mark you are before he left home."

"Woman, stop right where you are," said Mr. Bowser as he pointed a finger

"I BEGIN TO FEEL THE FALLING DEW."

at her across the table. "In the first place, I have never been 'done for,' as you call it. In the second, the Persian had nothing for sale. As I told you, he simply made a suggestion."

"Did he suggest sandpaper to scratch the roots into life?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"You either drop that sarcastic tone or we don't talk any more. By thunder, but it seems to me that you grow meaner as you grow older. If you had some husbands to deal with you'd find out what was what pretty quick. What in blazes is that blamed old cat looking at me in that way for? If I had a crowbar I'd"—

The cat uttered a mew and disappeared, and Mrs. Bowser begged pardon and expressed her sorrow. Five minutes later Mr. Bowser had choked back his emotions and was saying:

"It's no crime to be baldheaded, but if I can grow new hair I ought to do it. This Persian remedy is a very simple thing. In Persia a baldheaded man sits out at night and lets the dew fall on his bald pate. It acts as a fertilizer, and after a few nights the hair begins to grow."

"Are you sure he wasn't joking?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"How joking? What was there to joke about? I'd like to see a stranger, and a Persian at that, joke about my bald head! There was no joking about it. He simply noticed my bald head and suggested a hair restorative."

"And you propose to sit out in the back yard tonight and let the dew fall upon your head?"

"Y-e-s, I thought I'd try it. I don't see any harm in trying it. Do you?"

"Not a bit, except that you'll blame me and talk about a divorce, as you always do."

"What will there be to blame you about?" asked Mr. Bowser as he felt that he had got over the worst of it. "You have nothing to do with the dews of heaven or my baldness. It's nonsense to talk that way. There 'll be nothing to blame anybody about. If I have talked about a divorce now and then it has all been in fun. When you get ready to go to bed I'll slip out for an hour or two to give the restorative a chance to get in its work."

An hour later he took a seat in the back yard with his back to the fence. It was a quiet, dewy night, and the neighbors seemed to have gone to bed. The family cat sat beside Mr. Bowser in the moonlight, and he had pencil and paper to make a few notes. The memoranda, as Mrs. Bowser found them on the grass next day, read:

"10:15. I begin to feel the falling dew. Everything as quiet as if death had laid its hand on the city.

"10:30. The dew seems to be striking in. Cat is somewhat agitated, but I am passive. I'd like to see any one try to joke me about my baldness.

"10:45. The dew seems to produce an itching of the scalp. I take that as a good sign. The dews of Persia may be different from those of America, but that's to be seen. Of course, I'm not ashamed of my bald head, but I know my hat would hat better if I had hair.

"11 o'clock. There is a sort of grateful glow all over my scalp. The dew is acting on the roots like water on an old sundower. I believe the Persian knew what he was talking about. The cat evinces a disposition to retire from the scene, and I shall not detain her. The idea of Mrs. Bowser asking me if I was going to sandpaper my poll!

"11:15. The dew continues. So does the glow. I don't expect a new crop of hair tonight, but I feel sure that two more nights will do the trick for me. How solemn the night! It seems as if I heard soft footsteps about me, and were I a sentimentalist I should say that angels were hovering near. Mrs. Bowser would as soon I should be an old baldhead as not, but if this Persian trick works I'll have the call on her.

"11:30. Dew still doing business. I have sneezed about fifty times in the last ten minutes, but the Persian probably figured on that. Sneezing must have an effect on the roots of the hair—a lifting effect. I can't understand Mrs. Bowser. I never come home with a new remedy that she isn't ready to talk about my being a soft mark. The patter of footsteps continues, and the cat has struck a fighting attitude.

"11:45. It is what might be termed a heavenly shampoo. For the first time in fifteen years I am feeling a crawling movement under the scalp. I don't go much on Persians as a race, but this fellow is apparently all right. It may or may not be the movements of angels I hear on the fence, but"—

Mrs. Bowser, who had gone to a back window to see how the dew doo cure got along, was just in time to see a bunch of cats numbering about a hundred thousand drop from the fence. They dropped on the Bowser cat and on Mr. Bowser himself, and for a moment the air was rent with yells and caterwauling and cuss words. Then Mr. Bowser separated himself from the cats and made for the back door on the jump, and a minute later he stood before her with the dew glistening on his bald pate.

THEY DROPPED ON THE BOWSER CAT AND ON MR. BOWSER HIMSELF.

"Well, is it a success?" she asked.

"Woman, how dare you address me?" he thundered. "Can't I see? I know it was a put up job to assassinate me—your fifteenth in two years—and to-morrow we will call in our lawyers and put an end to this thing—put a legal end to it." M. QUAD.

OUTSIDE VIEW OF CANADA.

We Really Know Nothing of Empire Problems From British Standpoint.

There are people who would regulate our British politics in some respects by what is supposed to be Canadian opinion, says The Sheffield (Eng.) Daily Independent. Let there be no mistake about this—the average intelligent interested Canadian politician knows next to nothing about British politics, has never conceived what the problems of Empire really are from the British standpoint, or realized the essential features of the commerce of the Mother Country. The most obvious and striking features of practically the whole Canadian press is its complete absorption in Canadian affairs. The great daily newspapers of the Dominion appear day after day with no word of comment on any matter that is not strictly Canadian. A young, enthusiastic, and hopeful country is naturally interested in itself intensely. To the Canadians, loyal and hearty though they be, Canada is eleven-twelfths of the world, and it comes as a revelation to them that England has a point of view they have never attempted to realise. The responsibility for this ignorance of the Mother Country does not lie wholly with Canada by any means, for we allow the Dominion to be largely shut off from British thought, and freely Americanized, by leaving in the hands of the press agencies of the States all the dissemination of news. The alienation from English thought, and the absence of the most elementary knowledge of home affairs, is striking. Experienced Canadian newspaper men will tell you in one breath that they have never heard of a London daily newspaper which you read in almost any hotel on the Continent of Europe; and in the next breath they will remark that their parents were born in Yorkshire, in a place called Durham. Before we begin to attach weight to Canadian opinion on British politics or commerce we must ask whether there is any appreciable amount of such opinion founded on knowledge and fair thought. The Associations of British Chambers of Commerce met in Montreal some weeks ago, and left the city before more than a fraction of the press men of the city were aware that that association is not a great political agency, but is a commercial organization firstly, secondly, and all the way through. The fact is that Canada is at present intensely parochial in politics. She is pivoted on herself. Her aim where politics and commerce mingle is to sell all her own products—agricultural or manufacturing—at specially high prices, and she would like England to help her; but as to the English point of view—well, it is outside the range of the average Canadian's thoughts.

A Canadian Prize Poem.

Miss Josephine Potter Davis, of 67 Pembroke street, Toronto, won the gold badge given by the St. Nicholas League in the October competition. The competition is one carried on month by month in connection with the St. Nicholas Magazine. Miss Davis badge was for some verses which we reprint below. A gold badge is also given for the best prose composition in addition to silver badges and a large number of Honor Roll awards to deserving competitors. The published list shows that this Toronto girl's success was won from a very large number of competitors. Miss Davis' age is 15, but this is said not in any way in a spirit of apology for the verses, because they would do credit to a maturer writer.

Long shadows lie across the sea,
And in the western sky afar
There hangs a single lovely star,
The promise of the night to be.

The cool wind stirs among the trees,
And deeper in the darkening wood
The birds pour out a silvery flood
Of clear and joyous melodies.

And in the twilight stillness here,
And in low-laden trees we read
The full fruition of the seed,
The fulfilled promise of the year.

How It Happened.

You see, it happened this way. The father of the kid kidnapped the kid from the kid's mother. He caught the mother of the kid napping and kidnapped the kid. When the kid's mother found out that the kid had been kidnapped by the kidnapper, she saw that her friends would kid her for letting them kidnap the kid. Then the brother of the mother of the kid took a hand and kidnapped the kid from the kidnapper. Thus the kidnapper who had caught the mother of the kid napping was himself caught by the uncle of the kid napping, and the uncle of the kid kidnapped the kid and kidded the kidnapper.—St. John Telegraph.

Fresh Air and Sound Health.

There are many persons who seem afraid of the fresh air. A little rain, a little wind, a little fog, a little chill in the air will keep them within doors. Going out, they bundle up in clothes so thickly that one would think they were tender shrubs transplanted from some more genial clime. The healthy people, however, are not the health cranks, not the people who run to the doctor every time they feel an ache. They are the people who walk a great deal in the fresh air, who live in the open as much as they can and who take a vacation in the country every year.

SINFUL HABITS IN YOUTH

MAKE NERVOUS, WEAK, DISEASED MEN.

THE RESULT of ignorance and folly in youth, overexertion of mind and body indulged by lust and exposure are constantly wrecking the lives and future happiness of thousands of promising young men. Some fade and wither at an early age, at the blossom of manhood, while others are forced to drag out a weary, fruitless and melancholy existence. Others poach matrimony but find no solace or comfort there. The victims are found in all stations of life—the farm, the office, the workshop, the pulpit, the trades and the professions. Nervous Debility and Sexual Weakness are guaranteed cured by our New Method Treatment or No Pay. You run no risk 25 years in Detroit. Bank security.

CURED WHEN ALL ELSE FAILED. No names used without written consent.

"I am 33 years of age and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's Disease. Married Life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act like a man in every respect. They treated me six years ago. They are honest, skilful and responsible financially, so why patronize Quacks and Fakirs when you can be cured by reliable doctors." W. A. Belton.

Many are asking themselves whether it is derangement of the liver or kidneys that is causing them to suffer. So intimately related are these great filtering organs that one is seldom deranged without the other being also affected.

Torpid Liver and Kidneys.

It is surprising what a large proportion of every-day ills are due to disorders of the liver and kidneys. It was with this idea in mind that Dr. Chase prepared his celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills, and the extraordinary success of this prescription has made it indispensable in the home.

By their direct action on the liver these pills ensure a plentiful flow of bile (nature's own cathartic) and, by so doing, not only bring about a healthful action of the bowels but positively cure constipation.

At the same time the kidneys are invigorated, and kidneys, liver and bowels work together in ridding the system of the poisonous impurities which cause disease.

Pains in the back, headache, lumbago, rheumatism, dyspepsia, biliousness, kidney disease and liver complaint soon vanish before the thorough action of this medicine. The system is cleansed, the blood purified, and once again the organs of the body work in harmony and properly perform their duties.

It is to the old people especially that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills appeal. They prove effective when all other treatments seem of no avail and not only bring relief from the pains and aches, but restore vigor and activity to organs which have become sluggish and torpid.

MRS. WILKINS.

Mrs. W. Wilkins, Henry Street, Belleville, Ont., states:—"I suffered a great deal with pains in the small of the back, caused from kidney trouble. Whenever I stooped I could scarcely rise again, the pains were so great. The disease became so severe that it affected my general health and I was becoming run down. Since using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I can say that my trouble has entirely disappeared. I can speak in the highest terms of this medicine from the way it acted in my case."

Mr. Robert Jackson, Ship Carpenter, Port Robinson, Ont., states:—"I was afflicted with kidney trouble and lumbago for thirty years. The winters were always very severe on me, and I was many times incapacitated, with all the serious symptoms of both troubles. I had backache, biliousness, rheumatism, headache and constipation, and was wrecked physically. I used all sorts of medicines and have been treated by the medical profession to no purpose. In the spring of 1902 I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and from the start received great [illegible] fully recommend good health and vigor, my only trouble being a [illegible] past. I am sure [illegible] results from the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills after years of unnecessary suffering there can be no doubt of their efficacy in the treatment of younger persons. I recommend them to everyone. I have tried to think of words to express my gratitude, but it is beyond expression, for they have done more for me than I could have believed."

CHIP of THE BLOCK

By RICHARD BARKER SHELTON

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

The Southwest limited sped over the flat bottom lands about the Little Otter river.

Low clouds hung in the sky, and occasionally the sharp rattle of raindrops struck the windows of the special car on the rear of the train, where Governor Crawley stood with his hands in his pockets looking out across the monotonous landscape. From a little table at the forward end of the car, where a young, well groomed man sat before a pile of papers, came the staccato click of a typewriter.

The governor's brows were drawn, and he chewed fiercely the unlighted cigar between his teeth. He was hurrying southward to make a speech in a large manufacturing center. It would be the last speech of his present term, and he realized that his re-election depended largely upon it.

All the papers in the state had announced under headlines more or less prominent that Governor Crawley would speak at Valnbero on the evening of Oct. 15 and that it would be a speech of great political significance in that it would clearly determine the governor's attitude toward the labor problems which had arisen during the past year.

"THAT'S RIGHT. I FOULED HIM AT THE TURN," SAID I.

The click of the typewriter ceased; the young man rose from the table and began to arrange the sheets before him. Crawley strode up the car and stood looking over his shoulder. His face relaxed into a grim smile as he laid a hand lightly on the younger man's arm.

"Well, Tom," he said, "what do you think of it now it's done?"

Tom Ashley had not been private secretary to the governor for the past two years without gaining some insight into his superior's character. He knew well enough the effect his words would have. Nevertheless he said them.

"I think," said he, "you have composed your political death warrant."

Instantly the governor's face hardened. "At any rate," he said without turning his eyes from the window, "I have been honest in this one. I haven't tried to blind them with smooth words nor to cheat them with pretty turns of the language. This second speech is fair and square. The other isn't."

Ashley squared his shoulders. "This one is all you say of it," said he, "but the other deserves more of you than you admit. You say quite as much in the first one, but you say it more guardedly. If any one gets false ideas from it it is not your fault. Your own intentions and what people make of them will always differ. Don't misunderstand me as meddlesome if I say that it seems to me your consideration of the claims your party has on you will influence you to use the first."

"Perhaps you are right," he said at length. "Anyway, we'll keep them both for the present."

There was a rasp of brakes, and the train began to slow down. Crawley wiped the steam from the window and looked out. Familiar spires and a well known square greeted his eyes.

"We're at Exley, Tom," he said. "Ned joins us here to go down with us. Would you mind stepping out to see if he is at the station?"

A few moments later Ashley returned with a tall, muscular young fellow, who ran to the governor and clasped his hand, with a hearty "Hello, father!"

"There are a lot of fellows from the school up forward," young Crawley explained as the train drew out. "They're going down to hear you speak tonight. I told 'em I'd present 'em to you somewhere between here and there."

"I shall be very glad to meet them," the governor said, "after Tom and I have finished up a little work which will take an hour or so. Tell me, how did the meet with St. John's come out yesterday?"

"Oh," the young fellow's face fell. "We lost."

"Too bad," said the governor. "You got your half mile, I suppose?"

"No, I lost that, too," Ned replied. "Spencer, the St. John's man, is a caution and no doubt. Ran me clean off my feet the second time. That lost for us. We were tied, ten apiece, up to that, and that was the last event."

"The second time," the governor inquired, his brows contracting into a perplexed frown.

"Yes. We ran it twice. First time—well, I'll tell you about it, and I want to ask you what you think of it, though I know pretty well what you'll say. You see, it was a tie and everybody was crazy—our boys yelling at us, and St. John's bowling at their men to go in and win. We got off at a pretty stiff pace and kept it up the first lap. Half way round the second lap Spencer had the lead, and I was loping along right at his heels. The others were bunched just behind us. I tried to pass him, and when we were going neck and neck I fouled him ever so little, but enough to swerve him into the board at the edge of the track. His ankle bent, and down he went. I finished first, and Oxford, our other man, came in second, and the boys went wild and howled and hugged each other and started to lug Oxford and me off the field on their shoulders. Then Spencer came up crying 'Foul!' but the judges hadn't seen it, so they said there was no foul.

"Well, for a minute I couldn't think of anything except we'd downed St. John's. Then all at once I felt queer, and I had to—just had to—slip off their shoulders and go over to the judges. 'That's right. I fouled him at the turn,' said I. The judges talked awhile and then announced we'd run it over, and Spencer ran me clean off my feet that time, and we lost."

"Good boy!" said the governor, almost inaudibly.

"Well," his son went on, "it hasn't cut all the cheering them, and our fellows were pretty hot; said it was the judges' place to see fair, and if I'd had any thought for the rest of 'em I'd have kept my mouth shut. I guess it's lost me the captaincy of the track team next year all right, but anyway I'd rather ran fair yesterday than have it.

"When I was going to the lockers after it was all over old Professor Sneed was right behind me with one of the instructors, and I heard him say: 'Chip off the old block! That's his daddy's spunk all over.'

"I'll go up ahead with the fellows. Shall I bring 'em back in an hour? All right. So long, Mr. Ashley."

Some time after the door had closed behind his son the governor rose and went over to Ashley's table.

"Tom," said he, "it's a poor father that can't live up to his son."

He picked up the manuscript of the first speech and laid it on the typewriter.

"Destroy it," he said and turned sharply on his heel.

Tortured with Pain.

Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deits, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

Happiness.

We do not know what happiness is. That is one of the reasons we seek it far and wide when it is right at our own door, if we could only remove the bandages from our eyes. Lillian Whiting's is a good definition of happiness: "Happiness is not a possession; it is a state of mind." We seek a material, tangible thing to possess, never learning that it is a quality of mind and heart and soul we must educate ourselves to. We are egotists; we place the highest value upon our lives and look for the world to compensate us upon our own valuation, and with the failure of material achievement we become self pitiers, creatures for whom Carlyle had such sturdy scorn. Asked if she would like to live her life over again, one woman is quoted as saying: "I'd live mine over again, with my nightmare of childhood, for the pleasure I'm getting now in self development, in trying to become a fine woman on a slim foundation. To tell you the truth, I think it would take two good lives to make me amount to much." This woman is happy because in seeking development of character she is receiving more than she expected; consequently life is very full to her, the world yielding its richest harvest, for her sowing is in harmony with nature's law.

Woman's Ideal Man.

The ideal man as women would make him out to be if their several tastes were consulted as a recipe would be indeed an impossible he! He would be a creature never seen on land or sea—a monster that only a feminine Frankenstein could create. He would be part Sunday school teacher and part Don Caesar—beautiful of face and manly of form—yet without vanity; quick with his sword, yet a paragon of mercy to the afflicted; deeply intelligent, yet never preoccupied; with the soul of a poet and the pocketbook of a broker; a good judge of a bonnet, and not too particular as to cooking; charming of temper, quick to forgive feminine faults; grand of character, yet an adept in drawing room persiflage. Such a man if he existed would have to live in a cage to be looked at and photographed, for he would not be companionable to women or to men. He would be a freak, to be seen at a distance and never to be loved, for when we look deep we find that we like people more for their faults than their virtues.—Kate Masterson in Ainslee's.

When Traveling Was Dangerous.

Hunslow heath, Finchley common and Gadshill, in the neighborhood of London, were celebrated haunts of the highwayman, and the secluded roads of Epping forest, on the route to Cambridge, were often the scenes of plunder in broad daylight. These desperate robbers at last became so dangerous and the peril of their attacks so serious to travelers of all kinds, as well as to the postmen, that the government passed a law making highway robbery an offense punishable by the death of the criminal and the confiscation of all his property. But robberies still occurred.

In 1783 mail coaches protected by armed guards took the place of postboys. The coaches carried passengers also, and as these generally carried arms, the mails were better protected, but still daring and oftentimes successful attacks were made upon them.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

When a woman is nervous her imagination gives fantastic and threatening shapes to the most familiar objects. By day she starts in fear at every sudden or unfamiliar sound. By night the furniture of her room takes on affrighting forms of ghost or goblin. You can't reason with the nerves. Neither logic nor love can quiet them. They must be nourished and then the outcry of the nerves will cease as naturally as a hungry child ceases to cry when fed.

For nervous women there is no better tonic and nervine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the diseases which produce nervousness in women, irregularity, debilitating drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, and induces refreshing sleep.

"When I began taking your medicine I was not able to stand on my feet ten minutes at a time," writes Mrs. Hattie Borradaile, of 113 Spring Street, Nashville, Tenn. "Had falling of uterus, and kidney and liver disease, and was so weak and nervous I could not keep still. Would take nervous spells and almost die at times. I had several different doctors attending, but they could not do me any good. The last one I had said I would never get up again. Told him that I was taking your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and he said, 'Might just as well take that much water each day.' But I thought I would give the medicine a fair trial. Before I had finished the first two bottles I was able to get outside the house and walk around the yard. I kept on taking the medicines and they cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

THE PROTEST JUSTIFIED.

Hon. Clifford Sifton on the Alaska Boundary Decision.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, Canadian agent in the Alaska Boundary Tribunal, returned home yesterday morning. He was detained in London for some days after the decision was given, attending to a number of details, so that nothing might be left uncompleted when he started for home. Naturally he is very much disappointed at the failure of Canada's just claims to receive recognition, but the decision having gone against us, although Canada's representatives made the strongest possible fight in his opinion, we must make the best of it. The Minister of the Interior, in the course of an interview, said the protest was justified and that the Canadian Commissioners were right in refusing to sign the award.

A wet and late spring threw haying, harvesting and corn plowing all together where we live, and a man hardly knew which way to turn or what to do. The result was in many cases that the corn was left to shift for itself, a lot of the timothy was left for seed, and the grain was taken care of.

Side by side, same soil, same rainfall, in the semiarid belt in North Dakota, macaroni wheat last year gave thirty bushels per acre, which sold at 75 cents a bushel, and ordinary wheat twelve bushels an acre, which sold for 70 cents a bushel. This fact should open the eyes of the wheat growers up there.

The seven year drought in Australia which has just been broken by copious rains was most destructive to the stock interests of that country. Two cases are cited, one where a man who had 7,000 head of cattle has but seventy-five head left, and another who had 9,000 head who saved only 875 head. The losses on sheep were still more disastrous, in many sections the fences being hung for miles with sheep pelts.

Africa, taken as a whole, offers no inducements whatever as a country for the surplus population of the countries of the temperate zone. It is not to be compared with like lines of latitude in South America either in fertility of soil, climatic conditions or possible products. The Lord made Africa for the sons of Ham and put them there, and the white man made the mistake of his life when he took the colored man from his native wilds.

In its laudable effort to determine if possible which birds are really hurtful to man and his agricultural interests the department at Washington is offering to analyse the contents of the stomachs of any birds sent to it. So far its investigations show that the list of harmful birds is most surprisingly small, the facts showing that the mission of the birds as a whole is of the most beneficent character in ridding the crops of their insect enemies.

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora" and it burns a ton, or only half a ton of coal more in a year, what do your gain? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.

Executive of Young Men's Guild Met Last Night.

A meeting of the executive of St. John's Young Men's Guild was held in the Guild Room last night, with President W. H. Cluxton, in the chair.

After the minutes ot the last meeting had been read and confirmed, the programme for the next meeting, to be held on Monday, Nov. 16th, came up for discussion, resulting in it being resolved that a "social" be held on that date. The matter was accordingly left in the hands of the Social Committee, the members of which are Messrs. Ed. Cookson, convenor; W. C. Bradburn, G. Graham and Thos. Dawson.

The Social Committee will meet on Thursday evening next at 7.30 o'clock, on which date any others who will undertake to help that committee are asked to be present.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

A New Low Record for U. S. Steel.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

The New York stock market opened somewhat lower this morning, but a decided advance was in evidence in the Traction group, and Maun ran up to 139 1-4, Met to 112 and BRT to 87 3-8. They eased off somewhat towards 11 o'clock, however. The steel issues were again very weak and new low records were reached for both the common and pfd, the former touching 10 flat, and the pfd falling to 49 3-4. C F R too had a weak spell and sold down to 117 1-8. There was nothing out on Twins. The volume of business was on a large scale, the sales at noon noon emounting to 506,000. A feature of the market was a drop of 2 points in Penn. The market rallied somewhat towards the close.

The following despatch was to-day received by Messrs. McMillan & Maguire, stockbrokers:

New York, November 10th.—The market opened lower with serious pressure in steels, sympathetically affecting rest of list to moderate extent. London quotations were disappointing. Traders for most part were bearish. Morgan brokers seemed to have supporting orders in steel but volume of selling in preferred was large and difficult to keep in hand. Traders who have been battering both preferred and common in past believe there is big stop orders lower down and are gunning for them. Tractions were a strong feature in otherwise weak early market. Buying said to be for people in confidence of new municipal administration.

Amns. closed weak, general market after being strong closed heavy in London. Paris steady.

Continued depression in steels at last began to tell upon rest of list. Tractions alone seemed to stand up and any activity elsewhere was accompanied by lower prices. London was seller and commission houses were liquidating on moderate volume. It was thought pressure in Penna. came from Philadelphia and traders attacked stock on evidences of liquidation. Continued bond issues of its controlled roads have made professional element very bearish. Old rumor of Standard Oil talk on Penna. interests was revived.—F. C. & C.

NORTHERN NAVIGATION STEAMER BURNED.

Steamer Atlantic Burned on Georgian Bay This Morning.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Collingwood, Ont., Nov. 10. — The Northern Navigation Company's steamer Atlantic was burned this morning at seven o'clock inside of Red Rock on the Georgian Bay while bound for Byng Inlet. The passengers and the members of the crew were all saved and are now at Parry Sound. The steamer was fully insured.

GOLF.

The Peterborough ladies who went to Toronto to represent the Golf Club returned on Saturday, after spending a most delightful week with the Lambton Golf Club, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Austin, during their tournament to meet Miss Rhona Adair, the British champion.

The lady golfers of Canada should appreciate the great privilege and pleasure afforded them in being able to witness the superb play of Miss Adair, as well as of the pick of Canadian players. It was certainly a great education and a revelation to many and will no doubt stimulate the game in many ways throughout Canada, and much praise is due to the promoters of such an event.

The hospitality extended by Mr. and Mrs. Austin was most lavish, and thoroughly enjoyed by all the participants. The different prizes were very handsome. The large cup won by Miss Adair was exceptionally fine. In the team match, east vs. west, the player winning her game was presented with a very handsome silver shield, mounted on oak. The shields, consisting of deep-toned, polished, quartered oak oval, with an ornate escusson in silver on the face, richly chased, and bearing the inscription, were artistically elegant and in admirable taste. They were one of the may evidences of Mr. Austin's munificent interest in the patronage of the game, as developed especially by the tournament. Miss Adair, Miss Greene, of Montreal, Mrs. Denniatoun, and Mrs. Campbell, of Peterborough, won shields for the east, while six went to the west, they winning the match.

The ladies who went up to see the play included Mrs. R. M. Denniatoun, Miss Jessie Denniatoun, Mrs. P. Campbell, Miss Halliday, Miss Edwards, Mrs. R. S. Davidson, Miss Lundy, and Mrs. R. R. Hall.

RUGBY.

The Toronto News, speaking of the game at Toronto on Saturday, says:

"Hal Burnham and the Peterborough team put an effectual damper on the intermediate championship aspirations of the Wellesleys on Saturday afternoon at Sunlight Park. The combination proved altogether too powerful for the fast local team, and though they made a plucky bid for the game it was not their day. The game was close all through, however, and the result was in doubt right till the final whistle. The score was Peterborough 15, Wellesleys 11."

• • • •

Also: "The game put Peterborough right back in the running for the championship and the opinion was freely expressed that they would again land the honour. Wellesley's and Victorias clash next Saturday at Sunlight Park, and a victory for the Wellesleys will tie Peterborough and Victoria, who have one game to play here."

HOCKEY.

The following paragraph from the Smith's Falls Record speaks for itself: "There was consternation in hockey circles Friday morning when it became noised abroad that 'Reddy McMillan, the clever wing man, was to leave on the noon train for Belleville where he had signed papers to play with the Belleville team this winter. This was the first intimation the club had of his intention and then the news did not come from 'Reddy' himself. On enquiry it proved to be only too true, and at noon Mr. McMillan and family took their departure for Belleville. The hockey club management consider that it was a pretty short turn to take on them, and they think he might at least have notified them of his intentions." McMillan is an old Cornwall boy and left last winter for Smith's Falls after completing the season with Cornwall.

• • • •

(Cobourg Sentinel-Star.)

Some good hockey would be seen in this district of the O. H. A. this winter should Cobourg decide to enter a team in the intermediate series, as Peterborough, Port Hope, Belleville and Picton have teams faster than last year. At the annual meeting it was not decided whether to enter two teams or not in the O. H. A., it being left over for two weeks, when the matter will be reported on.

• • • •

Clarence Garrie, who it is said, will play goal for Oshawa this winter, was in town to-day and speaks well of the Oshawa Hockey Club's chances. The boys are already in training and great preparations are being made for the season. Among the players who will be on the Oshawa team are Denison, of Port Perry; Raynor, of Orillia; Degan, from Ottawa; and Hogan from St. Catharines.

Secretary W. A. Buchanan is sending out to those interested the present rules and regulations of the Ontario Hockey Association, and clubs are requested to look carefully through them. If it is thought that any rules or regulations should be changed, amendments must be sent at once, so that it can be discussed at the annual meeting in Toronto on Dec. 5th. These amendments must be in the secretary's possession by Saturday, Nov. 21. Nominations for the offices of president, first and second vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer, and four members of the Executive will be received until Saturday, Nov. 28.

BASKET-BALL.

The two Athletic teams will hold a practice to-night at 9 o'clock. All members are asked to be present.

SPRINTING.

The Toronto Star makes the amazing statement that in the race between Knox and Taylor at Barrie on Saturday, the 100 yards were covered in 9 2-5 seconds! This record will have to be taken with considerable salt by those in Peterborough who remember an event of a similar kind in the town, when was one of the participants, and when the best time he could make, according to the timers, was 11 1-4 seconds.

The Star says:—

"Bob Harrison, the old time wrestler and Caledonian athlete, had a busy day again in Barrie on Saturday, when Taylor of Montreal, a protege of his, mut Knox of Orillia, in a hundred yard dash, for $500 a side.

"Harrison's man won, and the timers said the distance was covered in 9 2-5 seconds, a world's record. It was a pretty nice race. Knox led up to the 80-yard line. Then Taylor unwound and let out. It was a beautiful spurt, and the Montreal lad finished four feet to the good.

"'They're a pair of fast boys,' said Harrison to-day, 'and Knox is one of the hardest sprinters in America at the 75 yard distance.'

"'Taylor was a dark horse, was he not?'

"'He had run some down east, but I knew what he could do. By the way, three good watches were held on the Saturday event. The time was made, and it was pretty good at that.'"

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD MEETING.

2161 Boxes of October Make Offered for Sale.

Lindsay Post.

A meeting of the Victoria County Cheese Board was held at Lindsay on Monday in the council chamber, when 2161 boxes, representing the October make, were offered. The buyers present were Messrs. Flavelle, Fitzgerald, Bailey and McGrath. President Robertson occupied the chair.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese set opposite:

Star	130
Cameron	156
Dunsford	60
Mariposa	145
Cambray	85
Janetville	65
Omemee	190
North Verulam	130
North Ops	100
Pine Grove	60
Reaboro	210
Maple Leaf	115
Palestine	130
Oakwood	275
	2161

Mr. Bailey started the bidding at 9 1-2c. Mr. Cook made it 9 3-4c., Mr. Fitzgerald called 10c., Mr. Bailey raised to 10 1-4c., and Mr. Fitzgerald came back with 10 1-8c. This was not bettered, and he called Dunsford, North Ops, Reaboro,, Mariposa, Maple Leaf and Star, all refusing but Maple Leaf, Reaboro, and one other factory. The bid was not bettered by any other buyer and finally it was decided to adjourn for one week when the factory men hope to get a higher price.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

HUNTERS CONTRIBUTE FOR CHURCH SUPPORT.

Members of Ketchecum Lake Hunting Club are Philanthropists.

The members of the Ketchecum Lake Hunting Club, some of whom have returned to town, did not meet with as much success in their quest for game this year as in former seasons, but they have upheld their reputation in another direction. It has been the custom of the club in the past to make a contribution to the churches in that vicinity, and this year, the proposal was taken up again by Mr. H. Winch, who collected about $25 from the different members, this amount being given to Mrs. Westlake to be equally divided between the Presbyterian and English churches.

Following out the Scriptural injunction, the members, acting in the true spirit of Christian modesty, refrained from letting their right hand know what their left hand did, and to such an extent was this injunction carried out that those who bestowed their philanthropies did not even know the location of those churches which were made the object of their generosity.

ON THE CHOICE OF GIFTS.

What shall I give? With the approach of the holiday season, this question comes to everyone.

"Taking time by the forelock" is a sensible proceeding at this time of the year. A little forethought now prevents the careless buying of intrinsically valueless articles later on in the hurry and confusion of a fortnight or so before Christmas.

The test of worthiness will be applied to an article now, while later, haphazard purchases are sure to be made unwittingly. A ten cent little vase, good in colour, form and ornament, is worth a carload of cheap jardinieres, with their horrors of ornamentation. Get the intrinsically good whether the purchase be five cents or five hundred dollars.

There is a firm where gift things can be bought with perfect safety, no matter where one lives. No need of asking "Is it good? Is it worth the price asked?"

The common idea in the public mind to-day about Henry Birks & Sons, the jewellers and silversmiths of Montreal, Ottawa and Winnipeg, is one of complete confidence and security as to the character of the wares they sell. "The truth is all that needs to be said about their goods" seems to be the prevailing spirit and everyone knows that the way they buy and manufacture, they must place their goods on the market at lowest prices.

Their new catalogue is just issued—107 pages, filled with Christmas suggestions. It may be distinguished by a large illustration on its front cover, of the Coronation Crown of Queen Alexandra in colours.

The firm promise to mail a copy to any one sending their address, and it will well repay for the trouble of writing for it.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

All Saints' Church.

The services in All Saint's church Sunday were of an especially interesting character, and were well attended. At the morning service, Rev. W. J. B. Johnston, of Minden, preached, his sermon being much enjoyed. The Rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage preached at the evening service, his subject being, "The simplicity of Christ's teaching." The different phases of the subject taken up were: The perfection of His teaching, the simplicity, in contrast to the philosophies, the simplicity of presenting the Father as the God of Love, and the simplicity of His symbols. The musical portion of the services was one much enjoyed. The morning anthem was "Hosanna," the solo being taken by Miss Mary Rush, while at the evening service Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot sang very effectively, Ambrose's "Just as I Am."

A SURPRISE

IN HIGH-CLASS

Costume Cloths.....

AT THE GOLDEN LION.

We have just secured a grand Collection of Ladies' Scotch Tweed Costume Lengths, High-Class Goods at a real bargain, consisting of Fancy Broken Checks, Small Neat Designs, Tweed Mixtures and Coloured Flakes.

To Ladies who are well posted, we hardly think it necessary to say these fabrics are beautiful and stylish both in weave and colourings.

What we do call particular attention to is that any of these clothes will be in the Golden Lion's Dress Making Department—the Coats handsomely lined with striped satin—all complete—for only

MADE UP TO ORDER

$15

Regular value would be from $20.00 to $23.50. The work alone on the same garments will cost from $15.00 to $20.00 in Toronto—in other words, we furnish cloth and trimmings and make up the costume complete for less than the cost of making alone in city stores.

Goods are now on exhibition in our Store, and Samples will be shown in our North Window on Monday.

MISTAKEN FOR DEER ROAD WORKERS SHOT.

Shocking Carelessness of a Parry Sound Deer Hunter.

One Man Was Killed, the Other Badly Wounded—Thomas Stanley Fired Two Shots into a Party of Men Working on the Road Near Parry Sound—Narrow Escape of the Third Man.

Parry Sound, Nov. 11.—A double and fatal shooting accident occurred yesterday morning near Edington, 15 miles from here. Three men, James McComb, Dan Quinlan and another, whilst engaged working on a camp road, were fired on by Thomas Stanley, who was out deer hunting.

The first shot struck McComb in the chest. He threw up his spade, at the same time exclaiming, "Oh, my God, I'm shot."

A second shot quickly followed, hitting Quinlan in the thigh.

Stanley then appeared from the woods and the awful spectacle of his silly performance, was presented to his eyes.

McComb died in five minutes.

Stanley is the son of a settler, who lives in the Township of Christie, and has been brought up in the bush.

James McComb, who was killed, was a well-known resident of this district. He was married and had a large family.

Quinlan has been taken to the hospital here. It is thought he will recover.

The third man, whose name has not been ascertained, owes his escape to the fact that he fell flat on the ground before the second shot was fired.

Stanley was only about one hundred yards from the men when he fired, and it seems almost incredible that he should have mistaken the men for a deer, seeing that they were working in an open space.

An inquest will be held.

Burned to a Crisp.

Port Hope, Nov. 11.—A most harrowing story comes from the township of Manvers, telling of the death of a little boy of six years. The boy, whose name is John Newton Fallis, is the son of Isaac Fallis, who lives about two miles south of Manvers station, of the C.P.R. On Sunday night about 9 o'clock the boy, accompanied by his sister, Maria, aged 9, went to the barn with a lantern to attend to some "chores," when the lantern exploded, resulting in the complete destruction of the barn and the burning to a crisp of the boy. His sister was also severely burned, but may recover.

London Carter Crushed.

London, Nov. 11.—Bartholomew G. Clampett, a well-to-do cartage agent of this city, was instantly killed yesterday morning. The unfortunate man, who was assisting his men to move a press into the McClary works, when a misstep was made and the heavy machinery breaking away fell on Mr. Clampett's chest, crushing his life out instantly. He leaves a widow and three grown up children.

A FAR-REACHING PLEA.

What Giving Canada Treaty-Making Powers Would Mean—Sir Gilbert Parker on Rosebery.

London, Nov. 11.—(C.A.P.)—At a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute in the Hotel Metropole last night, Sir Robert Goldie, chairman, declared that no recent movement was more far-reaching than Canada's plea for power to make her own treaties. The proposal meant that one-tenth of the white population of the Empire might commit the unconsulted nine-tenths to a tremendous hazard, and the costs of a war. Mr. Chamberlain was the first Colonial Secretary to recognize the enormous opportunities of Imperial sentiment among the colonies, and to transmute the Colonial Office from a Sleepy Hollow and Rip Van Winkle concern into a valuable machine for the consolidation of the Empire. Major Ross read a paper on "Malaria in India and the Colonies." They were all indebted to Mr. Chamberlain for his far-seeing and powerful efforts on behalf of tropical medicine and sanitation. He favored the idea that learned societies should periodically send out special commissioners to report on the sanitary affairs of the colonies.

Sir Gilbert Parker on Rosebery.

Sir Gilbert Parker, speaking at Gravesend last night, said: "Lord Rosebery says that from the news he gets, Canada is more interested in the Alaskan question than in the matter of a preferential tariff. What a catchpenny statement? The Alaskan boundary question was a nine days' excitement. The preferential tariff is Canada's permanent desire. Lord Rosebery fears that American immigration will destroy their loyalty toward this flag. He forgets that the history of the French-Canadians shows that 75 per cent. of the American immigration into Canada is either of Canadians repatriating themselves or of Scandinavians and Germans, not of native-born Americans. He forgets that the settler after becoming identified with the country becomes jealous of its autonomy. Does he think that Canada is like Panama? We are told that the free trade policy is an open door. It is a policy of an open house and a welcome to strangers, and be hanged to your relations."

Will Return Preference.

Hon. Thomas Brassey, speaking at Rye last night, said that the Canadian manufacturers desired to make the preference given to England more effective to the Motherland over Americans and Germans, but their aim was to supply as much of the Canadian market as they could themselves. Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at Fleetwood last night, said there was no doubt that the position of the colonies was "Will the English people put themselves in the position of returning our preference." Cries of "Yes" and loud applause greeted his statement.

Land in Deplorable Condition.

The Home Secretary, speaking at the agricultural meeting last night, dwelt on the deplorable condition of agriculture and said that during the past 55 years the number of laborers employed on land had decreased by two hundred and fifty thousand. He entirely supported the fiscal policy of Mr. Balfour and said: "I hope the result of further dealings with the colonies will enable us to go further than the Government proposes to do at present."

Miners Favor Fiscal Reform.

An interesting indication of the feeling among miners towards Chamberlain's proposals comes from the Belshill district, where the miners by a unanimous vote have given Chamberlain's fiscal policy their endorsement.

The loss on the all-British cable for the current year is estimated at £92,000. The deficiency is apportioned as follows: To the United Kingdom and Canada, £28,000 each; to Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland and New Zealand, £11,000 each. The expenditure to March is estimated at £120,000 and the revenue from the three months' working to that date £18,310.

To the Indian Side.

London, Nov. 11.—(C.A.P.)—The Times, commenting on the Churchill meeting to-night, says: "The Free Food League has allowed itself to be captured by the Free Trade Union, and the meeting is practically a Liberal demonstration against the Unionist Government. It is probably dawning upon Chamberlain's opponents that the attempt to show by individual utterances here and there that the colonies do not want preferential treatment will not be sufficient to blind the public to the fact that three colonial conferences have declared that such treatment is the only thing that really will consolidate the Empire." The Times goes on to advise Mr. Chamberlain to take an early opportunity to develop his proposals on their Indian side.

Parrots as Campaigners.

London, Nov. 11.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Express is offering $125 to the owner of the first parrot that is able to speak distinctly the words, "Your food will cost you more." Phonographs or gramaphones can be used to teach the birds. When trained they are to be brought to the office, but on notification, a representative of the paper will be sent to inspect them.

Roxburghe and Goelet.

New York, Nov. 11.—The marriage of Miss May Goelet, only daughter of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, and one of the richest of American heiresses, to Henry John Innes-Ker, eighth Duke of Roxburghe, was solemnized yesterday at St. Thomas' Church in this city. A company of 250 guests witnessed the ceremony.

To Be No Strike.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—A semi-official statement from the C.P.R. is to the effect that a settlement will be made with their engineers. The men's demands will not be met in full, but a basis of settlement is practically arranged and all danger of a strike is over. A settlement is expected on Thursday.

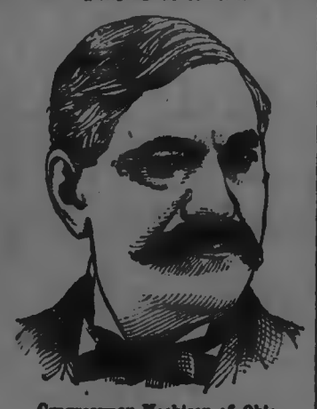
CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

The Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman—Congressman Meekison Gives Pe-ru-na a High Endorsement.



Congressman Meekison of Ohio.

Hon. David Meekison is well known not only in his own State, but throughout America. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue. He writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1903.

RELATIONS OF PETERBORO' AND THE FRONTIER TOWNS TO RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Globe yesterday contained an editorial article dealing with the question of securing a competing railway connection for the towns on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway east of Toronto. The article reads:

The towns along the main lins of the Grand Trunk from Toronto to Belleville are agitating for additional railway connections, either by the Canadian Pacific or a proposed electric line. This brings to mind a feature of Canadian railway management that has always seemed strange and unwise to the public. It is reasonable to presume that the railway managers know their own business from the standpoint of their own greatest revenue and profit, and newspapers, at least, should sympathize with them in the freedom with which they are advised as to how their affairs should be conducted. But it does seem most unwise, from a railway point of view, for either of the big systems to make a competitive business impossible except there is competitive connection. Where a town or city is served by only one railway it would seem the part of wisdom for the company to do everything possible to build up its trade and industry. Not only would the trade thus built up be confined exclusively to the railway system encouraging it, but the policy of liberality would prevent any agitation for additional connections. But that is a line of policy that both our great railway systems absolutely refuse to adopt. Where either has the trade exclusively to itself it adopts a policy of pinching and squeezing that makes the successful establishment of competitive industries virtually impossible. And it is only when a competitive line comes in and the business has to be divided that a town or city is accorded prompt service and reasonable rates.

Railway competition has so often proved illusionary, owing to the working agreements established by competing lines, that the public do not hope for any extensive reductions in rates from its influence alone. But it makes sufficient difference in punctuality, and in rates, to determine the location of industries in favour of competitive points. A company having the monopoly of the trade of any town or city, can afford, on the same margin of profit, to give a better and cheaper service than where the trade is divided by competition. But to do so is, for some strange and unaccountable reason, a policy utterly foreign to the established usages in Canadian railway management. Each railway gives rates and services that build up the competing points and crush out enterprise in every town and city where it has a monopoly.

This agitation by the local newspapers along the main line of the Grand Trunk for an additional railway connection, is a direct result of the established policy. They see an adjacent interior town chosen by the promoters of many extensive industries, its main advantage being the better railway service given at competitive points. By equally favourable treatment the Grand Trunk could build up similar industrial centres where it enjoys a monopoly of the trade, but that would be at variance with railway practice. The Canadian Pacific is equally determined to prevent the development of enterprise where it has exclusive control. It is a serious misfortune for a merchant or a manufacturer to have a large quantity of goods stranded where there is but a single line of railway. He knows he will be taxed to the limit of the freight agent's conscience unless he is sufficiently clever to conceal his predicament, and get quotations, based on competitive points. Once caught, he takes care ever afterwards to avoid all towns dependent on only one railway system. If our railway companies would adopt a more wisely selfish policy in this respect, it would increase their profits and save Canadian people from the burden of sustaining many unnecessary lines.

The above moderate article emphasises two or three points. The first is the extreme improbability of the Canadian Pacific Railway expending a couple of million dollars to build a new line, which would be the figure for 100 miles of railway at $20,000 per mile, construction and equipment. And for what? To secure a share of trade which at the best will be far less than their line at its present location enjoys. Judged by the customs revenue, the trade of Peterborough is nearly 60 per cent. greater than the combined trade of all the half dozen or more important towns the new line would reach. For the year ending June 30th, 1902, the combined revenue of Campbellford, Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby was in round numbers $94,000, and that of Peterborough $147,000. Then there would be a fight still for the trade of these towns as there is in Peterborough under existing conditions. Another point emphasized is that Peterborough as an industrial centre, has the traffic possibility now, a possibility due largely to her excellent railway connections, east, west, north, south and south-east and north-west. Besides we have the advantage of great water powers which gives possibility and promise of continued industrial expansion, such as none of the towns concerned can hope for. Unless there is some reason for a change of route, which does not appear on the surface, it is extremely improbable that any action will be taken in that direction. One would think that the Board of Trade would have taken the matter up at their recent meeting. Even if the discussion of the subject by the Board developed the fact that no particular action was necessary to checkmate the move of the frontier towns, yet the fact would have been brought out, emphasized and spread abroad, that Peterborough's pre'eminent industrial position and posibilities, due to cheap and abundant power, and her almost unequalled traffic facilities made her an exceptionally advantageous objective point, for those industries seeking the best location. It seems that the subject in question would have been a much more pertinent and timely one for the Board to deal with and much more within the powers of the Board to effectively influence than a question like Imperial Preference, which will be decided by more important bodies than local Boards of Trade.

OUR IRON INDUSTRY.

Hamilton Times.

What is wrong with Canadain iron and steel industry?

That is the question that is raised by the Dolorous Mr. Drummond's dismal wail that the industry is in danger, and that trouble will overtake it if the Government does not raise higher the tariff wall to guard it from competition from without.

He speaks in an aggrieved tone, and gives the impression that he thinks the Government has not been regardful of the industry. He complains that the duty on pig iron is only $2.50 a ton. That, with the freight added, is a good deal. But why did he ignore the bounties paid?

The people are taxed to pay Mr. Drummond and his fellows $3 a ton on pig iron; $3 a ton on puddled bars made from the same; $6 a ton on wire rods; $3 a ton on beams, joists, angles, etc., and $3 a ton on rolled plates. These bounties are paid them cash in hand for making their own iron, and they have been drawing this cash and selling part of the iron and steel produced to the United States!

Why did not Mr. Drummond mention the vast sums thus given to enrich the iron men?

And then there is a provision that whenever Canadians are ready to produce steel rails there shall be imposed a duty of $7 a ton.

Figure that up. There's a bounty of $3 on the pig iron, $3 on the steel—a bonus in cash of $6 a ton. Then there's a duty of $2.50 a ton on pig iron and a duty of $7 a ton to take effect to keep out foreign rails, and enable the bounty-fed producers to charge that much more for their product than the people could buy the rails for abroad. Here is an advantage of practically $13 a ton, plus, freight charges, provided for. Schwab says the Trust's rails are produced at less than $12 a ton! How much more does the modest Mr. Drummond ask of Canadians?

Of course the Sydney and Sault Ste. Marie works were the victims of blundering, if not criminal, financing, and stock buyers were unmercifully fleeced. That evil was not due to lack of higher tariff taxes. A 400 per cent. duty could not make a business man a genius, or lend respectability to crookedness. But the reorganization of these concerns may put them in a position to begin on business principles. We shall see.

There have been whispers to the effect that the Canadian ores so far tested, have been unsuitable for certain uses, unless mixed with foreign ores; that we have some scientific problems to solve before we can realize on our stores of iron. If that be the case we should have a frank declaration of the fact. It would pay the Government to spend a large sum of money to solve such a problem; and it would have popular support in making the effort to do so. If the difficulty is of this kind no tariff will obviate it, and the sooner we cease to burden the people with duties and bounties, inducing them to make unprofitable investments, and set about the solution of the real problem, the sooner the industry will boom.

What is wrong with the iron industry? And why didn't it's spokesman, Mr. Drummond, mention the bounties?

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Little moved out to their new residence in Lakefield last week.

Mr. Henry Dodds, who has recently returned from the North-west, is now in the employ of Mr. D. Little.

Mr. Jordan Crowe, formerly of this place, but who is now stationed at Apsley, was in the neighbourhood last week.

Mr. J. Darling has accepted the contract of conveying a number of the young people to and from South Dummer, on Monday evening, the 16th inst., where they purpose debating with the Literary Society on the subject, "Resolved that Man has more Influence than Woman."

Mr. Geo. Spense, of Toronto, spent a few days in this vicinity last week hunting deer and birds, but on his return reported a scarcity of game.

A number of the young ladies of the neighbourhood gathered at the home of Mr. L. Payne on Wednesday afternoon last, rendering their skilful services toward manufacturing a beautiful quilt, which will certainly be of use this inclement weather.

Mr. D. Madill, who is carrying on an extensive business of grain chopping in connection with his shingle mill, will very soon be obliged to employ another staff of men and run night and day in order to supply the great demand of his many customers, who are flocking to the village day after day.

The Hall's Glen Literary Society had their first debate in the Orange hall on Friday evening. There was a large attendance and all listened to the debate with interest, the subject of which was, "Resolved—That a cross, clean woman is preferable to a dirty, good natured woman." Both leaders handled their respective sides ably. Mr. D. Madill championed the affirmative, and Mr. A. Nelson the negative. After the conclusion of the debate the judges, Messrs. S. Crowe, F. S. Payne and J. Moore, after giving the evidence due consideration, decided in favour of the affirmative.

LAKEHURST.

(From our own Correspondent.)

At a meeting held in the Methodist church on Monday evening it was decided to hold a Christmas tree and concert during Christmas week. The following committee was appointed to make all necessary arrangements: Dr. Metzler, Mrs. Deck, and the Misses Shearer, Shaw, Coons and Simpson.

Mr. Harry Coons and Mr. Dick Fawcett, went into Deer Bay last Friday evening to see the boys who were hunting there. They report that three deer had been shot.

Miss Maggie Weir returned from Otonabee on Saturday.

Mr. Will Anderson of Keene, was in the settlement last week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Midland, are visiting at Mrs. Elliott's.

Mrs. W. J. Northey is steadily improving in health. We hope to see her around again soon.

Mr. Archie Johnston has been over in Wollam for the last few days.

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

One night recently a party of young ladies and gentlemen drove up to Norwood.

Dr. J. McLean, former dentist of this town, now of Bancroft, spent a couple of days in the village last week.

One day the early part of last week Mr. Wm. Vance, yard foreman for the C.P.R., at Havelock, while trying to put the brake on a car, was badly shaken up from falling to the ground from the brake mast. He has not started work as yet, but we hope to see him in the same old place in a few days.

Mr. Kenneth Cline, C.P.R. stores, of Toronto Junction, was in town Monday for a few hours.

On the night of Oct. 6th Mr. Steve Clark, a foreman residing a couple of miles east of town had his house burned to the ground; hardly anything was saved.

One of Norwood's charming daughters, Miss Edna Knapp, is spending a few days with her uncle, Mr. Job Coones.

On Tuesday Mr. Hugh Drynan, the originator of the first local paper, The Eclipse, was in town for a few hours renewing old acquaintances.

Excitement is running high in town in regard to the Cordova Gold Mine suspending operations. No person seems to know the cause, but it is claimed that it cannot be from want of gold, as there is enough in the vein to last fifty years more. It is not likely that such a valuable plant will be shut down for long; but if it is it will make things very blue for the people at Cordova, who have put money into real estate and have built homes there. By the amount of new machinery that has been going in there lately, it was the last thing to be expected.

At the meeting of the Havelock council on Monday evening considerable discussion took place on the matter of how many lights the town would need. First the council did not want to give the price asked by the company, and then some of the councillors wanted 10 arc lights and others 9.

Mr. L. L. Ross, bridge and building inspector for the C.P.R., was in town on Tuesday.

A few of the deer hunters have returned, but it seems that the deer have been left in the woods.

COTTESLOE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The next meeting of the C. L. S. at Cottesloe, will be held on Monday, the 16th inst. There will be a debate — "Resolved—That Man has more Influence than Woman." The affirmative will be taken by Messrs A. Carveth, Dave Madill, A. Nelson of North Dummer; negative, Misses T. C. Robson and E. M. Dewart and Mr. Dave Kidd. The debate should prove interesting. Good music will be provided.

In the Estate of Edward Phelan, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, Chap. 129, Section 38, that all creditors and others having claims against the Estate of Edward Phelan, late of the Town of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough, gentleman, who died on or about the 21st day of September, 1903, are hereby required on or about the 1st day of December 1903 to deliver or send by post prepaid to Thomas Fortye, Peterborough, Ontario, one of the executors of the estate of the deceased, a statement in writing of their names and addresses, full particulars of their claims and a statement of the security, if any, held by them.

And take notice that after the said first day of December, 1903, the executors of the said estate will proceed to distribute the assets of said deceased amongst the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given as above required, and the executors will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claim notice shall not have been received at the time of such distribution.

E. B. EDWARDS,
Solicitor for Rev. Charles Joseph Phelan and Thomas Fortye, Executors.

Dated at Peterborough, the 3rd day of November, 1903.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF THE PETERBOROUGH PEAT COMPANY, LIMITED, INSOLVENT.

Notice is hereby given that the Peterborough Peat Company, Limited, having its head office at the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, and having its works situated in the Township of Eldon, in the County of Victoria, and carrying on business as Peat Manufacturers, has made an assignment under R. S. O. 1897, Chapter 147, and amending acts, of all its estate, credits and effects to William J. Thompson, of the Town of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough, Insurance Agent, for the general benefit of its creditors.

A meeting of its creditors will be held at the office of Davis, Thompson Company, Limited, 433 George street, in the Town of Peterborough in the said County of Peterborough, on Wednesday the fourth day of November, 1903, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, to receive a statement of the affairs, to appoint inspectors and to fix their remuneration and for the ordering of the affairs of the estate generally.

Creditors are requested to fyle their claims with R. R. Hall, Peterborough, Ontario, solicitor for the Assignee, with proofs and particulars thereof, required by said acts, on or before the day of such meeting.

And notice if further given that after the fourth day of December, 1903, the Assignee will proceed to distribute the assets of the Debtor amongst the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given, and that he will not be liable for the assets, or any part thereof so distributed, to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice.

Dated at Peterborough, this twenty-seventh day of October, A. D., 1903.

WILLIAM J. THOMPSON,
Assignee, Peterborough.

R. R. HALL,
Solicitor for Assignee.

STEAMER IN FLAMES

Str. Atlantic Burns Up in Teeth of a Heavy Gale.

CARGO OF COAL OIL AND HAY

Fire Broke Out Near Red Rock While the Steamer Was on Special Trip From Collingwood to Byng Inlet—The Atlantic Sank in Sixty Feet of Water—Crew and Passengers Saved.

Collingwood, Nov. 11.—Northern Navigation Company's steamer Atlantic was burned yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, inside Red Rock, on Georgian Bay, while bound for Byng Inlet. The passengers and crew were all saved, and are now at Parry Sound. The steamer was fully insured.

Enveloped in Flames.

Parry Sound, Nov. 11.—The steamer Atlantic of the Northern Navigation Company was entirely destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The Atlantic was on a special trip from Collingwood to Byng Inlet with a large cargo of merchandise, including a hundred barrels of coal oil and a quantity of hay. A heavy gale was blowing. The vessel was taken in on the Parry Sound channel to escape the severity of the storm. When about 14 miles from this port the fire broke out, and in a few minutes the steamer was enveloped in flames. The passengers and crew, who had all taken the boats, arrived safely here this morning.

Value of Boat $32,000.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Thos. Long, president of the Northern Navigation Company, said that he had received only a short telegram from the captain, stating the ship was burnt and had gone down in 60 feet of water. The boilers were inspected in the spring, so it could hardly have been from them the fire came. The value of the boat was about $32,000 and was insured heavily. The cargo was a mixed one consigned to the ports on the north shore of Lake Huron and Manitoulin. These, he thought, the company was not responsible for, claiming that they were a public conveyance and not taking the risk appertaining to fire. It would be the duty of those to whom the goods were consigned to see that they were insured against fire. The steamer Midland will be taken off the trip running to French River and Byng Inlet for the rest of the season to supply the place left vacant by the destruction of the Atlantic.

ATTACK ON OUR GIRLS.

Correspondent of a London Paper Does Not Flatter Them.

London, Nov. 11.—(C.A.P.)—An Englishwoman in Canada writes to The Leader, caustically commenting on the taste and appearance of Canadian women. She says that no English girl who lets her lover go to Canada to make a home for her need fear that he will fall a victim to the charms of the Canadian girls of Ottawa, Toronto or Montreal, the typical face being hard-featured, sallow and frequently muddy-complexioned, no doubt as a result of overheated rooms, pastry and candy. One seldom sees the pink white skin which marks the English girl. Canadian girls have long thick hair dressed in the Gibson girl fashion. The girls are well set up and neat, but have no idea of softening the hard features by a less hard style of dress. The London shop girl would look perfectly elegant in Toronto or Montreal. The girl when over 30 does not realize that to wear her hair dragged up behind a tight front, surmounted by a hard-looking felt hat, only serves to intensify her plainness. Royal blue or pure white, she calls the two colors least in accord with the Canadian girl's complexion.

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG

Prevents Many People From Trying a Good Medicine.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, bydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ but they, cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh, and appetite, and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

Lackie Fever Stricken.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—With respect to Major Lackie, the Canadian officer mauled by a leopard in Somaliland, a message from Lord Strathcona says that the surgeon in attendance reports he has fever.

2,000 More Men Laid Off.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Two thousand men have been laid off by the Illinois Steel Works at South Chicago.

DEATH FROM OPIUM.

Thomas Dognes Took an Overdose and Slept Away.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Dognes, living at 40 Czar street, thought that there was something amiss with her husband, Thomas. She went to the dining-room and discovered him there asleep, with his pipe and a bottle of medicine on the table near. She tried to wake him up, but found it impossible, and called the ambulance and had him taken to Grace Hospital, where he died at 12.45 o'clock this morning. While he was in the hospital the doctors found out that he was suffering from opium poisoning.

He was 48 years of age, and until three weeks ago was an inspector in the York County Loan Co. For the last few days he has not been feeling well, and had been taking medicine to cure him, and it is thought that he took an overdose. He leaves a wife and five small children.

Coroner Johnston issued an order for an inquest at 8 o'clock to-night.

THE DEAD ARE TWO.

Man Persisted in Smoking in Theatre and Shooting Followed.

Wallace, Idaho, Nov. 11.—Two persons were killed and two wounded in a shooting affray at the entrance of the Wallace Opera House Monday night. The shooting occurred just as the theatre-goers were leaving the theatre. The dead are: Dr. W. F. Fims, shot through the head, and Wm. Cuff, miner, shot three times, and the wounded, Chief of Police McGovern, shot through right hand; Opera House Policeman Rose, shot in leg. The trouble arose over Cuff insisting on smoking a cigar in the gallery. Rose took the cigar away after a struggle. Cuff waited until the performance was over, and as Rose came out began firing, and the fusilade became general, resulting in Cuff's death from policemen's bullets.

DEATH DUE TO HIS RACE.

Cousin of Dead Student Makes an Astounding Charge.

New York, Nov. 11.—"I am of opinion that my cousin, Martin Loew, was murdered in Baltimore by members of the fraternal order to which he belonged, and of which he was the only Hebrew member. I hold this opinion in spite of the foolish opinion of the coroner's jury. I believe and shall try to prove his death due to the circumstance that he was a Jew." This statement was made last night in his office by Dr. Leopold Hirshmann of this city.

"The boy was hazed to death because he was a Hebrew. He was put on ice and made to leap blindfold down a precipice and subjected to all sorts of ill-treatment."

Rowe Must Face Trial.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Anthony Stanley Rowe, charged with defrauding the Great Fingal Consolidated Mining Company out of half a million of dollars, and arrested here some weeks ago, has been ordered back to England to stand trial. Detective Inspector Sager of the London, Police, will start for England to-day, it is expected with his prisoner. Rowe has put up a hard fight against being sent back for trial. When the decision was given yesterday he was visibly affected, although he refrained from making any statements of any kind—a course he has pursued ever since arrested. Justice Britton declared, when delivering judgment that a clear prima facie case of theft had been established.

Refused to Receive Them.

Vienna, Nov. 11.—It is announced in a despatch received here from Belgrade, Servia, that the British Charge d'Affaires there, Monday refused to receive the congratulations of the Servian Government on the birthday of King Edward. This refusal was in accordance with his instructions not to maintain diplomatic relations with King Peter's Government. The affair has caused some sensational comment.

Used His Knife.

Lindsay, Nov. 11.—Charles Bradshaw, head cook at the Cross Creeks Camp, on the line of the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Pontypool R. R., used his knife on Thomas Mullin, a fellow-employe. Mullin is badly wounded. The quarrel originated over the payment of a livery bill.

Damages of $6,000 Given.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Justice Pagnuelo rendered judgment yesterday in the action for $15,000 damages brought by Mrs. Isidore Drouin against the Mississippi and Dominion Steamship Company for the death of her husband. Judgment was given for plaintiff for $6,000.

Tommy Atkins Was Busy.

Aden, Arabia, Nov. 11.—Eight British infantrymen and one Sepoy were wounded in the engagement with a tribe which recently took place in the Aden Hinterland. The tribe's loss was heavy, the killed including the chief's son.

Descendants of Laura Secord.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—At a meeting of the Ontario Cabinet yesterday a vote of $300 was passed to the granddaughters of Laura Secord, the heroine of Beaverdams. These descendants of Mrs. Secord are in indigent circumstances.

Hottentots Moving.

Kenhardt, Cape Colony, Nov. 11.—Hottentot rebels numbering about 1,500 men are approaching the border. Police have been despatched to the scene. The volunteers have been called out and severe fighting is expected.

Found Dead

Listowel, Nov. 11.—William McMillan, a well-to-do farmer, was found dead in a corn field yesterday.

Fred Cook Arrested.

Everybody read recently in the Examiner that Fred Cook was arrested as a vagrant and got a warning to leave town forthwith. It was not Fred Cook the sign painter, as he is always too busy attending to his own line of business, painting signs. When you want a sign to sell your goods ring up the long distance 'phone 119 and get the latest touches in business bringers.

GROWING LENGTHWISE

You want the children to grow, but not all lengthwise. When they start that way Scott's Emulsion will help them to grow right—with due plumpness and outward proportion, and with inward vigor and good spirits.

The Emulsion increases digestive power and strengthens the vital organs to get the best and make the most out of all the other food. It gives a kind of help that every growing child ought to have.

AN ODD RAILWAY WRECK

Barley Car Jumps Up on Engine and Stands on End.

Milton, Nov. 10.—At 12.20 yesterday afternoon a smash up took place here at the junction of the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. tracks. A lengthy G.T.R. freight train, unable to operate the brakes in time, crushed into a car of oil being shunted by a G. T.R. freight engine. The end of the car was knocked in and the oil ran over everything in sight. The locomotive of the heavy freight was badly demolished. The tender was thrown up beside the freight shed, but the engine ran down the track over the C.P.R. junction. A car of barley jumped up in the air and landed on top of the ruined engine, end up. A wrecking train from Hamilton made the way clear. A new wrecking derrick was used for the first time with success.

ASKED TO LINE UP.

But Senator Morgan Repells the Advances of a Frenchman.

Washington, Nov. 10.—M. Philipp Bunau-Varilla, the envoy of the new Republic of Panama, yesterday sent a letter to United States Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama.

Senator Morgan admitted that he had received a letter from M. Bunau-Varilla, and said: "The letter was signed by Mr. Varilla, who professed to be the minister plenipotentiary of the Republic of Panama. The writer made me a flattering proposal to get in line by supporting the new Republic, but when I take advice, it will come from American citizens and not from a Frenchman, who is interested in the Panama Canal."

The King's Birthday.

London, Nov. 10.—King Edward celebrated his birthday yesterday at Sandringham, where there was the usual dinner to the tenants of the estate at which the King, the Queen and other members of the royal family handed round the dessert.

Outside the customary salutes fired at the naval and military stations, there was little sign of His Majesty's birthday being observed.

Prior to the banquet the Lord and Lady Mayoress held a reception.

Miners' Strike Spreads.

Denver, Col., Nov. 10.—Information received from the coal fields of Colorado yesterday indicates that the strike of coal miners will be more extended than anticipated. It is reported that the order of the Executive Committee of the United Mine Workers of America, declaring a strike in District 15 for yesterday, has been obeyed in Colorado almost to a man. Unusual precautions have been taken by the sheriff of Las Animas County, in Southern Colorado, where it is feared trouble may break out at any time.

A Wonderful Book.

As a work for family reference there was probably never compiled a more useful book than Dr. Chase's Receipt Book. Besides containing the symptoms of disease, their cause and cure and the great prescriptions gathered together during a half century of medical practice, t his book is replete with receipts for cooking, and has a complete department devoted to the care of farm stock, bees, domestic animals, etc. For full particulars write Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

After Panama, the Canal.

Washington, Nov. 10.—At the caucus of Republican Senators to-day, a resolution will be offered declaring that the Committee on Inter-Oceanic Canals should be a majority committee, and that the chairman should be a Republican. It is likely to be adopted, in which case a Republican Senator will succeed Senator Morgan Probably Senator Hanna will be named.

Saved It From Starving.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Mary Riehl, a young white married woman of McAdoo, Schuylkill County, is accused of killing her infant to keep it from starvation. Mrs. Riehl admitted that she had strangled the child. The mother told the coroner that she had killed her babe to keep it from starving to death.

Killing the President.

Washington, Nov. 10.—A bill prescribing the death penalty for the crime of killing the President of the United States, the Vice-President of the United States, ambassadors, or ministers of the foreign countries accredited to the United States, was introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. Littlefield (Maine.)

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of its valves and the rhythm of its throb. If the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requires just such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorer.

MINES REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN CLOSED.

Rumour Says Work at Cordova has Been Suspended.

No Official Confirmation can be Obtained — New Machinery Recently Installed.

A report to the effect that work in the Cordova Gold Mines, has been suspended, has been received here. No official confirmation of this report, however, can be obtained by the Examiner, and in the absence of such confirmation, of course, only rumour can be quoted. It is said that on Monday, without any apparent cause, work was ordered to be stopped. This suspension, reluctantly presuming the rumour to be true, is, it is believed, but temporary, because it is stated that the mine has been yielding ore in large quantities, and of excellent quality. Miners of years of practical experience, say that there is not the slightest danger of the ore "pinching" out, and the fact that considerable new machinery has been shipped to the mine quite recently, would indicate that the shut-down was not premeditated or that it is intended to be but a temporary one.

There are about 250 men employed around these mines, and a permanent suspension of work will mean much hardship to them, and a considerable loss to the owners of real estate there.

A number of the officials have left for Montreal and it is possible on their return a resumption of work will be made. At any rate, it is hard to believe that this shut-down, in the face of the acknowledged richness of the mine, and the installation of the new machinery, will be permanent.

The Examiner is to be understood as but giving the above rumour for what it is worth, and hopes, with all who have an interest in the development of this and every other industry, that no confirmation will be forthcoming.

THE FIFTY-SEVENTH BAND

At Work Now on a Great Musical Programme.

The Fifty-seventh Band has under rehearsal music for a concert to be entitled a "Night with Verdi," to be composed of the most popular and beautiful excerpt from the several Operas of this, one of the greatest, masters in music. Last night the band had a good rehearsal, and though the music is very difficult, the members of the band are entering very enthusiastically into practice and naturally so, for there is nothing so gratifying to the real musician as conquering musical difficulties, which in the works of a great composer have infinite depths of musical worth, which yields itself only to intimate study and diligent practices. The beauties of Verdi as they will be brought out by the band will afford a most delightful evening of enjoyment. The date of the concert is not yet fixed, but will be learned soon. In the meantime the popular Friday evening concerts will be discontinued. No musical organization in the world is able to present a programme of new music every week, and in justice to any at all complicated music no organization could satisfactorily present one new number a week. Good music in execution means hard work in preparation.

OBITUARY.

Sad Death of Mabel Guerin Aged Six Years and Five Months.

The sad death of little Mabel Guerin, the youngest daughter of Mr. Michael Guerin, occurred about ten o'clock this morning at the family residence, Stewart street, Ashburnham, at the youthful age of 6 years and 5 months, after an illness of only three weeks in duration. The deceased was the youngest of a family of six, and was a very bright child.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

WHERE ARE THE TOWN'S SPRINKLING WAGONS?

A Suggestion That Their Services are Required on the Streets.

Apparently the civic authorities have become oblivious to the fact that "although the summer is past, and the harvest ended," the dust still remains, and during the past week, unfortunate pedestrians who have had occasion to be upon the streets have had to suffer from the annoying effects of clouds of dust blowing into eyes, mouth and clothing, and making one feel very uncomfortable generally, and although it is past the season when sprinkling wagons are usually employed, the condition of the town streets at the present time would certainly warrant their re-appearance. At any rate, citizens have asked the Examiner to raise a "dust" about this matter, and call the attention of the department of the town council in whose charge the matter lies.

FOR AN IMPROVED RIVER SERVICE.

New Scow Being Constructed and Passenger Steamer Refitted.

When the navigation season of 1904 opens, the Calcutt line of steamers will be better equipped than in any previous year to handle the increasing business that this popular line is receiving. The wharf at Ashburnham at the present time, presents a very busy appearance, and has been converted into an impromptu shipyard. Mr. J. W. Hickey, Peterborough's shipbuilder, with a staff of men, is at work on the construction of a new deck scow, 75 x 15 feet, with five feet depth, for the use of the Calcutt Company. The scow is being constructed of tamarac and oak, and when completed will be a valuable addition to the equipment of the company. The launching will not take place until next season, when the scow will be put in the water ready for use.

The passenger steamer, "City of Peterborough, is in dry dock, also, and during the winter will be completely overhauled and fitted up. Mr. Hickey says that he found the hull in first class condition; the policy of the company, however, is to make a thorough examination of the crafts comprising their fleet every year, and during the winter considerable work will be put on the "City," to, if possible, make her even better equipped to handle the traffic than she has been in former years. The interior fittings will be given considerable attention, and a coat of paint throughout will be given.

All this work will be done by Mr. Hickey, assisted by his two sons, and is but one of the contracts held by these shipbuilders to be taken up this winter.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Ernest Mann, to Operate Wood Working Establishment.

An industrial establishment which has been closed for some time, will open again in a short time under new management. Mr. Ernest H. Mann has purchased the Baptie Planing Mill on Dublin street, which has for some little time been idle, and as soon as necessary new machinery can be installed, will operate a factory, making window sashes, doors, cheese boxes, and kindred commodities.

Mr. Mann is at present engaged in the work of equipping this mill, and will commence operations as soon as the necessary machinery has been placed.

POPULAR CITIZEN HAS PASSED AWAY.

Death of Mr. George Buchan This Morning—The Funeral Arrangements.

The news of the death of Mr. George Buchan, which occurred about 8 o'clock this morning, will be read with sincere grief by all with whom he was personally acquainted. After having been confined to his bed for the past six weeks, the deceased peacefully passed away, leaving behind to mourn his loss a wife and one daughter. The late Mr. Buchan was for many years connected with the Review staff in the capacity of foreman of the press room. His fidelity in every path of life has been remembered by the union of which he was an active member, for his funeral, which will take place on Friday afternoon from his late residence, the Grand Central Block, to the Little Lake Cemetery, will be under the auspices of the Peterborough Typographical Union, No 248.

ABUNDANT WATER IN THE OTONABEE RIVER

If it Were Conserved, is the Opinion of Experts.

43,000 Cubic Feet per Minute Being Wasted at Dickson Dam—200 Extra Horse Power may be Generated.

The statement was made at the meeting of the Board of Trade, held recently, that there was water going to waste down the Otonabee River, because of the fact that many of the dams were out of repair, and would not hold the water. The Examiner has instituted inquiries to ascertain the extent to which this statement is true, and the result of these inquiries proves it to be well founded. From no less eminent an authority than Mr. Homer O. Fiske, the electrical engineer of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., it is learned that scientific investigations have disclosed the fact that 43,000 cubic feet of water per minute are being wasted at the old Dickson dam. In other words 43,000 cubic feet per minute are flowing through the dam from which no benefit is received or power derived. This amount of water, with a 13-foot head, such as may be obtained at this point ordinarily, will produce 200 horse power, so that were all the water made use of, 200 additional horse power could be generated at this dam. It is expected that in a few days the stop logs will be placed in the new dam, when this extra amount of power will be generated.

It is stated on good authority that the condition of this dam is no worse than that of the majority of dams on the upper waters, and, if such is the case, and the other dams leak in proportion to this, it is quite reasonable to suppose that were the waters conserved, as a repair of these dams would effect, the extra quantity of water available for power and navigation purposes, would equal at least half of the normal flow of the river.

LOCAL BOARD OF TRADE COMMENDED

For Enterprise in Grappling With Live Questions.

The Peterborough Board of Trade is coming in for considerable praise lately. The Canadian Statesman, in its latest issue says: "Boards of Trade should be very helpful and valuable organizations in every city and town, and should meet regularly, monthly or oftener. We see by the Examiner that Peterborough has a real active Board, that tackled such problems last Tuesday night as Chamberlain's fiscal policy, the Alaska boundary award, Preferential Tariff, and the "Conservation of the Waters forming the Trent Valley Canal System." Pretty heavy programme, eh? Able speeches were made and numerous resolutions adopted. Here is a lesson for the Bowmanville Board of Trade."

Business Meeting and Election of Officers on November 26th.

The 22nd annual business meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held on Thursday evening, November 26th, at 8 o'clock.

The following constitute the Nominating Committee: Messrs. J. H. Connal, J. W. Bennet, H. C. Stabler, R. J. P. Dormer and R. S. Merrill.

Auditors—Geo. Robertson and R. S. Merrill.

These were decided upon at the Board meeting of the Y.M.C.A. last evening.

Considerable funds are yet needed to close the books for the year with all accounts paid.

The friends of the work are asked to lend their best assistance at this time.

Contributions can be sent to the Treasurer, Mr. R. J. Kidd, or handed into the General Secretary.

A contribution was received yesterday from an old Peterborough boy who is now in Regina.

A PRETTY WEDDING AT ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Miss McCabe Becomes Wife of Mr. W. Wheeler.

An interesting wedding ceremony took place last night at eight o'clock in All Saints' church, when Miss Gertrude Marie McCabe, daughter of the late Ernest McCabe, became the wife of Mr. William Wheeler in the presence of a number of friends of the parties, and invited guests. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. R. P. Watkins, of Toronto.

Miss Alexandria Law was bridesmaid, while Mr. Harold McCabe, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. Miss May Bullen played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the wedding party entered the church. Rev. W. L. Armitage performed the ceremony, after which a delightful wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. McCabe, 25 Division street. Among the handsome array of presents was a beautiful chafing dish and spoon given by the manager and employees of the Canadian Cordage Company. The bride is a member of All Saints' Girls' Guild, and is well known in social circles. The young couple will reside in town

INTERESTING DEBATE AT ST. ANDREW'S GUILD.

The Subject was Well Handled and Decision Given by the Guild—Oyster Supper.

A most interesting debate took place last night at the regular monthly meeting of the St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild, the subject being, "Resolved that a union between the Town of Peterborough and the Village of Ashburnham would be in the interests of the community."

The meeting was begun by the transaction of business, after which the debate commenced, Messrs. R. H. Elliott and C. E. Anderson speaking for the affirmative and Messrs. H. H. Edmison and P. A. Kerr, the negative, the former winning the argument on the vote of the Guild, of which about forty members were present.

Messrs. Elliott and Anderson pointed out the advantageous manufacturing sites offered by the village. And as regarding the estimated increase in the taxes of the villagers, the affirmative speakers ably dealt with the matter, showing that the village will, sooner or later, be forced to spend a large amount of money on municipal improvements, already badly needed.

The negative argument was rather weak, they only trying to dispute the affirmative statements, and not putting up any brilliant, new reasons.

After the finding of the decision the leader of the affirmative thanked the Guild for the decision, hoping that when the vote was taken the ratepayers would give as intelligent a verdict.

At the conclusion of the debate an oyster supper ended the evening.

WORKS NOW LIGHTED BY ELECTRICITY.

New Installment in the Works of the Peter Hamilton Mfg. Co.

In line with the march of progress Messrs. Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, have recently had their works completely equipped with electric lights. The contract was taken by Mr. Cyrille Wilhelmy, whose place of business is on George street, opposite the Opera House. Mr. Wilhelmy, with a staff of linemen, has done a very efficient job, and one that is a credit to himself and his workmen.

In all about 150 lights have been installed in the various departments of the company's works, and the result will be that the operations of the employees will be greatly facilitated. Each that is equipped with separate fuse block and switch, which makes danger from fire very slight. The whole service is controlled by a large triple switch at the main entrance.

The company will shortly instal further electrical equipment.

THE BLACKMAIL STAGE OF GAMEY CONSPIRACY.

One Callaghan Concocts an Extraordinary Story.

EXPLICIT DENIAL BY HON. J. R. STRATTON

And Also Mr. E. F. B. Johnston—They Assert that Callaghan Acted Like a Blackmailer—No Truth in His Affidavit Purporting to Connect These Gentlemen and the Government with the Crossin Piano Company.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, Nov. 11.—In the Mail and Empire and World newspapers of this morning appears under startling scare headlines an alleged affidavit of one W. H. Callaghan, of Toronto, which is to the effect that Mr. Callaghan conducted negotiations through Hon. Mr. Stratton and Mr. E. F. B. Johnston whereby Mr. Gamey's stock in the Crossin Piano Company was purchased and that Mr. Callaghan was to have a salary of $2,000 a year as salesman, and $5,000 stock in the company. The affidavit further states that Callaghan had made repeated applications to Hon. Mr. Stratton for his share of the alleged spoil but could get no satisfaction, and doubtless his desire to get satisfaction, monetary or otherwise, has been met from the reward he may have got for making the affidavit.

Hon. Mr. Stratton having been seen in regard to the matter made the following explicit statement:—

"I have read the alleged declaration of one William Callaghan, which appeared in the Mail and Empire, and the World, this morning, and in regard thereto, I desire to most emphatically and positively deny any connection, either directly or indirectly, in the reorganization of the Crossin Piano Company, or with the purchase of any stock in that company. I authorized no one to obtain for me, or for the Government, or for any person, or company with which I may be in any way connected, any stock or interest in the Crossin Piano Company; nor did I authorize any one to give any money to Mr. Crossin, or any person else, to obtain any information from Mr. Crossin with regard to his knowledge of Mr. Gamey's action, or doings about the Piano Factory, before, during, or since the investigation.

"In both these matters I wish to be understood as denying them IN THE WIDEST AND STRONGEST SENSE

Some time ago Mr. Callaghan brought a letter of introduction to me from L. V. McBrady. I saw him as a matter of courtesy. He spoke of his connection with the Liberal party in the city, and his desire to aid the party in obtaining from Mr. Crossin valuable information as to how the leaves out of the book of the company had disappeared, and as to where the money came from that was alleged to have been paid to Mr. Gamey. He informed me that Mr. Crossin was not pleased with Mr. Gamey's methods, that Mr. Gamey had not brought into the concern the money that he had promised, and that Mr. Crossin desired to be free of any connection with him He said that as soon as Mr. Crossin was able to re-organize his company Mr. Crossin would clear himself of any suspicion that might be in the public mind as to his having destroyed any evidence that was required. Mr. Callaghan pointed out that there was ample evidence as to how the deposit slip had disappeared, and that Mr. Crossin's evidence would show how the books were mutilated, and where the money came from. I said that I WOULD NOT HAVE ANYTHING TO DO with the re-organization of Mr. Crossin's Piano Company, or with Mr. Gamey's piano staff—that I was not in the piano business, and that I did not wish to discuss the matter with him, much less to have any dealings on the subject.

"Mr. Callaghan called yesterday to see me, and from his demeanor and the way he approached me. I judged that he was either endeavouring to extort money, pending a visionary disclosure, or for the purpose of improving the situation by making a statement to upset the declaration made by Mr. Crossin a short time ago, and the statement published this morning confirms my suspicions.

"My private secretary informs me that Mr. Callaghan has been into the office for some days endeavouring to get an appointment to see me, but that

NO APPOINTMENT WAS MADE.

Mr. Callaghan then came into the building about eleven o'clock, of his own accord, and I saw him for a moment before leaving my office at twelve o'clock. He was complaining that Mr. Crossin had not dealt fairly with him I told him that I did not know anything about Mr. Crossin or his business nor did I wish to know anything about it, nor yet did I know who was interested in his business, nor did I care. I sized him up fully and said nothing further to him. He appeared to be in a black-mailing humour and I practically ordered him out of my office. I understand that Mr. Callaghan says that he was a former resident of Peterborough. I have no recollection of his residence there, nor did I know of his existence until this matter arose.

"The importance of the statement made by Mr. Crossin the other day seemed to be fully appreciated by the Gameyites, and anything that they can do to impair the force of that statement will no doubt be done as the whole truth seems to be

LEAKING OUT GRADUALLY.

And I have no doubt that the whole conspiracy will yet be fully disclosed. Upon reading the statement in the press this morning I called up Mr. Johnston in Ottawa by phone and he authorized me to say for him that so far as Mr. Callaghan's statement related to him it was a pure fabrication. He says that Callaghan saw him the other day and endeavoured to obtain one hundred dollars, and he ordered him out of his office and told him that he would not be blackmailed by him or any other man.

"The insinuation that the Government is in any way interested in the piano company, or in the purchase of its stock is absolutely without any foundation, in fact, I suppose, said Mr. Stratton, 'that the mere fact that this man Callaghan was in the building and endeavoured to have a talk with a Minister, is sufficient circumstantial evidence in the eyes of the Gamey party to justify the concoction of any story they desire."

The Toronto World publishes the following statement of Mr. E. F. B. Johnston:

Mr. Johnston said: "The declaration is absolutely false. There is not one word of truth in the charges, and I positively deny knowing anything about the dealings he refers to. Mr. Stratton and myself never discussed this matter in any shape or form. Callaghan approached me on King street one day, but I refused to even speak to him."

Mr. Johnston further stated that in his opinion Callaghan must have been attempting a case of blackmail, and as he had not at any time a very high opinion of him he did not care to have anything to do with him.

RUGBY.

The Canadian Statesman, published at Bowmanville, the editor a thorough-going sport, has the following reference to the Examiner's special Rugby number:—

"Some exceedingly good editorial work is being done of late on The Daily Examiner, Peterborough. In Monday's issue appears a remarkably interesting write-up of football, entitled, "Rugby. In Peterborough," the article filling six columns and containing excellent portraits of the leading officers. The Examiner is decidedly up-to-date in both its news and editorial departments, being easily the best town daily in the Dominion. Peterboroughites have reason to be proud of the daily press of that go-ahead and flourishing backwoods town."

GO ON JOE.

May be sung to the air, "Old Black Joe."

Gone are the days when free trade is any good,
British possessions soon will grow all our food;
Chamberlain will give us good times, I know,
If we trust him, once again, so "Go on, Joe."

Chorus—
Go on Joe, Go on, Joe,
Says our Lady of the Snow;
And all the British empire says,
"Go on, Joe!"

Why should we leave our home markets free to all,
While foreign nations keep up a tariff wall?
Time has made a change since fifty years ago—
Let us trust him once again, so "Go on Joe."

Chorus—"Go on, Joe," etc

All will agree, we are master of the sea,
All will agree that forever so 'twill be;
Things are always changing, so let it be so—
Let us trust him once again, so "Go on Joe."

Chorus—"Go on, Joe," etc.

The Blood is the Life

But the power of the blood is largely lost if the quality of the blood is poor.

Build up the quality of the blood by increasing the number of red corpuscles, make it rich, red and warm, and its power to build new tissue and repair waste will be tremendous.

Ferrol, a perfect emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus, improves the quality of the blood rapidly and effectively—it never fails. Results are not only positive but marvellous, and have been proven by scientific test.

For general debility, loss of weight, impaired digestion, loss of appetite, nervousness, insomnia and kindred troubles, take Ferrol, which enriches the blood and removes the cause of the trouble.

HERBERT SPENCER.

HOW THE GREAT PHILOSOPHER IS SPENDING HIS LAST DAYS.

Mentally Sound, But Physically Weak. He Is Practically a Recluse—His Early Struggles as an Author—Incidents of His Career—Was Once an Adept Billiard Player and Proud of It.

Herbert Spencer, the great English philosopher, who was eighty-three last April and who has been in feeble health for many years, is still sound in mind despite recent reports to the contrary, but he has finished his life work and will probably never write another word intended for the public eye.

The aged philosopher is now practically alone in the world, having not one near relative living. Huxley and Tyndall are gone, nearly all his other old friends except John Morley have passed away, and he is said to feel his isolation keenly. He lives a very lonely life in his retreat at Brighton, England, where from his window he can look upon the sea. The man who acts as his secretary is almost his only companion in the house, and he is spending his old age in hermit-like solitude.

He was once an adept billiard player and was rather proud of his skill, but he no longer handles the cue. On one occasion at the Athenaeum Club the philosopher found his master at billiards in a young man who beat him thoroughly. When his defeat was no longer to be disguised Spencer leaned on his cue and delivered the following speech to his antagonist: "A certain proficiency in this game is possibly a desirable accomplishment, but the extraordinary ability, sir, you have just displayed can only be the fruit of a misspent youth."

HERBERT SPENCER.

Another story is related of Spencer in which he came out second best, his antagonist being a boy, although billiards was not on this occasion the game. Spencer happened to be staying at a country house at which the gentleman who related the incident was also a guest. One morning a youngster, looking out of the window, saw a large flock of crows alighting on the lawn and cried out, "What an awful lot of crows!" upon which the philosopher, in a tone intended to convey a mild reproof, inquiringly said, "Well, my young friend, are crows really so very awful?"

The boy answered quickly, "I did not say 'What a lot of awful crows!' but 'What an awful lot of crows.'"

The philosopher remained silent, and the boy whispered to the other guest, "Had him that time, I think, sir."

For the first twelve years of his literary life every one of Mr. Spencer's books failed to pay for the paper, printing and advertising, and for long after that they failed to pay his living expenses, which were very small. "Social Statics," the earliest of his great books, was sold on commission, and it took fourteen years to dispose of an edition of 750 copies. But the popularity of his writings grew with the passage of his years, and in later life the philosopher remarked:

"Years ago my 'Principles of Psychology' was by no means popular, and instead of calling it 'Cavalre to the General' I used to call it 'Cod Liver Oil to the General,' for I am sure that if ninety-nine people out of every hundred were asked whether they would take a spoonful of cod liver oil or read a chapter of that book they would have preferred the cod liver oil."

Herbert Spencer's life work, "Synthetic Philosophy," was begun in 1860 and only completed in 1896. In the days of his adversity, when he found that his literary work was making him poorer, he called a halt. He discovered that after fifteen years of labor he was behind $6,000. It was impossible to go on at that rate, and the author, who had at that time begun his great "Synthetic Philosophy," which was appearing in quarterly numbers, issued to subscribers a notice of cessation. But just then, when it seemed that the great work of his life must stop, there came to him for the third time in his life a bequest, and the work went on.

Then the scientific method of studying human life began to find willing pupils not only among scientific men, but also among young students at the universities and workingmen, who gave up their evenings to the study of technical or social sciences. Few books of philosophy have enjoyed so wide a popularity as the "Data of Ethics."

Herbert Spencer was the son of a schoolmaster and was educated at home by his father. He never attended college and has always declined degrees from institutions of learning. When they were conferred upon him he ignored them. At the age of seventeen he became a civil engineer and for nine years followed that profession. Then for five years more he acted as sub-editor of The Economist before he turned to the work with which his name will always be identified. Mr. Spencer never married.

CARPENTERS IN INDIA.

They Are Careless About Measurements, Tools and Time.

The chief faults of the Indian carpenter are his neglect of accurate measurement, his carelessness with regard to the efficiency of his tools and his lack of perception of the value of time as a factor in the execution of work. He has also to be taught to occupy his mind with the work in hand and as much as possible to exclude other subjects.

For example, the making of a jack plane involves the choice of the wood, considerations as to size, the angle of the blade and its cutting edge, the wedge and its holding power, the handle and finally the operation of planing. All these operations are capable of very simple explanation, and this exercise provokes an emulation among students while exercising their reasoning powers. No Indian workman buys a plane. He buys the blade and makes the rest, but he rarely makes it well. He buys a saw blade and makes the handle, and, generally speaking, he spends the smallest possible sum on his outfit in spite of the extra labor the economy involves. He must therefore be taught to make as many labor saving tools as possible and to make them well. He has to be taught the use and repair of a grindstone and how to mount it in wood without metal fittings. The hard, tough woods so common in India make this an easy matter. The Indian has yet to be taught that grinding and whetting are two distinct operations, the first removing 99.9 per cent of the metal and the second producing the cutting edge in a few strokes. His saw is in such bad order that he cuts tenons, as a rule, with a mallet and chisel, and his ignorance of gauges renders him unable to make even twenty articles exactly alike. He rarely knows what size of nail or screw to use on a given job. His screw is always too small.

The Young Writer.

No young writer in whom the literary aspiration is a passion need or really will be cowed by the array of mighty and expert antagonists in the arena whose names sound and resound so gloriously from the herald's trumpet in full volume re-enforced by past triumphs. Though a true and becoming modesty may well temper his ambition, it should in no degree suppress his ardent longing. These veterans, young aspirant, are indeed masters, but as such your exemplars. They also had their beginnings, hidden indeed, as used to be the sources of the Nile, "not permitted to be seen small," because they mastered their art before they exhibited as artists.

Thief Cleverness.

A magistrate's clerk has been known to have his tie pin stolen while in court, and one in Birmingham a few years ago lost his coat in the same way, but a more remarkable example perhaps of a thief's cleverness under the very eyes of the police was that of the burglar at Clerkenwell who managed to conceal two diamond rings while the police were searching him and passed one of them to his wife in the cell while the police were looking on. The rings were under his tongue, and one of them passed from his mouth to his wife's when he was kissing her goodby.—London Answers.

A Lasting Lesson.

"Didn't I tell you not to propose to me again?"

"You said something of the kind, but of course it made no impression on me."

"Oh, it didn't! Well, I'll give you a lesson now that you won't forget. You'll never propose to me again."

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to accept you."

His Reason For Refusing to Advance Another Loan.

One day a young man of Russell Sage's acquaintance—in fact, the grandson of an old friend of other days—approached him on the subject of a loan of $10 for two weeks and—got it. He promised faithfully to return the money at a stated hour, and the promise was as faithfully kept. Mr. Sage had very little to say when he gave up the ten and quite as little when he got it back.

A week or ten days later the young man came to see him again and this time asked him for $100, making all sorts of representations of what he would do with it. Mr. Sage refused to ante. The young man was surprised, not to say pained.

"Why," he exclaimed, "you know I'll pay it all right. Didn't I say I'd have that ten for you on Monday, and wasn't I there to the minute with it?"

Mr. Sage beamed softly on the grandson of his old friend.

"My boy," he said, with no trace of unkindness in his tone, "you disappointed me once, and I don't want you to do it again."

"I beg your pardon, I did not," argued the youth. "I said I would pay you back, and I did."

"Yes, my boy," purred Mr. Sage, "you paid back the ten, and I never expected you would. Now, if I let you have a hundred I should expect you to pay it back, and you wouldn't. One disappointment at my time of life is enough, my boy. Good morning."

A Peruvian Superstition.

The girls of the Peruvian highlands believe as firmly as any heroine of Theocritus that a person possessing a lock of another person's hair can will pain, disease and even death to the owner of the hair, and thus when maidens give their betrothed lovers the customary plaited tress it is virtually their life and all their power of suffering that they give into those trusted hands.

If the man should prove unfaithful and disease descend upon the unhappy woman, she is not, however, utterly lost. The experienced matrons of her village have means to transfer the complaint to a tree, to an animal or to cast it into running water. The patient must rise in the early dawn, touch a certain plant in a certain manner, saying, "May thou wither and I flourish again," or bind her complaint to a tree in a given fashion, taking care never to pass again before that tree lest the disease, recognising its former possession, return to her again.

Trees In Japan Sacred to the Gods.

Near every temple in Japan are certain trees that are supposed to be peculiarly loved by the gods and to be sacred to them. Any one injuring or causing to be injured one of them will bring down the wrath of the kami or god whose particular property it is. If the trees be injured in the name of any one the kami avenges himself on that person instead. So when a girl finds that a swain's love has cooled and she thinks revenge would be sweet she makes a straw manikin and calls it by his name. If she is very vengeful she may also make one of her hated rival. At 2 o'clock at night (called the hour of the bull) she rises, and, clad in a white nightdress only, with high clogs on her feet, her hair hanging loose and crowned with an iron tripod, on which three lighted candles are stuck, she proceeds to the shrine of the patron god of the family.

Praise Your Wife.

Praise your wife, man, for pity's sake, praise your wife when she deserves it! It won't injure her any, though it may frighten her some from its strangeness. If you wish to make and keep her happy, give her a loving word occasionally. If she takes pains to make you something pretty, don't take it with only:

"Yes, it is very pretty. Won't you hand me my paper?" It will take you only a minute's time to kiss her and tell her she is the best wife in town. You will find it to be a paying investment—one which will yield you a large return in increased care and willing labor for your comfort. Loving praise will lighten labor wonderfully and should be freely bestowed.—Exchange.

Animals and Sight.

In the water fishes see only at very close range—about half their own length. This will seem, perhaps, unlikely to anglers, although some of them can cite instances showing that fish cannot see far. Snakes seem to have a very mediocre sense of sight. The boa, for instance, does not see at more than a quarter of its own length. Different species are limited to one-fifth or one-eighth of their length. Frogs are better off; they see at fifteen to twenty times their length.

A Narrow Footing.

Smarticus—I didn't know Offseeker had had any experience as a tight rope walker.

Sparticus—He hasn't.

Dashaway—A few short hours ago I was sitting with a girl, telling her she was the only one in all the world I ever loved, and so forth and so forth.

Cleverton—And she believed you, didn't she?

"How could she help it? Why, I believed it myself."

Bravery.

"John," whispered the good woman in the dead of the night, "there are burglars downstairs."

"You go down, dear," replied John sleepily. "They wouldn't dare to strike a woman."

How Work Kills Music.

Did you ever hear of a telegrapher who could play the piano? If so, how many? Not how many pianos, of course, but how many telegraphers. Telegraph operators find that after they have worked at a key for several years their forearms and their fingers lose that flexibility that is essential to musicianly work on the piano. As many of the men are fond of music and have pianos of their own they find it hard to be cut off from the enjoyment of the music they could make for themselves if it were not for the strained conditions of the muscles.

There are few other lines of work that incapacitate a man for picking out the sharps and flats, but the telegraphers say that they know few men in their ranks who can use a piano with any effect.

When they sit down before one, their first move is the old impulse that operating the key gives them. They want to use that finger that they use in sending messages, and they find it difficult even after they struggle for a long time to make themselves players of more than ordinary attainments.—Chicago Tribune.

Etiquette by Precedent.

For example of how men may live and act according to precedent there can be no better reference than to the lord chamberlain's office in London. There in quiet rooms day after day men learned in state etiquette, court dress and royal functions reach down heavy volumes to see what was done on such and such an occasion. Beautiful pictures showing with minute exactness the details of the court costume under various circumstances are ready to their hands.

Is the shah of Persia coming? Is the kaiser soon to arrive? Is the king going to receive the monarch of Siam? Is one of the royal princesses to be married? When any of these events happens, the officials at the lord chamberlain's office know exactly what to do. And if some point should crop up which has not been raised for a century or more they have the faithful official records as to what was done on the last like occasion.

Stair Climbing.

Under no circumstance but that of actual illness or extreme debility should stair climbing become a matter of dread. In every other case it should be attended by a pleasant feeling of exhilaration.

The "panting collapse" which many women experience at the top of a flight of stairs is due to the assumption of an incorrect position of the body during the ascent and the employment of wrong muscles for the work. "The spine should be kept straight as in correct standing and breathing poise, and movement should come from the knees and not from the waist and hips. Lift the knees well, hold the chest erect and breathe deeply as you pass from stair to stair." The observance of these rules ought to make the exercise one of real benefit instead of a drudge—for it will be one or the other, since stair climbing is a daily necessity to every woman who has household duties. Then she need never complain that she has no time for physical culture.

The Ants and the Elephant.

Eyewitnesses of the marches which ants make aver that when they come to an obstacle they go through it or over it or take it with them. They march as straight as a Roman road. Human occupants fly when an ant army takes its way through a house occurring on its line of march. The legions pass on and destroy nothing but such as will serve as food, but after they have gone not a beetle, a scorpion, a rat or a mouse or an insect or a reptile of any size, shape or name remains. All have been eaten by the army. It is on record that one of these moving companies was obstructed in its passage by an elephant. It took the army eight hours to pass that spot, and then there remained nothing but the picked bones of the elephant.

Disraeli and Lord Bury.

When Lord Bury, afterward Earl of Albemarle, joined the church of Rome, he went to Disraeli to confess.

He began by saying that a difficulty had arisen, quite unconnected with politics, and that he was afraid it meant party embarrassment and that he therefore placed his resignation in his leader's hands.

Lord Beaconsfield (laconically)—A lady?

"Well, if you like—the scarlet lady. I have become a Catholic."

Lord Beaconsfield—But how very convenient! A relative of mine has just taken the same step, and now you can tell me, what was terribly puzzling me, the appropriate thing to say in congratulation.

Cakes as Love Letters.

The Hungarian gypsies use cakes as love letters. A coin is baked into the sweetmeat, which is then thrown at the lady as she passes by. If she eats the cake and retains the coin all is well, but if she should fling back the silver it would be fatal to the lover's hopes. Among the savages of the Arabian desert the girl is approached without ceremony while pastering her flocks. She resists strenuously, attacking her suitor with sticks and stones. If he succeeds in driving her into her father's tent she is his, but if she should resist him lifelong disgrace would be his portion.

Curb the Temper.

The peculiarity of ill temper is that it is the vice of the virtuous. It is often the one blot on an otherwise noble character. You know men and women who are all but perfect but for an easily ruffled, quick tempered or "touchy" disposition. This compatibility of ill temper with high moral character is one of the strangest and saddest problems of ethics.

AKKAYAK'S BACKSLIDING

By ROSE HUGHES LEECH

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Akkayak pushed his kyak out into the blue waters of Grantly harbor and, following the golden track of sunlight on its breast, headed for the Nook, the tiny Eskimo village across the bay. A wild duck rose from the water and circled daringly above his head with a defiant scream, noting no move of the Eskimo toward the gun at his side.

For Akkayak's thoughts were not with the joys of the hunt as he swept his kyak with even strokes toward the north, but only of Iwonna, the daughter of Stony Tom, the prettiest Eskimo maiden at the Nook and the torment of Akkayak's life. For Akkayak was a serious minded and industrious individual and had, moreover, deep religious convictions implanted in his breast by long training at the missionary's school. He went about the wooing of Iwonna in the same sad and fervent way that he said his prayers, with the result that the maiden scorned him openly, much to the edification of Spoon, who had of late chosen to pass his idle moments—and most of Spoon's moments were idle—around the eglow of Stony Tom.

If only he—Akkayak—had not been a Christian! Matters could have been easily adjusted then and Spoon wiped from the face of the earth. But of course this could not be. Akkayak liked heat as well as any other Eskimo, but he did not want it served on a fork in allopathic doses, and the missionary had assured him that murderers had to take it that way after they crossed the great divide.

But have Iwonna he would despite all the Spoons in Alaska! His boat grated on the beach, and with this thought uppermost in his mind he turned toward her home and was somewhat taken back to find his hated rival seated close, very close, to her on an overturned butter case. They were eating oranges! Shades of extravagance, oranges! Where had Spoon procured them? Akkayak had his dark suspicions, but he hid them manfully and greeted the girl and her companion with a polite "Tigidliokotin." Iwonna had on a new red calico parka and was prettier and more insolent than usual. Akkayak turned with dignity and strode to where Stony Tom sat on a pile of skins outside the eglow door.

After a guttural greeting, listlessly returned by Stony Tom, he spoke as follows:

"I come to ask you to give me Iwonna for my squaw. Good eglow have I and plenty good furs and much wood for the winter's coming. Plenty of dried tomcod also have I, and no man's dogs are better than mine. And I myself am a Christian man and good and drink no white man's whisky. In my eglow Iwonna can live all the same as white woman and Iwonna's father shine as the sun."

Stony Tom shifted his tobacco to the other side of his capacious mouth and replied briefly:

"Me like you. You got plenty kowkow (food), plenty good eglow. Iwonna him like Spoon. Me speak Iwonna like you. Iwonna go quick to Spoon. Me wait. You wait. By and by plenty good time."

And with such advice Akkayak was fain to be content. He had no other rival. True, Okbank, from Cape Prince of Wales, came occasionally to see Stony Tom, but he never looked at Iwonna.

And thus moons waxed and waned, and the great white silence fell, so that the suitors of Iwonna went by sled to the Nook. And the old Eskimo women put their heads together and said it was a shame the way the girl acted. What did the men see in the creature anyway? Great, staring eyes and a mouth that giggled continually! Secretly they all hoped the girl's choice would fall on Spoon, leaving Akkayak for one of their daughters, for Akkayak was a "catch." The old men said the fact that Stony Tom favored the suit of Akkayak made it quite certain that she would not choose him, and they banked largely upon Spoon.

But Iwonna kept her own counsel and accepted all tributes of oranges and loaf sugar with a placid smile. She was careful, however, to decline all gifts of wearing apparel proffered by either suitor, for with the acceptance of such garment she would have pledged herself to take the giver "for better or for worse."

Then there came a time when Akkayak, on his way to Gold Run creek with his dog team, met Spoon on the trail coming to town. Spoon said a few forcible things and Akkayak forgot his religious training. Over and over they tumbled, and the Malamoot dogs sat down in interested astonishment to watch the fray.

Finally a strong right arm blow of Akkayak sent Spoon headlong into a snowdrift, and it was some time before he staggered to his feet and glared balefully out of his uninjured eye at his hated foe.

"Ugh!" panted Akkayak. "You no go to Iwonna's eglow any more."

Spoon fairly danced with rage as he gasped: "Iwonna like me. She no like you. She say you all the same as white man!"

This was a blow, indeed, but Akkayak knew that veracity was not Spoon's strong point. Still, it did sound like Iwonna's way of talking. After some further altercation they agreed to set out forthwith for the Nook and tell the fickle maiden that she must choose one or the other. True, they did not look as presentable as they could have wished for such an errand, but the thing must be settled. Spoon had one eye closed and his garments much bespattered with gore. Akkayak's upper lip was twice its natural size, and his parka, torn midway off his back, dangled forlornly about his heels. He looked anything but the decent Christian Eskimo of other, calmer, days. No word was spoken until they were almost at the Nook, when an unwonted stir about the village caused each to pause and give an astonished "Ugh!"

All the Eskimos in the little settlement seemed to be out and about the eglow of Stony Tom. Was Stony Tom dead? Akkayak thought it possible, for the old man had been complaining of late. Ah, well, all old people must die some time, and squaws who were orphans were really more desirable.

Enlightenment was not long in coming. Out from his eglow stepped Stony Tom, and behind him came Okbank holding Iwonna by the hand. The girl was dressed in a new and much embroidered fine fur parka and looked very meek. Beside the door stood Okbank's new sled with ivory runners and six good Malamoot dogs hitched thereto with fancy harness and jingling bells. Okbank tenderly placed Stony Tom and Iwonna on the sled, wrapped them carefully in furs and, taking his place on the trail ahead of his team, started off toward the north and the home he had prepared for his squaw.

Spoon looked at Akkayak and Akkayak looked at Spoon. For the second time that day Akkayak threw religion to the winds and emphatically swore. Then they turned with one accord and started for Teller in a silence that could be felt.

After a time Spoon said gently, "Getting plenty cold weather."

"Yes," responded Akkayak; "plenty cold."

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

The above trade mark has been stamped on every article of the original and genuine Rogers Bros.' goods for over 50 years. Get this and you get the best that is made.

The Dinner Pail

Of the American working man is generally well filled. In some cases it is too well filled. It contains too many kinds of food, and very often the food is of the wrong kind—hard to digest and containing little nutrition. As a consequence many a working man develops some form of stomach trouble which interferes with his health and reduces his working capacity.

Where there is indigestion or any other indication of disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will almost invariably produce a perfect and permanent cure.

Mr. Thomas A. Swarts, of Sub Station C, Columbus, O., Box 103, writes: "I was taken with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. At last I had all the complaints at once, the more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die, thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take my advice and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles in about six weeks, I was weighed, and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds. I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Sight of Bees.

A bee has three small, simple eyes, placed in a triangle at the top of the head, at the sides of which are a pair of very large compound eyes. It is generally thought that the former serve for near vision and the latter for seeing things at a distance. Various experiments and calculations have been made to determine the range of the compound eyes, but as they are very different in structure from our own it is difficult to come to any certain conclusions.

Claparede states that at a distance of twenty feet an ordinary hive bee is unable to see anything that is not at least eight or nine inches across, but Lowne is of opinion that objects of from half an inch to an inch in diameter can be distinguished at that distance. If he is correct it follows that large objects might be discerned when as much as a hundred feet away.

That bees fly straight to their hives or nests from long distances probably does not imply keen sight, for we know that many of the lower animals are endowed with a sense of direction far more acute than anything of the kind which we possess.

One Yankee Racial Type.

A distinct racial type as marked almost as that of any European people has certainly been evolved in the United States, but it does not bear any particular resemblance to the Indian type. It is not difficult to designate an American man or woman in Europe, and Americans abroad are recognized not only on account of their clothes and speech and external manner, but by that something distinctive in face and form and temperament which we call race. It is true that there are certain superficial differences between eastern and western Americans, between northerners and southerners, but it is a curious thing that in a country of such length and breadth and of such diverse climatic conditions, in a country peopled by descendants of so many branches of the Caucasian family, a national racial type that is fairly uniform and predominant should have been produced in a few generations and should be able to assimilate to itself the vast horde of foreign elements which is continually being absorbed into it.—Harper's Weekly.

The Shining Mark.

When Aunt Kezia came with the clothes from the wash she brought the news of the sudden death of a prominent young man well liked in the community.

"It seems a very sad thing," said my mother. "He had everything to make life pleasant—youth and bright prospects and parents who idolized him."

"Yes," assented Aunt Kezia, with a dismal shake of her head, "hit do seem mighty strange that them you analyse the most is usually taken fust."—Lippincott's Magazine.

A lot of college athletes thought they would take a turn in the harvest fields of Kansas during their summer vacation and found that the Kansas girls could stand fourteen hours' work in the harvest field better than they could.

SPOTS ON THE SUN.

Attracting Much Attention and Observation From Astronomers and Others—A Canadian Astronomer Explains.

The sun spots at present visible are attracting much observation from astronomers and others. The above cuts indicate their position and form as observed by Mr. J. H. Weatherbe of 21 Langley avenue, Toronto, says The Globe. Mr. Weatherbe explains that the large spot is the largest seen for a great many years. These spots are supposed to be eruptions on the sun, not intermediate formations. The spots change their shape every day, and, as a matter of fact, another small spot not shown in the above cuts was observed at 9 a.m., Oct. 8. Through the equatorial motion of the sun, the spots, while not actually moving, appear from day to day to do so, and the location of the large one on future days of October is shown in the second cut.

Mr. Weatherbe points out that the apparent quarter turn of the sun, shown by the difference between the observation of 8.30 a.m. and 2.30 p. m., Oct. 7, is one of the best evidences, if any more are needed, of the rotundity of the earth and of its exact motion. The apparent turning of the sun is seen both in an inverting and an erecting telescope. It is the turning of the earth, which, by placing the observer at a different point of view, gives the apparent quarter-turn to the sun.

AT LONG RANGE.

How Lord Salisbury, When Premier, Saw the Pastoral Play.

The late Lord Salisbury's "passion for retirement," as somebody once described it, was well known. Primrose league habitations were frequently given the use of the grounds at Hatfield for their outings, and knights and dames would set forth with high hopes of a close view of the Prime Minister. But if Lord Salisbury hurried on to a distant balcony, bowed and as quickly withdrew his visitors were lucky. Once a pastoral play formed the chief attraction of the program. The principal actor was a relative of a man who had once been in a Cabinet with Lord Salisbury. The Prime Minister said he would like to see the performance. His wish was made known to the performers; but, although they delayed the commencement of the piece for some time, no Lord Salisbury appeared. The mystery was solved toward the end of the performance when the Premier was observed to be watching it from a high turret window through a telescope!

HOW SALISBURY SAW THE PASTORAL PLAY.

Great Colonizing Powers.

The seven great nations which have in modern times experimented with the Government of non-contiguous people, or "colonies," so called, are Great Britain, Netherland, France, Belgium, Germany, Portugal and Spain, and their relative success may be considered as in about the order in which they are here named. The population of those of Great Britain is in round numbers 350,000,000; Netherlands, 35,000,000; France, 56,000,000; Belgium (Congo Free State) 30,000,000; Germany, 15,000,000; Portugal, 9,000,000 and Spain, 135,000. Of Great Britain's 350,000,000, nearly 300,000,000 are in the East Indian group, and less than 3,000,000 in the West Indies. Netherlands has about 35,000,000 in the East Indian group and 50,000 in the West Indies, and France 25,000,000 in the East Indian group and 300,000 in the West Indies.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

The heavy liquidation that was in evidence in Wall street yesterday was not carried on to such an extent to-day except in the case of Penna., which was hammered down to 112 3-4. The market sold off considerably, however, and the tractions alone displayed any strength. The market closed at its weakest of the day.

The following despatch was received to-day by Messrs. McMillan & Maguire:

New York, Nov. 11th.—I do not think stocks will sell a half point below yesterday bottoms for the present at least. The general list held better than might have been expected on the face of the break in steel preferred. The rumors of a receiver for U.S. steel a ridiculous story. One reason for the decline in steel preferred is to give the conversion syndicate a chance to make a good margin of profit by buying the stock and selling the bonds. The general market should do better. Don't sell stocks with everyone so bearish, as short interest is abnormally large.

What with the shutdown of mills, the weakness and liquidation in the steel shares and the extension of the bear campaign from the latter to the railroad list, sentiment is pronouncedly pessimistic. But despite these disappointing features the theory that stocks are cheap and a good purchase finds many believers and justly so. Prices are low, adverse developments have been discounted so far as standard stocks are concerned and financial and commercial conditions are sounder than at any time in months.—Stockholder.

OTONABEE SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Held Successful Convention at Keene Recently.

A Synopsis of the Papers and Addresses —Interesting Discussions—Officers Elected.

The Sunday School Association of the Township of Otonabee, held its annual rally at Bethel, on Wednesday, Nov. 4th.

The afternoon session opened promptly at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Secombe of Keene, conducting the devotional exercises.

Reports from the various schools in the township were then called for by the president, Mr. George, the following schools responding:—Keene Methodist, Keene Presbyterian, Bethel, Sixth Line, Coldsprings, Salem, Zion, Villiers and Indian River. The reports indicated progress in the work of the Sunday schools and, generally speaking, were highly satisfactory.

In the conference which followed, led by Mr. J. Lancaster, some of the needs of the different schools were brought out and discussed.

Owing to the absence of Rev. J. G. Lewis, there was no address on his chosen subject, consequently no conference on it, which was to have been led by Mr. D. D. McDonald, of Keene. Mr. McDonald, however, on being asked to say a few words, kindly responded by making a few further remarks on the reports given. Mr. McDonald thought that the Keene Presbyterian was the only school to be envied. He said he liked the old-fashioned school, and did not believe in these new-fangled things that are found in so many of the Sunday schools of the day. "To my notion," he said, "there is a lot of rubbish taken into the Sunday school. The teaching is the main thing. What have we to do with pictures and models, sand tables or black boards? We do not go to Sunday school to look at pictures, or to draw pictures." He also drew attention to the fact that his was the only missionary school in the township. "If our Sunday school," he said, "is not so finely dressed as others, we are helping to dress others farther away. The Sunday school is to teach the young people how to live—how to make the best of life. If a child be taught to spend all on himself he becomes a selfish person, but a true manly spirit will be developed if he be taught to give to the needs of others; and so we are in danger of spending too much in equipping our own school and forgetting our duty to foreign missions."

Rev. W. B. Secombe, of the Keene Methodist circuit, on being called upon, gave an excellent talk on the equipment of the Sunday school. Mr. Secombe highly recommended the use of every available help in the Sunday school, such as maps, black boards, sand tables and picture rolls, all of which cost so little. "There may be some things," he said, "carried too far in the Sunday school, but as for these simple helps, such as those mentioned, they are just the thing. How can a little tot five or six years old be expected to sit and listen 15 or 20 minutes to a lesson being taught, unless it is illustrated by pictures or models?" Mr. Secombe also emphasized the importance of using a black board, it being the avenue to the mind through the eye to the heart. The session closed at 5.30 to open at 7 o'clock.

During the intermission refreshments were served in the basement of the church to a large number of delegates and representatives. A very enjoyable time was spent and the kindness of the Bethel people was indeed felt and appreciated by all.

The evening session was opened by a bright song service conducted by Mr. Secombe.

The president, Mr. George, then took his place, and presented the resignation of Miss Laura Bennett, the Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, who was unable to be present.

Mr. Lancaster, in words of appreciation, referred to the faithful services of the retiring secretary, of the efficiency of the work done by her in the past, and moved that the resignation be not accepted until a personal interview might be obtained, and it be found absolutely necessary to do so. The motion was seconded by Mr. S. Armstrong, and carried.

Mr. Williams, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., Peterborough, then gave an earnest address in the form of a Bible reading, taking for his subject, "The Son of God in prayer," and "The Prayer Life of Jesus." Mr. Williamson said the subject was too large to be developed in the short time he had to speak, but if we, as Sunday school workers, would look briefly into the prayer life of Jesus we might be impressed, as were His first disciples, who came to Him and said, "Lord, teach us how to pray." The speaker viewed the life of Christ from three standpoints, viz., His habit, manner and object of prayer. As we think of the first division, we think of the fact that He often went into solitary places to pray. In Matt. iii, 1, and Luke v, 16, we find He went into the wilderness. One of the first facts impressed is, as workers together with God we must have secret places for prayer. This world is too busy a world to depend upon meeting Jesus in the busy hours of the day. Let us think of the confidence and ease with which a son approaches his father, who comes to him with all his needs. We find also that Christ prayed with others. Luke xi, 1, "And it came to pass, as He prayed in certain places, when He ceased, one of His disciples said unto Him, 'Lord, teach us how to pray, as John also did his disciples.'" Luke vi, 12, "And it came to pass in those days that He went up into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God." When we think of this, can we but think of our great needs of our coming short of what He was. How many times have we spent all night in prayer? How many times have we gone with our Sunday school class, or any whom God has committed to us? Mark i, 35, "And in the morning, rising up a great while before it was day He went out and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed. The day referred to was one of the busiest times of his life. Do we act in the opposite way and say we haven't time?

In Christ's manner of prayer, five things were mentioned: (1.) It was intelligent, (2.) Definite. (3.) Importunate. (4.) Believing. (5.) Thanksgiving. St. Matt. 26; 39. He fell on His face and prayed, saying—"O, My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me. Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt." This refers to the time just before His passing from this world in order to accomplish the salvation of the world. By praying intelligently we mean praying in line with the will of God. We sometimes wonder why our prayers are not answered. Are they always in line with the will of God?

Second point, be definite. "Father forgive them for they no not what they do," was a definite prayer. The prayer for St. Peter that his faith might not fail, was a definite prayer. If we are not definite when we go to Him in prayer we make our petitions vague and meaningless.

Third, Importunate prayer. This was one lesson impressed upon those who were His first disciples. Parable of the widow and the unjust judge. St. Matt. 26; Three times He prayed, "O, My Father, if this cup may not pass away except I drink it, Thy will be done." We must not rest with having stated our prayer once.

Fourth. His prayer was a believing prayer. St. John 11; 21—23. "Then He said, Father I thank Thee that Thou hast heard Me." Although He had not accomplished the resurrection of Lazarus, He believed because He knew He was in line with the will of God, so before the act had taken place He said "I thank Thee." If we, as workers, would rest our difficulties and trials that come to us in our own life as we go to Him in prayer, before we receive the answer we could say, "I thank Thee that Thou hast heard me."

Mr. Williamson said that this was a lesson for every Sunday School teacher. We get discouraged because we cannot see the results of our teaching, but remember, he said, we cannot sow and reap the same day.

BLOOD HUMOURS

Skin Humours, Scalp Humours, Hair Humours,

Whether Simple Scrofulous or Hereditary

Speedily Cured by Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills.

Complete Treatment for All Kinds of Humours.

In the treatment of torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly, crusted, pimply, blotchy and scrofulous humours of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills have been wonderfully successful. Even the most obstinate of constitutional humours, such as bad blood, scrofula, inherited and contagious humours, with loss of hair, glandular swellings, ulcerous patches in the throat and mouth, sore eyes, copper-coloured blotches, as well as boils, carbuncles, scurvy, stiles, ulcers and sores arising from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, yield to the Cuticura Treatment, when all other remedies fail.

And greater still, if possible, is the wonderful record of cures of torturing, disfiguring humours among infants and children. The suffering which Cuticura Remedies have alleviated among the young, and the comfort they have afforded worn-out and worried parents, have led to their adoption in countless homes as priceless curatives for the skin and blood. Infantile and birth humours, milk crust, scalled head, eczema, rashes and every form of itching, scaly, pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infancy and childhood, are speedily, permanently and economically cured when all other remedies suitable for children, and even the best physicians, fail.

Cuticura Resolvent, Hquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

Send for "The Great Humour Cure."

Christ's object of prayer was divided into two divisions. (1) The object as relating to Himself. (2.) As relating to others. The speaker then referred to the 17 chap. of St. John, as a model prayer, one from which we may derive great benefit. As Christ prayed the Holy Spirit descended upon Him. Are we given the Holy Spirit in answer to prayer? If we are Christians we possess the Holy Spirit. But do we possess any of its fulness in whatever place God has called us? As Christ prayed he was transfigured. Do you think any change comes over us while we pray? Mr. Williamson thought there was a great similiarity. We become more and more like Him, as we pray. He said, Christ prayed before the 12 were chosen. Do we pray before we have some great work to do? For instance, before appointing some one for office. The 17 chap. of St. John related to Christ Himself, His disciples and also to the whole world. In this chapter Jesus looked out beyond the circle of His own disciples and nation and age. Christ prayed for the whole world, even for His enemies.

Mr. Williamson closed his address with these words: "Let us see to it that we come in closer touch with that wonderful life; that if we have not enrolled in the school of prayer that we will come to Him and ask Him to enroll us in that school. Let us follow Him in that we are sure that we take Him, even in the busy days to come to Him and run not before Him whatever betide. Let us see to it that our prayers are in line with the will of our Heavenly Father; that they are prayers of faith; that we give Him thanks in everything. We as Christians are liable to work and work and pray very little. Let us remember that the result of our work depends more on prayer than anything else, and that our battles in life can be best fought out in the secret places of the most high. There is a work for each one of us. We are saved to reach out a helping hand to others. Let us not enter this school only for the benefit that will come to ourselves, but for the good that will flow out of our lives into the lives of others, and if we have lived such a life of prayer, it seems to me it will be with a feeling of satisfaction that we look back at the close of life and know that we were men of prayer, and women of prayer; to know that we knew His will and did His will, for 'He that doeth the will of God abideth forever.'"

After the singing of a hymn Mr. Secombe also spoke a few words on the subject of prayer.

At the close of the session a vote of thanks was tendered the people of Bethel for their kind reception and hospitality shown by them throughout the day. Mr. Secombe pastor of the church, replying on behalf of his people, said that they were the finest people in the country with the exception of Zion and Keene.

On motion by Mr. Armstrong, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Williamson, who in reply said that he felt it an honour to be present on such an occasion, and in turn felt that he was indebted to the people for their patience and kind reception of his remarks.

The session closed with the benediction pronounced by Mr. Secombe.

FARMER SHOT DEAD.

A Stray Bullet From a Hunter's Rifle Killed Him.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Noe St. Pierre, a farmer living at Wolfe Creek, near South Indian, was shot dead near his home on Saturday, supposedly by a stray bullet from a hunting party. St. Pierre had gone to the bush to cut cordwood, and was felling a tree when he received the fatal shot. Several parties of hunters were in the vicinity at the time, but just where the shot came from is unknown. The only clue found as yet is a shell of a Mauser bullet found 110 feet from the dead man. The bullet, which entered his left shoulder, was a Mauser. Crown Attorney Maxwell of L'Original will investigate.

'Er 'Eart is True to Joe.

London, Nov. 11.—Birmingham is all in a ferment over to-day's attack by Lord Cecil and Winston Churchill upon Chamberlain's trade policy. Hundreds of sandwichmen paraded the streets last night carrying inscriptions reading: "Shall Radicals be allowed to oppose our Joe?" The town hall stands will be barricaded and a large cordon of police held in readiness to prevent any riot. Moore Bayley, who presides, adds irritation to the case owing to the fact that he, a Conservative, has recourse to a free trade audience for his anti-Chamberlain views. The Duke of Devonshire has appealed for fair play from a city represented for so many years by John Bright.

Gas Coke House Burned.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—A fire broke out at noon yesterday in the coke storehouse of the Consumers' Gas Company at the foot of Parliament street and quickly assumed such proportions that the entire brigade was called out. The building, which runs from Front street to the Esplanade, and is about 100 feet wide, is of brick, with wooden roof, supported by iron girders. Notwithstanding the efforts of the brigade, the entire roof was destroyed, and the walls were badly injured. The 9,000 tons of soft coal was not much injured, and the total loss may reach $25,000.

Insurance Against Frost.

London, Nov. 11.—(C. A. P.)—A French company will shortly be started in London to insure against frost. Branches now exist in Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain, Holland and Belgium, and the directors will extend the business to England and the colonies. The company will be only interested in the insurance of agricultural produce from Canada, and grain may be insured.

Spoke too Loud.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—The Emperor will have to abstain from much public speaking in the future. The growth on the vocal cord appears to have been caused by straining the voice. Bleedings were caused by loud speaking.

Anti-Imperialist but Loyal.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Under the auspices of the Continental Union, Henri Bourassa, M.P., spoke in Association Hall last evening on "The Loyalty of the French-Canadian." They were anti-Imperialist, but loyal quite to Canada. Their patriotism was quite provincial, but they were attached to Country and Crown.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION WRECKED THE HOTEL.

Two Dead and Six Injured by Acetylene Gas Explosion.

J. W. Atkinson, London, and A. B. Weir, Ridgetown, Dead—Two Others may Die—Appalling and Ghastly Sight as the Dead and Injured Were Taken out of the Debris—Cause not Known.

Ridgetown, Nov. 12.—The whole town was thrown into excitement last evening by an explosion of an acetylene machine in the cellar of the Lozar House. When citizens in the immediate vicinity of the hotel reached it they found the whole of the front of the house blown out. Within a few seconds brave and willing men had broken into the mass of bricks and twisted timbers, eager to rescue the unfortunate inmates. Within a few minutes all who were known to be in the building and who were unaccounted for were carried out.

Dead and Injured.

The list of dead and injured is as follows:

G. A. Atkinson, agent for The London Advertiser, crushed, dead in a few minutes.

A. B. Weir, agent for an enlarging photograph firm, died at 9.30.

William Barclay, auctioneer, scalp torn from over the ear to the top of his head and badly bruised about the body, may die.

John Mackenzie, farmer, back of head scratched, arm and right side badly injured, will likely recover.

T. P. Watson, face and leg badly cut and body bruised, in critical condition.

A. Voghan, porter, head cut, not seriously.

H. W. Purcell, proprietor of Lozar House, hands and head cut, not serious.

Miss M. Addeman, body cut, suffering from nervous prostration, will recover.

While Waiting Fees.

Miss Addeman was walking past the hotel at the moment of the explosion and her injuries resulted from flying glass. All the others injured were in the sitting-room in the hotel. The injured were carried into neighboring stores and made as comfortable as possible until arrangements could be made to transfer them to the train or to the homes of their friends.

The explosion occurred at 5.10 p. m., and excepting to people in the immediate vicinity, occasioned but little alarm until the fire bell began to ring. It was thought by some to be a clap of thunder and by others the discharge of a heavily loaded gun. The alarm had scarcely ceased ringing when the firemen, followed by hundreds of citizens, were on the scene. An appalling and ghastly sight met their gaze. In addition to the gruesome sight of unconscious men being carried out, the whole front part of the house was blown out and the entrance badly wrecked.

The disaster had many peculiarities. The machine stood in front of the cellar, directly under the office. The concussion, while entirely wrecking the front part of the house, left the rear uninjured. Mrs. Purcell and her staff of five girls, who were in the kitchen, escaped without a scratch. A horse tied in front of Northway's store, fifty yards away, was struck by flying glass, and had one foot nearly severed.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The loss of property will be heavy. The hotel itself had been thoroughly renovated. The lower part of the building is a total wreck, and the upper stories are liable to collapse at any moment. The loss to neighboring property-owners will be mostly due to broken glass.

PATS HIS SHOULDER

Churchill's Speech at Birmingham Won Storm of Cheers.

LIKEWISE PLEASED MOTHER

Cecil and Churchill Attack Chamberlain in His Own Stronghold—The Free Food Meeting at Birmingham Was Largely Attended—No Fulfillment of the Serious Trouble Expected At the Meeting.

London, Nov. 12.—(C. A. P.)—Storm signals flying in Birmingham for the past few days were pulled down before the Cecil-Churchill meeting by the crowd outside, which chaffed the police and raised Chamberlain cries. Once or twice small bands made a rush, but they were easily quelled by the police. The two lower windows of the hall were smashed by missiles, but the disturbance had no political significance.

At the close of Churchill's speech a long storm of cheers greeted the speaker. Mrs. Cornwallis West looked the picture of happiness and patted her son affectionately on the shoulder.

Mr. Churchill said the trade of England was not bad. He believed Mr. Chamberlain was doing what he thought best for the Empire, but what about the motives of some supporting him, and what about the manufacturers and the company promoters who poured the cheques in strict secrecy to Vincent's offices? Gossamer threads of Empire were pliant, elastic and tense as steel. While we were told much of those children states who came to aid us in our need, he denied that they would fall away forever unless Canadian loyalty was purchased at 2 shilling a quarter and Australian allegiance at one penny a pound. To increase the happiness of the people it took more than social reform, than fiscal temperance, than the tariffs of a schoolmaster, than the tax-gatherer and the custom house. (Deafening applause.)

Lord Hugh Cecil said: "Let us not think our Empire is merely a great cake in the possession of the greedy. Though we were an affectionate family, something had to be cut up into slices and divided for the benefit of the whole." The result would be unity and co-operation in danger. If we divert our corn trade from America to Canada our exports to America will be given up. Then the increase in exports of manufactured goods to Canada, the Canadian manufacturer would not like.

40,000 Persons Present.

Birmingham, Eng., Nov. 12.—There was no fulfillment of the serious trouble expected at the meeting here last night addressed by Lord Hugh Cecil and Winston Churchill, M.P., in opposition to the fiscal program of Joseph Chamberlain. It is estimated that the crowds surrounding the Town Hall during the progress of the meeting numbered 40,000 persons. A few stones were thrown and some windows broken, but it is believed that the prevention of more serious disorders was due to the earnest appeal of the supporters of Mr. Chamberlain, supplemented by the advice of the local newspapers to give the "Free Fooders" a fair hearing, as well as to the excellent police arrangements.

The meeting was attended by about 5,000 persons. Mr. Churchill devoted his speech to denunciation of Mr. Chamberlain's propaganda and urged the continuation of the free trade policy of Great Britain, which, he said, had done more to maintain the peace of the world than had been done by all the Prime Ministers and Colonial Secretaries during the past half century.

Every mention by Mr. Churchill of Joseph Chamberlain's name was greeted with cheers and counter cheers. His statement that Great Britain was prosperous and her trade good was received with both hisses and cheers.

"Canadian and Australian loyalty," said Mr. Churchill, "had already been proved on veldt and kopje. It could not be bought at two shillings per quarter."

Lord Hugh Cecil followed Mr. Churchill, delivering a speech in a similar vein.

A resolution denouncing the proposed protective tariff and admitting the right of the Government to impose retaliatory duties in special cases was carried by a large majority.

Some Back to Work.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 12.—Work was resumed yesterday in all the properties of the Amalgamated Copper Company in the state. In Butte 6,500 men went back to work; in Anaconda 2,000 men are again employed, and at Great Falls the Boston and Montana Smelter has started up with a full force of 2,000 men.

No Fighting.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The Governor of German Southwest Africa cables that 880 mounted troops, with four guns, have arrived in the vicinity of Warmbad, but does not mention any fighting with their rebellious natives, who, seemingly, are not contesting the advance of the troops.

Reduction in Wages.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 12.—Notices were posted in the cotton mills of this city yesterday afternoon, announcing a general reduction of 10 per cent. in wages, to take effect November 23. About 30,000 hands are affected.

Trenton, Mass., Nov. 12.—The Corr Manufacturing Company posted notices in its cotton mill here yesterday afternoon announcing that a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages would go into effect November 23. About 700 hands are affected.

Bickerdike Accepts.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Robert Bickerdike, M.P., accepted the Liberal nomination last evening in St. Lawrence division. It is understood that Mayor Cochrane will oppose him as an Independent Liberal candidate.

Deer Shot by Woman.

Belleville, Nov. 12.—Miss Daisy Appleby, daughter of Mr L. Appleby, county jailer, of this city, has just returned from North Hastings, bringing with her a fine deer which she shot in that locality.

Strike in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—A general strike of the 3,000 employes of the Chicago City Railway was decided upon last night, at a mass meeting of the men. They will quit work at 4 o'clock this morning.

Recommended to Mercy.

Winnipeg, Nov. 12.—The jury in the Kyruk case returned at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon with a verdict of manslaughter, with a recommendation to mercy.

Phone System Burst Out.

Chatham, N. B., Nov. 9.—During a heavy snowstorm yesterday the snow pressed down the electric light wires on the telphone wires. Fire was caused and the whole telephone system was put out.

A PACKED COURT.

Toronto Star.

One American newspaper has at last taken the trouble and exercised the honesty to look into the causes of Canadian dissatisfaction with the Alaskan boundary incident, and to arrive at a correct understanding of it. The New York Post defines Canada's attitude as being, first, one of resentment that Canada was tricked into a packed court; next, of sorrow, that the British Government connived at the trick for the sake of friendship with the United States.

"Of the fact that the court was virtually packed against the Canadians," admits the Post, "there is not the slightest doubt. The tribunal sat in London, two commissioners bound to the Canadian contention, three to that of the United States, with but a single member, Lord Alverstone, really in the position of an impartial judge. By gaining Lord Alverstone the Canadians would merely not lose; by persuading the Lord Chief Justice the Americans must win. . . . . In Canadian eyes the whole proceedings of the tribunal were hocuspocus. Practically the matter reduced itself to a hearing before Lord Alverstone, with power to grant a verdict only for the United States."

This states the case exactly, except in one respect. The Post has no ground for saying that two commissioners were bound to Canada's claims, just as three were bound to the American contentions. Mr. Aylesworth and Sir Louis Jette were not bound in any way. They were not chosen as partisans; they were not of the partisan type; they were not instructed; they could have decided against Canada and suffered no loss; had they done so their action would not have embarrassed the Government that appointed them. They were as free as judges could possibly be to give a judicial decision. Because they did not accept the views of the confessedly partisan commissioners from Washington, does not prove that they were "bound," nor does the fact that Lord Alverstone accommodated his opinions to the unyielding partisans from Washington prove that he was governed by judicial considerations. It may only prove that he was weak and yielded to numbers.

The Canadian commissioners were free agents. If they had concurred in the settlement arrived at Canada would have acquiesced, and no disabilities would have been imposed on them here, while titles would have been conferred upon them by the Imperial Government. But while our commissioners were not partisans, Canada took the precaution to select men who would exercise their judgment unafraid.

A WONDERFUL RECORD.

Sir Frederick Treves, the King's surgeon, who has recently retired from the active practice of his profession, has a record of which any man might well be proud. He has to his credit one thousand operations for appendicitis, without the loss of a single case. Such a result is rendered possible only by early operative measures, conducted with the greatest of skill and under perfectly aseptic conditions. It is a triumph of surgery they bear testimony to the great advance in the science within recent years. The world owes much to anaesthetics and to a knowledge of the germ theory. Sir Joseph Lister, an associate of Sir Frederick Treves, was the pioneer in practically recognizing the importance of antiseptics in surgery, and his system was known for many years as "Listerism." By its use the mortality of surgical operations was wonderfully reduced, and the scope of the work was widened. Wonders are now performed daily in surgery that a few years ago would have been impossible; but even now few surgeons can hope to make such records as that of Sir Frederick.

Surgeons make mistakes, too. A short time ago we read of one who related that in operating on a woman, who had been sent to him in a very low condition following an operation by another physician some time previously, he found in the abdominal cavity a four-foot towel bedded in a slough of pus. The patient died in a few hours. Another case has been reported in which the patient had to be re-opened in order to recover some surgical instruments inadvertently left inside, and which the owner needed for other operations. A few years ago a surgeon removed from a patient under chloroform the healthy eye, leaving him the sightless one. A similar case of removing a sound kidney, leaving a diseased one, and entailing the death of the patient in a few hours, has been known. But perhaps the mistakes of surgery are as few as those of any calling where the factors to be considered are so many and so important, and where the stake is so great. It calls for great skill, judgment and nerve, and these have to be exercised sometimes under conditions which make a happy outcome all the greater triumph for the science.—Hamilton Times.

DON'T TALK HARD TIMES

Or Hard Times are Sure to Come.

"I think it is a mistake to talk so much about the approach of hard times," said a manufacturer to The Toronto Star to-day. "It is just this talk of hard times that brings hard times—always has and always will—excepting in cases of war and famine and extreme conditions. Of every period of depression just about 75 per cent. is due to sentiment and about 25—perhaps not that—is due to natural, legitimate causes. Succeeding periods of rampant prosperity and of depression are recognized now as natural phenomena, which act pretty regularly, but their extremeness is largely a matter of sentiment. Why should a continent with the diversity of resources that ours has be on the high road to wealth one year and wallowing in the slough of despond five years later? It is largely, as I said, because of sentiment. One man talks of hard times, and 20 others who hear him get nervous, cancel orders for new ventures curtail operations on old ventures, begin to sell their securities, and first thing they know a well-defined era of depression is under way. Then they wonder how it happened, and blame it on the tariff. There are of course natural causes which make one season or a succession of seasons less prosperous than another, but if people would not go too fast in the good seasons, and would not talk so much about hard times in the poor seasons, there would be little trouble.

"At the present time I don't see anything very alarming in the situation either here or in the States. I think there are a good many people crying 'wolf' for a purpose."

The sale of the farm stock and implements of the estate of the late George Easson, was attended on Tuesday by a large number of prospective buyers. Prices realised on the whole were very good, especially for the live stock.

The manse was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, the 4th inst, when Mr. James McFarlane, of Temiscamingue, was united by the binding knot to Miss Susie Burnham of this village. The bell from its lofty tower rang out a joyous peal as the happy couple returned to the home of Mrs. Robert McIntyre, where a dejeuner was partaken of by the contracting couple and their immediate friends. Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane leave on Wednesday morning for their future home in the North.

Mr. Dick Walsh, formerly of Douro, but now of Dawson City, is renewing old acquaintances here. He looks well after his absence of 14 years, and it is quite evident that the world has gone well with him.

Mrs. Dr. Shaw and Master Maurice have returned from an extended visit to McLeod and other points in the west.

Miss Margaret Boyce took the principal part in a concert given at Warsaw last Friday. With regard to her merits it is only necessary to state that by the persistent requests of the audience she was forced to sing eight times.

Mr. George Powell, with his sister, Miss Charlotte, spent Sunday with their aunt, Miss Read.

Mr. Joe Quinn has returned from the west after an absence of several months.

Mr. Sam English, late of the Victoria Hotel, and now of Peterborough, is spending a few days here.

Rev. D. D. McDonald and Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Lakefield, exchanged pulpits last Sunday.

The hunters are returning with the the spoils of the chase. Thomas Thompson brought home two fine deer last Saturday and Robert McMcManus and Amos Shearer brought in two more to-day.

Mrs. J. J. Turner, Jr., of Peterborough, spent Sunday in Lakefield visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Todd.

Mrs. Bray, of Oakville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. O. A. Langley, for a couple of weeks.

The sad intelligence of the death of Mr. Hugh Lamprier, in South Africa by entric fever, was received by Mr. H. LaFevre by cablegram on Tuesday. Mr. Lamprier's death will come as a severe shock to the community, as he was well and favourably known in Lakefield, having lived here with Mr. LaFevre for several years

Miss Dalgiel of Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) C. A. Campbell, at the manse.

Mr. Stagg, of Toronto, was in town on Monday.

Mr. Stewart, of Traders' Bank staff, spent Sunday with his parents in Norwood.

Mr. Dickson Davidson, of Peterborough, was in the village Monday.

Dr. King, of Peterborough, favoured our village with a call on Tuesday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Lakefield Council was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening.

Present,—Reeve Fitzgerald in the chair, and Councillors Northey, Tanner and Burgess.

The minutes of last regular meeting read and confirmed.

Communications were read from Mrs. Margaret Stone, Mr. Peter Campbell, Mr. R. E. Wood, and Clerk of Legislative Assembly.

Moved by Councillors Burgess and and Northey, that communications as read be received.—Carried.

The Finance Committee presented the following report:—

To the Reeve and Councillors of the Village of Lakefield:

Gentlemen,—We, your Finance Committee have examined the following accounts and would recommend that they be paid:

F J Moore, lumber...	$16 53
J Griffin & Son	35

S Nelson, cement	1 40
Trude & Jory, charity...	1 31
Pay Roll No. 6.....	18 95
Lakefield News, printing	5 50
	$64 54

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. A. TANNER, Chairman.

Moved by Councillors Tannor and Burgess, that the report of the Finance Committee be received and adopted.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

BRIDGENORTH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Charlie Mann is home from the Northwest.

Albert Nicholls is in the back country on a deer hunt.

Dr. Morgan was in the village on Tuesday on professional duty.

Rev. J. W. Bunner preached in Apsley on Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Mann and family have removed to Peterborough.

Mr. Wm. Ball has his new barn nearly completed.

Mr. Wm. P. Robinson purchased a milk cow at the sale on Tuesday.

Jas. Jopling lost a valuable steer by falling into an open well.

Mrs. Quinn has been confined to her room for the past two weeks.

Mr. George Bell, accompanied by his father, returned to the village last week from the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Smythe Kelly drove down to Peterborough on Friday night to attend the Mark Guy Pearse lecture.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hopwood, of Peterborough, spent Saturday at their island cottage on Chemong Lake.

Mr. W. H. Rackham, who has been spending the summer at the lake, has returned to Peterborough for the winter.

John Turver, accompanied by Miss Annie Conway, has returned home, after spending a week visiting with friends back at Kinmount, and up the Burnt River.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coons have returned home after visiting friends in Parry Sound and other points of interest on Georgian Bay.

Mr. Wm. O'Leary, accompanied by Mr. Henry Bowie drove back to Harvey on Tuesday on business, and on their way home had a chase after a fine large buck, but not having a license were unable to have a shot at him.

Mr. John Pope has a gang of men at work on the Matthews cottage, which he purchased last spring, and is raising the roof and putting on another story.

Mr. Wm. O'Leary has moved across the street into Mr. Young's house, which was formerly occupied by Mr. H. Fraser, who is giving up housekeeping for the winter.

Mr. Noble Kelly, who has been on a business trip to the coast for the past two months, has returned home. On his way home he spent a week with his cousin, Mr. Wm. Milburn, who is practicing medicine at Fort McLeod. It is rumoured around that Noble purchased a couple of sections of land in the Northwest, and that as soon as he gets a partner he will return to the west again.

Mr. Tom McCall has returned to the village again after a two months trip in the wheat fields of the west. He says it is all right, but he didn't like to see one foot of snow in the harvest fields.

Mr. W. R. Hartshorne, who is always one of the first to arrive in Chemong Park in the spring, and one of the last to depart in the autumn, accompanied by Mrs. Hartshorne, has removed to Peterborough, where they will remain for a couple of months prior to leaving for their home in Fairfield, Conn. Mr. Hartshorne, who is chief magistrate of Chemong Park, and who is always honoured for the way he administers the law to those in need, will be warmly welcomed on his return.

Chills, Backache, Constipation, Urinary Troubles, Swelling of Extremities, Pain in Joints or Hips

Any one of these symptoms indicates weakened or diseased kidneys and consequent blood poisoning. Immediate action is necessary. Every hour's delay increases the amount of poisonous matter left in the blood and renders the disease more obstinate.

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of its valves and the rhythm of its throb. It the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requires just such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorer.

SLOPEVILLE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Farmers in this vicinity are nearly through their fall ploughing, and several loads of grain pass daily through the village on the way to the Cereal Works, where the highest price is paid for good oats, for which Douro is noted.

Mr. Richard Walsh, of Dawson City, is home visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Walsh.

The ratepayers of S. S. No. 7 are highly pleased over the action of the trustees in securing the services of Mr. Maurice O'Brien as their teacher for 1904. Mr. O'Brien is a graduate of Ottawa Normal School, and comes well recommended.

Mr. David and Miss Maggie Welsh of Hastings, were guests in the village on Sunday.

Quite a large hunting party left this part last week for Gull Lake in search of deer. The party consisted of Maurice O'Brien, David Condon, John Towns, Michael McCan, R. J. Barry, Arthur Carveth, James McCligott, Gregory Connors, J. Dwyer, Frank Whibbs, with John Lonnergan as guide. They took with them four canoes and six hounds.

It is rumoured there will be several new councillors in the field this year for election, but the probabilities are that our present Reeve, Mr. John Quinn, will be re-elected by acclamation, as Mr. Quinn has proved himself a good officer and well worthy of the position.

The young folks of the village are contemplating giving a concert in St. Patrick's Hall during the Christmas holidays.

BENEATH THE WATER

Diver Taylor Fought for Life for Three Hours From Niagara.

HELD TO CRIB BY SUCTION.

Water Poured Through Sheeting of Crib Walls and Catching Taylor Held Him Fast Despite His Most Strenuous Efforts to Free Himself—Exhausted When Brought Up by Other Divers.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 12.—Yesterday morning while Joseph Taylor, a diver in the employ of Barry and McMordie, was at work at the cribs below the surface of the water in the Rapids above the Falls, he was caught in the suction made by the water going through the sheeting and held fast. All his efforts at freeing himself from the deadly suction of the water were unavailing and he signalled for help.

Diver Mel Stokes was sent down, but at first he could not extricate the man. Then two more men donned diving suits, one of whom was Mr. McMordie of Barry and McMordie, the contractors. By their united efforts Taylor was rescued from his perilous position. Lines were made fast to the imprisoned man and he was hauled out by main force.

From the time Taylor first became caught until he was rescued the men never ceased their efforts to release him. He was held down for over three hours and when brought to the surface was in an exhausted condition.

The doctors in attendance say the man will live.

ACCIDENTS IN TORONTO.

13 Year Old Boy's Skull Fractured and He May Die.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Willie Brangiemans, a boy 13 years of age, while working in the Dominion Glazing Works, was standing near a fly wheel. The belt caught a portion of his clothing, and he made a complete revolution, striking his head on the wall and floor. His skull was fractured, and it is feared he will not live. His parents live at 86 East Richmond street, and came from Germany six months ago.

Mina Grummitt, 14 years of age, was playing in Copeland & Chatterson's factory with a friend, when a piece of wire in the hands of her playmate caught in her lower eyelids, making a nasty cut, which will leave a scar forever. She lives in Bracondale. She remained in the Emergency Hospital over night.

Killed by a Saw.

Lindsay, Nov. 12.—Yesterday morning in Messrs. Kennedy and Davis' mill, Amy Laberta, a Frenchman, aged 45, married, accidentally fell on a large circular saw, and was cut so badly that he died instantly.

GRATIFYING PROGRESS.

Upton is Resting Easily With Axe Wounds in Skull.

Strathroy, Nov. 12.—The marvellous vitality being displayed by Patrick Upton, the Adelaide farmer, who was on Saturday night attacked by his insane niece, who sent three blows from a heavy ax crushing through his skull, is surprising everybody. Upton is a man of strong physique, weighing 200 pounds. He is conscious and has been ever since the occurrence. Last night Dr. Berden, who has been in attendance upon him, said that his patient was resting easily and that there was no immediate danger of death, nor does he expect that any great change will occur in Upton's condition for perhaps 48 hours.

What the final outcome may be cannot be yet determined, although at first the doctors thought he would not be able to survive for more than a day or so. Upton understands what is going on round about him and is able to speak. One side, the right, is paralyzed, but if he should surmount the immediate cause for a fatal ending, it is not too much to expect that time, assisted perhaps by an operation, will remove even that affliction. If he should recover, the case will be one of great rarity to medical records. One of the wounds in the head has already healed and the others show gratifying progress.

Meanwhile, the unfortunate woman is confined in London jail, where she exhibits no symptoms of a violent mind. The preliminary trial will be commenced to-day, but will likely be adjourned for a week, until Upton's death, or prospects for recovery, can regulate the charge to be brought against her.

Fire at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Nov. 12.—Fire which broke out shortly after midnight, gutted the upper flats of the Hamilton Brass Works at James and Colborne streets. The building is of three storeys, brick, and covers quite an area. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

Trooper Frost's Next of Kin.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The War Office wants to find the next of kin of the late Trooper W. Frost, Canadian Mounted Rifles, and the late Private A. Radcliffe, Royal Canadian Dragoons. The former has left £16 7s. 4d., and the latter £20 6s. 10d.

Storm in the Northwest.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 12.—For four days a storm of wind, snow and rain has been raging throughout the Northwest all the way from British Columbia to Central Montana, and yesterday it has extended into Wyoming, Colorado and Utah.

Better Than a Plaster.

WHAT MR. AMES LOST.

By Suspension of Firm—Would Be Willing to Allow Anyone to Assume Assets and Liabilities.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The examination of A. E. Ames in the Atlas Loan investigation was concluded yesterday afternoon. The last questions put to Mr. Ames by his solicitor, D. E. Thompson, had reference to his losses in connection with the failure of the A. E. Ames Company.

"Something was said," the solicitor interrogated; "something about the losses of Mr. Wallace in connection with the Ames failure. What about the $600,000 you contributed to the firm?"

"I would be very much relieved if Mr. Wallace or any other man would accept the assets and assume all responsibility for the payment of the liabilities, and I would step out; and I would give him every assistance in my power to conduct the business."

"And lose your $600,000?"

"That has been lost and many more dollars have been lost and won."

The most important feature of the morning sitting was the presentation of a statement agreed upon between the liquidator and Mr. Ames as to the losses of the Atlas Loan in the Ames failure.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Burglars at Brougham Used Pistols in a Burglarious Attempt on Store.

Brougham, Nov. 12.—A sensational shooting affray occurred in the store of Gleeson Bros., merchants, here yesterday morning. The burglars first made an attempt to break open the front door of the store by prying. Failing to gain an entrance there they went to the back and cut out a large window-pane, through which they entered. They then opened the back door, by means of which they could easily make good their escape if heard.

An attempt to burglarize the postoffice, which is in the store, was made. Frank Gleeson, who lives above the store, hearing the burglars at work, came downstairs. The burglars, three in number, ran from the store, and being called upon to stop, opened fire on Mr. Gleeson, firing as they ran about a dozen shots and making good their escape. The pistols used were of heavy type.

A small amount of cash was secured from the postoffice. All the letters were taken, which the burglars can open at their leisure. The main amount of stamps being kept in the vault, an attempt was to be made apparently on the vault, but the burglars were frightened away.

Mr. Gleeson is being congratulated on the narrow escape from three desperate men, as the bullets were many and came close to him.

DEATH OF MR. SIMMONS, M.P.

Passed Away Wednesday at Kansas City, Aged 69.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 12.—Oliver Simmons of Petrolia, Ont., a member of the Canadian Parliament, died here yesterday, aged 69 years. Mr. Simmons was born in Ohio.

The late Mr. Simmons was elected to the House of Commons at the general election of 1900. He was a man of genial temperament, but was not often heard in the House. Last session he was taken ill early in the year and had a trying siege, but was able to return to the House. His trip to Kansas City was in search of health. He was born in 1834. He married in 1857, Laura A. Fisher. He was prominent in municipal affairs in Petrolia, and was a wealthy oil producer.

A Wonderful Book.

As a work for family reference there was probably never compiled a more useful book than Dr. Chase's Receipt Book. Besides containing the symptoms of diseases, their cause and cure and the great prescriptions gathered together during a half century of medical practice, this book is replete with receipts for cooking, and has a complete department devoted to the cure of farm stock, bees, domestic animals, etc. For full particulars write Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—About 1200 head of cattle, 300 calves and 1500 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. There were less than a dozen prime beeves on the market to-day and these sold at from 4¼c to 4½c per lb. There were about 70 good medium cattle, which sold at from 3½c to 4c per lb. None 200 common medium cattle sold at from 3c to 3½c per lb. The common stock numbering some 600 were slow of sale and prices ranged from 1¾c to 2¾c per lb. Over 200 lean cows sold at from 1½c to 1¾c to the canners, and a number of bulls of various sizes were bought for Toronto at from 1½c to 2¼c per lb. Some of the grasser calves were very lean and sold at less than 2c per lb. Pretty good grassers sold at from 2¼c to 3c per lb., and good veals at from 4c to 4½c per lb. Mutton critters were lower in price; sheep sold at from 2¼c to 3½c, and lambs at from 3½c to 4c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at from 5c to 5¼c per lb. WON'T GO TO ST. LOUIS.

Canadian Live Stock Breeders Tired of American Pin-Pricks.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—There will probably be no exhibit of Canadian live stock at the St. Louis Exhibition. The Dominion Government granted $100,000 to assist Canadians to make a creditable show provided the conditions were acceptable. A thorough representative meeting of breeders at the Rossin last night decided that the conditions were not acceptable, and being convinced that no change would be made practically decided to make no exhibit.

No Agreement Yet.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 12.—The representatives of the Locomotive Engineers and Firemen who have been in the city for over two weeks were once more in conference with General Manager McNichol yesterday, in another effort to reach a decision regarding the various matters in dispute. That no satisfactory understanding was reached is obvious from the fact that after adjournment Mr. McNichol said he was not yet in a position to say anything for publication.

Strength of U. S. Army.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The annual report of Acting Adjutant General Hall of the United States army, shows the actual strength of the army on Oct. 15, 1903, was 8,081 officers and 55,500 enlisted men. There were lost to the army during the year ended June 30, 1903, 20,279 men. The total number of the organized militia, including officers of every rank and grade, was ascertained to be 116,542.

Discrimination.

London, Nov. 12.—Truth yesterday complained that the Canadian Government, while granting a remission of duty on made-up clothing imported from England by officers, charges full duty on clothes imported by soldiers of lower rank.

International Confederation.

Boston, Nov. 12.—At the convention of the American Federation of Labor yesterday a plan for an international labor confederation was greeted with great enthusiasm.

See News Next Week.

London, Nov. 12.—(C.A.P.)—Senator Dandurand, speaking last night said he would have a statement re. the Soo negotiations ready, likely by the middle of next week. He hoped that the rumor that Mr. Tarte would campaign in England on behalf of Chamberlain was true. He would be able to point out the value of protection shown against the octopus of the Americans and stir up lively interest. He would make the British think.

Joe Martin Declined.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 12.—Capt. J. Duff Stuart is selected by the Liberals to oppose Attorney-General Wilson in bye-election on Wednesday, Nov. 18, in Vancouver. Joseph Martin declined the nomination on account of dissentions in party. Ex-Lieut.-Gov. McInnes and James McGee were also proposed as candidates, but defeated on a ballot. Stuart was a member of this year's Bisley team.

American Losing Its Charm.

New York, Nov. 12.—Figures obtained of the number of laborers who are returning to Europe show that, while from all ports of the United States 13,000 steerage passengers were carried from Oct. 1 to Nov. 10 a year ago, more than 27,000 have left this year during the corresponding period. Inability to obtain employment is given as the reason for the emigration.

Report Unconfirmed.

Kingston, Nov. 12.—Burton Hyland was lodged in the police station Tuesday night. He is charged with stealing two head of cattle from farmers about Cataraqui and selling the animals to a butcher. Hyland was carried on Monday to a Miss Clark of Cataraqui.

A VERY PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Annie L. Hutchenson Married to Mr. Fred Fossey.

A quiet, but pretty wedding ceremony was performed yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Rev. J. Bastow, at the residence of Mr. Ernest Hutchinson, Sheridan street, when his sister, Miss Annie L. Hutchinson, was married to Mr. Fred Fossy, of Chatham, Ont. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only the near relatives and friends of the bridal couple, the bride being quietly but very tastily attired.

After the wedding a sumptuous dinner was served in the dining room, after which the happy couple left on the 5.10 C.P.R. train for Chatham, where Mr. Fossey has a position as manager of a 400 acre farm. He is an enterprising and prosperous young man, and he, and his bride enter upon their new relation with the best wishes of their large circle of friends.

WILL RUN AN EXCURSION.

A Large Crowd to Accompany Rugby Football Team.

The Peterborough Rugby Club has completed arrangements with the Canadian Pacific Railway for an excursion to Toronto on Saturday, November the 21st, when they will go to Toronto to play their return match with the Victorias of that city. A remarkably cheap rate has been secured so that there should be a large crowd of rooters accompany the boys. The Peterborough team is going to Toronto determined to win and will strain every effort to bring the Ontario Intermediate Championship to Peterborough again this season.

CORDOVA MINES WILL RE-OPEN IN FEW DAYS.

The Shut-down but Partial and is Only Temporary.

Mr. Wm. Hamilton Expresses Belief that the Work will be Resumed—Pumps have not been Removed.

Further information has been received with reference to the alleged shut-down of the Cordova Mines, and it is learned that the mines have not closed entirely; out of the ten or more shafts in which operations have been conducted, some of them are still working, and the belief is expressed confidently that in a very few days the whole mine will again be in operation. This shut-down is but a temporary one, and for reasons having nothing to do with the quantity or quality of the ore. There is not the slightest doubt that there is in these mines gold in almost unlimited quantities, and the quality, too, is of such a nature that the mining of it is a very profitable enterprise. The Examiner was shown samples to-day of the ore taken from No. 1 shaft and even to the uninitiated eye, it may be recognized as being very rich in the yellow metal. Workmen who were employed in the mines previous to the shut-down, are in town, and all agree in the belief that it is but a temporary one.

Mr. Wm. Hamilton, of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, when interviewed, was very optimistic as to the situation, and said that he felt satisfied the mines would reopen in a few days, in fact he did not believe that any considerable portion of them was closed. His company was largely interested in these mines, having been one of the most extensive shippers of machinery to them, and had a large quantity there now. He stated that his company was not feeling at all worried over the outlook, as it was practically impossible for the mines to remain closed, and an early and full resumption of work is looked for. The statement had been made that the pumps had been taken from the mines, but one of the men employed there stated to the Examiner that this is not true.

FORMER RESIDENT OF MONAGHAN KILLED.

Mr. F. W. Perrin Met Death at Albion, Michigan.

The Globe has a special despatch from Stratford, telling of the death in Albion, Mich., of Mr. F. W. Perrin. Many residents of Peterborough will remember Mr. Perrin, as at one time he lived in North Monaghan. The despatch follows:—

"Word comes from Albion, Mich., that F. W. Perrin, a former resident of St. Marys, was killed there by being struck by a train on November 5th. Mr. Perrin was a member of the firm of Perrin & Smith, manufacturers of handles. He was about forty years of age, and leaves a widow. Mr. Perrin was born in Peterborough, and had lived at Walkerton and St. Marys up to about eight years ago, when he moved to Michigan."

TWENTY-ONE STREET CAR LINES TIED UP.

Over 3,000 Men on Strike at Chicago, Illinois.

Complete Tie-up of Chicago City Railway Co's System—Four o'clock This Morning was the Hour Selected for Cessation of Operations.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 12.—At 4 o'clock this morning the operation of cars over the twenty-one lines of the Chicago City Railway Company's system ceased, and the greatest street car strike in the history of the city began. More than 3,000 are out. Shortly before 8 o'clock the barn doors were thrown open and six trains, one a mail train, were sent out. No effort was made to stop them, but when they passed out of sight of the police detail at the barn they were greeted with a perfect hail of stones and other missiles. Three of the trains managed to weather the storm but the crews of the remaining three abandoned their cars and fled to the barns, bleeding from numerous wounds. One man was so badly hurt that he was sent to a hospital. The mail train was not molested, but could not be moved, as it was sandwiched between the fourth and sixth train.

CALLAGHAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF THEFT

At the Instance of Mr. Crossin, for Whom Callaghan Formerly Worked.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, Nov. 12. — After many hours search by the police, W. H. Callaghan, the piano agent, who made the affidavit contained in yesterday's World, was arrested at Toronto Junction on a charge of theft, the warrant having been issued at the instance of Mr. Crossin, for whom Callaghan was employed formerly. The arrest was made by Detective Slemin and the prisoner was lodged at No. 7 police station.

PITIABLE CONDITION OF INDIAN WOMEN.

Interesting Address by Miss McKinney of "The Sacred City."

There was a large attendance at the Union Womens' meeting held in the Murray street Baptist church yesterday afternoon, at 3.45 o'clock, when Miss McKinney, who, for some time, has been a missionary among the women of India, more directly at Benares, gave an interesting account of her work and the condition of the the weaker sex in that country.

Mrs. Bastow, who occupied the chair, introduced the speaker to the audience in a few appropriate words.

Miss McKinney said that there were in India some 145,000,000 women who had never heard of Christ, and of these 45,000,000 were in the Zenanas, which they could not leave, and could practically be seen by no one. She gave the instance of one woman who was forced into a Zenana at the age of five years, and she had not been outside at the mature age of fifty-four, a dreary confinement of forty-nine years.

Miss McKinney, who leaves tomorrow for Lindsay, has spent six weeks in Canada, largely asking aid to erect hospitals, for the women and children. It is an inter-denominational work, purely for the elevation of the moral and social conditions of the women of that country of the Orient.

At the conclusion of the address an offering was taken, the service being closed with prayer.

GOVERNMENT WORK GOES STEADILY ON.

Substantial Work on Port Colborne Breakwater.

New Look at Peterborough Will be Ready Next Week and Other Works Next Season.

Ottawa, Nov. 11. — Collingwood Schreiber, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, has returned from an inspection of the various canals and says the new hydraulic lift lock at Peterborough will be ready for operation next week. The work on section two of the Balsam Lake-Simcoe Division of the Trent Canal, will be finished this season, and on section three early next year. He is very much pleased with the substantial nature of the work on the Port Colborne breakwater. The two big piers there will be through early next season.

Inquiry at the office of the Superintending Engineer confirms the above despatch in regard to the lift lock being ready for operation in a very short time, but it is probable—if not certain—that there will be no formal opening ceremony this year.

WAS CUT IN TWO BY CIRCULAR SAW

Accident at Lindsay in Kinnedy & Davis Saw Mill.

(Lindsay Post.)

The saw-mill owned by the Kennedy & Davis Co., near Wellington street bridge was the scene of a horrible fatality about 8.20 this morning, the unfortunate victim being an employe named Amie Laliberte, a Frenchman aged about 50 years, who was hurried into eternity without a moment's warning.

Laliberte, who had been in the employ of the firm off and on for about seven years, was a sort of a "handy man" about the premises, and yesterday morning Foreman Sam Frechette placed him in charge of the butting saw, a large circular saw revolving at a high rate of speed and used for the splitting of blocks out from the logs by the drag saw, operated some few feet away by Ernest Bouyea.

How the accident happened is mainly a matter of conjecture. Bouyea was working with his back to his companion, and about 8.30 o'clock—hearing the saw give a tone different to that produced by its passage through a block of wood — looked around just in time to see the body of his companion fall from the saw—the head on the right side and the trunk and extremities on the left. Horrified, he at once gave the alarm, the mill machinery was stopped, and the men flocked in to view the remains of their late comrade and discuss the sad accident with bated breath.

It is supposed the unfortunate man, who was of slight build, must have stumbled while trying to place one of the heavy blocks in position on the small travelling carriage that conveys the blocks to the saw, a few feet away. Whether the poor fellow fell against the saw face down or backwards has not yet been made clear, but the body was severed in diagonal fashion, the saw apparently entering the left side below the arm and cutting its way upward, emerging near the right shoulder.

Dr. Burrows, Coroner, was at once informed of the occurrence and decided to hold an inquest. Chief of Police Nevison was notified to summon a jury, who met about noon and viewed the body. The proceedings were then adjourned until this evening at 7.30 in the Council chamber.

Mr. Robt. Kennedy was greatly shocked when apprized of the sad occurrence. He was sleeping soundly when it occurred, having been up all night in attendance on a sick friend.

NON-COMS' CLASS.

A Good Attendance at Last Night's Drill.

There was a good attendance of men at the Non-Commissioned Officers' Class held by Sergt.-Major Brittain in the armouries last night. The whole of the evening was occupied by drill, the squad being put through the facing, marching in single rank, forward and obliquely and similar preliminary work. Next week the rifle will be taken up, consequently it is essential that every member of the class be present.

CALLAGHAN BUBBLE'S IGNOMINIOUS BURST.

Pricked by Pointed Facts, It Suddenly Collapses.

THE AFFIDAVITIER IS NOW UNDER ARREST.

His Yarn Contradicted by Messrs. Stratton, Johnston, Crossin and Others—Sale of Crossin Piano Stock a Legitimate and Bone Fide Deal—Alex Gibbs the Purchaser.

The Conservative organs of Toronto, as set forth in yesterday's Examiner, fancied they sprang a tremendous surprise upon the country in the form of an affidavit made by one Callaghan, which charged a member of the Government, and a King's Counsel, with corrupt negotiations in gard to the purchase of Mr. Gamey's stock in the Crossin Piano Company. The facts show that Callaghan's story is utterly without foundation, and that it is a clumsy concoction. Yesterday the Examiner printed the promptly made and explicit denial of Hon. Mr. Stratton of the truth of the assertions set forth in the affidavit, and to-day is reproduced below the more detailed denial of Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., of Mr. Edward Crossin, and a true version of the manner in which the piano stock changed hands—in a purely regular and legitimate business manner. Callaghan's story is discredited from all points, and his arrest on a charge of embezzling funds, shows that if he is not honest in his actions where criminal consequences are involved, he will not be unduly truthful in his words.

MR. JOHNSTON'S DENIAL.

A despatch from Ottawa to the Toronto Star gives the following denial of Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, who was in the capital for a day or two:

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—E. F. B. Johnston, interviewed by the Star correspondent to-day on the Callaghan said: "I never had anything to do, either directly or indirectly, with this matter except to advise on the standing of the company, and Crossin's position. So far as I am aware Mr. Stratton knew nothing about it until Crossin's declaration appeared in the papers. Callaghan's story as regards myself, is absolutely false, and is the result of a threat he made to me the other day in my office. He came up demanding that I should pay him $200, and threatened if I didn't pay it he would publish certain statements in the newspapers in connection with the Crossin stock affecting me. I told him that as far as I was concerned he could not blackmail me for two cents, let alone for two hundred dollars, and if he came around my office again making any such threats I would have him arrested. That was the last that I saw of him.

"The only person who discussed the question of stock with me was Crossin and the client who was buying the stock. My client has no earthly connection with the Government, or anyone connected with the Government. So far as I was concerned the matter was purely a business proposition. Mr. Crossin's declaration was made of his own suggestion. I did not draw it up or have anything to do with the preparation of it. I suggested nothing to be put in it, or to be left out, and it was a matter of no moment to me whether the declaration was made or not. So far as I know the stock was bought bona fide. Personally, I do not even know that it was paid for, as I could not be present when the transaction was closed at the bank. I never discussed any proposition with this man Callaghan of any kind or description. I refused to listen to him, although he tried to talk to me on three different occasions. On each occasion he was more or less intoxicated."

MR. CROSSIN'S STORY.

Mr. Edward Crossin when seen at his office in the Crossin piano factory this morning, denied most emphatically the statements made by Mr. Callaghan. Mr. Crossin had just finished reading the affidavit when The Star called.

"I was out at a little party last last night," he said, "that kept me up till three or four o'clock this morning. I don't see why the morning papers should make such a fuss about not being able to find me. It's a mighty queer thing that this great coup should have to be pulled off in the middle of the night, between 9 or 10 o'clock and 2 o'clock in the morning. But I suppose they enjoyed driving around the city in hacks. They say they sought me at the Clyde Hotel. Why, I have not been there in years. And at the Albion. I had my dinner there one night a few months ago, and I don't think a soul then knew who I was from Adam."

Mr. Crossin took up Callaghan's affidavit, and said:

"This allusion to having seen Mr. Johnston and Mr. Stratton is all Greek to me. I had no conversation with him whatever regarding the sale of the stock, for he is a man in whom I would have no confidence at all. At the time of the piano sale I had no business transaction with him and knew nothing about him except that he was a brother of a man in a Vancouver firm with which I have had some business relations. I emphatically deny any connection or his having anything to do with the transfer of Gamey's stock to the purchaser. The whole thing, as far as I am concerned, is a pure, unfounded fabrication."

THE MAN FROM MEXICO.

Mr. Crossin then went on to give some details regarding the sale of the stock, and told the whole story of the transfer in a frank, straightforward manner. He disclosed the identity of the "man from Mexico," who was reported to have taken over Gamey's interest in the company. He was Mr. C. S. Whitney and was in Mr. Crossin's office this forenoon. He has been absent in Mexico for a couple of years, returning recently. He had several conversations with Mr Crossin, the latter explaining the handicap he was working under for lack of capital, and adding that it was hard to get any more capital as long as Gamey was in the firm. Mr. Whitney introduced him to one Thomas Hare, an accountant and something of a company promoter, and again the position of the Crossin Piano Company was discussed. Finally Mr. Hare introduced Mr. Crossin to Mr. Alexander Gibb, of 522 Church street, and Mr. Gibb agreed to take an interest in the company if Gamey was not in it. It was arranged that Mr. Gibb buy Mr. Gamey's stock. The company would then be rid of Gamey, and Mr. Gibb would feel to put more money in the firm. That, said Mr. Crossin, was the whole story of the transaction as far as he knew it. He had no doubt that Mr. Gibb would bear him out. Mr. Gibb was at the present time a leading shareholder in the firm.

Mr. Crossin then referred to his knowledge of Mr. Callaghan. Callaghan had been in and out of his office nearly every day for the past month, and made frequent remarks to him about his business affairs, which he as a rule disregarded. Callaghan started off by wanting to know why Crossin didn't branch out and go into the manufacturing business more extensively. Mr. Crossin replied that he was manufacturing as extensively as his capital would allow. Callaghan boasted that he could get lots of capital if he were given a chance. Callaghan made frequent references to Mr. Gamey and called him some beautiful names, and intimated that the Crossin Company would be better without him.

Mr. Crossin said he knew Callaghan to be a brother of a member of the firm of Dyke, Evans, and Callaghan, of Vancouver, B.C., whom he knew very favourably and with whom he had had some business relations.

Finally Callaghan wanted to sell pianos for Mr. Crossin. He had had considerable experience in the agency business, and Mr. Crossin consented to give him a chance. The arrangement was that Callaghan should get the pianos at the ordinary wholesale price, sell them at the regular price, and make the ordinary commission. He sold a piano to a lady in Queen street, whose name Mr. Crossin gave, but not for publication.

After the piano was delivered Callaghan did not show up at the office. Mr. Crossin got a little anxious, so he sent up to the lady's residence and asked if Callaghan had been paid for the piano. The lady said he had. He had come around the evening before and asked for it, but she noticed that he seemed to be a little under the weather, and had declined to give it to him. However, he had come back in the morning, and had got the money. It was discovered, too, that the price was away below the regular price.

Mr. Crossin then set upon the trail of Mr. Callaghan. He inquired frequently at his place of residence in Parliament street, but was unable to find him at home. Finally he found him. At first he denied having received the money, but afterwards admitted it.

After some time Callaghan said he had spent the biggest portion of the money, but he promised to make it all right. He wanted to give an I. O. U., but Crossin said he wouldn't take it. Crossin said he had better straighten up right off. Callaghan asked for a week to get the money together. Crossin took occasion to tell him what the whole thing meant, and that if he wnted to avoid trouble, he had better get the money without much delay. However, on account of Callaghan's connection with the Vancouver man Crossin said he was loath to place him under arrest, and the matter had been in abeyance.

Mr. Crossin said further that the fact that Mr. Gamey was in town yesterday might furnish some clue to the day's sensation. Last evening about 5.20, a small, dirty-faced street arab came to his office, and asked for Mr. Crosse.

"You mean Crossin?"

"Yes," said the boy.

"I came from Mr. Game," he added.

"Gamey, you mean?"

"Yes, that's it," said the boy. "He wants to know if you will meet him at the Walker House at ten o'clock to-night."

"Where did you see Mr. Gamey?"

"Out on the street there. He asked me if I was coming over this way, and told me to come back with your answer to the corner of King and Yonge streets."

Mr. Crossin said he told him to go back and tell Mr. Gamey that he couldn't go to the Walker House last night, but that he was in his office during business hours. He added that he thought Gamey had been trying to put up a trick on him.

CROSSIN'S NEW PARTNER.

Mr. Alex. Gibb, of 522 Church street, said he was the man who put the money in Crossin piano stock. Mr. Gibb declined to make a further statement until after the meeting of the Crossin directors on Thursday. Mr. Gibb is well known in Toronto. He is a capitalist who always has an eye open for investments, and has operated largely in hotels, having in the past ten or twelve years bought several, such as the Carlton, Headquarters and St. Charles, which he ran until he had built up a good trade, and then sold at a large profit.

The Toronto News has substantially the same account of the affair, only its contains the following additional paragraph:

WARRANT ISSUED.

Mr. Edward Crossin stated to a News reporter this afternoon that he had sworn out a warrant for the arrest of W. J. Callaghan, on a charge of the theft of $180, the proceeds of a piano sale.

POLICE COURT

Notoriety is greatly longed for by some persons, and three young men were perhaps never before the public gaze so much as on Tuesday night. This morning they were each fined $2 for furious driving, which sentence shows that it is a dangerous thing to be happy when that state of the mind is arrived at by an absorption of whiskey.

CABINET DECISION.

Dominion Government Will Superannuate Certain Judges.

DELAY IN ATLANTIC SERVICE.

Awaiting Definite Information of the Success or Failure of the Turbine Steamships—Experiments Under Way That May Bring About a Revolution in Ocean Navigation—New Military Camp.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—The Cabinet held a sitting of one hour and a half yesterday, when the superannuation of Judge Caron of Quebec, Mr. Justice Richardson of the Northwest Territories and Mr. Justice Walkem of British Columbia was resolved upon. It is said that Mr. Justice Langelier will be transferred from Montreal to Quebec to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Caron's retirement.

Algoma Public Works.

Mr. A. E. Dyment, M.P. for Algoma was in the city yesterday arranging for the commencement of public works in his riding, for which appropriations were granted at the last session of Parliament. Mr. Dyment is the member to whom Mr. W. H. Bennett of East Simcoe, referred as being able to get more for his constituency than any other member of Parliament.

The New Military Camp.

Lord Dundonald, with a party, has arrived from Kuzubazua, where he has spent the last six days examining the country with a view to the proposed new military camp. Lord Dundonald is of opinion that he has found the most perfect site obtainable, and that the country is ideal for all military purposes.

Fast Service May be Delayed.

From inquiries made at the Trade and Commerce Department it would appear that there is a strong probability of the further progress with the Atlantic fast steamship service being delayed until definite information has been gleaned as to the success or failure of the turbine steamships. Several vessels engaged in the north Atlantic trade are experimenting with turbines at present, and it seems likely that if their commercial feasibility is demonstrated it may bring about a revolution in ocean navigation. Under the circumstances, therefore, prudence suggests that it would be better for the present not to expend large sums upon a steamship service which might before long become obsolete.

Rebels Fire on City.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Domingo, Nov. 11.—The revolutionary forces, which now surround this city, attacked San Domingo Monday night, using artillery; but no damage was done. The revolutionary commander yesterday afternoon sent a messenger under a flag of truce to demand the surrender of the capital, which was refused, and hostilities were resumed. San Domingo is strongly fortified and provisions are plentiful.

Robbers Locked up Police Force.

Merrimack, Mass., Nov. 11.—Atwood Nixon, the only officer of the local police force, was knocked down early yesterday, robbed, handcuffed and locked in a cell in the town jail by four unknown men, who later blew off the door of the postoffice safe with a charge of dynamite, stole $1,000 in valuables contained therein, and departed without leaving any clues behind them. The burglars also held up one man at the point of a revolver, and fired two shots at another.

Favored Reciprocity With Canada.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—At the banquet of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association last night, John Charlton, M.P., of North Norfolk, Ont., made the principal address, dealing chiefly with relations between Canada and the United States.

After listening to Mr. Charlton's address, the association declared unanimously for reciprocity with Canada and passed resolutions asking the Government to bring this about.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Conservative Demonstration.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—The long-looked-for event in local Conservative politics took place at the Monument Nationale here last night, when Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition in the Federal Parliament; Mr. J. Israel Tarte, ex-Minister of Public Works, and Mr. F. D. Monk, leader of the Conservative party in Quebec Province, appeared together on the platform and addressed a mass meeting of party adherents.

Not the Man.

Windsor, Nov. 11.—After examining the man held in the Sandwich jail on suspicion of being the murderer of Glory Whalen of Collingwood, Chief Wills thinks him innocent. The prisoner confesses to having been in Collingwood, and his record will be thoroughly investigated before he is let go.

Canals Close Nov. 28.

OLD TIME SURGEONS.

They Had to Work Rapidly Before Anæsthetics Were Used.

Before anæsthetics were known the surgeon's only expedient was to abridge his patient's sufferings by working rapidly. In this the old time surgeons did wonders. They had a control and a surety in their hands that are now seldom found. One day the celebrated surgeon Maisonneure had to amputate the leg of a poor devil who began to howl in advance. "I'll give you my watch," said the surgeon, "if the operation lasts more than a minute." The man accepted the offer, but was obliged to forego the handsome watch, as the operation took less time than it requires to describe.

To amputate an arm at the shoulder is a most difficult operation. Dr. Langenbeck of Germany did it in two minutes. A young physician who came to see him perform the operation adjusted his spectacles to his nose so as not to lose a single movement, but when the spectacles were in place the operation was over, and the severed arm lay on the floor.

Times have changed much since then. It suffices to put a bit of chloroform or ether on a compress and let the patient breathe through it for a few minutes to put him into a slumber so deep that he remains inert while the surgeon makes his incision, cuts, files the bone and sews up the flesh. On awaking the operation is over, and the patient knows nothing of it. Thanks to chloroform, surgeons can practice operations today which arouse our admiration.

What They Eat.

Nearly every nation has its own particular form of food, and things which some races would not, as the expression goes, "touch with the tongs" are considered by others as the greatest luxury.

For instance, while the Arab eats his lotus bread and dhourra with the relish of fresh dates, the Greenlander gorges himself on animal fat and whale oil as the necessary means of keeping warmth in his body. Hindoos will not touch any form of flesh, but live happily on rice and rancid butter. An Englishman is supposed to value beef and bacon above all other articles of food, while the dwellers in the Apennines live on chestnuts. In ancient days the Roman emperors were accustomed to have a peacock served at all great feasts as one of the principal dainties, while in these days birds' nests and rats form choice dishes in a Chinese menu.

Some people say that snail soup is delicious, while the French assure you that there are few more delicate dishes than those made out of frogs' legs.

Big Australian Oysters.

"In the part of Australia in which I live we get oysters as big as a saucer," said a resident of Adelaide to the Washington Post. "They are twice the size of any I have seen in the United States, but in quality there is nothing to recommend them, for they have no flavor and are so tough that it takes a pretty sharp knife to make any impression on them. Still there are people who manage to eat them after they have been stewed sufficiently long. In other parts of our country we have a better grade, approaching nearly to your American oyster, but hardly its equal. In fact, after my acquaintance with the Chesapeake bay products I am firmly of the opinion that in the matter of sea food the United States leads all nations, an assertion that will be backed up by any man of wide travel."

To Fly With the Dear.

He—Life is simply one grand chase. If you are not among the pursuers you must be one of the pursued.

She—Will you run with the hounds or fly with the deer?

He—I will fly with you, dear, if you please.—Kansas City Journal.

Discouraged.

"There is no such thing as luck," said the sturdy, self reliant person.

"I can't contradict you," answered the patient sufferer. "All I can say is that if there is I haven't seen it."

The Rev. Dr. Fourthly—How is your new choir getting along?

The Rev. Dr. Goodman—Peaceably, I am happy to say, as yet.

LEAMINGTON.

This Celebrated Spa Is a Favorite Resort in Warwickshire.

One of the favorite resorts in Warwickshire is Leamington, the celebrated spa. It is much frequented by invalids on account of its healing mineral springs, and is also a convenient stopping place for sightseers who wish to visit the famous castles and towns in the vicinity.

Leamington is an ancient town, and passed in early days through many vicissitudes. In the old book of records, called the "Domesday Book," is found the earliest mention of this place. Here, in the year 1086, it is recorded as a manor, owned by one of the Warwick family. After this time it passed into the hands of many proprietors, and among these was a brother of the Earl of Leicester. Toward the close of the eighteenth century it was a quaint village, of which a few small cottages even now remain to tell of its original simplicity. There is also an ancient church, with its attendant churchyard, not far from the ford across the little River Leam. The streets are lined with tall, majestic elms, and on the village highway two public houses may be seen, one of which for many years has rejoiced in the name of "Dog Inn."

These old buildings date back to the end of the eighteenth century, when the discovery of saline springs had created a reputation for the town. Everything was at this time on a very small scale, and arrangements were extremely simple. As the visitors came in greater numbers, it was found necessary to have more conveniences, and the authorities caused a tub of considerable size to be sunk in one of the ditches near the spring. A man was retained as a "regular dipper," and many invalids attributed their cure to immersion in this primitive bathtub.

When sulphur and other mineral springs were discovered in 1784, the first bath was built, and Leamington grew rapidly into the well known spa it has been for many years.

In 1803 the Royal Pump Room and baths were built over one of the springs, and the buildings are well equipped and luxurious. They are situated near the beautiful Victoria Bridge, and contain swimming baths and reading and reception rooms. They are surrounded by well kept and extensive grounds.

When the town is full of invalids and their families the "Parade" is the favorite resort, and many people go up and down, exchanging the greetings of the day. The central position of Leamington, in Warwickshire, makes it attractive as a dwelling place, especially in the hunting season, when the devotees of the chase disturb somewhat the usual quiet of the town.

Among the modern patrons of Leamington, Dr. Jephson easily ranks first, and he is often spoken of as the "Father of Leamington." In many ways he advanced the interest and increased the reputation of the town, and now an imposing monument stands as a memorial to his name and public spirit.

It is a beautiful drive from Leamington to Kenilworth. The first view of the ruins of Kenilworth Castle is somewhat disappointing, and it is necessary to invest the reddish stone structure with all the romance that Sir Walter Scott has created before its real charm and inspiration can be felt. In many places the protecting ivy has thrown its green mantle over decapitated towers and broken columns, and rendered beautiful the remains of a once imposing castle.

It is as old as the time of Henry I., and fell into the hands of various noble families. At one time a church and priory were established here, and the castle also became a royal jail, of which Simon de Montfort was the keeper. The priory is said to have been destroyed by Henry VIII., who mercenarily sold the materials of which it was built.

When Queen Elizabeth came to the throne of England she gave the grant of Kenilworth Castle to her favorite courtier, Dudley, Earl of Leicester, and by him it was altered and much improved. It was here that his unfortunate wife, the beautiful Amy Robsart, was hidden for a time, from the outside world, until carried away to Cumnor Palace, where she came to her most untimely end. The shadow of this dreadful murder has always rested heavily upon the character of the "Lord of Kenilworth," whether he was, as some claim, innocent of any knowledge of it, or whether he secretly instigated it, inspired by the ambition to become the husband of Elizabeth, and so King of England.

The Queen's visit to the castle is a matter of history, and she was received and entertained there with great splendor and hospitality. At the time of the visit the battlements of the great high towers were covered with giant guards, with clubs and warlike implements, representing soldiers of King Arthur's time. The royal pageant is said to have approached the castle by the broad highway, which, for more than two miles, afforded lovely views of lake and towers. This was in the year 1575, and as the little town of Stratford is not far away, it is thought that Shakespeare may have witnessed the princely welcome which the Earl of Leicester gave to the Queen at Kenilworth.

Many years after these scenes of romance and tragedy, the Castle of Kenilworth came into the possession of the Earl of Clarence, and afterward his descendants.

DANIEL'S AWAKENING

By Maude J. Sullivan

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Though two women had called him "husband," Daniel Newcomb had never been in love. His first marriage, with a co[illegible] had been to satisfy the terms of his grandfather's will, and the second union was simply one of convenience. Daniel Newcomb, widower, had needed a housekeeper, and Betty Blondale, an orphan, too old to seek the shelter of an institution and too trustful to be thrown on the world, had needed a home. It had resulted as such marriages usually do—disastrously for the woman.

Daniel was satisfied with Betty. She was pretty and economical, and she made him comfortable, but Betty had grown to love her stolid husband with all the ardor of a young and grateful heart. Would he ever really care for her? Could anything make her appear lovely in his sight? She was asking herself these questions as she stood in Mrs. Yardwell's millinery shop surveying the mass of lace and flowers that rested on her sunny head.

"I tell you what, Mis' Newcomb," said Mrs. Yardwell, ready to close a bargain. If Daniel don't like it or he thinks it too high priced I'll agree to change it. Most all my hats are sold with that understandin'. Husbands have to be pleased now'days."

"Tain't the price. Daniel's real liberal. I'll take it," answered Betty nervously as she opened her purse. There was a wistful look in her hazel eyes as she asked, "Did you know Mary Ellen, Daniel's first wife?"

"From the time she was a baby."

"Would she have worn a hat like this?"

"Land, no! Them buttercups wouldn't 'a' looked well agin Mary Ellen's red face, to say nothin' of the poppies. I'd as soon looked fer tossels on a clothesline as fer posies on Mary Ellen. Even if she'd been inclined to wear 'em, she'd have faltered at the cost. She was extremely prudent."

"So Daniel says," murmured Betty as she left the shop. Her precious head gear deposited carefully in the wagon, she unhitched her horse and started it toward the trim farmhouse by the river. Mrs. Yardwell watched her until her slender figure faded from sight. Then she went into her workroom.

"Sereny," she said to her helper, "Daniel Newcomb's new wife is a real takin' little thing, as sweet an' pretty as t'other was humbly an' stingy. I'm afraid from what she said that Daniel is Mary Ellenin' her to death. Poor little thing! I do hope she is happy."

But Betty was not happy. Many times since her marriage had she looked with tear filled eyes toward the little burial plot beneath the evergreens and prayed that she might fill the place in her husband's heart formerly occupied by the woman sleeping there. Her husband's approval of her was gauged by the way her actions tallied with Mary Ellen's.

Daniel was not displeased, but the difference in the women was so striking that more than once he was quite unconscious of an uttered comparison. The first wife, a model housewife, had a faculty of making people feel uncomfortable in her presence. Betty's household duties might be performed a trifle less religiously, the dust might sometimes settle upon the parlor furniture, but the sunlight crept there, too, and her very nature radiated compatibility.

On one occasion the usual comparison remained unexpressed. Betty had called her husband into the brightly lighted parlor and pointed proudly to the old sofa piled high with pillows covered with chints and denims. She had found some unused feather beds in the attic and in them had seen the possibilities of a cosy corner such as she had often admired in the shop windows. Before Daniel could utter the customary "Mary Ellen wouldn't have done that," she invited him to test its comfort, and, lulled by the luxurious softness, the remark was lost in a dose. Thereafter it was his favorite retreat and one not forbidden him. Shade of Mary Ellen! How was Betty to know that the unused feather beds and the darkened parlor were the pride of her predecessor's heart?

It was with many misgivings that she called Daniel's attention to her new hat. There was no mistaking the disapproval in his countenance.

"You—going—to—wear—that?" he gasped.

"Why, yes. Don't you like it. Daniel?" Betty perched it bewitchingly on her head.

"It's pretty enough. But how those red flowers will look agin the crape band on my hat! I vowed I'd show all respect to Mary Ellen, and that hand can't come off in less than a year. Ain't you got no respect for appearances? Red poppies agin black crape! Oh, Betty, can't you understand how I feel?" One look at the bright head and the nodding flowers, and Daniel dashed out toward the barn.

Poor Betty! She removed the hat and fell weeping into a chair. Yes; she understood. She knew now how lonely he was, and she would show him that she sympathized with him. Hurriedly she wrapped up the offending headdress and slipped from the house. It was a long, hot walk back to the milliner's, but her one thought was to get back to Mrs. Yardwell.

"Mrs. Yardwell," she cried breathlessly after what seemed an eternity of walking, "I've come to change my hat. I've got to have a mourning bonnet."

"For the land sakes!" exclaimed the milliner, flurried by curiosity. "Have you lost a relation? I didn't know you had one."

"Sort of one," answered Betty, giving a farewell pat to the poppies. "I want the deepest dyed mourning you've got."

It was soon upon her head, a heavy black thing that fell in hot folds over her shoulders. Back over the road she trudged, the weight of the bonnet pulling at her temples and sending throbs into her head. The heat of the sun made her dizzy and faint. Oh, for something to relieve her! She half turned into the doctor's yard, but no. There was a medicine chest well filled at home. She would wait until she reached there. One of Mary's virtues had been economy. Blindly she staggered on toward home, entered it and went to the medicine chest. Blindly she grasped a bottle and drank from it. Then she remembered no more.

When Daniel returned that night from doing the chores he missed Betty's welcome at the door. She had not failed to meet him there since their marriage. He found her on the kitchen floor enveloped in widow's weeds and writhing in agony. Clumsily, but tenderly, he removed the ugly bonnet and placed her on her bed, where she lay raving and tossing while he ran for help. It was fortunate that the doctor was driving past just as the distracted man rushed from the house. He administered the proper antidote for the poison Betty had swallowed in her search for headache medicine.

Mrs. Yardwell was soon summoned, for Betty raved of her and the poppy hat. She called Daniel to a conference in the barn. What was said to him he never quite remembered. He was wondering dumbly if Betty were going to die and trying to picture home without her. For once in his busy life he was taking time to realize that he was in love with his wife.

When Betty opened her eyes in consciousness it was to find her husband sitting by her tenderly stroking her hands, and the beloved poppy hat lay on the coverlet beside her. She looked at him wonderingly.

"It's for you, dear," said Daniel huskily, "for you to wear. In all respect to Mary Ellen, I've taken off the crape, and we'll let her rest now where she is. Forgive me, Betty. I've been a brute. But I've suffered since you've been lying there, and I've found out how dear you are to me."

"But I'm not like Mary Ellen," whispered Betty faintly.

"No, thank God! But you're mine, and I love you. I want you to be happy in your own way hereafter, and try to love me a little. Will you, dear?"

She was too weak to answer, but she smiled a happy little smile as her husband beat and for the first time gave her a lover's kiss.

An Intelligent Chimpanzee.

In 1884 Mr. Smyth, United States consul at Liberia, brought to this country a young chimpanzee about seventeen months old and sold him to the New York park department for the cost of transporting him. As he came first class passage, the price was $125. He was named Crowley. He took to Keeper Cook from the first, and until his death they were the best of friends. He was very intelligent and I believe was as near human as an animal could be. He would sit at a table to eat, putting on a napkin and using a knife, fork and spoon when necessary. When he had finished he would use the napkin, carefully fold it up and lay it beside his plate. About two weeks before he died a severe attack of pneumonia set in, and Dr. Marsh, surgeon of the park police, was called. Every morning when the doctor entered the room he would say, "Good morning, Crowley," and Crowley would get up to shake hands. Then the doctor would say, "How are you this morning?" and Crowley would grin. The doctor would examine him and say, "Your pulse, Crowley," and Crowley would extend his hand. "Now your lungs," and Crowley would throw back his arms to allow the doctor to place his ear to his breast. "And now your back, Crowley," and he would turn his back.

He grew very feeble before death, and Cook stood by him from early morning until late at night. Late in the afternoon of the day he died Cook held him in his arms for about an hour. Cook put him down on the floor, and Crowley raised himself up, put out his hand to shake hands, as Cook said, "to bid him goodby," turned toward the wall of his room and dropped dead.—Outing.

A Salutary Lesson.

"Now, remember your salutes," said the corporal when posting the Irish recruit on sentry. "If you see a lieutenant—he wears one star on his shoulder—slope arms; if a captain—two stars—slope arms. If you see a major—a crown—present arms; if the colonel—stars and crown—present and turn out the guard."

Pat pondered his orders carefully, but presently he was awakened from his reverie by the approach of the general.

That worthy son of Mars surveyed the cross swords on the gallant officer's shoulders and as he was not included in the corporal's category simply nodded cheerfully.

"Well, my man," said the genial general, "and who are you supposed to be?"

"I'm supposed to be a bit of a sentry," said Patrick. "And who are you?"

"Oh, I'm supposed to be a bit of a general," said the latter.

"A gineral, is it?" cried the startled Pat. "Then ye'll want something big. The corp'ral tould me about the others, but nothing about yourself at all, at all. But hold hard a minute, and I'll give ye the bayonet exercise, if that'll do."—London Answers.

A Settler.

Young Wife—What do you do when your husband gets cross and wants to scold?

Wife (with experience)—I read him one or two of the letters he used to write to me before we were married.

Suspicion.

"I am a little bit afraid of her," said Miss Cayenne.

"She has wonderful tact."

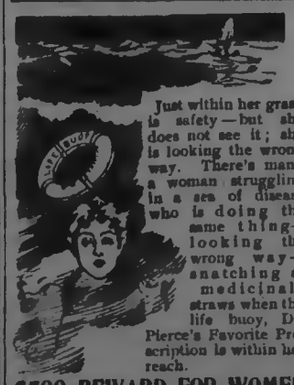
"Yes; she must know everything that could possibly annoy one; otherwise she couldn't be so skillful in avoiding all disagreeable subjects."

He Did.

Mrs. Gadby—Does your husband furnish you with plenty of pocket money?

Mrs. Glibly—Yes, indeed. He leaves his money in his pocket every night.

The human body being lighter than the water of the Dead sea, swimming in it is difficult, the head alone tending to sink in the water.



Just within her grasp is safety—but she does not see it; she is looking the wrong way. There's many a woman struggling in a sea of disease who is doing the same thing—looking the wrong way—snatching at medicinal straws when the life buoy, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is within her reach.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as the proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

TRAMPS ARE WELL POSTED.

As a General Rule They Are Careful and Constant Readers.

Most tramps are omnivorous readers, and they are posted upon a wide range of topics. In speaking of tramp readers a man who has had a chance to study these peripatetic students said the other day:

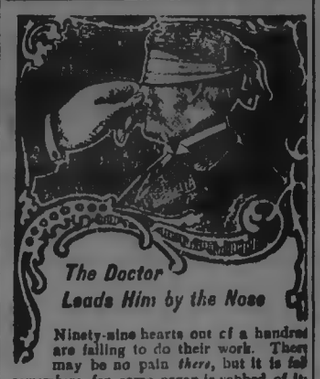
"You hardly ever find a genuine hobo that is an ignoramus. You find lots of men who are tramping who are doing so because they haven't intelligence enough to earn a living, but I am speaking of the real hobo, who is a wanderer from choice and who would not work if he had the chance. These fellows are pretty wise, I can tell you. They can tell you more about what is going on in European politics than a college professor can, and they know almost everything that is coming off in our own country for the next six months.

"When you are traveling you will notice the hoboes sitting along the railroad track reading a frayed and soiled newspaper. Often you will see them picking up the loose pages lying in the streets, and I do not believe I ever saw traces of a tramp's camp fire around which there was not left one or more old newspapers, where they had been cast aside after reading. Then the tramps have a sort of traveling library, too, that few people have ever heard of. If one tramp finds an old magazine he will read it and then pass it to some other tramp. It keeps going the rounds in this way until it is worn out. If one picks up a book some place it does service in trampdom for months.

"I never saw a tramp with a fresh paper in his hand, but I have never run across one of the wanderers that did not show he was a careful and constant reader."

An Honored Chinaman.

Queen Victoria, with the prince consort and her family, attended in state the opening of the great exhibition of 1851. While the choir was singing the "Hallelujah Chorus" a Chinaman superbly robed suddenly emerged from the crowd and prostrated himself before the throne. No one knew who he was. He might be the emperor of China himself come secretly to England to share in the great doings. The lord chamberlain, greatly perplexed, applied to the queen and the prince for advice and instructions. He was informed that there must be no mistake as to the stranger's rank and that it would be best to place him between the archbishop of Canterbury and the Duke of Wellington. In this position of honor the Chinaman, with magnificent dignity, walked through the buildings to the delight and amusement of all who watched. Next day it was discovered that he was the keeper of a Chinese junk which had just cast anchor in the Thames and which everybody was invited to visit on payment of a shilling a head.



The Doctor Leads Him by the Nose

Ninety-nine hearts out of a hundred are failing to do their work. There may be no pain there, but it is felt somewhere for some organ is robbed of its proper need of blood by this insidious heart failure, and distress follows. Common sense says, cure where the trouble and pain begin. Use because it begins at the blood's distributing organ, healing that rapidly and making it strong and able, quickly sends strength and health to every other organ. It is the only way that combines science and sense and relieves and cures.

DR. AGNEW'S HEART CURE,

HENRY AKEY, of Peterboro, Ont., writes: "I suffered with my heart, nerves and general debility. The best doctors said I must die within a month. On my wife's advice I tried DR. AGNEW'S HEART CURE. Relief from the first dose. I am fully cured. Weighed 128 pounds—now 180 pounds.

DR. AGNEW'S OINTMENT will drive Piles away forever. Relief on the instant. Speedily removes all skin blotches and pimples, tetter, salt rheum, etc. Price, 35c.

Pandora Range

OVEN THERMOMETER. NO "BAD LUCK" BAKING DAYS!

Twenty degrees difference in the temperature of an oven is sufficient to make "Good Luck" or "Bad Luck" in baking many kinds of food.

The heat in the oven of a range not fitted with a thermometer or worse, fitted with a poor instrument, will easily vary twenty degrees—result is unpalatable, burned or half-baked food, a cross cook and a disappointed family at meal time.

Thermometer fitted in oven door of "Pandora" range has been a proven success for fifteen years, and every instrument is carefully adjusted and tested by heat, before sending out—the first, best and only thermometer which is of any real value to those who do baking.

"Pandora" range is handsome, economical on fuel and a perfect baker.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks - Market Letters.

There was a further slump in the Wall Street Market this morning, the railway issues being dealt in extensively. The steels held fairly firm, but the rest of the market, with the exception of sugar, broke away. The sensation of the day was sugar, which opened at 114 7-8 and ran quickly up to 117 1-4, but reacted somewhat. Sales to noon were 274,500.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

The game that will in all probability decide the championship of the City League will be played on Saturday at the oval between the Rough Riders and All Saints teams. This game will doubtless be a very interesting one as each team is determined to make an effort to win out. Each has a win to its credit, and should the Rough Riders win this game it will put them well in the lead for the championship. On the other hand the All Saints hope to take this game from the leaders, and knock their championship aspirations higher than a cocked hat. At any rate it will be an interesting game, and will be well worth the ten cents admission charged.

* * *

The following members of the Rough Riders are asked to be on hand at the rink at 7.30 sharp this evening: Kelly, F. Craig, Davidson, Paschal, Kennedy, O'Brien, R. Craig, G. Rogers, G. McDonald, G. Perks, A. Laing, S. Giroux, A. Wood, Greer, Cameron, E. Plouffe.

* * *

The standing of the team in the City League is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tie.
Rough Riders	1	0	1
All Saints	1	0	1
Britannias	1	1	0

On Saturday the Victorias and Wellesleys will play an Intermediate O.R.F.U. Championship Game in Toronto, and by the result of which will be determined largely Peterborough's chance for the championship. The boys say that the team which they defeated on Saturday was superior to that which represented the Victorias here on Oct. 31st, so that it appears probable that the latter will suffer defeat on Saturday, which will make the Victorias and Peterboroughs a tie for first place, and gives the latter an excellent opportunity to win out.

The records of the three teams in the series is as follows:

Peterborough, October 15th — Won from Wellesleys by 9—8. Oct. 31st. —Lost to Victorias by 3—1. Nov. 7th — Won from Wellesleys by 15—11.

Victorias — Oct. 24th — Won from Wellesleys, 20—1. Oct. 31st — Won from Peterborough, 3—1.

Wellesleys — Lost two games to Peterborough, and one to Victorias, making the present standing of the League as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Victorias	2	0
Peterborough	2	1
Wellesleys	0	3

MR. L. H. NEWMAN AT FARMERS' INSTITUTES

Will Speak on Good Seeds and how they may be Maintained.

Mr. W. Collins, Secretary of West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, has received advice from Mr. G. C. Creelman, Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, that Mr. L. H. Newman has been added to the list of speakers who have been assigned to this County. Mr. Newman is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, and is connected with the Good Seeds Department, Ottawa, consequently his addresses will be of great value to farmers interested in the selection of pure seed grain. Mr. Newman's subject will be, "Improvement of Cereal grains by seed selection."

"The production and marketing of high class Timothy, Alsike and Red Clover seeds," and "Some recently introduced weeds or how they have been introduced and the best methods of combatting them."

Mr. Newman will be present at the meeting to be held in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 28th, as well as at the other meetings in this county.

LINDSAY DEPUTATION AFTER AN AMBULANCE.

Here to get Pointers From the Dan Spence Ambulance.

A deputation representing the Board of Governors of the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, was in town to-day to look over the Dan Spence ambulance, and to get information to guide them in procuring an ambulance, which it is proposed to establish in that progressive town. The deputation consisted of Mr. J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Board of Governors, Mr. J. K. McNeillie, secretary, Robert Bryans, a member of the Board and County Councillor, and Richard Kylie, carriage builder, doubtless in the capacity of expert adviser.

The deputation expressed themselves as pleased with the ambulance, but expressed no opinion as to their intentions. The deputation were the guests of the Nicholls Hospital Trust, the honours of hospitality being done by Mr. Richard Hall, chairman of the Trust, Mr. John Crane, secretay, and Mr. W. H. Hill, a member of the Board. Alderman Batten, chairman of the Property Committee, represented the town. They took carrages and escorted the visitors to points of interest in the town, including the lift lock. The deputation returned home by the 5.35 express.

The Peterborough artists have been treated to a welcome surprise at finding such a large and varied stock of French China—for China painting, at the Metropole, on Hunter street.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

Those waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.
